CAPE OF GOOD HOPE

FINE EXHIBIT AT THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK CITY

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS

On Wednesday, June 2nd, the last meeting of the season was held at the Collectors Club, New York, and incidently I might mention, that this will probably be the last meeting held in our old Club Rooms as we hope to be able to move to the new home in July.

The members and visitors had a great treat through the exhibit by Mr. Alfred F. Lichtenstein of his magnificent collection of Cape of Good Hope. During the display, Mr. Lichtenstein drew attention to many interesting points and stressed the real rarity of various stamps where, in his opinion, the rarity differed very materially from the prices shown in the catalogues. Owing to space, I can only mention a few of the more important pieces in this large and remarkably fine collection.

In the famous triangular stamps, the exhibitor mentioned that it was rather uncommon to find used copies with three good margins. The unused he considered much rarer than prices indicated by the catalogue, when in superb condition.

Throughout the collection a point has been made of obtaining as many as possible of rare cancellations with the view of studying these in the future. The ordinary cancellation consists of the letters, "C.G.H." within bars. Town postmarks and colored postmarks are distinctly rare, but the exhibitor specially warned us against bank cancellations which are often sold as town cancellations whereas they are relatively common.

In the 1st issue on the blued paper, the more important items were some superb unused, including pairs of the 1d and 4d.

In the used a block of 8 of the 1d on cover and a very interesting soldier's letter used to England and franked with only a 1d red instead of the usual 4d rate. In the Perkins Bacon printing on white paper there were two fine blocks of 8 unused and an extremely rare 1d printed on the back, this stamp being pale rose on the face and a kind of carmine red on the back not being a off-set but a clear distinct double print.

The 4d stamp was shown with a distinct blue cancellation and quite a number with red cancellations. Two halves of the 4d were shown cut the wrong way and used for the single rate. Another 4d was noted with a "B53" cancellation of Mauritius and two blocks of 16 used were also noteworthy.

In the 6d stamps, we learned that the deep lilac used, were distincely scarce. Several 6d were shown with red cancellation and a fine used strip of 6. In the 6d gray, pairs unused and used. Two very interesting letters were franked, in one case with a 1d and half of a 6d mauve, in the other case with a 1d and half of a 6d gray, both being the full single letter rate to England of 4d.

In the 1sh yellow-green, there was a beautiful mint pair with full margin and very rare thus. The shilling was also shown with red cancellations and a number of used pairs, including three pairs on covers.

In the rouletted stamps, the 6d was shown on full cover, and several 4d, including a pair.

When we come to the so-called Wood blocks of 1861 a very interesting cover was noted consisting of 1d, 6d and 1sh of the Perkins Bacon prints and a 4d dark blue woodblock, making up the rate of 1s11d used to New Zealand. A magnificent lot of woodblocks were shown unused and used in all shades. Among them was noted a strip of 4, 1d on cover 3 of the 4d dark blue used on covers and a pair of the 4d mint.

A block of 4 of the 4d exceedingly rare, far rarer than blocks of the 1d stamps. A 4d dark blue was shown unused, an extremely rare stamp and town and registered cancellations were shown on the 1d and 4d. The rare errors were very strongly represented, the finest items being a block of 4 of the red stamps, 3 of the 1d, and one of the 4d and a pair of the blue 1d and 4d.

The De La Rue printings were strongly represented by large blocks and scarce cancellations in the used stamps. We noted here a superb pair of the 1d carmine red watermarked Crown & CC.

In the early rectangular stamps of 1871 to 1877, Mr. Lichtenstein drew attention to the rarity of fine blocks and of scarce shades. Interesting covers were shown franked with Transvaal stamps of Type I. used in combination with Cape of Good Hope stamps.

In the Provisional issues of 1874 to 1880 there were some remarkably rare pieces. Among the best noted were 1d on 1sh green block of 39 unused and in the 3d on 4d a block of 4 stamps unused, one being the error "THE.EE" and another used block, one being the error "PENCB". There were also two single used copies of the very rare double surcharge.

The 3d dull rose of 1880 was shown in a superb block of 4, and the 3d rose surcharged with the figure "3" were shown in very scarce combinations, such as a block of 4, two upper stamps having thick "3", the lower left stamp thin "3" and the lower right stamp without surcharge.

Finally Mr. Lichtenstein showed us as a concluding item, a most wonderful page of the One on 3d claret. The Half-penny

ODD SORTS:—

ONE of our subscribers, Guy A. Jackson of Boston, Mass., expresses his great pleasure in our Philatelic Dictionary and writes us:—"This book is just as important as the catalog." This is a good word of commendation, and there are many who will agree to it.

F. G. BROWNE informs us that he made a mistake in his advertisement on page 291 of the WEEKLY, issue of May 31. Where the words "Catalog value" were shown they should have read "Net value". We are glad to make this correction.

W. E. GREENAWAY sends us a clipping from the Herald-Post of Louisville, Ky. It consists of a column department "Through My Spectacles" by E. A. Jonas. Mr. Greenaway writes that Mr. Jonas "is one of the ablest editors of the country". The article deals with philately in a very intelligent manner and we shall try and reprint it in an early number of the WEEKLY.

WE have received from the Southern Stamp Society, 214 S. 21 St., Birmingham, Ala., Pricelist No. 19. It lists a variety of stamps in singles and sets, and will be sent on request.

OUR friend E. J. S. Halvorsen calls our attention to a very convenient and useful philatelic accessory, called "mounting corners". They are certainly very handy and useful in mounting entires. Samples may be obtained from the Ace Art Co., Reading, Mass.

J. P. PENNING, Homestead, Pa., sends us a couple of clippings from the local Messenger dealing with philately. He writes us that this paper pays frequent tribute to our hobby.

WM. J. MICHELS, Sec. of the N. Y. Stamp Soc., Branch 44 A. P. S., sends us the particulars of a movement to interest young collectors not only in philately, but also in the exhibition at New York. All collectors exhibiting in the Junior Class, described in the Exhibition Prospectus, will note that neatness is especially featured. Mr. Michels writes as follows:—

"The New York Stamp Society will further give to each of these winners, one year's free membership in the American Philatelic Society. In other words, each Silver Medal winner of the Junior Class at the International Philatelic Exhibition will become a member of Branch No. 44, of the A. P. S., and also a member of the American Philatelic Society, all expenses paid." Five medals will be awarded.

WARNING

Judging from the following letter, a philatelic sharper is plying his arts in the stamp world, although we have not heard of any other victims of his misapplied cleverness. The following letter has been received by Mr. B. L. Voorhees, the Chicago dealer, from a leading philatelic citizen of Washington, D. C.: "I had fully expected to have received from you before this, the return of the $30, which I advanced to you when you were in Washington on April 2, 1926, when you had the misfortune to be relieved of your pocketbook. Now that you have been back at your office some time, I would appreciate your check for the amount of the temporary loan."

In view of the fact that Mr. Voorhees has been a real homebody since he returned from his trip last year to the Los Angeles convention, it is evident that some nimble-witted chap impersonated him in Washington in April, while Mr. Voorhees was working away at his desk in Chicago. Upon the receipt of the letter quoted, Mr. Voorhees wrote to his correspondent, but thus far, particulars of the incident have not been forthcoming. The perpetrator of a fraud of this kind, if there is no explanation to account for the circumstances, is a conscienceless fellow, indeed; and his act is to be the more reprobated because of his imposition, made possible by his professions of friendship, no doubt, for his victim.

EDITORIAL

We have been informed that the Crown Prince of Sweden was presented by the postmaster general with a sheet of the Ericsson stamps, bearing Mr. New's personal signature. It is known that the Crown Prince is honorary president of the Swedish Philatelic Society and is much interested in philately, although he does not confine his collecting range to stamps, alone, but is interested in objects that may be embraced by the term, antiques.

The following information is given through the courtesy of Mr. B. K. Miller, Wild Rose, Wisconsin, whose investigations into the details of U. S. issues are well known. He says that a hurried inspection shows that the 2c plates, 11686 and 12298, respectively, are surfaced printed and are both type II, he thinks. No. 11686 is of 1600 subjects and No. 12298 of 800 subjects.

A correspondent wrote some time ago asking what disposition was made of certain of the Plebiscite areas, whereupon Mr. C. M. Green came to his assistance with these particulars: "In Schleswig-Holstein, the northern portion voted to unite with Denmark while the vote of the southern portion indicated a desire to remain with the German nation. The voting in Marienwerder, Eastern and Western Silesia and Allenstein resulted in alliance with Germany. Memel became autonomous under the League of Nations and Carinthia remained with Austria.

Brigadier-General Charles Austin Coolidge, Detroit, Michigan, retired, has passed on to his reward, having succumbed to the effects of a stroke that he suffered at Vicksburg, Mississippi, while attending the unveiling of a monument in that city. The news of the death of the veteran philatelist and military leader makes a profound impression on the host of personal friends of the general, as well as on the thousands of others who knew him by reputation. While General Coolidge was advanced in years, yet he entered whole-heartedly into the pleasures of the convention of the American Philatelic Society held at Detroit in 1924, and as host to a dinner-party in his quarters in the Pasadena Apartments, he entertained a coterie of visiting friends in a delightful manner. His collections were on view and they testified to his sincere and abiding affection for stamps and at the time, he promised himself many pleasant hours in the future with them. General Coolidge was born in Boston in 1844 and entering the Civil War as a private, he became a second-lieutenant in 1864. About 1870, the young officer was transferred to the west, where he was stationed for many years, under different commands and during this time, he participated in many brushes with the Indians and attained the berth of Captain. At this period, he became known as a philatelist and through his contributions to the philatelic press of the time, he gained his certificate of master of philately. He served in the Spanish-American War and his military career may be said to have reached its climax when as Lieutenant-Colonel, he was chief of the allied forces during the Boxer Rebellion in China, until the coming of General Chaffee. In 1901, he was promoted to a colonelcy and was retired in 1903, as a brigadier-general. About 1906, he became a resident of Detroit, where he identified himself with local philately, with the result that some years later, his loyalty to the American Philatelic Society, in which he was No. 64, was recognized with the presidency. General Coolidge was present at many conventions and his devotion to the society was genuine. He was a charter member of the Detroit Philatelic Society and one of its ex-presidents and it is not necessary for Mr. Henry Look to say that they will miss the presence of "our dear old friend, General Coolidge." Perhaps twenty members of the Detroit Philatelic Society attended the funeral services at Christ Church, Detroit; interment was in Washington and Mrs. Coolidge accompanied the remains to that city. To Mrs. Coolidge, who sympathized with the General in all his philatelic ambitions and is esteemed for her pre-eminent qualities of heart and mind, our deepest respect is offered in her bereavement. It is not necessary to attempt to catalogue the merits of General Coolidge as a man, as they are known generally, but as a philatelist a few words may be offered. Philately entered into the very fabric of General Coolidge and his loyalty to it never faltered. While an old collector who learned his rudiments in the days when condition had not been exalted to its present highth, his adaptability was such that he appreciated changing conditions and, for instance, he indulged a liking for precanceled stamps. His U. S. included many things that are very attractive in the light of today, and all in all, his stamp possessions are a fitting memento of a departed philatelic friend; and we say reverently, peace to his ashes.

The following interesting exposition of a subject that has a decided appeal to collectors, historically minded, has come from Mr. Elliott Perry, the philatelic sage of Westfield, who knows whereof he speaks: "In your editorial in the issue of June 7th, regarding the U. S. Postal Agency at Shanghai, you make a statement that may be literally true, but seems to me to be incomplete or misleading. What 'agency postmark' do you mean that you say is not found with the 1869 U. S. stamps,—'but only on letters with subsequent issues'? The consular postmark is found with 1869 stamps and also with the 1867 grills and the 1861 without grill. I note a cover in the Ackerman collection bearing a pair of 10c, 1869, and endorsed, 'Shanghae, 18th Nov., 1869,' postmarked in black. The circular postmark reads, 'P. O. D., U. S. CON GENL.' above, 'Shanghai' below and 'NOV. 20,' in the center. The Ackerman collection contains several other covers with this same postmark with the 10c, 1869 and 10c of 1861 and 1867. One of them, bearing a single 10c of 1869, also has the San Francisco postmark, dated 'Jul. 14' and is endorsed, 'Via American Mail' in manuscript. This latter was postmarked at Shanghai on June 11th, but there is no indication of the year. The later postmark found on covers, bearing the 10c brown Jefferson is very similar in size and appearance to the 'consular' postmarks but reads, 'U. S. Postal Agency' above and 'Shanghai' below." Our assumption that the agency postmark, such as Mr. Perry describes as on letters with the 10c Jefferson, was not used until after the retirement of the 1869 issue, is based only on the understanding that the Shanghai Agency, as a working institution, was created by the provisions of a post office bill introduced about 1870. The story that Mr. Perry tells of the consular markings is one that will be followed with interest by several collectors, we are certain.

Readers should realize that the time is not many months away before preparations must be made to attend the twin festivals at New York in October of this year. The great International Exhibition is a gigantic undertaking, the scope of which may not be generally appreciated. Suffice it to say that the projectors of the enterprise are bending every effort to attain results that will redound to the glory of philately and it is only fair that they be given the moral and actual support that their endeavors merit. As for the coming convention of the American Philatelic Society, it must transcend in interest, all previous conventions in order that the impression on the public mind may be deepened by a numerical display of collectors. Numbers have their weight and New York and the nation should be made aware that there is a host of collectors in our fair land.

Guatemala
WHAT DO YOU NEED?
My stock of Guatemala is practically complete and comprises, besides the usual items, also the rare stamps missing in most collections and dealers' stocks. Such as Nos. 5, 6, 22a, 23a, 67, 69, 72, 74, 141a, 136, 183a, etc. All my Guatemala stamps have been expertized and are fully guaranteed. (Are yours?)
I also have a wonderful stock of the "c" and "d" types of the 1922 issue, which types occur but once or twice in the sheet. Bound to be "good", as all available supplies have been exhausted. Serious collectors should ask for my Mammoth Approvals of South and Central America (the countries only). Superior to those put out by any other firm. Not suitable, however, for the small collector. STAMPS AS AN INVESTMENT

By R. D. MacGuffin.

Those who have been associated with collectors for many years are quite ready to agree that all collectors have the right to collect what they please. Some collect because the hobby gives them a field for research, unlimited scope for an active analytical mind. But there is another kind of collector and who shall say that he has no right to his particular slant on the subject? I refer to the collector who sees the financial side of philately. Is there no field for research for him? Is it right for the philatelist who confines his research work to the historical, geographical and typographical sides of the subject to deny the man with the financial slant the privilege of following his bent?

The spirit of intolerance is not the spirit of America nor the spirit of democracy anywhere. Also the man who says, "It can't be done" is constantly being interrupted by somebody doing it. It is beyond comprehension that a man who advocates research along one phase of a subject should condemn research along another phase of the same subject. It is not the thought of those of us who are attracted to the financial side of philately to belittle the man who is interested only in other phases of the subject.

Those who have collected for years without regard to the dollars side of the subject will continue to do so. If it be true that collectors are not interested in the financial side of philately what we say will not deflect them from the even tenor of their way. A man who collects expecting to lose money is so wedded to the hobby that talk about the dollars side of the subject will not cause him to cease his activities. The present generation of collectors has been told frequently that stamps are not money makers and that the money they spend should be considered spent for fun. Philately has nothing to lose from the research work of those of us who specialize in philately's financial side. We are harmless to say the least.

In the past our recruiting efforts have been confined to the one general plan, i.e., selling the fun side of the subject. We have talked the beauty, geography and historical significance side of it exclusively. We have according to the best authorities something like 32,000 adult collectors in America and about 1,000,000 boy collectors as the result of this method of recruiting. Those of us who are not satisfied with this showing very naturally seek other selling methods. So we have devoted much time and effort to research work. As the result of this work it is possible for us to truthfully and in all fairness appeal to the man who cannot see philately if it is to be the cause of his losing mony. We widen the scope of our appeal and we consider it wise to do so. We do not make the broad assertion that stamps are a good investment. We tell what stamps are a good investment and show why they are a good investment basing our assertions on the established laws of economics and on past performances. We widen the scope of our appeal, but we do not displace the old time argument.

Those who suggest that stamps are not a good investment are telling a half truth. Those who say stamps are a good investment are telling a half truth. It is entirely possible to find out the exact truth. Surely you would not say that philately is so old that nothing new can be said on the subject. Also you would not deny that it is important that the truth should be found when you see such differences of opinion among men of intelligence and undoubted sincerity. And especially when it cannot be doubted that they who differ have the best interests of philately at heart.

Most differences of opinion are brought about because the debaters do not know what is in the other fellow's mind. Each does not understand what the other is talking about. Usually in the course of time each understands the other's position, motives and accomplishment in which case that which looked like a long session of heated debate turns out to be a love feast.

It is not out of place here to say that many of the most prominent men in the philatelic world indorse the idea of informing those who want to be informed concerning stamp values and the fundamentals or philosophy of stamp values. Enough expressions of opinion in the affirmative, recently received, can be presented to fill one issue of this publication. Among those whose opinions are most deferred to is that of Mr. A. H. Wilhelm, president of the American Philatelic Society, who writes in part:

"and I certainly believe that it (stamps as an investment) will help philately as it will draw many into the fold who have felt that money spent on stamps was practically lost and who considered it a hobby only." More of his letter cannot be quoted here without making it appear to be an advertisement. However, Mr. Wilhelm wrote in reply to a request for an expression of opinion with permission to quote so this is no breach of confidence.

It is not possible for us to be unanimous in our opinions on any subject. But we have a common bond, viz., our love for stamps and the advancement of philately, which should cause us to be tolerant of each others' opinions and cause us to seek to understand each others' ideas and viewpoint.

New Provisional Envelope

I have recently obtained the 1½c on 1c green double line overprint on the 1903 variety, Scott's No. 2620. This is on amber and was issued by one of the smaller post offices. I have not seen heretofore any of this series overprinted. These are offered unused entire, mailed flat, at $1.00 each.

If no more come out, they are likely to be quite scarce. If they later come out in quantities, the price will be greatly reduced. Late envelopes should not be purchased unless you are willing to take your chance. Those, however, who bought the old 2c on 3c found that they were well repaid by taking them all as they were issued. If you are willing to gamble a dollar, send it along. Can also furnish practically all of the other Provisional envelopes. Let me fill up these spaces for you in the new Scott album.

If it is a 1½c Provisional envelope, I am likely to have it.

1847, 5c Steam Boat Cancellation

I have recently been shown a very attractive cover addressed to Albany showing a 5c 1847 tied to the cover by a blue cancellation reading, "Troy & New York Steam Boat" within a rectangle. A similar cancellation on cover was sold in a recent New York sale, but the latter was without stamps.

Air Mail Notes

Covers carried over the first contract air mail route between Cheyenne and Pueblo with stops at Denver and Colorado Springs have just come to hand. In each case the post office has used the standard first day contract air mail postmark such as first used from Detroit. The service was inaugurated on May 31st, a plane leaving in the afternoon for the west and in the early morning for the east. Covers from Cheyenne bear the hour of 5 A. M., while those from Pueblo are postmarked 3.45 P. M. Covers posted in the latter city have the stamps canceled by the regular postmark in black with the air mail mark on the cover in a dark red. Those from Colorado Springs show two of the air mail postmarks in violet, one on the cover and the other over the stamp. In addition, they have the little flying wing insignia of the Air Mail Service. Denver used a violet ink and canceled both the stamp and the cover with the same marking. Cheyenne canceled the stamp with the regular letter postmark in black and applied the air mail postmark in dark red to the cover. All the covers that I have seen bear the backstamp of the city of arrival.

The postmaster at Cheyenne sends out with the air mail a very interesting circular describing a Frontier Exhibition to be held in that city from July 27th to 31st. This devotes a whole page to the air mail service and illustrates the stage coach carrying mail designated as, "Cheyenne Yesterday" with the airplane labeled as "Cheyenne Today". It seems that acting postmasters throughout the country are taking every legitimate means to advertise this new service.

The Department announced during the last couple of days of May that the Elko-Pasco service would be re-established on June 1st. The notice was so short that I was only able to get covers into the service by communicating with these cities by airplane. The covers have just come to hand and I note that while they show no special air mail postmark, they bear the regular postmark of Pasco dated June 1, 5.30 A. M. and the receiving cancellation of the New York office dated June, 2 at 9.30 P. M. The New York postmark quite fortunately is on the front of the cover. It will be recalled that service over this route was inaugurated on April 6th, but after four days of service was discontinued by the contractor due to the fact that all of his planes had broken down.

Through the courtesy of Messrs. O. J. Olsen, Julius A. Kurtz, and Albert W. Draves, first day contract air mail covers have just come to hand from the Chicago-Minneapolis route. Each city used the special contract air mail postmarks and all that have come to my attention are in black. The route was inaugurated on June 7th. Mr. Draves writes that the Association of Commerce mailed about two thousand air mail covers from Milwaukee on the first day and that there were about 1,100 other letters making about 4,100 in all.

The Postmaster General announces under date of June 8th that as a result of the executive approval of legislation permitting the Post Office to contract for carrying mail by air on a weight instead of a count basis, the proposed contract air mail route from Cleveland to Louisville has been readvertised. Bids were originally asked on the basis of the number of pieces of mail, but new bids returnable July 1st are asked on a basis of weight, under which the contractor will be paid not more than $3.00 a pound. It is said that this new method of charging will benefit both the contractor and the Department by saving much costly counting of the mail.

Bureau Plates

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

FRAGMENTS

Recently, Chicago had a visit from Mr. H. M. Konwiser, New York, who is a sort of Pathe Weekly of philately in his city, as he sees and hears about all that takes place in the philatelic realms of his city. Just now he is dragging the "specimen" departments of the U. S. into the white light of publicity and he is doing his work with characteristic enthusiasm. As an ornament of the celebrated Hot Stove League, he is on a par with Mr. H. L. Lindquist, the editorial genius and others of fond recollection. Mr. Konwiser is doing his best to make the coming convention of the American Philatelic Society something to remember in dreams and judging from his forceful manner of procedure, he will hit the bull's-eye.

Mr. D. C. Hammatt, Topeka, Kansas, showed his collection at the meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society, held June 3rd, in the presence of over fifty members and visitors, including Mr. A. W. Filstrup of Benton Harbor, Mich., and Mr. J. V. Yegge, DeWitt, Iowa. The evening was devoted wholly to the inspection of seven volumes, beginning with the earliest issues of U. S. and working down through the 1888 issue. The collection abounds in historical pieces and pairs, strips, blocks, cancellations and distinctive items, otherwise. Mr. Hammatt was given a rising vote of thanks for his kindness in making the trip to Chicago solely for the edification of members of the society.

Another number comes of the Shillalah, that lively example of personal philatelic journalism, that allows the chips to fall where they may. One thousand copies of the number under notice have enlivened things and the anonymous conductor of the paper wields his blackthorn in a practiced manner. The idea of an individual journal of protest is a taking one to some of us and when the editor of such a sheet plays fair, the result must be that readers will sit up with a start and watch the fun.

The Cincinnati philatelists are bending every effort to make the convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans in that city on August 9th, 10th and 11th, a memorable occasion. The president of the S. P. A., Mr. Wm. L. Doepke, has been instrumental in securing the Cincinnati Club as the head-quarters of the convention; and the members will have club courtesies extended to them in consequence. This departure is one that will commend itself and it is needless to say, will be appreciated. A booklet describing the attractions of the Cincinnati Club is attractive, indeed.

CANAL ZONE ON U. S. A., 1923

By HARRY E. HUBER

Early in 1926 an order was received by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, at Washington, D. C., for a supply of the 17c black, Wilson, and the 20c carmine, Golden Gate, U. S. A. stamps, to be overprinted for Canal Zone use. These denominations represent the combined domestic and foreign letter and registration rates, respectively, and were issued in the U. S. A. on December 28, 1925 (17c) and May 1, 1923 (20c).

Both are horizontal rectangular in shape (22x19mm) line engraved, and recess printed in sheets of 400 stamps (20x20), and these, imperforate, were overprinted "Canal Zone" from a 400 subject overprint plate before being perforated 11, and separated into Post Office sheets of 100. The plate number appears in the upper and side margins of the two upper panes, and in the lower and side margins of the two lower panes. The stamps on two sides of each Post Office sheet of 100 have at least one straight edge. The "Canal Zone" overprint is horizontal, in 2 lines of serifed caps, 2mm high, the words measuring 11 and 9mm respectively, and being spaced vertically from 8 to 9½mm.

For the vertical rectangular stamps of this series (½c to 15c inclusive), a new 400 subject overprint plate was brought into use about May, 1925, with letters differently formed and giving sharper and cleaner cut impressions than the original 1924 printing. The difference is most apparent in the letter "A", which has a sharp pointed top instead of the flat top of the first type (1924). The new overprint plate was first used for the 3c issued June 27, 1925, which is not known with the first, or flat "A" overprint. However, as the 14c, issued at the same time, exists only with the flat "A" of the first type, it is evident that the two plates (flat "A" and sharp "A") were then being used concurrently.

The overprint on the 17c and 20c, is in the second, or sharp "A" type, and 250 sheets of the former (100,000 stamps), and 125 sheets of the latter (50,000 stamps) were available for issue on April 1, 1926, but none were actually issued until April 5, 1926, on which date they were placed on sale at the Philatelic Stamp Agency, Balboa Heights, Canal Zone.

About the same time, the $1 with the second, or sharp "A" overprint was released, indicating that new overprint plates with the sharp "A", were made for both the vertical (½c to 15c) and the horizontal rectangular stamps (30c to $1) at the same time (May, 1925), but that the horizontal rectangular stamps with the second type of overprint, of the 1925 printing, are only now being released from Balboa Heights where the stamp stocks of the Canal Zone Administration are kept.

All values of the postage series except the 3c, and the newly issued 17c and 20c, exist with the first or flat "A" overprint; the 3c, 5c, 10c, 12c, 15c, 17c, 20c and $1 have been reported with the pointed "A", and the postage due stamps, 1c, 2c and 10c, are known with both the flat, and the pointed "A" overprint.

Apr. 5. 1926. Contemporary postage stamps of U. S. A., overprinted by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, Washington, D. C., "CANAL ZONE", horizontally, in 2 lines (in red on 17c and black on 20c). Perforated 11, unwatermarked.

17c black (Woodrow Wilson).
20c carmine (Golden Gate).

U. S. BUREAU PRINTED PRECANCELS

present supply of the "ST. LOUIS" type is exhausted, it should appear. The 7c is on order at the Bureau, and it is to be expected that the 8c and 9c will be requested at a later date.

Lincoln, Nebr.—Are fairly good property, but by no means scarce stock.

Omaha, Nebr.—Are plentiful. The 4c is a bit difficult to get at present, but will be common later on. The 1c and 2c coils are good.

Bloomfield, N. J.—Sprang a surprise by coming out with the 3c coil, which went all over the country on medical samples. The 2c coil will soon appear, as it is on order at the Bureau.

Frenchtown, N. J.—You'll have to do some hunting to land either the 1c or 1½c coils. The former is worth eighty-five cents today and in five years should be worth as many dollars. (Not eighty-five, but five.) I believe chick hatcheries are the sole users of Frenchtown Bureau precancels.

Jersey City, N. J.—The 1½c are easily obtained. The 1½c is reported in coil form, but its existence is doubtful.

Manville, N. J.—Has used only the 1½c coil, which is worth about eight cents.

Newark, N. J.—You can count on soon seeing the 5c and 10c, as they have been ordered and will be very common. The 2c coil would be scarce if A. C. R. had not used a quantity in mailing out his "Stamp News".

Orange, N. J.—Has some Bureau prints on the way, for the order has been given to prepare a plate for this city. The denominations that will be required have not been specified.

Rahway, N. J.—Has just appeared on the 1½c coil.

Trenton, N. J.—Occurs on the 1½c and 3c, in sheet form, both of which seem scarce. The 1c coil has been ordered and should be even better property.

Albany, N. Y.—Is to be found on the 1½c coil. Ten cents is a fair price for it.

Binghamton, N. Y.—The 2c, in both sheet and coil form, is scarce. Ten and eighteen cents respectively is indicative of their worth.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The 2c coil is the latest to report. The 7c has been ordered.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Has been a long time in ordering the 1½c in sheet and coil form, but the requisition has at last gone in and we can look for these two items most any day. The 2c coil is the only other variety that will make trouble when trying to complete the series.

Fulton, N. Y.—The 1½c coil is an elusive thing. Twenty cents is not an excessive price to pay for it.

Jamestown, N. Y.—Like Orange, N. J., is having a plate made, but nothing is known of the denominations that will be printed.

New York, N. Y.—A curious anomaly is to be found, in that New York has to date, placed no order for 2c coils. Neither have the 7c, 8c, and 9c been ordered, but when these Bureau precancels are printed little old New York will have one of the first supplies.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—The 1½c coil is sadly lonesome in one's showing for this city, and is more generally conspicuous by its absence. One of these little bits of paper is worth a couple boxes of the far famed "biscuit" any day in the month of January.

Rochester, N. Y.—It is odd that Rochester is not taking advantage of the Bureau precancels, especially in regard to the stamps in coil form. The 2c in sheet form has been ordered, but why only this lone value?

Schenectady, N. Y.—The 2c coil will lead a merry chase to anyone. Don't be afraid to part with "six bits" if one pops up and says "hello". The 1c coil is comparatively common.

Schuylerville, N. Y.—We've been hunting far and wide for some of these, and success has not met our efforts. The 1½c coil does exist, but where? I know of one copy only, and that is sorely wounded with a knife slash and several bullet holes. It is rumored that two pre-

OKLA." These are steadily increasing in price due to the demand. At present the market quotation is twenty-five cents.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Soon replaced the former. It is found on the 1c, 1½c, and 2c, in sheet form. All are fairly good.

Portland, Oreg.—Has two types for the stamps in sheet form and in coils. The overprint on the former reads "PORTLAND, OREG." and on the latter, "PORTLAND, OREGON", the font of type being identical. The 1c coil is rare and also the 2c coil, being worth thirty and sixty cents respectively.

Altoona, Pa.—Uses the 1c and 1½c in sheet form. The 1½c, though current, is twice as scarce as the 1c. Five cents is a fair price for the latter.

Chester, Pa.—Occurs on the 1c and 1½c coils. Both are rather scarce.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Is going to be right up among 'em, for that office has ordered the 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c and 10c. A half million of each will "hold" Harrisburg for quite a period in a precancel sense.

Lancaster, Pa.—Is found only on the 1½c coil. Ten cents is the current price for it.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Has ordered the 7c, and will probably also require the 8c and 9c. There will be no difficulty in completing this city.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Also quite common, the best being the 2c coil, which is quoted at eight cents.

Scranton, Pa.—The 1c coil is not in existence. The 1½c coil seems to be scarce and ten cents is fair for a good copy. Scranton also springs a surprise by ordering a half million each of the 4c, 5c, 6c, 7c, 8c, 9c and 10c. The others are on hand.

Warren, Pa.—Both the 1c and 1½c are extremely common.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Is to soon receive the 2c coil. The 1c coil is obsolete, but not unobtainable. A fair price for the latter is fifteen cents. Nearly all copies will be found poorly centered.

Pawtucket, R. I.—These are giving trouble to most collectors. The 1½c in sheet form, and the 2c in coil form are worth fifteen and fifty cents respectively. The 1c and 1½c coils have been ordered.

Providence, R. I.—The 3 cent, in sheet form, was the first value to appear. It was closely followed by the 1½c coil. Now we may expect the 1c, 1½c, 4c, 5c and 6c, as well as the 1c and 2c coils, for they have been ordered from the Bureau.

Memphis, Tenn.—The 1c coil is even better than the 2c, which is worth an even dime. In the sheet form, only the 1c, 1½c, 2c, 5c, and 10c exist.

Nashville, Tenn.—The 2c coil is very scarce. Twenty-five cents is not an excessive figure at which to value it. The 1c coil is quoted at ten cents. The stamps in sheet form are very plentiful, with the exception of the 4c and 6c.

Forth Worth, Tex.—One dollar is the highest figure any of the Bureaus of the 1924 Series, have obtained. This valuation is placed on the 1 cent Ft. Worth coil, of which only two copies are known to collectors. The 2 cent coil has been ordered.

Houston, Tex.—The 1½c and 2c were recently augmented by supplies of the 3c, 4c and 5c. The 6c and 10c have been ordered and should be current within a short while. Houston has no Bureau precancels in coil form, nor do the records show that any have been ordered.

cancel "fiends" fought to the death over it.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Nothing spectacular in these issues, but the 2c coil will again be a stumbling block.

Alliance, O.—Has a supply of the 1½c coils on hand. Few are being lovingly caressed by appreciative collectors. They seem to go the other way. To us they represent the same monetary value as a shilling to a Scotchman.

Berea, O.—One collector was so eager to get the 1c coil that he declared it was worth a "cold simoleon" to the dealer who could furnish him with it. I think his zeal worthy of emulation, but careful calculation has placed the value of this particular variety at fifty cents. The 1½c coil is worth about twenty cents.

Cincinnati, O.—Can be expected on the 7c, 8c, and 9c, during the summer. Like existing varieties, they will be plentiful.

Cleveland, O.—Ditto on the remarks for Cincinnati, except that the 2c coil is much scarcer.

Columbus, O.—Has ordered the 4c, 6c and 7c. Is now out on the 1c, 1½c, 2c, 3c, 5c, and 10c, as well as the 1c, 1½c, and 2c coils. The latter is no exception to the general rule for 2c coils.

Dayton, O.—Makes use of the first three values of the current Bureaus in sheet and coil form. The 2c coil is worth eighteen cents.

Marion, O.—Both the 1c and 1½c coils are good. The 2c coil will soon be on hand as order has been placed with the Bureau. The 1c coil is worth forty cents, for it appears to be obsolete. Fifteen cents is plenty for the 1½c.

Springfield, O.—The 1½c is extremely common. The 2c coil is extremely scarce and worth at least thirty-five cents. The 1c coil does not exist.

Toledo, O.—Has placed order for the 4c, 5c, 6c and 10c. Also for the 3c coil. The latter will not be found floating around.

Oklahoma, Okla.—Before officially changing its name to "Oklahoma City" Oklahoma received a shipment of the 1c Bureaus reading "OKLAHOMA,

NILS STRANDELL, NEW YORK JUDGE

Famous Swedish Philatelist Who Has Accepted a Place on the Board of Judges

By CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

Mr. Nils Strandell was born at Hamrange, Sweden, on May 20, 1876, and took matriculation examination in Stockholm in 1894. Entered at the University of Upsala, Sweden, where he got the degree of Bachelor of Arts, in 1898, and afterwards studied modern languages (particularly Romanic and Slavonian) at the University of Leipzig, Germany.

He went into business in 1906, and was appointed office manager of the Alpha-Laval Cream Separator Co., of Stockholm, and left that position in 1918. He has traveled extensively, visiting all European countries on numerous occasions and also been throughout Africa and in Asia. At present he is Managing Director of the Thornblad Parachute Co. Ltd., of Stockholm.

Mr. Strandell has been a stamp collector since childhood, on more or less general lines, and possesses comprehensive collections of quite a number of countries. He has specialized in the stamps of the following groups: — Scandinavia, Great Britain and Balkan States.

During the last 20 years he has also been devoting much time to literature collecting, and possesses the biggest philatelic library in Scandinavia.

HIDDEN TREASURE

We have just purchased an immense accumulation of early U. S. from Germany, all before 1890, nearly half a million stamps, most if not all absolutely unpicked, some on pieces of paper, others off paper. We have not got the time to sort these over and offer them in lots herewith:

1c 1870-1882, a fine mixture, all issues well represented, many of the 1879 cat. at 10c and earlier ones, per 1,000—$7.00; 10,000 for $60.00
3c Green 1870-1882, a very fine lot to sort over carefully, $3.65 per 1,000; 10,000 for.. 32.50
10c Brown 1870-1882. This lot does not look so attractive and may have been gone over in years gone by, 100 for $2.00; 1,000 for 18.00
2c Vermilion 1875-79, a high proportion of the hard paper cat. 10c each, useful lot, $6.00 per 1,000; 10,000 for 50.00
2c Claret 1883, an undoubted unpicked lot, 1,000 for $3.00; 10,000 for $26.00; 60,000 for $150.00. Also another lot that does not look so good at $2.00 for 1,000; 10,000 17.50
2c Green, an undoubted unpicked lot of 70,000 for 95.00
1c Blue 1887, another Virgin lot of 20,000 for 50.00
5c Brown 1882, per 100 ..... 3.50
5c Blue 1888, per 100—$5.50; per 1,000 ..... 45.00

We also got a lot from 1890 to 1918 all done up in bundles of 100, mostly on paper; these were gotten together by an old lady and consist mainly of 1c, 2c and 3c stamps, but should prove well worth examination. We offer 10,000 stamps in original bundles for $3.25.

We rarely get these big unpicked lots nowadays and consider the above offers of great interest to collectors interested in U. S. Cancellations, shades and minor varieties.

ALL PRICES CANCELLED

Pursuant to the terms set forth on the front inside cover page of my 1926 price list, all prices quoted in that list are cancelled as of July 1st. The reason for this will be apparent when one considers that I issue my list each fall and that nine months see price changes in any line of business.

However, a large percentage of the prices will continue good until my 1927 list is ready in October.

Just order from the list as formerly, but include a supplemental list of from 50 to 75 per cent. of the total amount of your order. That will give me the opportunity of selecting stamps the prices of which have not been changed.

H. F. COLMAN, 509 7th St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Since 1906 Mr. Strandell has been editor, respectively co-editor, of the Nordisk Filatelistisk Tidskrift, organ of the Scandinavin Philatelic Association, which has an extended organization over Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland. In its columns he has written many articles on various philatelic subjects, and, during the whole period from 1906 up till now, has been in charge of the Literature Department of the N. F. T., in which practically all literary novelties published in any language are chronicled.

In 1922 he was entered on the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists, at the Congress of Bath. He has been a member of the International Juries at the following Exhibitions: London (1912), Paris (1913), London (1923), Brussels, The Hague and Christiania (1924), Paris (1925), and has accepted a place upon the Board of Judges for the New York Exhibition.

Mr. Strandell's other hobbies are: photography and enthomology. The collection of photos taken by himself in various parts of the world exceeds 2,000 in number, and the most cherished specimens in his butterfly collection hail from Kilimandjaro, Congo, and Rhodesia, where he has been very active with his butterfly net.

WHY I LIKE TO COLLECT STAMPS

By C. E. R.

One Saturday afternoon, while in a reference room at the Public Library here at Hibbing, I found myself surrounded by a boys' stamp society. I listened, and found a way to introduce myself, and was practically adopted then and there.

The members are from eight to fourteen years of age and mostly boys, although there are a few girls. I offered them some stamp prizes for the best papers on the above subject, and this is a sort of report on the competition.

There were seventeen papers submitted. I basely left the hard work of judging them to the educational folks, but I did serve out prizes to all who contested: nothing of value, but well received, for all that. The papers show the usual brightness of the American school child, as well as the influence of ancestry and environment. Among the seventeen entrants were at least twelve nationalities, judging by the names, for Hibbing, as a great mining center, is surely some melting pot.

The following excerpts show that all collectors, while the urge is on them, are brothers under the skin. I have not changed spelling or syntax in any of them.

"On cold days I stay in the house and find difference in stamps."

That applies to the specialist, too, I think.

"When I grow up I can sell them to some company and get paid for my trouble."

Here we have a budding speculator.

"Many people of some nationatiles (sic) do not like other nationatiles, but when they save stamps they see that every country has good men as well as bad men, so this helps us boys to believe more in what this country was made for, 'all men are created equal'."

The League should look into this. If by philatelic expansion we may have peace and stability, why all the worry about fleets and armaments?

"Some stamps come from those heathen places where they worship idols. It sends thrills down your backs to be able to have stamps from those places."

I've had those thrills myself, when receiving specimens from places that before had been mere dots on the map; and I'll bet the majority of collectors, if they are honest, will own up to the same thing.

Speaking of the one-cent "Lexicon"; "It tells where Washington was made commander-in-chief of the United States Army. It shows the elm tree which he took his inaugaration (!) under."

Essentially correct; nothing is gained by picking flaws.

"I learn to estinguish the writing of the different countries."

This boy uses "gotten" correctly, however.

"You can read in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY all about stamps and what kind are going to be published."

An appreciation.

I think that the contest has boomed interest in things stampic; that was my intention, anyway. It seems to encourage the "kids" to know that grown folks collect stamps and like them; that philately—although most of them never heard the word—is a sober and respectable trade, with followers among great and small.

I know that I absorbed some of their enthusiasm myself. It is quite possible that some of us whose interest is inclined to wane might find a rejuvenation in meeting and helping out the beginners. And it certainly would please the youngsters.

P. C. in above means Post Card of the period. This list doubtless contains cancels with which you are familiar.

The town of New Orleans shows some real pretty designs, and this is only a start of what they used along in the late '70's and early '80's, so keep watching for cancels from that city, and you may discover a lot of new and pretty cancellations.

All except No. 3 have town name appended, and all are cut from cork or wood.

No. 2 would be very pretty if an early hit could be secured, for most of these are rather smudgy, and of a dull blue appearance. No. 4 called the Double Anchor is frequently met with, and makes a nice show on an album page. No. 7 is one of our really early cut cork cancels of interest, and is not found very often. Nos. 3 and 6 are very clearly hit, and brighten up the page a whole lot.

Here's a good one for those interested in Masonic cancels, a huge square and compass with a big "G" in center, all being enclosed in a circle, diameter of 30mm, on a 3c 1861, cover from "Bangor, Wis."

Dr. R. W. Payne has shown me a cover pmkd. in red "Providence Oct 20 1864 R.I.", with straight line "Steamboat" and "DUE 6" in black. The stamp, a 3c '61, is hit with a cut cork gridiron, and in addition falling on the stamp is a 24mm ring reading "STEAMER RIVER QUEEN OCT 20 1864", a little flower with six petals completes this rare Steamer cancel at the bottom of the pmk., as is sometimes found in French pmks.

From Lee, Mass., in '66 and in '67 come two covers, in each case the stamp being hit by a very large "OK" cut into cork, and these are quite cleanly cut, and hit, nice items.

Mr. A. B. Thacher has sent in what he correctly terms a "bee-autiful" cover, it being a pair of the 3c 1869's, each hit by a very large bee, probably of the bumble species, the cover bearing the pmk. of "CANASTOTA N Y MAR 21". This cover is sure a "hummer"! He has also sent in a copy of the 3c (probably '67) which interests me, inasmuch as I have a copy of same identical appearance, which has been with me since I started collecting. This stamp is of a smudgy reddish appearance, and the paper is extremely thin.

LOOKING ROUND

By "MARQUETTE."

If you, dear reader, are among those who are feeling the reaction against the monotony of modern Colonials—a reaction which has affected not a few collectors during recent months — where are you going to turn? Not, mind you, that I am antagonistic to modern Colonials. They will always have their thousands upon thousands of staunch adherents; and even if a few British collectors happen to look for novelty elsewhere, the American and Continental demand is now of such dimensions as to more than compensate for the defection.

There are two groups on which I have my eye, as being likely to be profitable. The first is New Europes, which are now pretty well at rock-bottom prices, and already beginning to rise. Here there are several countries which you can complete on simplified lines at a moderate cost, while if you want to specialize, a wide field opens before you. Esthonia, Lettland, Lithuania (too little studied this, on account of a trio of unnecessary issues), Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Danzig, and Soviet Russia, all hold out attractions to the collector of moderate means.

Or why not pass to the New World, and try for the middle issues of such countries as Ecuador, Dominican Republic, Honduras, Guatemala, Chili, the Argentine, Brazil, Costa Rica, and elsewhere. You can hardly go wrong, financially speaking, with any country of South or Central America. The early issues, even where they are not "classics" and in world-wide demand, are getting remarkably scarce; and if the prices for the middle issues are not rising at the moment, it is because dealers in England have not yet awakened to the fact that their dwindling stocks can no longer be replenished in many cases. It is a fallacy to suppose that every Latin-American provisional is unnecessary. The majority of the smaller States lived from hand to mouth in the matter of stamp supplies, and many of the provisional issues are now getting rare. A small increase in the demand and prices will shoot up rapidly.

A little bird tells me that the ½d Thom, 2d wide Rialtas, and 2½d Saorstat are three good bargains in Irish just now.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

SO. NIGERIA--EDWARDIAN SERIES

By "SINGLE CA."

Unlike the sister Colony who indulged in a holocaust of her Victorian stamps to make way for those of the new reign, Southern Nigeria was content to bide her time until supplies of stamps bearing the head of the late Queen Victoria were running low before introducing the new types. Thus it came about that although the first requisitions for Edwardian stamps were filled in the Autumn of 1902, they were not actually put in circulation until March 13, 1903.

A new "head-plate" alone was prepared for use in conjunction with the existing border-plates, using the master-die of the "East African" head of King Edward VII, adapted to the larger oval by the addition of a large Crown, set off by conventional ornaments.

The sheets were composed of 120 stamps, and divided into two panes of 60 with continuous marginal lines. [Except the £1, on which the marginal lines were co-extensive. — Editor] and plate number "1" eight times repeated on the margin—four times in the colour of the border and four times in that of the medallion. Moreover, a consecutive number was impressed in black in the top right-hand corner of the sheets, commencing, in the case of the Edwardian series, where the Victorian numbers left off. By careful comparison of these consignment numbers it has been possible to arrive at an approximate estimate of the total quantities supplied of each denomination. In the case of the 2½d, 5s, 10s and £1 denominations, however, the figures quoted are official.

The 2½d stamp was not included in the original series, to which it was added twelve months later as a result of the entry of Southern Nigeria into the Universal Postal Union on October 1, 1903.

Single CA.

It would appear that there was but one printing of most values upon Single CA. watermarked paper. A scarce shade of the 2s6d seems to indicate, however, a second supply of that value about May, 1906.

ingle colour printing was introduced the ½d and 1d stamps in 1907-08 in r to bring them into line with the tal Union standard, whilst the adop- of the universal colour scheme for- ated by the Crown Agents for the onies in 1909 was quickly reflected in changing colours of the other values he Edwardian series. These served postal needs of the Colony until the ent of the first Georgian stamps in early part of 1913.

and after August, 1910, the 1d stamp Southern Nigeria was printed from a plate of 240 subjects, constructed n a Die incorporating both the King's d and the frame design in one. mps printed from this combined plate be readily recognised by the figure value, the "1" being thinner and the broader than on the original border e. U. S. ARROWS AND GUIDE LINES

By JOHN J. SPENCER.

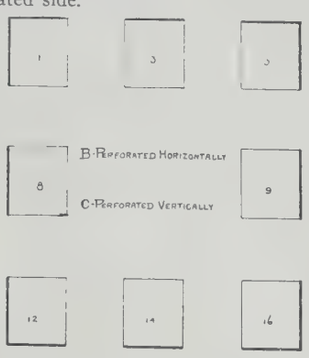
Third Period

The grouping of the varieties found composing the third period is comparatively simple, there being but eight major varieties as indicated in the following sketch. The letter B in connection with the number in the text indicates a stamp having a guide line on a perforated top or bottom and the letter C indicates a stamp showing a guide line on a perforated side.



1901. The stamps of the Pan-American series were printed from plates of 200 subjects, having vertical and horizontal guide lines, the sheets being cut horizontally on the guide line into two panes of 100 each. The horizontal guide line will be found on the unperforated top or bottom, while the vertical guide line will be found on the perforated side. No arrows are found on the stamps of this and succeeding series, for while the arrows appear at the ends of the guide lines on the full sheets of stamps, they have been so engraved that the point of the arrow falls outside the perforation and is removed with the perforated marginal paper. This series therefore yields, but eight varieties for each value, viz., Nos. 1c, 3, 5c, 8c, 9c, 12c, 14, 16c.

1902. In this series the stamps of the denominations 1c to 13c inclusive were printed from plates of 400 subjects, showing both horizontal and vertical guide lines. The sheets were divided by cutting on these guide lines into four panes of 100 stamps each. The arrow specimens being now eliminated we have but eight varieties for each value, 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16. The 15 cent stamp of this series appeared in sheets printed from both 400 and 200 subject plates, as a result we find the guide line on the top or bottom both in perforated and unperforated condition, giving us 14 varieties of this value: 1, 1b, 3, 3b, 5, 5b, 8, 9, 12, 12b, 14, 14b, 16, 16b. The 50 cent and dollar values of this series were printed from plates of 200 subjects, showing both guide lines and divided thru the vertical guide line into two panes of 100 each, yielding eight varieties of each value: 1b, 3b, 5b, 8, 9, 12b, 14b, 16b.

Both the 1c and the 2c stamps of this issue appeared in book form and the single guide line book stamps are readily distinguished from the regular issue by the perforation on the horizontal guide line of the book stamp.

1907. The series of stamps issued to celebrate the Jamestown Exhibition were printed from plates of 200 subjects, having both vertical and horizontal guide lines. The sheets of this series, like the Pan-American, were cut horizontally thru the center on the guide line, into two panes of 100 stamps each, producing unperforated horizontal guide line varieties and perforated vertical guide line varieties. As no arrows are to be found on the single stamps we again have but eight varieties of each value: 1c, 3, 5c, 8c, 9c, 12c, 14, 16c.

1908-1910. The stamps of these two issues, with the exception of the 50c and $1.00 values, were all printed from plates of 400 subjects, with vertical and horizontal guide lines. The sheets were divided by cutting on these guide lines into four panes of 100 stamps each. All guide line varieties thus being on unperforated edges, yielding eight varieties of each value: Nos. 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16.

The 50c and $1.00 values were printed from plates of 200 subjects with the vertical and horizontal guide lines. The sheets were divided by cutting vertically thru the center on the guide line into panes of 100 stamps, producing unperforated vertical guide line varieties and perforated horizontal guide line varieties, or eight varieties for each value: 1b, 3b, 5b, 8, 9, 12b, 14b, 16b.

The early 1c and 2c stamp books of the 1908 issue present some panes bearing a perforated horizontal guide line between the first and second row of stamps and the single guide line book stamp is readily distinguished by this perforation on the guide line. Later booklets when bearing a horizontal guide line show it on the lower edge of the pane and the

EDITORIAL

In the issue of May 24th, we published a few observations on the five-cent Ericsson memorial stamp and purported to tell the story of the origin of this commemorative issue. It is seen from correspondence that has met our eye that there is a disposition to question the conclusions that were drawn in the course of the remarks, which were based on information that came from sources in which full credence could be placed. Pursuing the subject, as a consequence of various angles that have developed, we are enabled through the courtesy of the Svenska-Amerikanaren (Swedish-American) Chicago, to give the following translation of an article that appeared in the columns of its issue of May 20th: "News from Washington, D. C., of May 6, 1926, informs us that Postmaster General New has ordered the issue of fifteen million five-cent stamps as a memorial of the inventor of the 'Monitor,' Capt. John Ericsson, of whom a statue will be dedicated in Potomac Park on May 29th, in the presence of President Coolidge and the Swedish Crown Prince and Princess. As far as we know, this is the first time in history that any country outside of Sweden ever issued a postage stamp in honor of a Swede. Therefore, it should be of special interest to every Swede to know of this stamp and how it came about. We can now tell the story. In the summer of 1925, our ambitious countryman, K. A. Wallquist, started to interest members of the John Ericsson Memorial Committee in the subject of a special commemorative stamp for John Ericsson. The result of this movement was that Mr. Henry S. Henschen, treasurer of the Ericsson Memorial Committee, wired Congressman Carl R. Chindblom in regard to the stamp. Mr. Chindblom was then in New York on his way to Sweden and so the matter had to rest until his return to this country in the autumn. At the meeting in Chicago on October 17, 1925, of the Committee, the subject was brought up by Mr. C. G. Axell, and the Committee then instructed Mr. Chindblom to investigate the chances for an issue of the kind. The result was that we on May 29, 1926, could buy the 5c John Ericsson stamp at the Chicago Post Office."

SCOTT STAMP & COIN CO.
1 WEST 47TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

As indicating the magnitude of the forthcoming International Stamp Exhibition in New York, estimates are being made of the value of the stamps that will be on display. In the London Daily Telegraph, Mr. Fred J. Melville says that already over a million dollars' worth of foreign are booked for space, and without being unduly optimistic, we predict that when the returns are all in, this figure will have to be revised upward. Any prophecy as to the financial quid pro quo of the United States stamps that will be in place would astound the outsider but it is safe to say that in the complete stamp record of the issues of our country, there will be shown specimens that have a value beyond the dreams of avarice."

An interesting cancellation is brought to notice by Mr. Harvey N. Fiske, Cranford, New Jersey: "Among some oddities I have is one written in 1837 from Far West, Missouri, canceled in red as per pencil copy attached. Of course, there are many letters of this kind in existence from various towns and cities but I am wondering if the philatelists ever heard of or saw a copy mailed from this place. I understand that Far West was first settled by the Mormons and afterward, they were driven out and that the town went out of existence." Evidently, Far West is an appealing example of "discontinued post offices" and the very name is almost poignantly suggestive of the frontier days in this country, whose fascinations are emphasized by the passing of time. As collecting develops on more intensive lines, the historical side of the old postmarks will claim more attention than is given at present, although there are not a few collectors who are sensible of the charm of them, today.

The list of Americans in uniform on U. S. stamps in our issue of May 24th, as given by a correspondent, was all too brief, as Mr. T. Russell Hungerford, Washington, shows; he adds: "Washington on the 90c of 1857-60 and 90c of 1861 and Farragut on the $1 of 1902. It might be that Jackson, on the 3c of 1902, wears a military cloak, while Captain John Smith, on the 1c Jamestown, 1907, is clad in a coat-of-mail!"

We find that no extended reference has been made in the WEEKLY to the movement seeking to signalize philately in Sulgrove Manor, England, the ancestral home of George Washington, which was purchased in 1914 by the British Peace Centenary Committee and is now a shrine to which thousands of people pay homage yearly. Mr. F. A. Bellamy, 28 Polstead Road, Oxford, England, is sponsor of the proposal to "exhibit for public gaze, the various portraits or effigies of George Washington, as adopted for postage stamps. Every gift towards the end, whether of stamps or money, will be a permanent gift towards honoring the ancestral home of Washington, towards the closer union of the two great Anglo-Saxon nations and to the praise and good of 'Philatelia'." The London Philatelist for December, 1925, included a full account of the interesting project, the success of which would redound to the advantage of philately, if we are to give attention to our concerns first. Mr. Bellamy's zeal must be commended and his idea is worthy of all respect. While the list of Washington stamp portraits, from 1847 to date, is not exactly a short one, yet it is not as formidable as may seem at first glance, although, if all the specimens are to be in the ideal condition for exhibition purposes, i.e., unused, the very first stamp, the 10c of 1847, is something of a poser. We trust that the results of the campaign will be comparable to the merit that the plan embodies.

When that good old soul, Walt Mason, twangs his lyre and descants on stamps as "The Hobby," we say that philately has arrived. One of Walt's inimitable "odes" deals with Jimpson, whose love for stamps is his ruling passion and while the aforesaid Jimpson cannot understand why all men do not give ear when he spouts stamps, he is content to pursue his untroubled way, with the stamp album under arm, to speak figuratively. Other chaps may pursue the bubble, reputation, but Jimpson is unscathed by the lure of worldly excitements and marvels at the folly of the fatuous fellows who waste their time with small-talk, when there are stamps to occupy the waking thoughts. We are sure that Walt casts his vote for the Jimpsons who abide by the bright lights at home and dream the golden hours away, in company with canceled stamps from Asia Minor and Cathay.

We have been favored by Mr. John W. Prevost, Springfield, Mass., with official data on the Shanghai Postal Agency, which he received from the late Mr. C. H. McBride, an employee of the Post Office Department in Washington and a member of the Springfield Stamp Club. Here are the references as copied from the records:

"Sec. 7, of the Act of July 27, 1868 (15 Stat. Chap. 246), authorized the establishment of the General Postal Agency at Shanghai, as follows:

That the Postmaster General be, and he is hereby authorized, to establish in connection with the United States mail steamship service to Japan and China a general postal agency at Shanghai, China, with such branch agencies at other ports in China and Japan as shall, in his judgment, be necessary for the prompt and efficient management of the postal service in those counrties; * * * * * *

In the Annual Report of the Postmaster General, John A. J. Creswell for the year ending June 30, 1869, appears the following:

"I have not considered it expedient, the present condition of the service, to establish a general postal agency at Shanghai, with branch agencies at other ports in China and Japan, as authorized by the 7th section of the Act of July 27, 1868. The United States Consuls at Shanghai and Kanagawa (Japan), still continue to act, with the consent of the Department of State, as resident mail agents at those ports, in connection with their regular consular duties."

It's been like THE DAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS in our office this week,—nice friendly excitement, pleasant surprises and SECRETS. And in June? The REASON is simple,—we have been packing our "MAGIC CARPETS", "MASCOTS", "MOTLEY CREWS", "MIXED CARGOS" and all the rest of the "M. C." FAMILY. Does that sound like pokey work? We do not consider it so, we think of it as GOOD FUN, because we have a NICE LITTLE IDEA BACK OF EVERY PACKET. Here is the great secret, — TO MAKE EACH PACKET A LITTLE BETTER THAN WE SAY IT WILL BE,—a little better quality, or a little better count, or a little more carefully put up. AND THAT is what has made the preparation for our GREAT ANNUAL PACKET SALE seem like THE DAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS,—because we have sought to tuck away in every packet the gift that not only would satisfy, but MORE THAN SATISFY.

ANTIGUA

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Remainders Burned, 1924.

In accordance with circular instructions from the Colonial office, early in 1924, there were burned at St. John's, Antigua, on April 19, 1924, the remainder stock of the ½d, 1d, 3d and ½d War Stamp, in the Presidency Seal type; the 5s King George (1913), and Leeward Islands 2d post cards, 1d wrappers, and 2½d envelopes.

Watermark Changed (3d) and new shades (2d and 6d) 1925.

Early in 1925 a further lot of 2d, 3d and 6d stamps was ordered, and in their Bulletin of July-September, 1925, the Crown Agents announced that the 3d had been printed, for the first time, on yellow script CA paper. (Yellow script CA paper was first used for the 5c Federated Malay States issued March 1, 1922.) This was a surprise to the local authorities who had expected it to be printed in blue, representing as it did, the foreign letter rate.

The 2d and 6d in this lot differed in shade from the earlier printing, the former being slate, and the latter, brown violet and bright violet. These three varieties were issued July 23, 1925. They were printed from the same head and duty plates as before, but the head plate number (1) appears only in the lower margin of each pane in the usual positions (under the 2nd stamp of the left, and the 5th stamp of the right panes), instead of in both upper and lower margins.

July 23, 1925. King George V. and Presidency Seal. "Postage & Revenue." Engraved and typographically printed by De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London. Watermarked multiple Crown and script CA. Comb perforated 14.

3d and 6d, chalk surfaced.
Plate 1 (headplate).
2d slate.
3d violet on pale yellow (C).
6d brown violet and bright violet (C).

New Colonial Postmaster, 1925.

In September, 1925, Mr. F. de Freitas (since 1922 Asst. Postmaster at St. John's), succeeded Mr. A. C. K. Tibbits, as Federal and Presidency Postmaster, on the latter's promotion to be Magistrate and Warden of Nevis.

Foreign Letter Rates Reduced, April, 1926.

By Statutory Rules and Order No. 5, 1926, made by the Governor in Council on 1st March, 1926, with effect from 1st April, many changes were made in the postal rates on matter for delivery within and without the Leeward Islands Federation. The foreign letter rate was reduced from 3d to 2½d, and that to the British Empire, and the U. S. A., from 2d to 1½d. Post cards pass within the Colony at ½d single (1d reply), but for all other destinations at 1½d single (3d reply). Future printings of the 2½d will revert to the original color, blue. The 2½d of Antigua, printed in orange, was issued Sept. 27, 1923.

Local Post Office Establishment.

There are eleven sub-offices in Antigua, which are in daily communication with the head office at St. John's, through 12 rural postmen. Two deliveries of mail are made daily (12 noon and 4 p. m.) in St. John's, and additional deliveries are made at 8 a. m., following the receipt of mails from off the island. In St. John's 28,214 letters and 6,154 book packages were delivered by the two city postmen, in 1917-18. In the same year, 49,687½ letters and 29,683 book packages were dispatched from St. John's to the country districts, and 12,318 letters and 942 book packages, from the country districts.

During 1917-18, 190 mails (120,222 letters and 42,775 packages) were received from off the island, and 185 dispatched (110,823 letters and 15,845 packages). The receipts and dispatches being in the majority from and to the U. S. A. 5,023 parcels were received from abroad, and 671 dispatched. Money Orders to the total of £2661.14.6 were issued, and £5448.11.5 paid in Antigua. In that year there were 195 telephones in operation, and 325 miles of wire.

The surplus in 1917-18 is explained as resulting from "non-payment of contribution to the Intercolonial mail service, to revenue derived from War Tax stamps, and stamps sold for passports." The sale of stamps, wrappers, etc., amounted to £1987.1.0½, and £78.19.0 was paid for the cost of stamp manufacture.

I recently acquired a small collection of postage stamps of the Hawaiian Islands, which is being broken up and will be sold generally on a basis of 40% discount from Scott's prevailing figures. SHANGHAI ON U. S.

Two stamps that are missing from many collections are the two varieties of Shanghai locally overprinted under authority of the U. S. Post Office located in that city. There are only two values, namely, the 2c and 4c, Scott's #3298 and 3299. They have never been over plentiful and catalog $1.50 each or $3.00 for the pair. While the greater portion of the lot were badly centered, I have been fortunate in acquiring some few in exceptionally nice condition, which I offer at $1.50 a set, with pairs or blocks on the same basis.

It Answers Your Every Question!

We offer this book as a substitute for a "Beginner's Department" in our paper

Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News Beverly, Mass.

"Antigua, B.W.I." at the bottom. Date in two lines in center DE 13—16. Date set low, month and day being on a line with the first "A" of "Antigua", and the "I" of "B.W.I."

2. Single lined circle, 25mm similarly lettered, and with date set low. Letters slightly larger than in No. 1. Used concurrently with No. 1 in 1918. Probably an old cancelling stamp reconditioned.

3. About October, 1921, a new cancelling stamp made appearance, single lined circle 26mm, but with letters of "St. John's—Antigua, B.W.I." taller and thinner. Date set higher (OC 27-21) than in Nos. 1 and 2.

4. "Official Paid" (at top), and "Antigua" (at bottom). Single lined circle 24mm. Date in three lines in center—*-OC 18-18.

5. "R" within oval, measuring 25mm high by 20mm wide. Badly dented at lower right, which peculiarity dates back to "FE 2 20", or earlier.

Washington Notes

As we are celebrating the 150th anniversary of our birth, quite naturally each day is an anniversary of some important event which took place in our early history. Many vicinities where such events took place are endeavoring to have Washington issue special stamps commemorating the activity. In addition, St. Louis is in hopes of having a stamp issued in behalf of Thomas H. Benton, the famous statesman, through whose good work the Sante Fe mail trail was opened. There is quite a possibility that at least one of these delegations is likely to be favored but I am informed that the stamps, if issued, will probably not make their appearance until the Fall.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of June 10th, Acting Postmaster General Bartlett issued an advertisement inviting proposals for the operation of a contract air mail route between Detroit and Grand Rapids, Michigan, and return, with such intermediate stops as may be agreed upon later. This action supersedes the advertisement of May 25th for this route and is due to the action of Congress fixing the rate of not more than $3.00 per pound for the carrying of air mail instead of granting the contractor not more than 80% of the revenue for transporting the mails. In other words, the mail will be carried on a weight instead of a count basis, and it is quite possible that all future contracts, as well as when old ones are revised, will be on such a basis. Bids will be received at the Department at Washington up until noon of July 26th.

On the first day of the recently inaugurated Twin City to Chicago contract air mail service, one of the planes out of St. Paul, piloted by Elmer Partridge, met with difficulties, due to high wind. Partridge presumably lost control of his plane, which crashed to the ground and the pilot was killed. Covers from this route have been returned and were described in this column last week.

The headquarters of the Air Mail Service, which, since October 1, 1924, have been maintained at Omaha, Nebraska, will be removed to Washington, D. C., on July 1, 1926. Announcement to this effect was made June 15th by Acting Postmaster General Bartlett. It has been found that the continuance of the headquarters of the air mail service at Omaha is no longer necessary and that this branch of the Post Office Department can better be administered from this city. The Omaha headquarters are at present in charge of Stephen A. Cisler, Superintendent of the Air Mail Service, with D. B. Colyer, Assistant Superintendent. There are about fifteen clerks at the Omaha office who will be brought back to Washington when the transfer is completed.

I could not understand when the office was first transferred why it was necessary to have the airplane activities directed from a middle western city when the balance of the postal affairs were directed from Washington.

Canal Zone

The Nassau Stamp Company inform me that they learn of the existence of the new 20c stamp with an overprint reading "Canal Zone" with "Zone" inverted. They have not seen the variety but the information comes to them upon excellent authority. If this variety exists, there is no doubt but what a similar variety will be found on the 17c for they were both recently overprinted in Washington at the same time.

Heretofore we have seen the 1c and 12c with the same overprint in addition to the 3c, 5c and 1c Postage Due with overprint reading "Zone-Zone." It is possible that several other values will be found which are as yet unchronicled and we would be glad to hear from our readers having any of the other denominations.

Revenues

Several weeks back mention was made in this column of the finding of several copies of the 25c blue and black second issue in an unperforated condition, all canceled during April and early May of 1872.

Mr. P. J. Gauff now writes that he has a copy of this stamp, which he purchased over thirty-five years ago from a New York dealer, and that his copy is also canceled during the same time, his bearing date of April 17, 1872. While there is not the slightest doubt, but what these stamps were issued in imperforate condition, this additional copy which was found many years back helps to give further standing to the variety.

ANNOUNCING A NEW TYPE OF LOOSE LEAF ALBUM FOR U. S. STAMPS — FIRST DAY AND FIRST TRIP COVERS

Being arranged at the present time to take care of U. S. stamps and covers from 1900 to date, altho the earlier issues will be arranged and printed as the demand arises. New Issues and First Day and Trip covers arranged and printed as they appear to keep the service up to the minute.

Participation in this plan is secured by becoming a member for this page service and from two to four pages will appear each week besides new issue and cover pages. Each page will cover a single stamp, and will carry a historical setting. Official description and such other data as pertains to that particular stamp, and will have suitable space for mounting a single and block. Follow-up pages to cover individual needs for mounting additional blocks, pairs, strips and such other items supplied when the arrangement and desired printed data is furnished to me.

No blank spaces appear in this service and after 20 or more pages have been received and stamps mounted, the value of this service will become apparent. A non-collector will even secure a source of enjoyment in perusing a collection mounted on this style of sheets.

The idea for supplying this service became apparent after I had printed about 35 sheets for my own collection and the remarkable improvement noted. The printed pages are quite costly to make, but the expense will be well worth while after you have seen a few pages.

I have some extra sheets:—covering the New 10c Air Mail stamp, the 1c Jamestown Exposition stamp and The First Day and Trip Cover from Detroit to Cleveland, which will gladly send to any collector upon receipt of 4c to cover cost of mailing. Additional information regarding this service gladly furnished.

It will be worth your while to ask for sample pages.

U. S. ARROWS AND GUIDE LINES

single guide line book stamp is distinguished from the regular issue by the nearness of the guide line to the bottom of the engraving.

1912. The guide line varieties of the stamps of the regular series of 1912 only differ from those of 1908-1910 in that the 50c value was printed from plates of both 200 and 400 subjects giving us fourteen varieties of this value: 1, 1b, 3, 3b, 5, 5b, 8, 9, 12, 12b, 14, 14b, 16, 16b.

1914-1916-1917. The stamps of these three issues, with the exception of the dollar values, were printed like their immediate predecessors from plates of 400 subjects and divided in the same manner, yielding eight varieties for each value: Nos. 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16. The dollar values were printed from plates of 200 subjects, with vertical and horizontal guide lines and after division through the vertical guide line produced eight varieties of each value: 1b, 3b, 5b, 8, 9, 12b, 14b, 16b.

The Lincoln commemorative stamp was printed from 400 subject plates. The Alaska-Yukon and Panama-Pacific were each from 280 subject plates, while the Hudson-Fulton was from 240 subject plates. Each of these commemoratives were printed with both vertical and horizontal guide lines and the sheets of all were divided into four panes each by cutting along both guide lines. All guide line varieties were thus produced to appear with unperforated edges, yielding eight varieties of each value: 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16.

The Parcel Post stamps of 1912 were printed from plates of 180 subjects, having both horizontal and vertical guide lines. The sheets of all values were divided into four panes of 45 stamps each, by cutting along both guide lines producing the eight guide line varieties: 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16.

Of the Postal Savings Stamps of 1911, the 1c, 2c, and 10c values were printed from plates of 400 subjects having the two rectangular guide lines and the sheets were divided into four panes each, by cutting along both guide lines, thus yielding eight varieties of each value: 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16. The 50c and $1.00 values were printed from plates of 200 subjects, having the two guide lines, and the sheets were divided into two panes of 100 stamps each, by cutting along the vertical guide line, producing eight varieties of each value: 1b, 3b, 5b, 8, 9, 12b, 14b, 16b.

1918. It was during this year that the first Aeroplane series and the $2.00 and $5.00 bi-colored stamps appeared. All these being printed in sheets of 100 stamps and issued to the post offices in this way. They bore both vertical and horizontal guide lines and all guide line varieties are to be found fully perforated, giving eight varieties of each value, viz., 1bc, 3b, 5bc, 8c, 9c, 12bc, 14c, 16bc.

In 1918 also appeared the 1c, 2c and 3c stamps produced by the offset printing process. Sheets of these stamps bore the usual vertical and horizontal guide lines used for dividing the sheets into panes of 100 stamps by cutting on these guide lines. All guide line varieties of these stamps are therefore found with straight edges, viz., Nos. 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16.

1922-1923. Our present regular issue, values from 1c to 50c inclusive are printed from plates of 400 subjects with vertical and horizontal guide lines and divided into panes of 100 stamps by cutting on these guide lines, giving us eight varieties, Nos. 1, 3, 5, 9, 12, 14, 16. The $1.00 and $2.00 stamps are printed from plates of 200 subjects having vertical and horizontal guide lines and divided into panes of 100 stamps by cutting on the horizontal line only, giving eight varieties, Nos. 1c, 3, 5c, 8c, 9c, 12c, 14, 16c. The $5.00 stamps are printed from 100 subject plates having both horizontal and vertical guide lines and are issued in fully perforated sheets so that all eight varieties are found fully perforated, viz., 1bc, 3b, 5bc, 8c, 9c, 12bc, 14b, 16bc.

In 1920 the Pilgrim Tercentenary Commemorative series of three values appeared, printed from 280 subject plates, showing both vertical and horizontal guide lines, so that all eight guide line varieties of each value will be found, having unperforated, straight edges, Nos. 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16.

The Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary issue of three values appearing in 1924, and the Lexington-Concord series, also of three values following soon after in 1925 were all printed from 200 subject plates having both horizontal and vertical guide lines and divided into panes of 50 stamps by cutting along both these guide lines, so that all eight guide line varieties of each value will be found having unperforated straight edges, viz., Nos. 1, 3, 5, 8, 9, 12, 14, 16.

Coming now to the Norse-American of 1925, we find something novel and different from preceding commemoratives in that stamps of both values are bi-colored and printed from plates of 100 subjects, bearing both vertical and horizontal guide lines. The sheets after printing were not divided, but issued in full perforated sheets of 100 stamps, so that there are no straight edges to be found in this issue. Eight guide line varieties are the result, viz., Nos. 1bc, 3b, 5bc, 8c, 9c, 12bc, 14b, 16bc.

Turning back to the Official Stamps of the various Departments printed by the Bank Note Companies we find that but few of the denominations were printed from plates of more than 100 subjects, with the consequent absence of arrows. The exceptions found are the 1 cent, 2 cent and 3 cent denominations of both the War and Treasury Departments and the 3 cent of the Post Office Department. These stamps were all printed from 200 subject plates, bearing arrows at both top and bottom of the plate similar to other Bureau emissions, giving us Nos. 2, 4, 13, 15.

Postage Due Stamps issued prior to December 4, 1895, were printed from 200 subject plates bearing top and bottom arrows and the sheets of stamps were cut vertically thru these arrows into panes of 100 each and we find varieties Nos. 2, 4, 13, 15. Since December 4, 1895, Due Stamps have been printed from 400 subject plates bearing arrows and guide lines and the guide lines specimens to be secured are the same as those found with the regular postage stamps with which they are affiliated.

Special Delivery Stamps for all issues have been printed from 100 subject plates. They first appeared in 1885 and the sheets were divided into two panes of 50 each by cutting vertically thru the top and bottom arrows, giving us Nos. 2, 4, 13, and 15, and subsequent issues up to 1894 were produced in the same way and the same arrow specimens are to be found. With the taking over of the printing contract in 1894 by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing an increased number of arrow varieties appear. Horizontal arrows now being added to each side—center of the sheet, but the sheet was still divided by cutting thru the top and bottom vertical arrow so that the vertical arrows are found on a straight edge side and the horizontal arrows on the perforated top or bottom. We thus have Nos. 2, 4, 6b, 7b, 10b, 11b, 13 and 15.

Since December 4, 1895, the plates have been made with guide lines and arrows and the sheets cut into four panes of 25 stamps each and the varieties found are similar to those of the regular stamp of the same issues.

Newspaper and Periodical stamps were printed from plates of 100 subjects bearing a horizontal arrow at the center of

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

Something Unique in Air Mail Covers

PASCO, WASH. -- TRANSCONTINENTAL, FIRST TRIP APRIL 6

I have some of these interesting covers which will prove of historic value. I used the scarce 3c carmine error envelope No. 2662a with a horizontal pair of the new 10c aero, also a 5c Norse American. A special Pasco cancellation in violet is used bearing date of first flight "5.30 A.M. Apr. 6, 1926". My price is a very reasonable one, only $2.00

Here is a First Tripper of More than Ordinary Value

each side and the sheets were divided into panes of 50 stamps. Thru these horizontal arrows and prior to 1895 we have four specimens of each value, Nos. 6b, 7b, 10b and 11b. It was during 1895 that the arrows disappear as they were now located so far back that they came off with the marginal paper. About this same time horizontal and vertical center guide lines were added and the sheets were divided horizontally on this guide line into two panes of 50 stamps so that the horizontal guide line should be found on a straight edge top or bottom and the vertical guide line on a perforated side, resulting in eight varieties for each value or Nos. 1c, 3, 5c, 8c, 9c, 12c, 14, 16c.

Coiled stamps first appeared about 1907 and up to the advent of the Rotary Press are to be found bearing vertical and horizontal guide lines similar to the stamps from regular sheets of the same issue. Coiled stamps bearing guide lines are to be distinguished from the regular issue guide line stamps, by the two parallel unperforated edges characterising all normal coil stamps. The early coils were made by perforating the sheets one way only, then attaching the sheets end to end, and cutting along the imperforate spaces, thus forming strips which were wound into reels or coils. In the case of an endwise coil, we find the sides vertically imperforated and the vertical guide lines will show on a straight edge side and the horizontal guide line on the perforated top or bottom. In the case of a sidewise coil we find the top and bottom imperforated and the vertical guide line will show on a perforated side, while the horizontal guide line will be found on a straight edge top or bottom. Eight varieties will be found for each value in both kinds of coils.

With the advent of the Rotary Press this group of coiled guide lines disappears and a single new one is found. This new form appears only on the perforated top or bottom of an endwise coil and on either perforated side of a sidewise coil. This is not a guide line proper, but is said to be produced when printing, from the joint made where the printing plates come together on the press bed or roll.

The advent of the Rotary Press for printing stamps has brought a new process into being, so it is probable that in the near future, but few, if any, of our postage stamps will be produced showing guide lines. The collector of the future who takes up this side line of the stamps of our country must then necessarily be confined to emissions of the past, a field rich with treasure and undying interest.

NEWS BITS:—

IN the current number of the "Bulletin" published by the San Francisco Stamp Society is a highly eulogistic article describing the activities of A. F. Merell and his radio talks over KFRC. We have frequently commented on Mr. Merell's activities in this direction and his Radio Stamp Club is a great tribute to his interest in philately.

ALBERT E. GORHAM, of Washington, D. C., has shown us a large lot of first flight covers, used in the Chicago-Milwaukee service. There are numerous cancellations or postmarks of interest. One is postmarked Washington, Chicago, Milwaukee and backstamped Milwaukee; "likewise" and backstamped St. Paul; Minneapolis May 29 and June 7 and La Crosse June 7 backstamped St. Paul June 7; New York and Milwaukee and backstamped Minneapolis. Mr. Gorham enclosed two Denver covers postmarked May 31 6.30 A. M. and 5.30 P. M., which were returned for explanation of the two hour dates. If the dealer had turned the cover over he would have found one backstamped Colorado Springs 11.00 A. M. and the other backstamped Pueblo 11.30 A. M., thus making the round trip within 11 hours. Another Denver cover minus postage, Denver to Cheyenne, received two first flight cancellations of 5.30 P. M.—an oddity.

MAC BURTON sends us a clipping from the Baltimore Sun. It gives the particulars of a letter which reached Baltimore from Spitzbergen after having been carried over the North Pole by Byrd in his airplane flight.

A VERY attractive Ericsson cover has been shown us by E. J. S. Halvorsen of Salem, Mass. At the present time Salem is celebrating its 300th anniversary and Mr. Halvorsen has provided a cover in keeping with the event. A fine sketch of the famous Salem witch astride a broomstick has been painted in colors on the face of the envelope.

THE last regular meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society was held Tuesday June 15. A. F. Brewer exhibited his collection of U. S. cancellations. It will be exhibited at New York in October. Informal meetings of the club will be held as usual during July and August.

WE supplement our chronicle of Chicago-Twin Cities First Flight covers as given last week, with yet another received from Albert E. Gorham of Washington, D. C. This cover left Chicago 5.30 A. M. on June 7th and bears a Minneapolis receiving marking of 5.30 P. M. June 8th. The newspapers recorded the death of the pilot making this first trip and the 36 hours in transit is doubtless connected with this accident. A melancholy interest will be attached to this envelope in view of the circumstances.

AS previously recorded, the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, Ohio, recently held a stamp exhibition, in which the entries were limited to juniors. C. W. Fenton secured first honors on his U. S. stamps and Ben Zucker took first place in the general collection competition.

A CLIPPING from a Philadelphia paper, sent in by Benj. Cadbury, states that Federal agents have seized counterfeit revenue stamps to the value of $250,000 in a New York raid. A lithographing company on Rose St. is implicated.

WE are advised that the K. Lissiuk Philately Co. has removed its offices to 1476 Broadway, cor. 42nd St., New York City.

BELGIAN OCCUPATION OF GERMAN EAST AFRICA

By FRANCIS P. RENAUT, F.R.P.S.L.

At the outbreak of the World War the Germans of German East Africa commenced hostilities against the British territory of Uganda and Belgian Congo, though the whole basin of the Congo River was neutralised since the Treaty of Berlin (1885). They remained masters of Lake Tanganyika and crossed it, but their progress was soon checked by the Belgian forces under General Tombeur, who at the end of 1915 took the offensive and repelled the enemy. While the British forces drove back the enemy into his own colony in the Kilimajaro region, the Belgians did the same around the Tanganyika and compelled the Germans to evacuate the N. W. provinces of Ruanda and Urundi early in 1916. Kigali, the chief town, was taken in May, and the advance into Central German East Africa was pursued; all the eastern shore of the Tanganyika fell into the hands of General Tombeur (Kigoma on July 29, Ujiji on September 2, and Karema on October 9); the chief town of the interior (Tabora) was occupied on September 29, 1916. At the end of the same year the Germans were in full retreat toward the southern region, and were decisively defeated in 1917, the Mahengue base being taken in October and Colonel Tafel capitulating in November; the last German forces took refuge in the Portuguese colony of Mozambique.

On the arrival of peace the colony was not given back to Germany; the greater part of it was incorporated in the British Empire, and the northwestern region (Ruanda and Urundi provinces) came under Belgian rule under the name of Katanga.

Almost immediately after the conquest of the Ruanda and Urundi provinces a postal service was organised by the Belgian forces. General Tombeur promulgated an ordinance regulating the matter on June 11, 1916, and putting into use in these districts the stamps of Belgian Congo overprinted "RUANDA" or "URUNDI." The overprinting was done by means of handstamps bearing the name in narrow capitals with a full stop, and it was applied in black or grey-black. It falls usually at the top of the stamps covering the inscriptions "CONGO BELGE"; only one instance is known where the overprint obliterates the Flemish inscription (at the foot of a 15 centimes stamp).

All the current stamps of the 1916 issue of Belgian Congo were overprinted. The number of stamps thus overprinted is unknown, and the figures given from time to time are fanciful. It is said that a first stock of 2,500 sets was overprinted in each district, but the lower values were overprinted later on as required. They were, of course, largely used—by civilians only—the 1 franc is uncommon and the 5 francs at the time was almost unobtainable. It must be noted that sometimes stamps overprinted "URUNDI" were used in Ruanda and vice versa, as the field post offices were irregularly supplied. Kigali was the only chief post office.

As the Belgian forces gained the interior of German East Africa, occupying town after town, especially in the Tanganyika region, it occurred frequently that military postmasters used German postmarks for cancelling stamps. Such cancellations have been often mistaken for overprints, though they have this character when stamps without the "URUNDI" or "RUANDA" overprint were used, but such practice was directly contrary to the ordinance of June 11, 1916, and must be considered as unoffici Thus two handstamps were used in K goma bearing the name either in La or in Gothic letters. In Karema a sin lar handstamp in Latin letters was fou and used.

The handstamped series was consider as purely provisional. A minister arreté ordered the creation of a definiti series obtained by overprinting the cu rent set of Belgian Congo (1916 issu with the following inscriptions on fo lines:—EST AFRICAIN ALLEMAND — OCC PATION BELGE. — DUITSCH OOST AFRIKA BELGISCHE BEZETTING.—overprint in sm capitals applied in blue ink. The arre is dated September 15, 1916, and as ear as November, 1916, a first supply stamps was ready, sent to the colo and put on sale at Sainte-Adresse, t seat of the Belgian Government at th time.

This first supply—though it was print by Messrs. Waterlow — showed slig errors in some values: a large "T" "OCCUPATION" (BELGE) is known on t 15, 25, 50c and 5fr; a small "R" "AFRICAIN" on the 5c (3 stamps per she Nos. 31, 33 and 38), and a large "H" "DUITSCH" also on the 5c (one stamp p sheet: No. 27). The first variety is t only one of real interest and easily reco nised; it is really scarce and must occ on one or two stamps per sheet. On t other hand, it is very doubtful if t reported errors "OCOUPATION" or "O GUPATION" really exist, as it is mo probable, from the copies I saw, th some dirt adhered to the "C" closing giving it the appearance of a "G." A the errors were corrected in the follow ing printings.

The stamps belonging to the first prin ing can easily be identified in almost a the values, as the words were closer tha in the other printings, giving to the ove print a total length of 21¼mm again 22mm. An easy identification is th space between the words "OCCUPATION and "BELGE," being an upright rectangl in the first printing, and a perfect squar in the other ones. The 5 and 15c of th first printing are rather common, but a the other values, and especially the 5fr are scarce, as is to be seen from th figures given below:—

50c, 10,000	120,000
1fr, 10,000	170,000
5fr, 5,000	70,000

Shade varieties are not numerous.

The 10c of the first printing is known imperforate, postmarked on the 20 December, 1916.

These occupied territories received, at the same time as Belgian Congo, Red Cross stamps, obtained by overprinting the Red Cross stamps with the two capitals "A.O.", denoting "AFRIQUE ORIENTALE"; it must be pointed out that the Belgian Government declined to satisfy the Flemish element by adding the letters "O.A.", standing for "OOST AFRIKA." The overprint applied in black is always at the top in the middle. No special variety is known; only the shade varieties found in the series of Belgian Congo are to be met with, especially the 50c, with blue and dark ultramarine centre, and the 1 and 5fr with red-orange overprint.

The number of stamps issued is given below:—

5+10c, green,	250,000
10+15c, carmine,	250,000
15+20c, deep green,	200,000
25+25c, blue,	150,000
40+40c, lake-red,	150,000
50+50c, purple-lake,	100,000
1+ 1fr, olive-bistre,	50,000
5+ 5fr, orange,	15,000
10+10fr, green,	7,500

Though a very small part of German East Africa remained under Belgian control after 1919, the series issued in November, 1916, was used in Ruanda and Urundi till the beginning of 1925. But some provisional stamps appeared in 1922 to meet the change of rates and colours ordered by the U.P.U. at the Madrid Congress. The 5c was surcharged 10c, the 10c 30, and the 25c 50; two other values met the same fate, the 50c becoming 5c, and the 40c 25c. The same type of surcharge as that of the similar issue of Belgian Congo was applied, but the position of the figures was altered on the 50c (new) owing to the previous overprint, the figures being placed in the centre instead of at the top of the stamp. No variety is known.

5c on 50c, black surcharge,	10,500
10c on 5c, red surcharge,	45,000
25c on 40c, red surcharge,	38,000
30c on 10c, black surcharge	30,800
50c on 25c, red surcharge,	85,000

These surcharges were applied both in the colony and in Brussels; the overprintings can be distinguished by the ink used, a brilliant ink in Brussels, a dull one in the colony. The stock surcharged in the colony must have been rather small.

The Belgian Government took the opportunity afforded by the issue printed in 1924 by the American Banknote Co., to eliminate the last trace of the former German colony's existence. These new stamps were overprinted in black with the words "RUANDA URUNDI" in two lines, in small capitals. They were introduced in the two provinces in January, 1925.

No special Postage Due stamps were issued before 1925, when the new series printed in New York was overprinted with "RUANDA URUNDI," similarly to the postage stamps. The ordinary postage stamps from 1916 to 1924 were used as Postage Dues and cancelled with the usual postmarks, bearing the word "TAXE," or "TAXES" in a frame.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

It seems to be printed on paper that is as thin as our present day hinges are made from, tho the paper is not flat, being so wrinkled that one almost mistakes it for the texture of grill markings all over the back of the stamp. It does not show a grill distinctly, tho I believe it must have been grilled.

I have never seen mention of this thin paper; but it is a distinctly unusual paper, and no doubt other readers may have some of these stamps in their possession. They are rare.

Mr. Thacher also sends record of a 3c 1869 cover pmkd. "N. Y. & WASH. R. P. O." in black.

On a 3c '67 comes a sheep, that is, it looks rather sheepish, having four feet, a tail, and what looks like a sheep's head. Has anyone any verification of this animal? I have made a tracing of it, and you'll see it later on. The farm yard group is well along now, with dogs, cat, chicken, pig, and now a sheep. Too bad they are not arranged into a nice friendly family group.

A lot of different patriotics have come to hand; but they are most all of the commoner kind, flags, cannon, soldiers, and the loyal states group, etc., etc. It is the seldom seen designs that are wanted for recording in the Forum, and anyone having anything distinctly unusual in this patriotic division will lend us some interesting reading by sending them in.

I presume that after the International Exhibition is over, there will be so much to mention in the Forum and everyone will start a scrap book to keep records in. I have enjoyed the various clippings of odd cancels and records that have been sent in to me, and much thanks to the senders. The drawings are again accumulating, and there are so many that I'll include in our next series of twenty groups just the rarer cancellations.

THROUGH MY SPECTACLES

By E. A. JONAS.

(We reprint the following clipping as a nice piece of philatelic journalistic work. It is taken from the "Herald Post" of Louisville, Ky. We understand that Mr. Jonas is an old and experienced newspaper writer, and this article will prove of more than ordinary interest to our readers.—W. O. W.)

HIS name, as it comes back to us through veils of childish recollection, was Sir Rowland Hill . . . Others might spell that first name otherwise. . . But this ancient party wore a full beard of the Rutherford B. Hayes pattern, and so we connected him with Rowland's Macassar Oil. . . That's the way kids aid the memory . . . One thing brings up another and thus you retain both. . . .

Sir Rowland, however, was otherwise ever-to-be-remembered . . . He had been Postmaster General . . . In that capacity he had inaugurated penny postage . . . Two cents or two pennies in our reckoning . . . If it hadn't been for Sir Rowland little boys would have had to collect something else besides stamps . . . There would have been no album to stick 'em in, no exchange and barter . . . When pocket-money was flush, a highly exceptional condition, no stores on High Holborn where one might buy for a quarter or less envelopes bulging with treasures . . .

In that remote day everybody collected stamps and the habit developed to the point where it acquired a Greek name "philately," had its own bands of experts, its duly quoted market and was advanced to the status of a useful branch of comparative history . . .

Later along our private hoard sold for a hundred and odd dollars . . . It would easily top ten times that figure in this day of renewed and better-trained curiosity. . . .

THE greatest collector in the world today is George of England . . . The Prince of Wales flirted with the pastime for a season, but quickly discovered that his old man could outbid and outscience him . . . Whereupon, like the wise and dutiful lad, he is, H. R. H. withdrew . . . George began in the kindergarten stage, as we did, but with certain advantages we did not share . . . There was the Colonial Office and the Indian Office, to say nothing of the Foreign Office . . . There was the Post office itself and H. M. Stationery Bureau that did the printing . . . And then likely George had more pocket money than came our way . . . Didn't the Mint belong to Grandma? . . . Wonder did she ever, like ours, expatiate on what could be learned from a proper familiarity with the postal issues of the world . . .

The collector, to be sure, thinks only of the rarities, the specimens, the various "states," the unattainable perfection . . . He gloats over a black penny, third year of Victoria, an ultra-extraordinary find . . . He must have the triangular Cape . . . And we learn that the Cape is going back to that form which was, we believe, its single distinguishing peculiarity . . . He delights in the German stamp superimposed Helgoland . . . He dotes on the Mulready envelope, a work of art no respectable gallery can afford to be without. . . .

NOW, all these are for connoisseurs and cognoscenti and J. P. Morgans and Kings of England.

Stamp collecting, for us and for many, is something else again . . . The zest in the search, the rivalry between collectors, the individual skill and judgment . . . All these are required . . . Provide one with an enormous body of useful and accurate information . . . Nor is one likely to forget . . . Take the issues of Hanover, of Saxony, of Bavaria, of Prussia, of the Free Cities . . . How marked are their differences, how clearly set forth those symbols by which they want to be remembered . . . Hanover had a Poste-horn . . . Prussia flaunted her escutcheon supported by two barbarians . . . The free cities offered their keys . . . Or visit the British colonies . . . What stamp collector will ever fail to associate the beaver with Canada, the black swan with South Australia, the emu with Queensland, the fish—cod, presumably—with Newfoundland? . . .

AN UNCLE of ours was agent-general for the Sandwich Islands while yet they were a kingdom . . . When Kamehameha wanted to take a trip and the treasury was low, a constant condition, London was asked to provide a new layout of stamps . . . No expense was spared, more than one color was used in the printing, and collectors bid for them greedily . . . We imagine that an unbroken set would bring a tidy sum in the auction rooms . . .

How familiar one became with foreign currencies and the permutation of foreign dynasties . . . The Balkan principalities were a study in themselves . . . Switzerland, with its "rappen" and its francs, the bear of Berne and the cross of Geneva, opened up a number of vistas . . . Italy before 1870—Modena, Parma, Venice, the Papal States, Naples—what a singularly instructive confrontation . . . Russia with its kopeks, British India with annas, Egypt with piastres, China with what have you, Brazil, sometimes an empire and sometimes a republic, with milreis . . . Decidedly, if one failed to acquire a working knowledge of national exchanges and their values, it could only be excused on the score of a chauvinistic, John Bull preference for pounds, shillings and pence—not to mention ha'pence. . .

WHEN it came to art, however, one started in Paris and stayed there . . .

How graceful is the swaying figure that sows and may serve to remind one that La Belle France feeds herself . . . And not many others can do likewise . . . Not in Europe at all events . . . And how stiff and ugly were the American designs produced for memorial purposes . . . It may be that the Sesqui-centennial will do better than Columbian . . . It can afford to .

History, geography, currencies, a what other collecting can, at mode cost, achieve as much?

NOT a childish pastime by any m ner of means . . . The surpr ing thing to us is that our acqu tive youth, learned in values and nim at trade, seem to have passed it up . Once again, we learn, cigarette beaut so keenly sought after in the days Della Fox, are back among us . . We have nothing against them . . They are perhaps less interesting a ornamental than steins . . . These had imagined were gone for ever . But they may stage a come-back . Before they do we hope Philately will list some enthusiasts . . . We co give them a lift . . .

POSTAGE STAMPS OF IRELAND

(A paper—abridged from the original by Mr. J. D. Martin—read at a meeting of the Cambridge, England, Philatelic Society, in 1925; and now published in this country with the permission of the compiler, Mr. E. H. Ford.)

For convenience these may be divided into four parts, viz.:—

I. Stamps and labels issued before February, 1922.

II. British stamps with Prov. Govt. overprint.

III. British stamps with Irish Free State overprint.

IV. The permanent series of stamps.

First, then, from 1845 (not 1840) to February 17, 1922, the postage stamps of Great Britain were the official postage stamps throughout Ireland.

During this time, so-called stamps, without official status, were issued, and some types actually used, and I refer, of course, to the Sinn Fein labels.

These labels do not appear in most stamp catalogues and but scant references to them have appeared in the philatelic press.

The late President Griffith, the pioneer of the Sinn Fein movement, was instrumental in bringing into use about 1906, two so-called stamps, rich in colour and design for use as propaganda labels. These were quite unofficial and were not available for franking postal matter, though some specimens, used in conjunction with Edwardian ½d stamps, were postmarked by favour. The original printings are on toned paper and tête-bêche pairs of the harp and greyhound type are known to exist.

A third and larger type of label, depicting a female figure playing a harp, is believed to have appeared during the 1916 rebellion. This is not certain, however. These labels, at any rate, are perf. 11, ungummed and are not known postmarked.

During the same rebellion the Celtic cross design reappeared for postal use.

I should perhaps include in category 1—the rebel stamps prepared for issue in July, 1922.

Much detailed history surrounds these "stamps". Suffice it to say that due to a shortage of stamps in the South of Ireland in July, 1922, the I.R.A. (i.e., the Irish Republican Army) ordered a supply of stamps from a Cork firm and they intended that such stamps should bear a portrait of one of their leaders, but the Cork printing firm were apparently unable to manage this and so they were printed in the design as issued. Three values were prepared, viz., 1d, 2d, and 6d, all of the same design.

These "stamps" were never issued, as the Free State Troops won the day and the I.R.A. left Cork, having set fire to their headquarters, where the stock of stamps was. But a small quantity is believed to have gone to West Cork and specimens were given to I.R.A. friends, and so I believe there are in existence now some 1,500 copies altogether—the 6d being by far the commoner.

As the Irish Republican Army were the only authority in power at the time, these stamps will, I suppose, have the status of a series of stamps prepared for use, but not issued, and they certainly have a better claim to be recognized as stamps than the labels of 1906 and 1916, which, after all, were propaganda labels.

All values were printed on wove paper and exist both imperf. and perf. 11, but the 6d was also printed on laid paper, perf. 11 only and ungummed.

Second.—British Stamps With Provisional Government Overprint.

The Government of Ireland Act of 1920 resulted, as we have seen, in the formation of a Provisional Government, which, realizing that some months must elapse before a permanent series of stamps could be issued, decided to use temporarily, British stamps, and to have them overprinted.

Essays for a suggested overprint were submitted to the authorities by the Dollard Printing House, Ltd., of Wellington Quay, and Essex Street, Dublin. This firm, by the way, was not new to stamp printing, having carried out this class of work for other governments, including, I believe, Chile.

The proofs were on ordinary white paper, some in red, and some in black, ink.

The work of overprinting was entrusted to this firm for 11 values (½d, 1d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 9d, 10d, 2s6d, 5sh, 10sh) and to Messrs. Alex. Thom and Co., Ltd., of Crow Street, Dublin, for four values (1½, 2, 6d and 1sh).

British stamps, amounting in face value to over £200,000 were sent by the G.P.O., London, to Dublin on February 9, 1922, and, eight days later, were placed on sale in the Post Offices; it should be mentioned here perhaps that un-overprinted stamps were available for postage for a further six weeks.

The overprint was in Gaelic characters and meant "Provisional Government of Ireland 1922", or more literally "Transitory Government of Ireland 1922". The Dollard date was in antique numerals and the Thom date in block numerals, with a full stop, and these are the char-

HIDDEN TREASURE

We have just purchased an immense accumulation of early U. S. from Germany, all before 1890, nearly half a million stamps, most if not all absolutely unpicked, some on pieces of paper, others off paper. We have not got the time to sort these over and offer them in lots herewith:

1c 1870-1882, a fine mixture, all issues well represented, many of the 1879 cat. at 10c and earlier ones, per 1,000—$7.00; 10,000 for $60.00
3c Green 1870-1882, a very fine lot to sort over carefully, $3.65 per 1,000; 10,000 for.. 32.50
10c Brown 1870-1882. This lot does not look so attractive and may have been gone over in years gone by, 100 for $2.00; 1,000 for 18.00
2c Vermilion 1875-79, a high proportion of the hard paper cat. 10c each, useful lot, $6.00 per 1,000; 10,000 for 50.00
2c Claret 1883, an undoubted unpicked lot, 1,000 for $3.00; 10,000 for $26.00; 60,000 for $150.00. Also another lot that does not look so good at $2.00 for 1,000; 10,000 17.50
2c Green, an undoubted unpicked lot of 70,000 for 95.00
1c Blue 1887, another Virgin lot of 20,000 for 50.00
5c Brown 1882, per 100 ..... 3.50
5c Blue 1888, per 100—$5.50; per 1,000 ..... 45.00

We rarely get these big unpicked lots nowadays and consider the above offers of great interest to collectors interested in U. S. Cancellations, shades and minor varieties.

ALL PRICES CANCELLED

Pursuant to the terms set forth on the front inside cover page of my 1926 price list, all prices quoted in that list are cancelled as of July 1st. The reason for this will be apparent when one considers that I issue my list each fall and that nine months see price changes in any line of business.

However, a large percentage of the prices will continue good until my 1927 list is ready in October.

Just order from the list as formerly, but include a supplemental list of from 50 to 75 per cent. of the total amount of your order. That will give me the opportunity of selecting stamps the prices of which have not been changed.

SAMPLE SHEET FROM SET OF AIR MAIL ROUTES ISSUED BY FRANCIS FIELD

acteristic differences in the type used by the two firms.

The Dollard overprint measures 15x16 mm while that of Thom was 14½x15 mm, both being initially in black ink on all values. The Dollard overprint on high values measures 21½x12 mm and is also in black ink.

Here I would like to refer to the great credit which is due to these firms for the thoroughness of their work in such a short time. Out of nearly 50,000 sheets in Dollard's first printing there were less than 30 sheets rejected by the supervisors. Nevertheless, errors did occur to which I will refer later.

Some of the examples of the Dollard 9d used have a very faint overprint. This faintness of impression occurred on most values and has been attributed to faulty inking or feeding on the machines, but I think can be more rightly attributed to the use of a separate kind of ink. Intermediate printings fall in this category while in late printings the overprint is a heavy dead black.

Passing now to March, 1922. Complaints regarding the difficulty of distinguishing the overprint on some values due to the colours of stamps—as witness in particular the faint 9d overprint I have just referred to—led to orders being given to Messrs. Dollard to submit proof overprints in red and such were duly submitted for ½, 2½, 4 and 9d values. The ½d was rejected and the red overprint on the last three values was approved and these appeared on April 1st.

Later printings of these three values were in carmine instead of red, but this is very difficult to distinguish except on the 4d, and even this is not easy by artificial light.

In June, 1922, overprinted stamps in roll form appeared. As no Irish firm had suitable machinery for overprinting stamps in roll form, the work was entrusted to Messrs. Harrison of London, who overprinted about 3500 rolls of the ½d, 1d, 1½d, and 2d, values with the Thom type of overprint, but having the "R" in Rialtas over the "Se" in Sealadach and a measurement of 16½x15 mm, and these two features are the chief distinguishing characteristics of this issue, others being the brighter black ink and the bolder type. The 2d Die II did not, I should add, appear until late in 1922, Die I only being issued in June. All values were found in horizontal and vertical rolls, and in all 4556 rolls were overprinted, including only 118 of the 1½d.

An outbreak of mutiny occurred in the Republican forces in the summer of 1922. It was during the Civil War following this mutiny that the famous battle of the Four Courts took place, in July, and during this battle Messrs. Dollard's works were destroyed, and Messrs. Thom took on, at once, the overprinting of all values.

It might be of interest to say here that Messrs. Dollard, between February and July, overprinted a total of roughly 179,000 sheets of stamps or about 42,500,000 stamps.

During the battle the 3d value was overprinted by Thom in black and during the ensuing three or four weeks the ½d, 1d, 5d and 10d values also appeared overprinted by Thom in black. I draw special attention to this quite scarce little series of five values, the ½d of which is catalogued at 10s6d, but the 5d is not priced. I seized upon the pair at a stall at the London Exhibition for 10s. I am informed that this series arose from some Thom proof sheets being later put into circulation.

I pass now to the well-known Thom blue-black overprint issued at various dates between July and August, 1922.

The overprint is as type described for the first Thom blacks. The issue calls for only two special comments, first, that the ink was changed in colour from black to blue-black, this is best seen by allowing the light to shine on the stamps; secondly, this issue includes both colours of the 9d, agate and sage green, with of course red overprint. The 9d sage green is rather scarce, as it had a life of only seven weeks and the number overprinted was quite limited. The point of special interest regarding the high values is that they were the only values overprinted by Thom in the Dollard "type" i.e., with antique numerals. The difference between the two types is that Thom had a narrower space between the h and e of "heireann" than Dollard.

The issue of a totally new overprint was now (Nov., 1922), in the wind, and preparations so far advanced that the plates for the overprints we have so far been discussing were destroyed, when a sudden shortage arose in five values, the ½, 1, 1½, 2d and 1sh. This shortage necessitated a hurried and limited printing of these values from the master plate. The overprint measures 16x15½ mm. This measurement is the characteristic of this series and gave rise to the name "Wides" by which the issue is known.

This issue is very free from errors and varieties, due to printing from the master plate. In fact there are no errors, and the only variety of any constancy is a broken figure 2 in the date. There was a printing of the ½ "wide" with black ink instead of blue-black and this is quite a scarce item also.

"Small Town Stuff"
is a common expression these days. I admit I am doing business in a small town, but not in a "small town" way.
If you will look my number up in A.P.S., you will see I am one of early members. No. 831 was allotted to me in 1894, this proves I am not a novice in the stamp game.
I confined my time and attention to good old U. S., Conf. and B. N. A., investing money in large sums about 8 years ago, when these fine things were being offered, so now I have the goods in this line, to the tune of $40,000 to $50,000 worth. If you are a business man and have $25 to $5000 to spend on the right class of stamps to invest in, I will do my best to serve you.

For MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

CONGRESS OF BOLIVAR, 1826-1926

By HARRY E. HUBER.

In a letter dated December 7, 1824, Simon Bolivar, the South American Liberator, invited the American Republics to send plenipotentiaries to a Congress to be held in Panama for the purpose of forming a confederation "that should act as a council of appeal in times of conflict and common danger and which, moreover, would be a faithful interpreter of public treaties when difficulties should arise, and, in short, a conciliator in all our differences."

As the scene of the famous Congress, which assembled June 22, 1826, the National Assembly of Panama, by Law 5 of 1925, authorized the Executive to invite the Republics of the New World to join with her in a congress commemorative of that first centenary which was the "genesis of all later Pan-American conferences held in various countries with the object of achieving a closer Inter-American understanding."

The Commemorative Congress will be in session in the City of Panama from June 18 to 25, 1926, and one of the subjects to be deliberated upon is that of organization of the future Bolivarian Pan-American University. The Third Pan-American Scientific Congress held in Lima in 1924, recommended that there be established and organized in Panama a Pan-American University as a means of joining together all the countries of the continent. Law 5 of 1925 ordaining the holding of this Commemorative Congress, gave the President of Panama authority to proceed in accord with the other Pan-American nations, to establish such a University in Panama.

Commemorative of the First Centenary of the Congress of Bolivar, and in aid of the proposed Pan-American University, a special series of stamps has been authorized by Executive Decree No. 89 of June 1, 1926, to be placed in circulation on June 10, 1926, and to remain on sale for 60 days. The series is to comprise twelve denominations, ½c to 50c de balboa inclusive (a total of 1,715,000 stamps), in three designs, viz., Bust of Bolivar (½c to 5c), Monument to Bolivar (8c to 20c), and the Sala del Congreso de Bolivar (24c and 50c).

When Bolivar's Congress was convened in 1826, Panama had only four years previously achieved her independence from Spain (November, 1821), whereupon the two Isthmian provinces of Panama and Veraguas joined the Colombian Confederation as the Department of the Isthmus, and continued as a part of it until the revolution of November 3, 1903.

Few countries start out on a national career with a Treasury so well supplied with funds as Panama, for within four months of its separation from Colombia, a treaty with the U. S. A. was and ratified (Feb. 26, 1904), by wh latter acquired the right to const Canal across the Isthmus, and a st land ten miles wide, five miles on side of the Canal route, but excludi cities of Panama and Colon, exc matters pertaining to sanitation quarantine. For this Panama re ten million dollars and an annual pa of $250,000 after nine years.

But this fact was not at once apparent in the stamp issues, and the latter part of 1906 the stamps Colombian regime, and picturing of the Department, continued in us "Colombia" at the top barred out "Panama" overprinted at the sides. these would have lasted much long it not been for the hundreds of thou overprinted for use in the Canal subsequent to December 12, 1904, the Taft agreement became effectiv

It had at first been proposed to the new issue of stamps (600,000 through private channels, the succ bidder receiving in payment a c number of sheets of canceled st An Order to this effect was issu the Secretary of Government & J (Eusebio A. Morales) on Januar 1904 (a more detailed decree fol on February 18, 1904), but was co manded by a further decree of Ma 1904.

In August, 1904, three labels for s uses, i.e., 10c Registration, 5c Ack edgment of Receipt, and 2½c Re engraved and printed by the Am Bank Note Co., made appearance, a the following February (1905), 1c 2c postage stamps, in the so-called manent type (Map design of the C bian series adapted to a new fram scribed "Republica de Panama", an date of separation from Colombia Noviembre de 1903"). The 1c ar postage stamps (the greater pa which were overprinted "Canal Z exhausted at the end of 1905, when charging was resorted to on su stocks of the 20c, 50c, and 1 peso C bian design stamps, to provide 1c, 2 5c stamps, respectively.

Towards the end of 1906 (Noven a complete new series of pictorial st line engraved and recess printed b Hamilton Bank Note Co. of New was brought into use, comprising nominations, ½c to 50c; of these the 1c, 2c, 5c, 8c and 10c were overpr for Canal Zone use.

In 1909 a new series appeared (1 2½c, 5c, 8c and 10c) produced by American Bank Note Co., with the subjects but in improved designs. was added in 1911 in the so-called manent map design of 1905.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
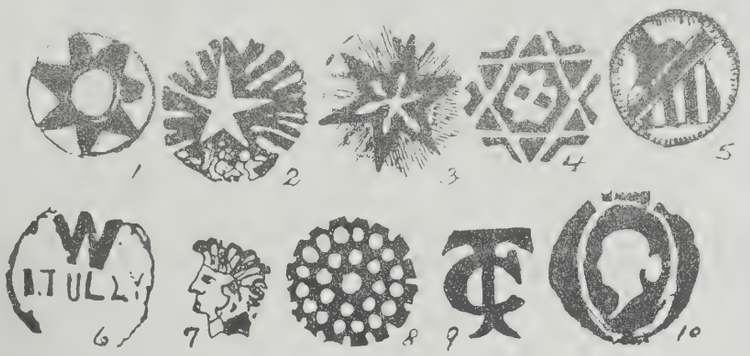
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

No. 1. Seven-pointed star, or is it meant for a flower? It is on a 2c 1894 and was sent by Ralph A. Beny. No. 2. An elaborate star on 3c green owned by Samuel Bennett. Nos. 3 and 4 were sent by K. N. Woodward. No. 3 is in purple and on a 3c green, is about as gorgeous a cancellation as one could imagine. No. 4 is also on a 3c green and is the only example of a star of this type (design in the center) that has come to my attention. No. 5 is on a piece of a cover bearing a 2c red brown 1883, postmarked Far Rockaway, Queens Co., N. Y., in blue. It is not a rare cancellation in black and was used in several towns, but in blue it is decidedly unusual and attractive. M. N. Stone sent it with a number of other nice items, among them being a pair of the same stamp canceled by this shield in black from South Woodbury, Vermont, and a single also canceled by this shield from Utaliville, Pennsylvania, in black. Dwaarskill, N. Y., also used this shield, and it is known on several other stamps.



Nos. 6, 7, 8 are also the property of Mr. Stone. Fortunately they are all on covers. No. 6 ties the stamp. The postmark is Logans & Keokuk R. P. O. No. 7 was used at Head Tide, Maine, and both postmark and cancellation are in purple. No. 8, in black was used at Troutville, Pa. The stamps are all 2c red-brown. No. 9 is another of Mr. Bennett's offerings. It is on a 3c Post Office Department stamp. No. 10 is a real gem—a cameo. It was sent by Arthur Bledsor, and is in black on a 2c green 1887. Unfortunately it is not on a cover. Reminds one of the portraits of Queen Victoria on so many of the British and Colonial stamps. Its history would be most interesting.

Mr. Stone, whose covers and cancellations are noted above, sent some other nice items. He confesses to a liking for odd things in later day covers and from the descriptions he sends can't be blamed for liking them. Visualize what follows, and hope you'll be able to gather in some like them.

A cover with a 2c red-brown 1883 stamp postmarked Baltimore, Md., Mar. 8, 1886, and addressed to Norwood Nelson Co., Va. The postmark "Norwood, Mar. 81," is also present. Of course the postmaster got the cart before the horse when he set up his date and it should be 18. "DUE 2" is handstamped on the cover, and two 1c Postage Due stamps are present. And on the lower left side is the word, "STEAMBOAT" in large letters which strikes me as being extremely unusual at that late date. I'd be pleased to have some one tell me why it's there and over what route that letter traveled, for Nelson County is in the west central part of the state, just east of the Blue Ridge Mountains which mark its western boundary, and while the James River flows along its southern border, steamboats don't traverse that stream above Richmond.

Then there was a large cover with a 12c Mexican stamp tied by a large oval mark of "Express Wells Fargo y Cia, Eue 11, 1887 Guayamas, Mexo." This is repeated at the lower left. It is addressed to New York. At the center of the top is a pair of 2c redbrown 1883 canceled by a smudge. At the upper left is "Express Wells Fargo y Cia. Franco en la Republica Mexicana y portadas las lineas de la Compania" and below this handstamped in one line in red "Para cartas 1oz á los Estados Unidos exclusi varnente." The last two words are not clearly impressed and some of the letters may be wrong, as I have no Spanish.

A cover with a 3c green 1871 from St. Louis, Mo., canceled with a face representing a smiling son surrounded by rays. Mr. Atherton is going to show this to you one of these days.

A stamped envelope, 3c green with "Prov. & Wor. R. R." in red.

A 3c Continental with blue oval "M. & E. R. R. PIKE ROAD May 13 1878."

A cover similarly canceled bearing two 3c green and a 2c brown addressed to Spain.

A vertical strip of four 3c green on a cover to Spain.

Why was the postage on one of these 8c and on the other 12c? It should have been 12c on each one.

A pair of 3c green tied by a red Vienna, Ill., May 9, 1881, postmark. The back is covered by a block of eighteen 5c Postage Due stamps and a 3c P. Due. "It would have made a wonderful cover fully paid and canceled in red," Mr. Stone remarks, and no doubt everyone will agree.

A cover with a pair of 3c vermilion and a single 4c carmine from New York to London, June 12, 1889, with the London receiving mark, and each stamp tied by a supplementary Mail cancellation! Add these to your list. The specialized catalogue don't specialize this far—yet.

A 90c 1890 with a 10c to Germany, June 12, 1893, tied twice with Supplementary Mail cancellation! Why didn't they use a dollar Colombian?

Another nearly complete cover with a horizontal strip of three 90c 1890 and in addition a 15c and a 30c of the same issue dated Oct. 4, 1890. Pretty early date. Some pretty nice items in that list. May be not as popular as some of the "classics," but certainly as interesting as some of them, and deserving of a place in any collection of U. S.

Palestine and Trans-Jordan
A Great Collection

I have for sale on behalf of a client the finest Specialised Collection of these two Countries in existence.

It is mounted in 16 "Aldwych" loose-leaf Albums and contains about 22,000 mint and used Specimens, including singles, pairs, blocks and full sheets, and is written up, and illustrated by over 1700 drawings of Transfer, Plate, and Overprint varietes.

The actual stamps displaying these varieties are shown both in situ and in detail, the owner having worked on the plan of proving beyond question the constancy of them throughout the various printings.

A detailed catalogue of the collection will be sent to any Philatelist seriously contemplating a purchase, and every facility given for prolonged examination either personally or by Agent.

The Price is $12,500.00

I have no hesitation in saying that although of only modern production, no stamp being issued before Feby. 1918, the issues of these two Countries offer a finer field for study and specialism than those of any other country in the whole world.

EDITORIAL

The Canadian post office department has a set of commemorative stamps in the course of preparation that will depict incidents in Canadian history; and in this connection, through the courtesy of Mr. Wm. Butler, Toronto, Canada, we are enabled to quote from a letter that he has received from Mr. Glover, the financial secretary of the post office of Canada: "I have to say that no definite date has yet been fixed for the issue of these stamps to the public. As regards precancellation, I may say that the question has not been considered, but it is not likely that these stamps will be precanceled as they will never be used in large numbers and there is always a risk in issuing pre-canceled stamps of the larger denominations." In addition, we find the following statement by Mr. Glover on the subject of the Toronto-Winnipeg air mail, a service that has been proposed, according to press notices: "At present, there is no intention of establishing a Toronto-Winnipeg Air Service under Departmental control. If such a service is established, it will be a private enterprise and the question of using it for mail service will have to be considered later."

The itinerary of Mr. F. Hugh Val-lancey, proprietor of Stamp Collecting, our alert and admirable weekly contemporary of London, discloses that he will arrive in Montreal on August 6, 1926, and then proceed west through Canada to Vancouver. From there he goes to Los Angeles, via Tacoma, Portland and San Francisco, after which he works eastward to New York by way of Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo. Mr. Vallancey says: "I have received invitations from practically every city en route and I am bringing with me my slides of Great Britain and if by chance, you or your local society care to arrange a meeting and would supply a lantern, I should be pleased to give a talk." Mr. Vallancey shows a neighborly disposition in thus offering entertainment to his friends and we know that his many readers on this side will welcome him warmly. Mrs. Vallancey will accompany Mr. Vallancey on his extensive trip, which will have its climax in New York at the Exhibition, where he will remain two weeks.

Several letters have come debating the propriety of exalting the very minor variety into a position of importance in our paper; and if we were inclined to exaggerate the number of these protests, we could say that there were signs that a drive against minor varieties was in the offing. For instance, "Stampsane" gives voice to these words: "I note with alarm that somebody has just discovered the freckle on Nathan Hale's nose or was it his cheek? No doubt, cosmeticians were scarce in those days or perhaps poor Nate did not have the price of a bottle of freckle eradicator. I wonder that someone has not sighted the wart behind Christopher Columbus' ear on the one-cent Columbian. This is the stuff that makes the average person think that all stamp collectors are somewhat 'nutty.' I am a collector of twenty years' standing, but do not collect the wart or freckle variety. There are plenty of bona fide varieties to collect without resorting to such insignificant accidents of the engraver." We do admit that it is not logical to elevate the minor variety above the stamp itself, but there is a quirk in many minds that inclines their owners to look upon these small things as most desirable. It is true that the outsider is puzzled by the mental processes by which enthusiasm is aroused by differences that to him are vague and pointless. However, minor varieties have a value in the way of research and sometimes afford a clue for discoveries of moment; and the students of this class have a number of such instances to their credit. There are so many cross-currents in collecting today that it is inadvisable to try to stem any of them that has the sanction of custom or is based upon a sound idea, such as study. Finally, collectors will collect just what they like, without asking our permission!

Our attention has been called to the necessity of speaking on the question of stamp credits as applying to the interchange of business between the dealers of Europe and this country. Some years ago, when we were president of the American Stamp Dealers' Association, the number of complaints that were received from foreign dealers made an unpleasant impression; and while some of the unsatisfactory relations were a consequence of a misunderstanding due to a difference in business methods, others were a result of an unwise extension of credit. As for controversies, arising from view-points that were in opposition, they sometimes could be whipped into adjustments that were fair, even if they were in the nature of compromises, but the evils hinging on promiscuous credit were serious. Dealers in Europe should give very careful scrutiny to references before credit is offered. If they are to avoid unsatisfactory experiences, the preliminary period of getting acquainted should be undergone, in the stamp as in other businesses that are founded on trust and good intentions. Those who seek far-flung trade should exercise the utmost caution in pursuing it and the reliability of customers should be established before stamps are entrusted to them. A further consideration is that the trade-seekers should have the permission of the dealer to send his goods; and some time ago, there were all too many foreign dealers who sent their wares unsolicited to collectors and others in this country.

Mr. Joseph Steinmetz of Philadelphia embodies sentiment in his stamps, as is known particularly to those who have seen his holdings, among which are the famous covers, each with a story to tell. Our resourceful friend is now working on an idea that is almost romantic and will be met with sympathetic approval. We learn that he intends "making a memory section to the great stamp collectors of the world in the form of securing from their estates, at the time of sale of their collections, privately or at auction,"—a sheet or two of the original pages. Particularly when there is a mark of identification, such as some little clipping or note does Mr. Steinmetz want to be remembered. The monetary value of the pages is to be small and in time, the memory pages will be bound and the memory of the departed collector will be subscribed to. He has about twenty-five of these memorials that have been secured in this country and he is extending his idea to include collectors abroad. Mr. Steinmetz hopes to have, say, one hundred pages in tribute to the collectors who have passed away.

From Mr. Arthur W. Line, Dunkirk, New York, a suggestion has been received that is passed along in the hope that it will meet favorable attention at Washington, as his proposal seems reasonable on its face. In view of the fact that collectors are very liberal patrons of the Stamp Agency at Washington, they deserve to have the stamps that are on the letters that they receive from the nation's stamp shop canceled in an acceptable manner, philatelically speaking. In order to secure this favor, he reque that a special cancellation be used, e ploying "Philatelic Agency, Washingto with year date, in a distinctive desi It may be added that it would be des able to have the day and month incorp ated in the marking for reasons t appeal to the collector. Such a postma would nicely link the special functi of the Agency with collectors, in addit to providing an effective obliteration.

ON THE SIDE

The death of Virgil M. Brand, Chicago, on June 22, 1926, at the age of 64 ears, removes a collector of many years anding; and while Mr. Brand was most mous as a coin enthusiast, he was interested in stamps. He founded the hicago Numismatic Society and his collection of coins, especially in specialized ies, was known all over the world. In e late nineties, Mr. Brand was freiently seen in Chicago stamp circles, but tterly, Mr. Brand may have been said have lived in semi-seclusion, a condion that allowed him to give much time his collection.

Mr. Arthur W. Line, Dunkirk, New ork, writes: "There seems to be much nfusion and lack of uniformity in namg coils. Some cataloguers and ads are ard to understand. It seems to me that orizontal' and 'vertical' are the two best rms. The Philatelic Agency lost an pportunity when it designated coils as idewise' and 'endwise.' We know where e perforations are on a coil if we are ld the make-up. Some dealers and catlogues talk about the position of the rforating instead of that of the stamps."

The specialist is helped by this clipping eceived from Mr. Henri I. Baer, East illingly, Conn.: "An Austrian scientist as developed a form of glass for specacles used by dyers and textile experts enable them to determine the true ades of delicate colors regardless of rrounding light."

The Swedish government will send a stal exhibit for the Stamp Exhibition rough the good offices of Mr. Hans agerloef, a member of the New York ollectors Club. The Postal Museum Sweden is looked after by the Friends the Postal Museum, grouped together, ather than by the government itself. Mr. Lagerloef is an Honorary Vicesident of the Friends, as is the Crown rince of Sweden—and they alone are id to have this distinction.

Mr. Ruel W. Smith, Auburn, Maine, ends us a half-page from the Lewiston aily Sun, June 2nd, occupied by over ree columns devoted to a stirring acount of the historical and other suggesons based on the collection of Mr. aniel H. Day, "who has collected for many years, he has lost the record." The Lure of Philately" is the heading nd all in all, the interview is one of ne best that has ever had place in print. ewiston's enterprising band of philatelists and their king-pin, Mr. Day, score heavily as instigating this readable publicity.

The Newark Evening News of June 15, 1926, comes out in a burst of philatelic glory in its "Just for Boys" column. Illustrations and helpful stamp information make a thing of interest and we congratulate the editor-in-chief of the department and trust that he will give us further anniversary celebrations.

Then comes California as the movie title would have it, with a clipping, via Mr. J. H. Brackett, Berkeley, from the Oakland Tribune, telling of the desire of the Boys' Stamp Club of Oakland, California, numbering forty members, that has outgrown its quarters in the Oakland Free Library, to engage larger quarters. The club was formed some weeks ago "at the suggestion of a Boy Scout troop leader."

The June 17th meeting of the American Philatelic Society Convention Committee was held at the Collectors Club, New York, and attended by most of the members in the metropolitan area, who had been appointed to aid the main convention committee. As chairman of the Hotel Committee, Mr. Joseph Hoffman reported that the Waldorf-Astoria had set aside all sorts of rooms and wished to know how many were to engage rooms. Elliott Perry reported; and likewise, Messrs. A. E. Pade, Geo. Reichelt, Chas. Curie, N. R. Hoover, Major Camp, Harry M. Konwiser, Baldwin Schlesinger, Harry Lindquist and that important functionary, the bursar, Harry M. Lewy. We learn that the convention souvenir program will be produced by Mr. Lindquist and it is needless to say that it will be a work of art; and who but our old friend, "M. T. Dome" or Mr. R. L. Hustis of Milwaukee, will design the badge! This is great and glorious news; and to top it all, our correspondent de luxe, Will Wedge says: "Dr. J. Brace Chittenden, as chairman of the Convention Committee, outlined the prospective program and it does appear as if every A.P.S. member who attends this convention will have a wonderful time." It soon will be time to start packing up in order to see the curtain rise on this show of shows.

The annual outing of the New England Philatelic Association and American Envelope Society, Consolidated, we say without an abbreviation, held June 19th, at Nantasket, should have been a joyful occasion, as no doubt it was.

Perhaps, here we have an example of cause and effect. The facile writer, Mr. Clifton L. Chalfant, is on the staff of the Warsaw, Ind., Daily Times and in a recent issue of that commendable newspaper, we find the leading editorial, headed, "A Good Move" and followed by the text:—

"Within the past few years the United States government has adopted a plan which does much towards refreshing the memory of Americans in the history and traditions of their government. That is the issuing of special postage stamps in honor of certain events in our history.

In 1925 the Lexington-Concord issue of three stamps, the one, two and five cent, and the two and five cent Norse-Americans were used to commemorate the anniversary of the Battles of Lexington and Concord in the American Revolution and the Norse-American issue, a two and five cent stamp to commemorate the emigration of the first Norwegians to America in 1825.

This year 1926, starts out with two special postage stamps. The two cent 'Liberty Bell' which is in recognition of the Sesquicentennial exposition now being held at Philadelphia, the cradle of American liberty. The other is a five cent postage stamp in honor of John Ericsson, inventor of the Monitor, which saved the federal fleet during the Civil War, when Confederate ironclads nearly wrecked the federal fleet. Instead of the monument a picture of the 'cheese box on a raft,' as this new ship was called because of its construction of an iron-clad revolving gun turret on a flat boat would, we believe, have been better appreciated by the citizenship than the picture of the monument to the inventor.

The cost to the government is nothing as the expense of making the plates for stamps is offset by the revenue obtained from stamp collectors who desire all new issues. The fact that these stamps are of a low denomination put them in the reach of all, so there is no chance of 'speculation.' With the low valued stamps issued at frequent intervals, which come into the hands of all the people, it keeps the people alive to the best traditions of American history and sacrifice.

A number of the important scenes of the Civil war would not be amiss on a new set of stamps. The surrender of Lee at Appomattox, Pickett's charge at Gettysburg and a number of other events might well be put on another set of stamps as well as some of the accomplishments in science, and thousands of other notables."

THE TOUR OF THE MAGIC CARPET

The most WONDERFUL LITTLE SUMMER EXCURSION in this good year of 1926 has been run off by LIEUT. BYRD from KING'S BAY to a certain MUCH SOUGHT AFTER SPOT in the frozen north. BUT HE DIDN'T TAKE THE REST OF US, so we really must have a TRIP OF OUR OWN. UNROLL THE "MAGIC CARPET" and without leaving our most comfortable chair, we are off OVER MANY LANDS, MANY SEAS, MANY SCENES, MANY PEOPLES. King and president, symbols of power and signs of progress, stately buildings and famous views, old lands and new sights,—they come before with ever-changing interest as the "MAGIC CARPET" FLIES ON. We peep into MANY LANDS, tiny colony, proud little state, far-off the tourist route,—Learning STRANGE LORE, and bringing home VALUE AND PROFIT. IT IS A TRULY WONDERFUL TOUR.

MAGIC CARPET 300 all different foreign stamps, mint and used, 20th century, sets, new issues So. American, & European, high values, Commemoratives, splendid variety, and just a little better than ever before. 1.02

THE TOUR OF THE "MAGIC CARPET" WAS SO SATISFACTORY that we decided to take with us on our vacation a "Mas Cot"—and found it, too, was just one good, big, honest-to-goodness PACKET OF SATISFACTION, A REAL PACKET for REAL COLLECTORS.

MAS COT 300 all different foreign stamps, mint and used, similar to "MAGIC CARPET" but absolutely non-duplicating it, and having a fine British Colonial flavor. The two packets are a LOT OF FUN. 1.02

SHANGHAI ON U. S.

Two stamps that are missing from many collections are the two varieties of Shanghai locally overprinted under authority of the U. S. Post Office located in that city. There are only two values, namely, the 2c and 4c, Scott's ₴3298 and 3299. They have never been over plentiful and catalog $1.50 each or $3.00 for the pair. While the greater portion of the lot were badly centered, I have been fortunate in acquiring some few in exceptionally nice condition, which I offer at $1.50 a set, with pairs or blocks on the same basis.

Washington Notes

The Department has decided to open in connection with the model post office at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition a branch of the Philatelic Agency, where collectors visiting the exhibition may purchase the current series and other varieties now in the hands of the Department. Arrangements are being made to open this Agency as soon as practicable.

In addition, the 2c Sesqui-Centennial stamp will be printed on the ground. As they will not be prepared to set up the Bureau power press used in Washington for printing these stamps, they will make up smaller plates and print them on the hand press. As arrangements will not be made for gumming and perforating on the ground, these stamps after being printed will be returned to Washington for finishing and then in turn sent back to Philadelphia, where they will be sold. It is expected that a notation in the margin of these plates will state that they were printed at the Sesqui-Centennial grounds. Outside of the Exposition, they will only be sold through the Philatelic Agency at Washington, where collectors may obtain them.

It is also contemplated that like the Centennial of 1876, the envelopes will be manufactured so that one may see their envelopes made with the proper embossed stamp and send their letter out while the envelope is new from the press. There is hardly sufficient time to engrave a new envelope die, but it is quite likely that one of the current dies will be used with some slight addition to the stamp to indicate its special printing.

The Post Office Department is anxious to show the citizens of the country how stamps and envelopes are made, for few have seen the actual stamps printed and even a less number have seen our official envelopes produced.

1879, 2c Vermilion

Mr. William West has shown me a very unusual stamp, namely, a used copy of the 1879—2c vermilion—a distinct double print. This is not a shift, but the stamp undoubtedly went through the press a second time. It is surprising that the variety had not been discovered heretofore.

1916 Coil, Plate Variety

Mr. Howard C. Buttermore submits for inspection a horizontal pair of the 1916 to 1917 2c carmine sidewise coil, Scott's No. 491, wherein one stamp shows three very distinct diagonal lines immediately under the lock of hair in front of the ear of Washington. These lines are sharp and distinct and if the normal stamp was not attached, I would be led to believe that it was a transfer roll variety. It is my impression that a slight defect in the plate at this point was corrected in this manner. Of course, it is impossible to state as to what plate upon which the variety is located, but it is most interesting and is well worth looking for.

Air Mail Notes

We recently called attention in this column to the fact that the Postmaster General had been authorized to contract for the carrying of mail by air on a weight basis. The following order No. 4356 dated June 16th is an amendment to the postal laws and regulations:

"Par. 3, Section 1330, Postal Laws and Regulations, is amended to read as follows:

3. That the Postmaster General is authorized to contract with any individual, firm, or corporation for the transportation of air mail by aircraft between such points as he may designate, and to further contract for the transportation by aircraft of first-class mail other t air mail at fixed rates per pound, cluding equipment, under such ra rules, and regulations as he may scribe, not exceeding $3 per pound air mail for the first 1,000 miles and to exceed 30 cents per pound additi for each additional one hundred m or fractional part thereof for routes excess of 1,000 miles in length, and exceeding 60 cents per pound for fi class mail other than air mail for first 1,000 miles, and not to excee cents per pound additional for each a tional 100 miles or fractional part the for routes in excess of 1,000 miles length. Existing contracts may amended by written consent of the c tractor and the Postmaster General provide for a fixed rate per pound, cluding equipment, said rate to be de mined by multiplying the rate her above provided by a fraction, the num ator of which is the per cent of reven derived from air mail to which the c tractor was previously entitled under contract, and the denominator of wh is 80."

Canal Zone

Mr. R. S. Carter in writing from Zone states that he is informed that 2c Sesqui-Centennial variety overprin "Canal Zone" will be placed on sale the Zone very shortly. Three hund thousand we are told are to be ov printed.

His letter is posted from Panama w the postage paid by means of a new stamp, which on first appearance sembles closely the issue of Venezu with portrait of Bolivar. Mr. Car writes that this stamp was placed on s in Panama on June 11th and is one o new series issued by the Republic Panama, commemorative of the Brazil Congress, which starts its sessions week of June 14th. The variety seen in orange with portrait of Bolivar in center, Republica de Panama across top, with value in both figures and wo at the bottom. Below the portrait, find the dates 1826-1926, "Congreso Bolivar." The stamps are the product Waterlow & Sons of London.

GREECE.—One value only of the proected series commemorating the Missonghi Centenary has now appeared, an exmple coming from our Special Correspondent, Mr. P. J. Drossos, as we go o press. It is the 25 lepta, with a symolical figure of Victory lamenting over he tomb of the fallen heroes. This is for inland and foreign postage. We understand the 1 and 2dr stamps were so adly printed that they are not considered it for use. Printed and rouletted by Aspiotis Bros., Corfu: 25l purple.—Stamp Collecting.

MONACO.—Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts have sent us copies of the 1fr 25c, Crown Prince type, in blue. Whitfield King & Co. also advise of the appearance of the 75c carmine on cream, in the same design.

NEW ZEALAND.—Messrs. J. H. Smyth, Ltd., have been informed by a New Zealand correspondent that several sheets of the current 5d stamps have been unearthed with the top four rows of each sheet entirely imperforate. The 1s value has been for some time known in this condition, but we believe that the 5d thus is quite a new discovery.

The Victorian Record has noticed a recurrent variety in the 4d Dunedin Exhibition stamp, the first stamp of the bottom row of the sheet, showing the error "POSTAGF" at the right.—Stamp Collecting.

PANAMA.—Mr. John E. Ohlson sends us copies of the ½c red orange and 1c green of the series of stamps that were placed on sale on the 10th of June last. They bear the portrait of Bolivar and beneath his name is the inscription "1826 Congreso de Bolivar 1926". The name of the country is at the top and the figures of value in each lower corner with the words of value between. Mr. Ohlson also sends a clipping taken from the Panama Star and Herald which he translates as follows: "The stamps will commemorate the Centennial of the first Bolivar Congress and will be in use for sixty days only. The proceeds of the sales for stamps other than postal use will be for the benefit of the projected Bolivian University". Mr. Ohlson further adds that to prevent monopoly a decree has been issued which limits any purchase to a ten dollar amount.

PERSIA.—The stamps now obsolete, bearing the portrait of Ahmed Mirza Shah, without overprint, are still available for postage, but letters posted bearing these stamps are treated in a manner which is quite without precedent. The portrait of the ex-Shah is carefully obliterated by means of pasting on an oblong piece of white paper which covers nearly the whole stamp.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Philatelic Bulletin.

PERU.—Mr. Emil J. Rall has shown us the 10c red of the current issue with the surcharge "Plebiscito" across the centre of the stamp in black.

SIERRA LEONE.—Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts send for chronicle the 10p, on script watermarked paper, color purple and red.

SYRIA.—The current ordinary postage and Air Mail stamps have been overprinted "Secours aux Réfugiés" and equivalent in Arabic, also supplementary value representing a premium. There are 15 denominations of a total face value of 96½ piastres, also a similar set for Grand Liban, making a total of 30 different stamps. The total issue was 40,000 sets and only limited supplies have been obtainable. The overprinting was done by order of the French High Commission in order to help the numerous refugees scattered all over Syria, and especially the Lebanon, as a result of the war with the Druzes and Damascus. The proceeds of the sale of the stamps will be distributed by the Government.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Philatelic Bulletin.

TANGANYIKA.—Mr. R. Roberts reports that he has received the 1sh, 2sh, 5sh, 10sh and 1 pound stamps line engraved, Giraffe type, with watermark upright instead of sideways. These were engraved and printed by Bradbury, Wilkinson, and is the last printing of this design. The 3sh value does not appear to have been printed with the watermark upright.

THE YURAKUKAI

(The Philatelic Society of Japan.)

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

An interesting Exhibition was held in Tokyo from the 1st to the 4th of April last in the rooms of the Museum of Communications and was a complete success. I am told that 3000 visitors attended and it is expected there would have been fully 4000 if it had not rained the last day.

The Museum of Communications exhibited a set of commemorative stamps intended to be issued on the occasion of the wedding of the Crown Prince which, however, did not take place on account of the printing plates being destroyed by fire after the earthquake of the 1st of September, 1923. About 600 sets of these were returned from the South Seas, to which place the stamps were dispatched previous to the disaster. These stamps are now rather sought for amongst Japanese collectors and they are about $50.00 per set.

A very interesting fact comes out in the report of this Exhibition that I have received. Many years ago, in London, we learned that there was a considerable remainder in Japan of early Japanese stamps in full sheets. The well-known American specialist, the late Mr. Wm. Moser, was looking forward to a visit to Japan and had received special introductions from British high-placed officials, when his death unfortunately intervened.

I now learn that the Museum exhibited complete sheets of early issues, among them a sheet of the 500 mon blue green of 1871, sheets of 1874, ½ sen brown, 1875, 15 sen violet syllabic "2", 1877, 45 sen carmine. These sheets are said to be the only survivors from the great quantity of these stamps that were stored in the strong room in the building of the Department of Communications, which was destroyed at the time of the earthquake.

I think it will be interesting to all specialists in early Japanese stamps to know that this big remainder coming on the market was entirely removed by this great disaster, and this, more than anything I have heard of in recent years, establishes the value of the early issues of Japan.

The Government Printing Bureau exhibited original dies and plates of current issues and some original dies of old issues.

Mr. Kojima showed amongst other things, a set of the 20 sen lilac of 1874 with syllabics 1, 2 and 3, with syllabic number 1 being a specimen stamp.

Mr. Magasawa exhibited rarities of Japan, amongst them being the 10 sen yellow green on wove paper, a stamp priced by Scott's at $7.50 which I should like to buy at many times that price. The 20 sen lilac with syllabic 3 and other rare items.

Mr. Kimura, the President of the Society, showed a complete set of stamps of Japan arranged according to the date of issue.

Mr. Teramoto exhibited a complete set of all issues of Japanese stamp booklets and sheets of the Military Frank stamps issued since the earthquake disaster and also a map of Japan showing all the Air Mail routes together with actually flown covers.

Mr. Yamanaka exhibited a very fine lot of rare cancellations on early issues of Japan and many choice pieces on cover, Mr. Oshiba his highly specialized collection of Formosa and a portion of his fine collection of China and Mr. Takagi his fine collection of Shanghai.

I congratulate the Philatelic Society of Japan on the success of this first Exhibition and I am told it is the intention of the members to hold a larger and much more important Exhibition shortly. Fine views of different portions of this Exhibition are included in the official catalogue that I have received.

"AN AMAZING ACTION"

(The current number of the "Philatelic Magazine", edited by Albert H. Harris, contains an editorial with the above caption, also the article reprinted below. The Stamp Trade Protective Association has decreed that every stamp publication from outside of Great Britain containing stamp illustrations shall be barred from the British mails. Editor Harris is highly indignant at the action taken by the S.T.P.A. It will be strange indeed if the dealers and collectors of Great Britain sit idly by and permit such a revolutionary and idiotic measure to prevail.—W. O. W.)

WHAT IS THE MOTIVE?

The following correspondence has taken place between the Secretary of the Stamp Trade Protection Association and the Editor of The Philatelic Magazine:—

"Dear Sir,

With reference to your application for my subscription for 1926-27, I should be glad to know, before paying this, whether and in what circumstances the Stamp Trade Protection Association has requested the postal authorities to intercept publications from abroad containing illustrations of postage stamps.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) ALBERT H. HARRIS."

The answer to the above, signed "G. C. Welch, Secretary," is marked "Private and Confidential." Our own attitude, however, is quite public, and is expressed in our categorical reply:—

"Dear Sir,

With regard to the action of the Stamp Trade Protection Association, taken by the executive, apparently without consulting its members, in requesting the Postmaster General to prevent publications containing illustrations of postage stamps entering this country from abroad, I wish to protest in the strongest possible manner against such unwarrantable interference with Philately by a body which exists, ostensibly, to protect its interests.

Please accept my resignation forthwith.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) ALBERT H. HARRIS."

The Stamp Trade Protection Association (Ltd.) does not seek, and certainly does not receive much publicity; it works in secret. Once a year it has to call a meeting to comply with the Companies' Acts, and it issues a statement of accounts, with a Report which seldom contains anything worth notice in the press; but it holds no other meeting during the year which members can attend. Any good it has done the trade in the past ten years is "wropt in mystery."

According to the latest Report we can trace, there were then 77 ordinary members, among them several private collectors. Clearly, therefore, it is not representative of either the stamp dealers or the stamp collectors of Great Britain. Clearly, too, it is hopelessly out of touch with trade opinion, for we cannot imagine anything more absurd than this surprising attempt to restrict the circulation of illustrated news and information, upon which the welfare of philately, and the prosperity of the stamp trade so much depend.

We say, unhesitatingly, that to pretend that the stamp dealers or the stamp lectors of Great Britain desire the e sion from this country of journals works illustrating stamps is a refle on the trade as a whole, among whic such desire exists; and such pretence only make British philately ridiculou the eyes of the world at large.

As is well-known, stamp illustratio this country is forbidden by law, but cessive generations of responsible latelists have convinced the Postal aut ities that, as a considerable trad stamps exists, their illustration is d able, with the result that it is permi subject to certain simple formali The attitude of the S.T.P.A. impli contradiction of these arrangements; if it is undesirable for illustration stamps to enter this country from abr it must be equally harmful to other c tries to receive those published in G Britain: logically, they should all abolished. Could anything be absurd?

For the honour of the stamp trade, in a matter so vital to their interests, invite readers to express their opinion

Who is it that seeks to place a ba the free interchange of philatelic publ tions; what is the motive behind it; what have the 77 members of the S.T.P to say about this action of their offici

The columns of The Philatelic Ma zine, as an impartial organ of philat opinion, are equally open to both side

Dear Sir:

I have a U. S. 1898 1c green whic precancelled "I. R." in red. Also a same issue with a blue "I. R." these not valuable Precan Errors? not the "I. R." inverted for "R. meaning Rhode Island?

Yours,

Dear Mr. Outt:

Not a precan. The "I. R." stands "Infernal Restrictions" or "Indestru ible Resolutions" and was put on as Congressional slogan. Foreign collect thought it stood for "Irish Republic" this was later disproved.

INCINNATI COLLECTORS CLUB BANQUET

On June 18th the Cincinnati Collectors lub closed its very successful program or the year with a banquet at the Club louse in the Cincinnati Zoological Gar- en, Dr. L. D. Peaslee the President cting as toastmaster. Thirty-eight mem- ers, wives and friends were present.

After a sumptuous dinner, the menu of hich was philatelically arranged, came very interesting program. The first em was entitled "Watching the Market". he present catalog value of twenty-five ell known stamps was given and each ne guessed what he thought the cata- g value was twenty-five years ago. A eavily canceled damaged but otherwise ne copy of the 1922 2c red beautifully ounted, was the prize.

An address "Stamp Nuts" by Mrs. lorgan, president of the Stamp Hinge ollectors Club, gave some valuable in- ide information on the trials and tribu- ations of a stamp collector's wife, and er idea of the hobby.

A series of one minute "Talks on leepers" told of some interesting finds; ne by Mr. Cost was a book "Reveries of Stamp Collector" by R. M. Byland. his turned out to be a clever fake.

Number four on the program "Corre- pondence" was a scream. It consisted f a number of letters supposedly written y members. One to the president signed lmer C. Pierce was of a serious trend; expressed the desire of the writer to e a club booster and told of a beautiful olor chart which he had made and was ending under separate cover. The chart hen opened turned out to be a crude atchwork of vari-colored rags, mis- amed and roughly labeled in small boy ashion. Another letter was from Clem . Schmalz, the newly elected Secretary f the Club, apologizing to the previous ncumbent for having voted for himself nd winning the election by one vote. He begged forgiveness and asked for in- ormation about watermarks. He was ublicly forgiven and presented with a uge pan and a gallon jug of benzine. A etter presumably from Claude D. Millar told of a terrible quarrel he had had with his bride. She dreamed he loved his Maltas more than he did her and in- sisted upon his choosing between them. He pathetically begged help in his di- lemma and was given a pair of tin stamp tongs about two feet long.

President Wm. L. Doepke of the So- ciety of Philatelic Americans gave a brief account of the coming national conven- tion at Cincinnati.

The last item upon the program was a very interesting talk upon, "The Postage Stamp" by Mr. A. L. Behymer, Post- master at Cincinnati. He was introduced as Cincinnati's foremost collector who specialized in mint United States and collected them in sheets of one hundred only. He gave many interesting side lights upon the history of the postal system and upon Uncle Sam's side of the postage stamp business. The talk was enjoyed by all.

It was the universal opinion of all present that the banquet was a great suc- cess and a fitting climax for the year's program.—L. D. PEASLEE, President.

LOOSE LEAF ALBUM SERVICE

The problem of securing a suitable ar- rangement as well as a balance or har- mony in a series of sheets, thru mounting a collection by the loose leaf method is one that confronts many serious collect- ors and further considerable time is re- quired in the writing or typing in of the information connected with each stamp.

A service is being offered the col- lector of U. S. in which loose leaves will be furnished in which there will be no so-called blank spaces, each sheet cover- ing a single stamp except in a few cases where two stamps can be suitably mounted and written up on a single sheet. Each sheet will have a suitable heading, official description, historical data and other timely matter pertaining to its spe- cial uses, etc., and space will be provided to mount a single and a block to those desiring such arrangement and a changed arrangement to permit of the mounting of just a single to those who do not collect blocks.

A follow-up feature is provided to per- mit a collector to secure additional pages printed to order to allow of his mounting his special items, such as the various types of blocks, strips, pairs, etc., at a cost no higher than for the regular sheets. The regular sheets will cover the stamps from 1900 to date at the present time and also first flight, first trip and first day covers, altho a collector will not need to take both stamp and cover pages unless he desires both.

The historical features and the other descriptions attending these sheets will in the course of time prove to be a store house of information both to fellow col- lectors and non-collector friends, and will produce a feature portraying the his- tory of the U. S. from its founding up to the present time.

The U. S. issues and covers from 1900 to date are those being arranged at the present time, altho earlier issues will be taken care of as occasion demands. It is planned to have from two to four sheets appear each week altho this program will be governed by the time required for each sheet, since the scope of the work is one that will require an immense amount of time. To date some 20 sheets have been printed and arranged by the originator and the 1922-26 issues and covers will be handled and kept up to date, with the working in of previous issues as time permits to those participating in this service.

The idea is well worth investigating and you will be obligated to the extent of sending of four cents to cover cost of mailing sample sheets and prospectus, which can be obtained from the complier, G. E. Hale, Buckley, Ill.

ODD ITEMS:—

R. S. REGAR, Third Assistant Postmaster General, writes Joseph A. Steinmetz as follows: "You are advised that while the use of airmail stamps in payment of postage and other charges on mail not to be sent by airplane is not prohibited, their use on such matter causes misunderstanding and is therefore objectionable." This information has special reference to the use of the oblong rectangular 10c airmail stamp.

FRANK L. COES has received from the Worcestershire Philatelic Society of England a letter of thanks for the recent lot of Worcester philatelic material donated to the British society.

W. C. LYNCH of Waverly, N. Y., is using a rubber stamp impression upon his mail matter in the center of which is placed the stamp which pays the postage upon the letter. In the marking at the top are the words "Collect Stamps" and at the bottom, "It's a Great Hobby". We know of no provision of the postal laws which prohibits the use of a device of this kind, and have passed the matter on to Mr. Ward.

IT is reported that counterfeits exist of the overprinted Malta. Mr. Forbes-Bentley writes that the 4d, 2sh and 2sh6d have been discovered. One of the differences between the originals and the forgeries is that in all the government overprints the letters start on the same vertical line. The forgeries are evidently made by a small handstamp and one end of the word POSTAGE is usually more heavily inked than the other.

W. B. GOULD writes us that the stamp collecting interest in Bangor, Me., is very keen at present. The Penobscot Valley Stamp Club is meeting regularly. At the last meeting, June 15, a sheet of the 6c current U. S. was shown in the same color as the 4c.

WHEN the Crown Prince of Sweden, Gustavus Adolphus, visited Worcester, he was presented a souvenir booklet containing copies of the John Ericsson memorial stamp. Five covers bearing stamps cancelled May 29, 1926, from New York, Washington, Chicago, Minneapolis, and Worcester, were included. Frank E. Wood, president of the Worcester Stamp Club, informs us that the booklet was presented by Paul W. Savage, president of the Worcester Club. The Prince made a cordial speech of acceptance and extended to the Worcester Stamp Club the greetings of the Royal Philatelic Society of Sweden, of which he is a member. The Worcester Club displayed enterprise in getting unused copies of this stamp sufficiently early to enable them to secure the May 29 Worcester marking.

WE have received from Leslie E. Schumann a clipping from the New York Times, which deals with the stamps of Hawaii. Special reference is made to Sanford B. Dole, who died recently at the age of 82. Mr. Dole's picture appears on the 25c blue of the 1894 issue. The article gives large credit to Mr. Dole for the influence manifested by him in the annexation of the islands by the United States in 1900. He was the first territorial governor.

AFTER nine years at 1318 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., Eugene Klein has just moved to No. 200 South 13th Street where he has a large second floor salesroom, 1200 square feet of floor space with front windows opposite the St. James Hotel. An excellent ground floor show window serves the purpose of street display. Thousands of our readers and the trade generally will congratulate Mr. Klein upon these tangible evidences of prosperity.

IF any of our readers have had unsatisfactory relations with Tilva Cohen or Victor Kolb at various addresses in Maywood, Ill., they are requested to correspond at once with the Gray Stamp Co., Sta. E., Toronto, Canada.

THE Manila Post Office issued and sold on May 13 and 14, 1926, the first Philippines commemorative stamps, on account of the arrival at these Islands of the Spanish aviators, Capt. Loriga and Capt. Gallarza accomplishing their Madrid—Manila Flight. The postal authorities used the current stamps surcharged them in black "Air Mail—1926—Madrid—Manila" with airplane.

A SERIES OF AERO MAPS

The firm of Francis J. Field, Sutton Coldfield, Warwicks, England, has just issued a packet of twenty-two cards bearing forty aero maps. These maps show the various routes obsolete and current, together with experimental trips and proposed routes for airmail service. These maps are to be used on album leaves and the set is sold at 50c postfree. It is hardly to be expected that these maps can be up to the minute, but we are taking the liberty of reproducing the U.S.A. map in order that our readers may see the scope of the service, which is highly enterprising.

DR. MARIO DE SANCTIS

Leading South American Philatelist and Especially Noted for His Literary Activities

Dr. Mario de Sanctis, who has accepted a judgeship in connection with the New York Exhibition, is one of the leading philatelists of South America. He resides in San Paulo, Brazil, and is a member of all the philatelic societies of Brazil. He is secretary of the Sociedade Philatelica Paulista, of which he was a charter member. He has been an active contributor to various philatelic papers and magazines, and we have a list of no fewer than forty-one special articles written by him, dealing for the most part with the stamps of Brazil. He is an authority upon the "bulls' eyes" issues. He is an eminent linguist and his contributions to the press have appeared in English, Portuguese, Spanish and Italian.

HIDDEN TREASURE

We have just purchased an immense accumulation of early U. S. from Germany, all before 1890, nearly half a million stamps, most if not all absolutely unpicked, some on pieces of paper, others off paper. We have not got the time to sort these over and offer them in lots herewith:

1c 1870-1882, a fine mixture, all issues well represented, many of the 1879 cat. at 10c and earlier ones, per 1,000—$7.00; 10,000 for $60.00
3c Green 1870-1882, a very fine lot to sort over carefully, $3.65 per 1,000; 10,000 for.. 32.50
10c Brown 1870-1882. This lot does not look so attractive and may have been gone over in years gone by, 100 for $2.00; 1,000 for 18.00
2c Vermilion 1875-79, a high proportion of the hard paper cat. 10c each, useful lot, $6.00 per 1,000; 10,000 for 50.00
2c Claret 1883, an undoubted unpicked lot, 1,000 for $3.00; 10,000 for $26.00; 60,000 for $150.00. Also another lot that does not look so good at $2.00 for 1,000; 10,000 17.50
2c Green, an undoubted unpicked lot of 70,000 for 95.00
1c Blue 1887, another Virgin lot of 20,000 for 50.00
5c Brown 1882, per 100 ..... 3.50
5c Blue 1888, per 100—$5.50; per 1,000 ..... 45.00

POSTAGE STAMPS OF IRELAND

(A paper—abridged from the original by Mr. J. D. Martin—read at a meeting of the Cambridge, England, Philatelic Society, in 1925; and now published in this country with the permission of the compiler, Mr. E. H. Ford.)

With this issue concludes the five line or Provisional Government Overprint and before proceeding I would mention the varieties of the five line Provisionals. Of course the errors we all regard as in the front row of the orchestra stalls are the inverted overprints, and also possibly the so-called PENCF error, i.e., the British 1½d stamp on which the word in English PENCE (part of "threehalfpence") was spelt PENCF. This occurred once on certain sheets of the original 1½d stamps and a few sheets were overprinted and issued. The error is really in the British stamp, but on account of the very few sheets overprinted it is really a rarity thus.

The remaining principal five line varieties are as follows:—

I. R over S. The normal setting has the letter "R" of Rialtas over the "e" of Sealadac. This variety does not occur on Dollard printings at all nor on the Thom red overprints, except 9d sage.

II. R over Se. Far more common and occurring in every issue and all values except the Thom "wides" on which, as I have indicated, the master plate considered himself superior to producing errors.

III. Out of alignment, se tenant Pairs. This variety in common parlance, is simply that in the unseparated horizontal pairs one overprint is lower or higher in position on the stamp than its neighbour.

IV. Short 1 in date. This is a self explanatory variety and occurred on the 20th row on about 11 values, but on none of the Dollards.

V. Date omitted and date at top are simply due to misplaced overprints and examples of these latter are shown.

VI. Raised c in scaladac. This occurred on Dollard overprints only, and again is a self explanatory variety.

Broken letters exist in hundreds and are far too numerous to treat seriously unless one is an ultra specialist, and I will not bore you with them.

III. British Stamps With Free State Overprint.

In December, 1922, the constitution of the Irish Free State received British Government approval, and at once the 2d map stamp appeared, as the first of the permanent series.

All philatelists following "Irish" stamps, supposed, quite naturally, I think, that overprinted stamps were done with. But no! On December 11th, five days, mark you, after the first permanent stamp has appeared, the now well known Saorstat issue begun to appear and the 2d was first. This issue was overprinted by Messrs. Thom in blue-black ink and the overprint is again in Gaelic and means "Irish Free State 1922".

It may be noted that the high values are still current, but values ½d to 1sh are not now available for postal use in Ireland.

Messrs. Harrison were again entrusted with the three line overprinting for stamps in roll or coil form. They were issued on March 7, 1923. The overprint was in the same type as that of Thom, but in black ink, and with perhaps rather bolder characters. The 2d was in die II only. About 1200 rolls were overprinted altogether, including only 48 rolls of the 1½d.

The principal three line varieties are:—

Missing Accent. The acute accent over the second "a" in Saorstat was, in the first printings, omitted from the last stamp in the 17th row on some low values and the second stamp of the 3rd and 8th rows in the high values. The error was soon rectified, but initially it was put right on the ½d, 1d, 6d and 1sh values by the sheets being returned to the printers and the missing accent added by hand, a procedure of an unusual character surely in the history of stamp printing.

This procedure naturally results in these four values being scarce without the accent, the present catalogued value of the 1d, e.g., being £10.

Some sheets of the 1d also had the final t of Saorstat missing and this was also inserted by hand.

Reversed Accent. This occurred on high values only and is, of course, where the final a in Saorstat has a grave instead of an acute accent. This occurred once on each sheet of 40 of the first printing only, and is a rare item.

Line over Saorstat. This consists of a bar line over the word Saorstat and occurred on some sheets of the ½d, 1d, 9d values, and I believe also on the 2½d.

S over E. The one variety corresponding to R over S varieties in the five line overprint, is the letter S of Saorstat over E of Eireann and this variety is quite scarce.

Blanket Prints of Overprint on back. Some sheets of stamps have appeared with the overprint on the back of the stamps and I believe the explanation is this: The overprint is received from the type whilst the sheet rests upon a pad or blanket. It is presumed that the type was allowed in some cases to be impressed on the pad or blanket without the intervention of a sheet of stamps as should have been the case. Naturally the pad would receive an inking and if not cleaned, as is also presumed in these instances, the next sheet of stamps would necessarily, if placed on sufficiently soon, receive an impression on both sides. This seems quite a feasible explanation, but one for which I cannot vouch as no official statement has been forthcoming so far as I know.

Harrison Long I. The remaining va- ty of consequence in the 3 line over- nt is one on Harrison's overprint for mps in roll form and consists of a long ure 1 in the date. This is, I believe, e to a wrong font figure 1, but is at- buted by some to a technical printing ilt. The "join," occurs 39 times in rizontal rolls of 480 stamps and 49 ies in vertical rolls of 500 stamps.

Now a word on Controls. It must be nembered that all the controls known British stamps to have been issued ring the currency of the overprinted ies, were not necessarily repeated with Irish overprints, as in some cases, en supplies were sent across, only top f sheets were sent, i.e., of course, ius the control.

Obviously the controls on the sheets h inverted overprints are scarcest, but have risen steadily in value.

Before passing on to the Permanent ries, it should not be forgotten that, loughout the various overprinted is- s, Ireland has maintained that high ilatelic standard which we accord to ntries which, when they issue stamps, I so for the one and sufficient reason lt they have a genuine postal need to et.

IV. The Permanent Series.

This issue, strange to say, began to ear about the same time as the 3 line rprinted series.

All values to 1sh have now been issued various dates between December 6, 2, and December 21, 1923, and con- m to four totally distinct types. The r designs are:

I. Map of Ireland, designed by . James Ingram and adopted for the ½, and 2d values, these being the first ee values to be issued.

II. Celtic Cross, designed by Miss . Williams and adopted on the 3d, and 10d values.

III. Sword of Light, designed by Mr. J. O'Reilly and adopted on the ½, 6d 1sh values.

IV. Arms of the four Provinces, de- ned by Miss Girling and adopted for 2½, 4 and 9d values.

The high value design most probably in lime-light for adoption will be a pictorial one by Professor Atkinson of Dublin. Recently the ½d, 1d, 1½d, and 2d values were issued in roll form.

In August, 1925, it was noticed that a setting of the overprinted on the 2s6d, 5sh and 10sh values in which the date, 1922, was shorter, had occurred and on inquiries being made, it transpired that the overprinting had been taken over by the Government Printing Department from Messrs. Thom, who had done the work before, with this result. The change was made without any public intimation and the difference between the two overprints although quite definite is not great.

Postage Dues. Until recently the British Postage dues have been used, the stock of these evidently having been heavy, but now the Irish Post Office has issued these in the 1d, 2d and 6d values. The design is rather ineffective.

I have so far omitted to mention that a quantity of 1d and 2d five line overprinted stamps was captured during a raid on South Irish Post Offices on January 6, 1923. Presumably they were left out in the rain and spoilt, but were afterwards dipped in gum, dried and re-issued by the rebel forces.

Regarding postmarks, the overprinted series contained normal postmarks and also slogan postmarks which first appeared I believe about June, 1922, when we were invited to "Learn Irish".

The pronuciation of the words appearing in Gaelic on the overprinted stamps may be of passing interest. They are pronounced thus:—

Rialtas	Ree-ull-thus
Sealadac	She-lud-ugh
na	nu
heireann	haer-awn
Saorstat	Saer-stawth
Eireann	Aer-awn

DESCRIPTION. FEATURES.
1)—Up to date pages for new issues and covers—(cover section separate from stamp section and covers First Trip and First Day varieties.)
2)—Pages for Issues 1900 to date—These pages will appear at the rate of 2 or more per week for regular varieties, depending on the amount of composition and time required. Many varieties will carry more Official description and Historical data than others. All pages suitably Titled and composition neatly arranged, maintaining a balance and harmony in appearance. Affording a superb background for your collection, as well as a storehouse of stamp data, history, etc. Attractive for a non-collector to peruse,—often lacking in the usual collection.
3)—A page will handle a single variety. (Optional) Arrangement—(1) Permitting a single and block to be mounted. (2) Arranged for block. (3) Arranged for single. (Where composition can be arranged, two singles will be placed on one sheet.)
4)—Printed to Order and Follow-up — This section covers pages printed to order to handle special items, oddities, cancellations, etc., to follow the regular page of a variety. This permits a collector to mount all of his stamps in excess of those covered by regular sheets. Composition for this class will have to be furnished by each individual collector to suit his needs. Applies to pages for covers where not covered by regular cover pages, also.
You must be a subscriber for regular pages to have printed to order work done.
5)—Grade of paper optional as per samples when submitted. Holes reinforced to prevent tearing. Pages to subscribers mailed in tubes to prevent soiling or creasing.
COST OF SERVICE.
A deposit of $4.00 required from subscribers and as sheets appear they will be charged against same. Sheets range in price from 15c and up, depending on amount of composition. Printed to order pages at same rate. Regular sheets have been priced to offset loss accruing in printing single sheets to order, and please realize that the extra sheets you will need to follow up are the ones that produce a complete and finished album, since you will want those extra items suitably mounted with the regular varieties.
A leather bound, spring, ring binder to hold sheets is available and priced on application.

STATE REVENUE NOTES

By F. L. APPLEGATE.

The State Inspection Stamps. — The motif of the Inspection stamp is the collection of a nominal fee to pay the cost of state inspection of certain commodities, for the protection of the consumer.

Florida was the first state to use adhesive stamps for this purpose which she did in 1889. Commercial fertilizer was the commodity and the stamps were neatly engraved with engine-turned border at top, right and bottom with a gargoyle occupying the fourth side. The size, 37x22mm, the signature of the Commissioner of Agriculture and the inscription, "This tag must be attached to the guaranteed analysis" are typical of this class of stamps. This stamp bears no face value, either monetary or quantitive. Although in use until 1902, when they were replaced by a set bearing value in pounds, they are quite rare now. Similar stamps for stock feed inspection were issued by Florida in 1905.

In the same year Georgia issued a set for stock feed, but these bear the monetary value at the rate of 20 cents per ton. During the succeeding years this form of tax rose rapidly in popularity especially among the Southern states so that by 1918 fully fifteen states were using adhesive stamps for collecting inspection taxes on one commodity or another. North Carolina had a set of feed stamps consisting of eight different denominations in as many colors for each of the years from 1909 to 1921 inclusive when she discontinued their use. Other states have also discarded them or greatly restricted their use of later years.

The Georgia feed stamps were in denominations of ½c, ¾c, 1c, 1¼c, 1½c, 1¾c and 2c. North Carolina added a ¼c, and Tennessee a ½ mill and a 1 mill on the same rating. In Virginia the rating was 15 cents per ton, hence 3/16c for 25 lbs., ⅜c for 50 lbs., ¾c for 100 lbs., 1 1/20c for 140 lbs., 1⅛c for 150 lbs., and 1 5/16c for 175 lbs. In South Carolina the rate per ton was 25c, hence ⅝ mill for 5 lbs., 1¼ mills for 10 lbs., 3⅛ mills for 25 lbs., 6¼ mills for 50 lbs., 9⅜ mills for 75 lbs. and 1¼c for 100 lbs. All these add up to 20 denominations of feed stamps.

In 1909 Tennessee put a similar tax on cereal seed, also one of 5 cents per bushel on grass and clover seed, and gave us among other values a 3c stamp for ½ bu., a 5c stamp for 1 bu., a 10c stamp for 2 bu., a 12½c stamp for 2½ bu. and a 35c stamp for 7 bu. In 1918 the rate was reduced to 2c per bu., hence a 14c stamp for 7 bu., and others accordingly.

The 20 denominations already enum plus these six make 26.

In 1901 Missouri put an inspecti on beer, which tax gives us the complicated set of values yet as th was ½c per gallon for beer ins proper plus a labelling charge of each one-fourth barrel or less. stamps 135 by 48mm over all are into two parts but not perforate tween, hence one stamp. The fol denominations were issued:

⅜c plus 1c, case of 1 doz. pt.
1⅛c plus 1c, case of 2 doz. pt.
1⅜c plus 1c, case of 3 doz. pt.
2⅝c plus 1c, case of 2 doz. qt.
6c plus 2c, case of 10 doz. pt.
7⅛c plus 2c, case of 6 doz. qt.

2c plus 1c for use on ⅛ ba
3c plus 1c
4c plus 1c for use on ¼ ba
8c plus 2c for use on ½ ba
16c plus 4c for use on 1 ba

The latter values were issued on t sumption that a barrel of beer co 32 gallons, and it was not until 190 the rates were changed to conform 31 gallon barrel, which was found the one in use, hence

1 7/16c plus 1c on ⅛ barrel
3⅞c plus 1c on ¼ barrel
7¾c plus 2c on ½ barrel
15½c plus 4c on 1 barrel

One-half of 3⅞ is of course 1 but the 1 7/16c stamp was issued theless, perhaps in error. These through several issues remained until prohibition and add twelve d nations to our inspection list maki

In addition to the beer tax anot spection tax was levied by Miss 1917 on non-intoxicating drink syrups. The rate is not given face of the stamps, but the denomi are. They are in type set form, square and range in value from to 25c, of which the ⅔c, 1⅓c, 1⅔ 2½c are new, making our total no

Furthermore we were gi 1918 a 2½c stamp for a 10 gal. $1.25 stamp for a 500 gal. tank $15.00 stamp for a 6,000 gal. car. in the same year this inspectio widened to include gasoline, at th rate. nominations for gas with the addition of a 13½c stamp for 54 gallons. The N. oil and gas stamps add to our list the c, 13c, 13½c, 23c, 26c, 50c, $1.25, $2.50, .00, $12.50, $15.00 and $25.00, making a tal of 54.

Also in 1909 Missouri broke into the game with an inspection tax of $12 r bbl., which unfortunately does not ow on the stamps although the Mo. amps run to a great many varieties, and ve a charm all their own.

In 1916 the State of South Carolina ok a fling at the same business, her oil x being but one-eighth cent per gallon, nce among other values we encounter r the first time a 3⅛c stamp for 25 ls. a 6c for 48 gals., a 6¼c for 50 ls., a 6½c for 52 gals., a 6¾c for 54 ls., a 6⅞c for 55 gals., a 62½c for 500 ls., and $6.25 for 5,000 gals. Although e design is pretty crude the stamps are mmed and perforated and each denomination has its individual color, many them being quite brilliant. The yellow of the 6c is especially striking. outh Carolina oils give us eight more, making 62 inspection denominations in all, of which 38 are in addition to the 82 nominations of state revenues tabulated my notes of May 17th, making a total 120; also 33 are new to our list of nited States revenue denominations, making 158.

If now to this total of 158 we add the postage denominations which are unique -not covered by revenue values—viz., 1c 9c, 17c, 48c, 84c, $1.92, $9.00, $24.00, 36.00 and $48.00 we get a grand total f 167 different values of adhesive postage and revenue stamps, which have been sed to date within the confines of the ood old U. S. A.

Here are a few Stars. This is one of the most popular of all obliterators, and there are hundreds of varying forms, many being framed. N. Y. City alone used perhaps 50 different star forms during the '57 to '70 period, and they kept right on, as is shown by a set of the "New York Foreign Mail Cancellations" just received from Mr. J. M. Bartels, some thirty or more of which are in star forms. No. 7 is quite patriotic, as the 34 indicates the Regiment number of troops from Hatfield in the Civil War. The No. 8 form is seen with the word UNION, a letter in each point of the star, also PAID 3 etc., etc. No. 10 was used from several towns, Ashleyville, Mass., having one of same size, while Barton Landing, Vt., used a smaller one hit with blue ink.

From Mr. J. L. Howe we have a very interesting "Saw-tooth" perf on 3c of 1857 inking clean cut, and very well made, the town using this being undetermined. He also sends a 3c '69 cover going to Albemarle Co., Va., and pmkd in 26mm ring "S. & M. R. R.", who knows this one?

Mr. J. H. Conley has sent in a Campaign cover with likeness of J. C. Breckinridge. This is framed in a circle with a delicate palm tree at either side, an eagle atop the picture, flags below, with a shield bearing the names of the Candidates, "President J C Breckinridge Vice-President Joseph Lane." Along the top of envelope is "The Constitution and the equality of the States. John C. Breckinridge". The stamp is a bright blue, No. 211, Confederate, the completed die, neatly pmkd. HAVANNA JUN 27 ALA., and is mailed to Tuscaloosa, Ala.—a very unusual cover.

Another (nice 3c '61 cover this time) is pmkd. MOBILE, ALA JUL 1, while overlapping the Gov't pmk. is a blue Steamer mark reading STEAMER SALLIE LIST JUN 29 1867, this being a double ring, and about the same size as the pmk. An 1851 3c cover has a neat little dark blue ellipse, "laying down," showing a colorless cannon pointed East, with a single star at each end of the cannon, and above GEORGIA MILITARY, below INSTITUTE. Very unusual and handsome.

Going back to our May 17 Forum, No. 7 is sent in on covers from Northampton, Mass., in purple, and from Port Discovery, Wash., in black, by Mr. W. L. Richmond, the former dated 1877, latter 1882. He sends an almost exact duplicate from Union Springs, N. Y. (our No. 8), tho the star is a trifle smaller.

Mr. W. I. Kelsey sends in some Washington and Boston Star in Circle cancels, one of the Bostons having 9 points, made by three interlaced triangles, so that the center makes a nine sided affair.

Cracked Plate.—For the benefit of those who are still waiting to see what a Cracked Plate really looks like, take a squint at the middle of the Liberty Bell on the 2c Sesqui, and you will get the idea—also you will see that it is in the same color as the stamp, which is always true of a crack as printed from an engraved plate. Now you've got a living example.

The Philatelic Purity Wave.—Never in the history of philately has perfection been stressed so much as in the past season. Any old imperforate stamp, lightly cancelled, without creases or thin spots, and with four wide margins commands instant and prolonged attention. A pochette (transparent covering) of fitting size and shape is secured, and the

It is known that serious suggestions addressed to the post office department are received by the officers of that busy division in the spirit in which they are conceived, but the time of the staff is too valuable to be wasted on the consideration of preposterous ideas and questions that are trivial and unworthy of attention. We say this not because stamp collectors have been offending in this particular, perhaps as much as the general public, but for the purpose of strengthening the respect that the department has for the interest manifested by philatelists in its working. The recent issues of commemorative stamps seem to have made an impression on many minds and probably have inspired much correspondence on the part of outsiders as well as collectors.

One has warrant for saying that the name of Ferrari is the most romantic one that has been associated with stamp collecting. Men, now gray in philatelic service, remember when in their youthful days about the only publicity that collecting received in the newspaper press were more or less fantastic allusions to the activities of this great collector. References to Ferrari and his collections were stock items that made their way around the world in the newspapers; and we suppose that in the aggregate the space given to them would put the Sunday edition of a metropolitan daily in the shade. Dealers who were admitted into the Ferrari presence have tales to tell that make the eyes of listeners big with wonder and some of these stories are among the classics of our pursuit. In the New York Times for June 27th, there is an article based on Ferrari and his collection whose sale at Paris has been one of the epochal events of philately and the story is singularly interesting and, it may be added, authoritative. The explanation of this favorable aspect may be seen in the sentence: "Among the few intimate friends of the famous collector was Charles J. Phillips of London, now a resident of New York."

Speaking of valuable collections, something may be said of the Wolters' collection, which was formed by the late H. Wilhelm Wolters of Honolulu; and from the Honolulu Advertiser of June 13th, we take the following: "Wolters Stamp Collection Cost Honolulan $125,000: To be Sold. Judge Edward K. Masse in the circuit court yesterday signed an order permitting Jose Caetano, C. C. von Hamm, James L. Cockburn and John L. Fleming, temporary administrators of the estate of the late H. Wilhelm Wolters, to dispose of and to sell to the best advantage of the estate the big and valuable Wolters' stamp collection. Wolters, according to the petition filed for authority to sell, spent during his life approximately $125,000 on his stamp collection. The stamps, which are all hinged and arranged in the order of their issue and by countries, are contained in fifty volumes of approximately sixty pages each. In the will of Wolters, who died during the World War, the collection was left to the city of Bremen, Germany. The entire estate remains unprobated, a contest of the will having been instituted." Commenting on this news, which was sent by Mr. W. F. Slusser, who is now stationed at Fort Kamehameka, Hawaii, he says: "Mr. Wolters' collection was refused by the municipality of Bremen as funds are not on hand to care for the collection! The judge here then ordered that the stamps be sold for the benefit of the estate now in litigation through the efforts of a number of heirs."

While the portability of stamps is an advantage that is generally recognized by collectors, yet the housing of a large collection in a museum or public institution presents a problem that has confronted a number of benefactors who have given thought to the advisability of placing their stamps in such a building. The compactness of stamps, so to say, gives them the call over many other objects that are collecting favorites, but nevertheless, it is incumbent that an intending donor of philatelic treasures make provision for the care of the stamps when once they are immured in their resting-place. We understand that collectors who have had the disposition to present their stamps to art museums, sometimes found that restrictions that were imposed on the acceptance of the stamps were too burdensome to assume; and this condition may account for the scarcity of stamp collections in publicly-owned institutions.

In "Madrid Filatelico" for May, there is an interesting article on the somewhat familiar subject, embraced in the words, the educational advantages of philately. The theme is ably handled and in speaking of portraiture, any claims are borne out by the recognition of newspaper men and others of the picture gallery that is afforded by stamps of rulers and other prominent persons of many countries. Every now and then, there arises the necessity to have the picture of some one of them for use in connection with newspaper work, for instance; and several of the workers have found that a stamp saved the day for them. The world range of the stamp album is such that its sweep cannot be matched by any other volume when the question of pictorial completeness is considered.

Some years ago, we printed a little notice to the effect that we had learned that the New Englander, a quarterly published by A. H. Maltby, New Haven, and printed by B. L. Hamlen, printer to Yale College, of January, 1848, contained several articles of interest on postal subjects of the times. Months slipped by, but now we have received from a friend in Boston a bound volume of this magazine for 1848. The donor, who evidently hides his name under the nom-de-plume of "H. I. Storian" says that he hopes that the articles will meet our expectations. At any rate, we find "Postal Reform" and "British System of Postage" in the index and we are sure that the examination of these studies, somewhat formidable in length, will be attended by profit.

From our own experience we know that there is a growing interest in the post office workings of the United States on the part of business men and that they are willing to listen to a talk on the subject at a business luncheon, for instance, such as may be prepared by the philatelist. In this connection, we think that an effective opening statement may be made on the words of a distinguished educator as uttered in 1808. He predicted the speedy failure "of our federal system from the want of contact of the national government with the people. He said that the post office was the only tie that connected the government with the people, and the only branch of the government of which the people had any personal experience. At that day, the post office system was in its infancy, comparatively, and its value and importance as a piece of the governmental machinery, and as a source of benefits to the people, were but imperfectly realized." Let the inarticulate business man, with philatelic leanings, find his voice and take his turn when it comes to him. He really can compose a talk that will be every as interesting as some of those tha has to listen to; and then, he will the satisfaction of giving, in passin boost for stamps.

LA FERRIERE, HAITI

By HARRY E. HUBER

About 20 miles to the southwest of Cap Haitien in the Department of the North, there stands, on the top of a precipitous mountain, Bonnet a L'Eveque (Bishop's Cap), one of the wonders of the Western Hemisphere. This is La Ferriere, or Cristophe's Citadel, eight miles back in the mountains from Milot, the site of another remarkable pile, the ornate palace of Sans Souci, both of which were built in the early days of the 19th century by Henri Cristophe. The Citadel is pictured on the 10c carmine of the Haitien pictorial series of postage stamps of 1924, and Sans Souci on the 4c carmine lake of the 1906 series (changed to olive in July, 1913).

Cristophe was born in 1769 in the island of St. Christopher, and prior to the first general uprising in Saint Dominique of the slaves against their French masters, worked as a waiter at Cap Francais (now Cap Haitien). He speedily achieved a conspicuous place as one of the trusted lieutenants of Toussaint L'Ouverture who successfully led the slaves in their revolt against the French. On January 1, 1804, Jean Jacques Dessalines (L'Ouverture's successor) promulgated a declaration of Haiti's independence with himself as Emperor.

Throughout the strife Cristophe was especially prominent, so that when Dessalines was assassinated on Oct. 17, 1806, he was elected President, under a new constitution establishing the Republic (Dec. 28, 1806). This honor he refused, however, and forming a constitution to meet his own desires (Feb. 17, 1807), was elected President of the State of Haiti (comprising the Departments of the North and Artibonite), and in March, 1811, proclaimed himself King of Haiti, with the title of Henri I. Alexandre Petion was elected by the Western and Southern Departments as President of the Republic of Haiti (Mar. 9, 1807) and ruled until his death on March 29, 1818. He was succeeded by Jean Pierre Boyer, and on the death of Cristophe in October, 1820, Boyer became President of the whole country, and extended his authority also over the Spanish end of the island, now the Dominican Republic.

When in 1804 Dessalines assigned his military leaders to various parts of the island, he instructed them to build strong forts in inaccessible places where munitions and provisions might be accumulated, and where they might defend themselves should the French attempt to reconquer the country. Cristophe to whom was assigned the Department of the North, immediately set about building what is variously known as La Ferriere, Citadelle Henri, and Cristophe's Citadel. Just how many years were consumed in its construction is not known, but it was completed some little time before Cristophe's suicide on October 8, 1820.

The elevation at the foot of the citadel is 2,600 ft., to which must be added the height of the different walls to ascertain the elevation of the whole. The wall at its highest point is 140 ft. from the ground, and at others it ranges from 80 to 130 ft.

The building has a prow formation, pointing to the north, and the average number of floors is four. On the east side (which is the longest—270 ft. at one stretch) is located the main battery of heavy guns, giving absolute command of the most dangerous approach, that from the direction of Grande Riviere. With the meagre facilities available in the early 19th century, and especially in Haiti, one wonders how these guns (the largest of which are 11 ft. 6 inches long, of bronze, and dated 1786) were brought up the precipitous mountain trail to their present position. The difficulty in reaching the citadel is not so much due to its elevation as to the eight miles of mountainous country, which have to be traversed, and the approaches, all of which are very steep.

Although granite blocks are to be found throughout the building, most of it is built of red fire brick. These average 15" long, 6" wide, 2" thick, and were apparently manufactured on the spot.

The entire structure is still in an excellent state of preservation, except that the floors in the prow were shaken down in the earthquake of 1842, which destroyed Cap Haitien, and even these are not impossible of repair with comparatively little labor.

It is believed that the plans for the structure were drawn and the work of construction supervised by two captive French officers possessed of the highest degree of technical training. Inspection of the site of the citadel commands unbounded admiration for the master mind that recognised its possibilities, aside from conceiving and constructing the edifice, for Bonnet a L'Eveque could not have been more ideally located for its purpose had it been made to order. The citadel commands every neighboring mountain peak, and approach, and a spring of water inside the building supplies that prime necessity of withstanding a long siege.

UNITED STATES ISSUES

"Price attracts the shopper but it is service that holds the buyer."—Forbes Magazine.

Every stamp collector sooner or later must decide for himself as to whether he is going to be satisfied to simply fill the space or whether he prefers the finest copy or block of the variety that the market affords. If he wants the good average copy—the one the catalog prices—at from 40% to 50% off, or the damaged copy at much less, I can no doubt furnish it.

If, however, he prefers the superb or outstanding piece, that is where my stock surpasses, for it has always been my custom to acquire those items that are in especially fine condition. I am an important buyer of choice United States stamps at our auction sales and am continually acquiring collections and individual pieces privately.

It may simply be a superb copy of the 10c 1847 that you are looking for, or perhaps a block or two to fill up the late issues. My stock runs from the commoner varieties to the greatest rarities and your want lists are desired. If you are especially looking for certain things that you have been unable to locate, perhaps I may be able to be of service, for during the last few years I have been the largest professional buyer of United States postal adhesive issues and I am likely to know how to pry loose the almost unattainable.

Don't forget that I am equally as anxious to purchase the unusual.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

It will be recalled that several years back through the studious efforts of Mr. B. W. H. Poole, two types of the $1.00 1894 to 1895 and the 10c 1898 were noted for the first time. As there was only one plate, namely number 176 made for the $1.00 stamps, the two types may be found together. This plate of two hundred subjects contained one hundred fifty stamps of type I and fifty stamps of type II and while pairs or blocks showing the types together are rather scarce, they may nevertheless be found.

In the case of the 10c, all that have been noticed heretofore show the one type on a single plate. The type I, which was the first printing, comes in the deep brown and is not known in the yellow brown and orange brown which are found in the second types. These latter stamps may almost be classed as 20th century varieties because they did not make their appearance until after 1900. While the 10c type II in the dark brown is found, it is scarcer than the type I or the other two shades of the type II.

Mr. George W. Linn now announces in the Philatelic Gossip that he has located a pair of this dark brown variety showing the type I and type II together. While I have not seen the pair in question, I am chronicling it on the authority of Mr. Linn.

2c Sesqui-Centennial

Rev. Leslie A. Boone kindly submits for my inspection two copies of the 2c red Sesqui-Centennial on an unusually thick paper. I have noticed that the paper on a number of our stamps varies, but in this case it is the thickest that I have ever seen used on our current varieties. The two samples submitted bear the postmark of Austin, Texas.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of June 22nd, the Second Assistant Postmaster General announces that effective July 1st the transcontinental air mail schedule will be changed in order that connection may be made at Chicago in both directions with the Chicago-Dallas, Chicago-Minneapolis, Chicago-St. Louis, and Chicago-Detroit, contract air mail routes.

As an illustration of what this will mean to users of the air mail service—under this schedule air mail posted on Monday in St. Louis, Minneapolis, Detroit, Dallas, or any point along the four routes named in time to connect with the plane for Chicago, is due to reach San Francisco at 4.30 P. M. Tuesday; and air mail posted in San Francisco in time for dispatch east Tuesday for points on these contract routes is due to reach point of address in time for delivery Wednesday, except for cities on the southern end of the Chicago-Dallas route where the plane is scheduled to arrive too late for delivery of mail that date.

The communication further gives the exact schedule by hours.

On June 16th, Acting Postmaster General Bartlett announced that bids would be opened at noon on July 1st for the establishment of a route between the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia and Washington, and that it was expected that shortly thereafter, the contract would be let for carrying on this service. Landings will be made near or at the fair grounds and the dispatch of mail will be to and from the Model Post Office which has already been established at the Exposition. The schedule will provide for not less than six round trips per week and the contractor will be permitted to carry passengers as well as mail. The duration of the contract will extend over the period of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition. Airplane distance between Philadelphia and Washington is one hundred twenty-three miles and it is contemplated that the plane can make the trip one way in less than half an hour.

Mitten Management which operates the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company expects to receive the contract for performing this service.

Under date of June 28th, the Second Assistant Postmaster General placed the Chicago-Dallas contract air mail service on a weight basis, effective June 20th. Heretofore, letters have been paid for on the basis of the number carried. Arrangements have also been completed for placing several other services on a weight basis, effective July 1st. This refe the Boston to New York, Chicago t Louis, Salt Lake City to Los Angele Cheyenne to Pueblo.

The orkmanship is decidedly good, but hough the printings of the 3p, 1a and 3a re from the same plates, any philatelist ould distinguish the Government printngs from Messrs. De la Rue's work, the ormer having a heavier fluffy impression; the comparision is similar to the Somerset House printings of the King Edward Great Britain stamps with the King George De la Rue printings.

LITHUANIA.—Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of two new Air Post tamps, both of the same type. They are he 20c red and 60c ultramarine and black. n the centre is a flying bird with a letter n his beak, above the figures and word f value while below are the words "Oro Pastas".

NORWAY.—Like England, Norway has o internal air post; nevertheless we are nformed that a set of aerial adhesives s being prepared for the Land of the Midnight Sun. They will, of course, not e related in any way to the Polar souenirs, huge quantities of which repose n the Amundsen-Ellsworths vaults.—Stamp Collecting.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA.—This Colony eems to have gone "off the line" with he perforation of some of its stamps. We have already chronicled imperf. arieties of the ½d and 6d values, and ve now hear from Mr. Gerald Butcher hat the current (but obsolescent) 1½d as been found perf. 14½. Our correspondent believes, however, that this particular variety is merely the result of aper shrinkage.—Stamp Collecting.

JUST COMMON COURTESY

Whenever we write a letter asking for information we make it a practice to enclose an addressed stamped envelope for reply. It is simply a common everyday courtesy that should not be neglected. Why should we expect anyone to trouble themselves with a request we have made upon them when we do not even pay the postage upon the reply? The ethics of correspondence require that this little detail be given proper consideration.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF

BRITISH EMPIRE.

Great Britain.—A reader shows us a strip of ½d stamps purchased from a slot machine in the City, in which the right-hand stroke of the first "N" of "PENNY" is missing. This variety was repeated at intervals in the roll, but not in later rolls from the same machine. As there has apparently been damage to the plate, this variety should be worth looking for.

Canada.—Penny postage will be restored in Canada on Dominion Day, July 1st. This refers to letters within the country and to the United States. As our readers frequently send us understamped letters, we trust they will inform themselves of the correct postage rates to this country, in case any change has been made.

A suggestion has been put forward, says Mr. J. P. Byrne, that future Canadian stamps shall be bi-lingual, as a large proportion of the populace of Quebec and Eastern Ontario speak French. We note that bi-lingual announcement cancellations are already in use in some districts.

Gambia.—Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. point out minor variations in the paper of the current 5s. The first printing appears to be on pale yellow, the centre being printed in black. The later printing is in grey-black on paper of a deeper yellow.

India.—Travancore. Mr. E. B. Aiyar states that the current stamps are now being printed on machine-made paper, instead of hand-made paper as previously. He shows us a new setting of the "On S.S." overprint (on the 1¼ chuckram) in which the following varieties occur:

On the whole the spacing of the new overprint is more regular, and the general appearance of the work is improved.

Jamaica.—With reference to the 1s, black on green, with dull purple centre, Mr. Lewis May has shown us a block of these stamps in which two of the stamps have the purple centre and the others are in the normal black. He states that he produced the difference by damping the stamps. Evidently the centres were printed in ink of a different quality from that used for the borders, as the latter did not change colour.

Malta.—The Opposition, backed up no doubt by disappointed speculators, is loudly demanding the head of the person responsible for the so-called "Stamp Scandal," which consists in the fact that certain gentlemen got supplies of the 4d and 2s stamps overprinted "POSTAGE" and others did not. The success of the former is alleged to be due to leakage of official information. We do not suppose the result would have been any different for stamp collectors, whoever had cornered the stamps, but the outcry may make the authorities a little more careful to issue future stamps in supplies sufficient to give everyone a share. We warn our readers against forgeries of the "POSTAGE" overprint on the scarcer values.

Seychelles.—Several well-known Georgian specialists have written to query the existence of the 25c, Die I, on pale yellow (S. G. No. 96b). Can any reader show us an undoubted mint copy of this stamp? If not, it must be deleted.

OTHER COUNTRIES.

Afghanistan.—Major Frank Young kindly shows us some interesting items in the recent issues which we place on record:

"Ministry of Education" design, Type 95. The 30 paisa, in a pale lilac shade, instead of in bright magenta, which is a better description of the catalogued shade. Our informant has the 10 and 30p and 1r in sheets of 2; also 1r in block of 3 (two below and one above at left), the vertical pair being tête-bêche; and 30p in pair, tête-bêche.

Arms Type (Type 55), small size. A range of shades in the 10p, pink, dull rose, rose, and carmine-red. 20p, sheet of 16 (4x4), complete with margins. 30p, apple-green, sheet of 16 (4x4), bottom left hand stamp inverted. Same value in deep blue-green. Large size. 10p in vermilion instead of the normal pink.

These recent issues of Afghanistan are extremely fascinating, but owing to the difficulty of getting material, it is hard to form a good specialised collection.

Faqir Hussain Zahid sends us a block of 4 of a 2 paisa stamp, printed in black, the central arms device being similar to that of the postage and parcel stamps of 1909, with inscriptions in a scroll below. This stamp is mainly for use between Kabul and the new city of Darul-aman which is under construction about three or four miles from Kabul. The inscriptions read "Postage City of Kabul per packet 2 paisa," which leads us to assume that the stamp is a "local."

The 8th anniversary stamp, described last month, was printed in sheets of 8, the blocks of 4 being tête-bêche relatively to each other.

Argentine Republic.—Collectors will be glad to learn that the practice of overprinting stamps for use in the various ministries has been discontinued for over a year, and a steel obliterator is now used, similar to that of the automatic franking machines. This has created a keen demand for the overprinted stamps, which are rising in value.

Mr. A. H. Davis, who kindly gives us this information, also states that he has received the new 5c Rivadavia commemorative on letters from Uruguay, which tends to confirm the suggestion that this stamp was issued and used in both countries.

Bolivia.—Mr. Mervyn G. Palmer believes that the Tihuanacu issue will be put on sale in Bolivia, but not until the stamps have been provided with a special control overprint. This will automatically render valueless all the sets without control, which were sold in Europe before the stamps were issued in Bolivia. At the date of writing (March 28th) Mr. Palmer states that the stamps had not yet been put on sale.

Colombia.—The "CUATRC" error in the new 4c Provisional, listed last month, occurs regularly on the fourth and sixth stamp in every fourth row of the sheet. The stamps are printed in sheets of 160 (sixteen rows of 10). Mr. C. G. Higley is our informant.

Finland.—Mr. G. A. Fereday tells us that a competition is being held in order to secure designs for new Air stamps and postage stamps.

France.—Lt.-Col. J. P. Law states that he has shown the 30c on apparently laid paper (referred to in our March issue) to a leading French expert, who states that the appearance is due to the gum, which is applied in stripes. We have seen many stamps which might have been described as on "laid" paper by the tyro, but never one so deceptive as this.

Norway.—Mr. A. N. Jorstad states that the postal authorities are preparing an Air stamp, though there is at present no Air post service in Norway. It is intended to have the stamps ready in case a service is inaugurated.

Persia.—Mr. H. V. Donaldson suggests that Mr. R. W. Gray's figures for the Pehlevi overprinted fiscals (see February M.J.) are too high, as very few were issued. We agree with Mr. Donaldson that the number issued was small, but the balance of the 20,000 sets (not a large number in any case) is probably already on the stamp market. The price is steady and the demand keen, in view of the arresting history and personality of Persia's new ruler.

Peru.—Mr. Mervyn G. Palmer states that the large Tacna-Arica Plebiscite stamps were originally intended as patriotic labels only, and had no franking value. They were sold to raise funds to cover the cost of proceedings in the disputed territory. Later, however, their postal use was made obligatory on inland correspondence, the 5c being added to ordinary letters, the 10c to registered letters, and the 50c to parcels. They thus fall into the same class as other tax stamps, e.g., the "ASSISTENCIA" stamps of Portugal, the "CASA DE CORREOS" of Ecuador, etc.

Mr. Palmer states that the Marconi Co. are now managing the postal service in Peru, and it is possible that they will also be asked to do so in Bolivia.

Siam.—Mr. A. Hendricks and other readers report the issue of a special Coronation series values 1, 2, 3, 5, 10 and 20 ticals, the design of which shows the ancient Coronation stone.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

LOG OF A WEEK

Mr. Henry Look, Detroit, sent copy of the Detroit Free Press of 17, 1926, with the news of the deat Judge Franz C. Kuhn, an eminent j and a business leader of that city. Kuhn was chief justice of the Mich supreme court some years ago and a time of his death was president of Michigan State Telephone Company. Kuhn was described as a man of surp ing ability in the different fields tha entered; and his philatelic activities known to the members of the De Philatelic Society of which he w member. Mr. Look says: "The De Philatelic Society again sustained a in membership in the death of one o most prominent and influential mem the Hon. Franz C. Kuhn, and I en for your information a biography of decedent. The death of Judge Kuh close upon the departure of our dear friend General Coolidge, is, to say least, very depressing upon the e membership."

The Scott Stamp & Coin Company nounces that the issue of the Adv Sheets of the new Standard Catal will begin about July 26, 1926.

We regret to hear that Mr. Theo Reinhardt, the Chicago dealer, has a been forced by illness to absent him from his office; and he is to undergo operation. Customers will please be vised of this circumstance. In the m time, Mr. Erwin Goetz will attend office duties and the local trade.

From Mr. W. Kelsey Hall, the lector and dealer who is remembered older philatelists as a prominent wo in the cause, sends an invitation to WEEKLY and its vast audience and r ers" to attend the Calgary Exhibition Stampede at Calgary, Canada, July 10, 1926, which, judging from the spir pictures of outdoor life was a h success.

Mr. R. Forbes-Bentley, Birchirc Malta, writes: "Referring to the in the WEEKLY of May 17th, I noti few slight mistakes which may as be corrected. Of the postage series was the 4 pence and 2 shillings that v sold out in an hour, the 5 shillings having been exhausted until May No official figures of the number sol overprinted have been published and Minister of Posts has refused to them. Unofficially, the figures are a 22,000 for the 4 pence and 7,000 to 8 for the 2 shillings. There will not another 1sh value as there is a reve stamp of this value now."

r mail service more popular. In some the cities, the volume of air mail is id to be diminishing, rather than creasing.

One of the best review of new issues at we have ever seen appeared in the ew York Times recently; and beginning ith Jubaland, different countries are entioned, including Siam, Turkey, Per-a, Bulgaria, Germany, Russia and Egypt.

In the Louisville Herald Post of June th, we find a picture of that sterling ilatelist, Mr. L. C. Hassler under the ad, "Stamp Buyers May Organize in ouisville." Mr. Hassler, it will be remembered, disposed of his superb collection some years ago, but now it is ident that his interest in stamps is re-wed with a vengeance. The following text accompanies the picture:

"Efforts to organize a Louisville branch the American Philatelic Society are ing made by L. C. Hassler, 133 North irchwood Avenue, who formerly was easurer of the national body. At this me, there are but eleven residents of is city who are affiliated with the A. P. . Mr. Hassler believes there are a rge number of stamp collectors here, id he desires to form them into an or-anization for affiliation with the larger dy. This purpose was inspired by an ticle which recently appeared in the erald-Post, in E. A. Jonas' column, hrough My Spectacles.' Since publication of that article, it is said, the interest of those Louisville citizens whose bby turns to the collection of rare amps has received wonderful impetus. At New York, next October, the merican Philatelic Society will give an hibition of stamps — the largest and ost varied, it is said, to ever be shown ywhere in the world, and it is Hassler's urpose to formulate a local branch that ouisville may have official representaon at that gathering, with the view to ltimately have a similar exhibition here. he New York show will be attended by any thousands from all nations, including Japan, China, and Turkey. The nited States number approximately half million collectors, a few of whom were mong the earliest to adopt the fad, which arted in 1855."

Some weeks ago, the Baltimore Sun ontained an account of the purchase by fr. Percy W. Fuller, the dealer of that ity, of "a collection of old pony express tamps and franked envelopes, said to e one of the finest in the country." The accumulation is said to be worth more than $20,000 and there are over 2,000 pieces in it which represent almost every route covered by the pioneer express companies.

Mr. L. D. Peaslee, 763 Delta Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio, is much interested in the Cincinnati Collectors' Club and he suggests that it would be interesting to exchange programs, such as has been issued by the Cincinnati society, with other societies, that have been published by other stamp organizations. He stands ready to act on his own proposal.

Mr. Victor W. Rotnem, Minneapolis, Minn., famous as a precancel authority and compiler of the standard catalogue of such stamps was a visitor recently in Chicago. The new edition of the precanceled catalogue is coming off the press and will soon be in the hands of collectors. Mr. Rotnem assumes the editorship of the Gossip and under his guidance, it certainly will give a good account of itself.

"New York City, likewise the entire Empire State," declared Dr. J. B. Chittenden, the eminent author and teacher of calculus and less intriguing forms of mathematics, "is to be the host of the A. P. S. convention, but will take no part in the politics of the convention,—if there is any such animal at New York this autumn." That is a statement of this expert on the issues of Mexico and Austria, which almost caused that demon editor, Mr. Lindquist, to intimate that if "there is any politics at the convention, once the convention committee had performed its task, up to the last penny contributed by the Easterners who are listed as the convention hosts,—after that both himself and Harry Konwiser could be expected to make motions and see that things went along smoothly." Our correspondent de luxe will have something to say next week about reservations and such practical things.

Here is high-class treatment from one of the greatest newspapers of this or any other day, the New York Times (Applause):

"Costly Stamps and Costlier Litigation.—From a Belgian in England was stolen a collection of stamps valued by him at £44,000. He brought suit against the underwriters on his policy of insurance. The lower court held that his claim was so enormous as to void the policy. The Court of Appeal, composed of three Lord Justices, heard argument for fourteen days, and reserved decision. Three stamp books, containing what was left after the robbery, were locked up in the strong-room of the court. This remnant was worth £5,000, according to the owner. One of the Lord Justices "was formerly a stamp collector of note." One wonders if he was tempted.

Whatever the cost of the stamps, they were cheap as dirt compared to that of the proceedings. This, in the lower court, is said to have been £40,000. The bill for the fourteen days added £20,000 more. The old Chancery bleeding was at least slow and moderate. Contemporary legal phlebotomy seems to be more violent. Two weeks are but a moment in the chronology of lawyers; and it is no new thing for costs to be speedier than justice.

The modern passion for stamp-collecting and the immemorial passion for litigation stand in no need of moral observations. If we have any loose change of sympathy, let us give it to the three Lord Justices. After fourteen days of argument, they "propose to read once more the whole of the 2,000 foolscap pages of typewriting which contain the transcript of the shorthand notes of the thirty days' hearing before Mr. Justice Branson." In justice to the claimant of the value of the lost stamps, it should be said that he regards the case as involving his personal honor. If the Lord Justices decide against him, he will take it to the House of Lords."

prize is affixed tenaciously to the page. Again glue is coming into philatelic prominence, for these ultra de luxe copies are apparently glued in, and woe betide the enthusiast who hesitantly inquires if one of these little "nailed down" copies might be for sale! The answer sounds like, "Yes, over my dead body."

This purity wave is of recent and unexplained origin. One does not see photographs of the Acropolis at Athens, and of the Venus di Milo in the offices of all these collectors! Can the purity idea be accounted for by the beauty (?) of the recent issues emanating here and abroad? Possibly collectors are stirred to super-human endeavor for the beautiful, after seeing such sights as the Federated Soviet Republic of Armenia issue; or they may be imbued with the idea of trying to gather something more beautiful than our most recent Commemoratives, the climax being reached by our new stamp showing poor Mr. Ericsson, slumped dejectedly in that huge chair.

Why do we "want the best"? Is it the investment point of view? The Scott Catalog says "Condition", then in heavy type "The prices quoted are for specimens in good condition. In most instances extra fine copies bring far higher prices". See what that little word "far" has done for us! Some have memorized that paragraph, and others have pasted it into their hats. That's that.

Let's look at the other side of the question—some of the most interesting collections in this country, medal winners too, have items that the purists would pass with scorn. 'Tis well. These collections have items so scarce that no perfection items of similar nature are to be had, and the tried and true philatelists know this to be so, being old in the study of philately, and they are quite content to let the "with four wide margins" items fall where they will, while they annex the true rarities laughingly. Wise men, these, for everything has its swing, from purity to the rococo, and then back again. It was ever so.

The next time you show some friend one of your pet covers used back in the '50's, and going half way round the world to catch the intended one, let your helpful friend have his say as he hauls out his high powered monocle, and announces to the world that the third stamp from the left is cut right into the design; this will probably tickle him most to pieces, and you can heighten his glee by pretending you did not know it.

HERE AND THERE:—

WE have received greetings from the British Philatelic Congress at Liverpool, sent by W. T. Wilson of Birmingham. The distinctive feature is a cancellation reading "Philatelic Congress Liverpool".

CECIL F. BLOGG and others have sent us clippings dealing with airmail service which we have been unable to use. We are always glad to print items dealing with first flights, and especially where information is conveyed regarding special stamps or cancellations. Mr. Ward usually covers new services in sufficient detail to give all salient features.

FROM Stephen G. Rich comes a clipping from Town Topics August 25, 1898, which was found in some philatelic papers, which he was sorting for his father Joseph S. Rich. It is well sometimes for us to know what the other fellow thinks of us. It will serve our purpose to quote one sentence:—"Of all idiotic fads stamp collecting is the silliest."

EMIL J. RALL, who has been in Arica, Chile, as a member of the American delegation connected with the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary proceedings, has now returned to Ancon, Canal Zone. We are indebted to Mr. Rall for a set of the recently issued commemorative stamps of Panama.

OREN M. ELLIOTT, 6132 44th St., S. E., Portland, Ore., wishes to know whether we have any deaf mute collectors upon our list. If so, he will be very pleased to enter into correspondence.

C. E. NICKLES is sending out No. 7 of his "Washington Stamp News", a sample copy of which will no doubt be sent you on request.

F. B. KIRBY, New Bedford, Mass., would like information concerning W. H. Bellows of 17 Taylor St., Boston, Mass. Letters remain unanswered. Interested parties will please communicate with Mr. Kirby.

Postage Stamps of Iceland

By WM. F. BENEDICT, KFRC.

(This address was made over the radio from Station KFRC, San Francisco, by Mr. Benedict and shows what can be done in radio publicity.—Ed.)

Hello, Everybody.

I have a very pleasant honor today, that of telling you something about the stamps of Iceland.

Iceland happens to be my favorite country as a stamp collector. I do not claim to be an expert. No one realizes more than I do how little I know about stamps in general or about the stamps of Iceland in particular. But what little knowledge I do possess I shall try to give, through the air, to those of you who are interested.

First of all I am going to give a brief sketch of Iceland, since to know a country's stamps thoroughly you must also know something about the country itself.

Iceland is an island in the North Atlantic, its northernmost points touching the Arctic circle. The name is Danish, meaning "land of ice". It is 500 miles north of Scotland, 600 miles from Norway, and 250 miles from Greenland. It is of volcanic origin, composed chiefly of basalt. It has many hot springs and one or more active volcanoes. At least 20 of its volcanoes have been in eruption in modern times. The Geysir, one of the largest spouting hot springs of Iceland, has given its name to all other geysers of the world. Over 70 earthquakes occurred in Iceland during the nineteenth century.

The area of Iceland is 39,756 square miles, almost exactly the size of Kentucky, but only about 7,000 square miles are habitable. The extreme width is not over 200 miles. The circumference is about 900 miles, but because of the deep indentations of fjords and bays the actual coast line is over 2,000 miles. The interior is sandy, stony, high upland of little or no agricultural value, averaging 2,000 feet in altitude. Glaciers and icefields cover over 5,000 square miles, the highest of these rising to 6,466 feet.

Settlements are confined to a fringe of land about deep bays and firths. Farms are not more than fifty miles inland and these are really only garden patches, the total area being not over 300 acres. Potatoes, turnips and cabbages grow well. Nearly all the arable land is devoted to a wild rye, which makes excellent hay and gives fine pasturage to sheep, cattle and horses.

The Iceland pony, weighing about 900 pounds, is famous the world over. It is a sturdy, shaggy animal, resembling the Shetland pony, though larger. Most of the island's transportation on land is by pony, the interior having few if any roads, only tracks which countless ponies over long centuries have worn into deep ruts. This pony is seemingly tireless and the people of Iceland depend upon him for innumerable services. The Iceland dog is a cross between the Eskimo dog and the Scotch collie.

There is very little wild vegetation in Iceland and no forests at all. There is a growth of willow, juniper and birch in some places, particularly in the hills, but it is seldom more than twelve feet in height. Fuel is therefore scarce, and the natives are very careful to collect driftwood along the shores.

Iceland has numerous wild flowers, delicate and brilliant in color. It also has several wild berries, related to our blueberries.

The fox is virtually the only wild animal in Iceland and it is hunted for its pelt as well as to protect the young lambs. Water-fowl are unusually abundant, there being over fifty kinds in Iceland, including the whistling swan and eider-duck, from which comes the famous soft eider-down. There are also forty other kinds of birds, among them the Iceland falcon and an eagle. The ptarmigan is the only game bird of the interior.

Along the precipitous cliffs of the shore, some of them 2,000 feet high, cliff-nesting waterfowl abound, and there is a class of men, called fowlers, who do nothing else but catch birds for a living. They use a net, placed on a long, light pole branched at the end like the letter "Y". Then, clinging dangerously to the cliffs or suspended from ropes, they net the birds as they fly by. Some of these birds are salted down and thus preserved for future use.

The most important industry in Iceland is whaling and fishing, and fish is one of the main articles of diet. The rivers abound in salmon, while shoals of cod, haddock and halibut fill the bays.

The Gulf Stream flows past Iceland and the climate is therefore far milder than might be expected. At Reykjavik, the capital, the annual mean temperature is 39 degrees F. The summer mean is 53 degrees F. and the winter mean 29 degrees. At Akureyri, in the northern section, the annual mean is 32 degrees F. The air is exceedingly clear, mountains 100 miles away being easily visible.

The ports of Iceland are open to the whole world, but the Danes have a monopoly of the commerce, since the island is a Danish protectorate. The exports are whale and fish products, wool, eider-down, feathers, sheep and horses. The country is entirely dependent on outside sources for breadstuffs, groceries, tobacco, liquors and other commodities. You will note that I have said "liquors"; they have no Volstead law in Iceland.

Iceland was discovered and colonized by the Norsemen, or Scandinavian vikings, between 870 and 950, although they found a small colony of Irish, or Culdee, monks in possession, they having visited the Island from about 795 onwards. Christianity was established about the year 1000.

At first the Icelanders constituted themselves into a sort of aristocratic republic of franklins, but internal troubles about 1262 to 1271 caused the island to fall under the rule of the Kings of Norway. In 1380 it became a dependency of the Danish crown. Home rule, under Danish control, was granted it in 1902, when the Governor transferred his headquarters from Copenhagen to Reykjavik.

The population of Iceland in 1920 was 78,470. In 1924 Reykjavik had 18,000 inhabitants. The people are not Eskimo nor Laplanders, as many persons seem to believe, but particularly high-class Scandinavians. Lutheran is the predominating religion. There is little poverty and likewise little wealth. Icelanders are noted readers. There are public schools but most children are taught at home and there is virtually no illiteracy, something which few nations, better known, can truthfully claim. There is a small university at Reykjavik, the capital. There is but one policeman on the island. There are no saloons and no jails because there is no crime. Medical attention is free because the doctors are paid by the Government.

The Icelandic language, which is of much interest to scholars, is the ancient Norroena (northern) or Danish tongue, closely allied to the ancient Gothic. Iceland has an extensive literature, mostly of sagas, dating back many centuries. The language has undergone little change and Icelanders can read sagas a thousand years old as readily as they can read their modern books—something which is impossible for English-speaking nations.

There are few roads in Iceland and only a small number of vehicles. Boats are used in the fjords and ponies are used inland for both passenger and freight transportation.

So much about Iceland itself as a background for the story of the country's stamps. I do not pose as a philatelic expert and what I do not know about stamps far exceeds what I do know. So my story will be a simple recital, without technicalities.

Since January 1, 1873, when the first postage stamp bearing the name Iceland (spelled "Island" after the Danish manner) was sold to the public, Iceland has issued just 194 different postage stamps. Of these, 41 were issued up to and including 1900, and 153 have been issued since then. Of the 194 stamps, 144 have been regular postage and the remaining 50 have been official. Iceland has never issued any postage due, special delivery, charity, air-post, newspaper or parcel post stamps, and no pictorials until late last year, when a very pretty set of five values made its appearance.

If you will look at your stamp album or your stamp catalogue you will see that of all Iceland's 194 stamps there are only 10 major designs—the familiar numeral within an oval (employed also by Danish West Indies, Denmark and Norway); the portrait of King Christian IX, first appearing in 1902; the double portraits of Kings Christian IX and Frederick VIII, first issued in 1907; the portraits of John Sigurdsson and King Frederick VIII on the cameo issue of 1911-12; the portrait of King Christian X on the current issue; three views on the pictorial set of 1925, and the oval within a square type of official stamps.

You will note that there is only one stamp of Iceland cataloguing as low as 2 cents, the 1 eyrir of 1920, though there are 8 cataloguing 3 cents each and 10 cataloguing 4 cents each. The scarcest major variety is the 4 skilling official of 1873, perforated 14x13½, which catalogues $20.00, though there are two stamps in the surcharged issue of 1902-03 cataloguing $50.00 each.

Of the 194 varieties of Iceland stamps, by the way, 54 are formed by surcharges, 23 by changes in perforation and 7 by changes in watermark, leaving for the younger collector only 110 major design and value varieties to collect if he does not care to go further. Iceland has used only two types of watermark, the crown and the multiple crosses.

The first Iceland stamps, in 1873, showed the value in skilling, 100 of which equalled one rix daler. In 1873 the currency was changed from skilling to aur, 100 of the latter equalling one krone, or crown, about 26½ cents in U. S. money, and stamps with the new value made their appearance. These, like the first issue and nearly all others to date, were engraved and printed in Copenhagen, Denmark.

In October, 1897, the mail packet "Hjalmar", conveying to Iceland a fresh supply of postage stamps from Denmark, was delayed sixteen days. Meanwhile the stock of 3 aur stamps was exhausted and the authorities, having plenty of the 5 aur on hand, overprinted some of these with the Iceland word "thrir", meaning three, and also with the new figure. This word appears to be "prir" but what resembles a "P" is the Saxon letter "thon" or "thorn", the symbol for "th".

It was charged at the time that these surcharges were unnecessary and were issued only to swindle collectors, but this accusation was proved to be false.

In 1902 it became known that a new set of stamps were in preparation, bearing the portrait of King Christian IX, the first head of a Danish king ever to appear on a postage stamp. A large stock of the old stamps, both straight postal and official, remained in Iceland and the post office authorities decided to use them up by overprinting them "I Gildi—'02-'03", meaning "available during 1902-03", after which they were to be demonetized. Only one-half of each sheet of stamps was run through the press at a time, and the result was numerous interesting errors, some of which run into real money.

The 1907-08 issue, showing the double heads, was engraved at the State Print-

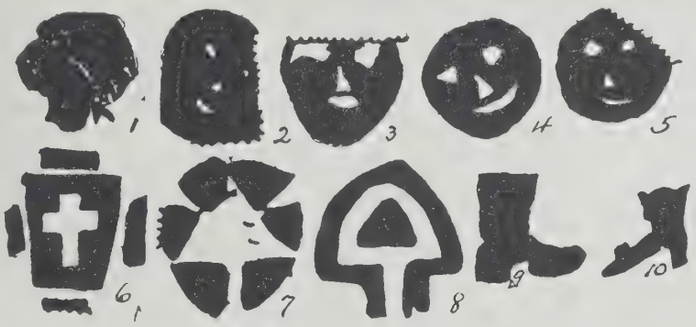
These are on 2c green 1887 adhesives and all three are the property of W. C. McAllister. Nos. 4 and 5, Pumpkin Heads on 2c 1894 or 1895 sent in by Ralph A. Berry, and doubtless extremely scarce on that stamp. No. 6, Cross. No. 7, Arrow Head. These two are on 3c green sent by K. N. Woodward. No. 8, Arrow Head, used at Muscatine, Iowa. Submitted by E. D. Emery. No. 9, Boot, on 3c green owned by W. J. Michels. No. 10, Ladies' Boot, on 2c red brown 1883. This is on a cover sent in by the Nassau Stamp Co.



It is postmarked West Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 11, 1883, and is a mighty nice item.

Delf Norona submits a number of interesting covers bearing Columbian stamps and Columbians combined with other issues. A number of these show registration markings and the registration handstamps used at that time certainly are interesting and have been neglected.

On one, an 8c Columbian and 2c 1894 are tied to a cover by a double oval 32x26mm. At the top is "Lafayette," at the bottom "Indiana" and in the center R E G. This is magenta. Another with the same stamps, one struck by the postmark the other by a large three-ring target having above and below these rings segments of two circles. "Registered—Mar 16 1895 Durango, Colo." in three lines unframed. Purple.

Another 10c on piece cancelled with black oval "Allegheny, Pa." At the left "Registered Apr 26 1895 Allegheny Pa." in 3 lines framed by an oblong 45x26mm. Still another 10c tied to a piece by "Registered Sep 18 1894 Staunton, Va." framed by an oblong 44x28mm. The sides of the oblong are nearly 1mm thick. Magenta.

A pair of 4c Columbian and a 2c 1894-5 each cancelled by a double circle, the outer one 17mm and the inner one 12mm in diameter. Postmarked "Middle Grove Ill Mar 11 1895." All markings black. There is nothing except the amount of postage to indicate that this cover was registered.

Mr. Norona also sends a number of 2c brown stamped envelopes of the 1884 series all postmarked "Smithsburg, Md." Up to July 15, 1885, the postmarks are round and after July 29, 1885, they are octagonal.

Mr. Norona writes that he is forming a collection of postmarks used in his home State from the earliest times to date, and finds it an extremely fascinating side line. The suggestion is passed along for the benefit of those who desire to take advantage of it.

Army Franks were mentioned in these notes a short time ago and from W. E. Whitnall comes the information that they have been proven to be entirely spurious. Mr. Whitnall states that this was printed in the WEEKLY some time ago.

NEW HUNGARY MONETARY UNIT

K. L. Manning sends us the following in regard to the new monetary unit of Hungary, based upon correspondence between the U. P. U. and Hungary:—

On January 1, 1927, the pengö monetary unit (1 pengö=100 fillers) will be introduced in Hungary. In order to accustom the public to it and facilitate the transition to the new monetary unit, the Administration of Hungary, on April 1, 1926, published its postage rates in crowns with the equivalents in the new money, and, since that date, issued new postage stamps with the value indicated in pengös.

"Meanwhile, and in the future, the following new postage stamps will be issued on the basis of 4 fillers to 500 crowns and 1 pengö 12,500 crowns:—

4, 8, 16, 20, 32, 40, 50, 80 fillers, 1, 2, 5 pengös.

Post cards of 4 and 8 fillers, and letter cards of 16 fillers, will also be issued. The present stamps and postcards will be valid, in the meantime, together with the new stamps in pengö currency. The postage rates fixed in Hungarian crowns, and their equivalents in gold centimes, published in the Table of Rates and Charges collected under the regime of the Stockholm Convention, will not undergo any change.

I have the honor to request you to kindly communicate the foregoing to the Administrations of the Union. I add that specimens of each of the new postal values enumerated above will be sent to you later on."

I also reproduce the letter which the International Bureau addressed to the Hungarian Office on receipt of the letter quoted above, as well as the reply of that Office:

"In order that we may be in a position to publish as complete information as possible it would be advantageous for us to know the equivalent in pengös and fillers of the following rates which appear in the Table of Equivalents (edition of January, 1926):

800 crowns (rate for prints, including those for the blind); 1,600 crowns (minimum charge for samples); 6,000 crowns (registry fee, and return receipt requested at time of mailing); 12,000 crowns (return receipt requested after mailing).

According to the new rates indicated in your letter above mentioned, we suppose that the equivalent of 12,000 crowns will be 96 fillers, and that of 6,000 crowns 48 fillers; but, on the other hand, we do not see what will be the equivalents of 800 and 1,600 crowns."

Reply of Hungary: "I have the honor to inform you that the rates for mail articles originating in Hungary and destined for abroad remain effective, as fixed in crowns, until December 31, 1926. Rates which can not be converted into fillers without a remainder may be paid wholly or partly by means of stamps whose value is expressed in crowns. For example, 800 crowns may be represented by a postage stamp of 4 fillers (500 crowns) and a postage stamp of 300 crowns; or 1,600 crowns by one stamp of 4 and one of 8 fillers (1,500 crowns) and one stamp of 100 crowns.

The old stamps still being valid, these rates may also be paid by means of stamps of 800 or 1,600 crowns. The equivalent of 6,000 crowns is, as you state in your letter, 48 fillers; and that of 12,000 crowns is 96 fillers."

FINEST ENGRAVED STAMP CHOSEN

At a meeting of the Cincinnati Collectors Club the most beautiful engraved stamp was chosen by a committee of Cincinnati artists, composed of John Rettig, Howard Sharp and James Niven. The stamp was selected from a lot of over fifty different varieties chosen by collectors from all over the world. After a two-hour session, the 8 Groschen blue Austria of the Charity set of 1926 was selected. The R. K. Thomson Memorial Medal given by the Cincinnati Collectors Club, will be awarded to the engraver of this stamp at the convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 9, 10 and 11. The Austrian Ambassador will appoint some one to accept the medal for the engraver. It is a very handsome affair. Upon the two bars suspended from chains are "Robert K. Thomson" and "Memorial." The main part is circular in shape with the name of the Society and a handsome representation of the triangular 1d Cape of Good Hope. Every stamp collector should make the the minds of some, its prices are stable, with a steady advance. Thus, anyone investing in the better stamps of Iceland knows for a certainty that a few years later he will have earned a nice interest on his investment.

In closing I wish to pay tribute to Mr. Merell, the "daddy" of the KFRC Stamp Club and, as a matter of fact, the originator of the first radio stamp club in the world. Everywhere through the United States as well as abroad, the philatelic press is commenting most favorably on this club of yours and much praise is given Mr. Merell for his unselfish work, which is wholly a labor of love on his part. The work is not light—the duties have in fact become very heavy—and I want to add my word of thanks to Mr. Merell for all he is accomplishing.

THE SURCHARGED STAMPS OF SIAM

Fourth Provisional Issue

Issued in September, 1890

consisting of surcharge similar to preceding except that the stamp is that of 3 atts of the regular issue of 1887. The surcharge is in black and made by means of handstamps prepared by the Post and Telegraph Department. The remarks concerning the number of operations employed in making the surcharges of the preceding issue apply also to this. Two types are recognized as genuine, altho Gibbons records a third (S. G. No. 33) regarding which there exists some doubt. Approximately 110,000 stamps received this surcharge.

1 ATT ON 3 ATTS

Type I, (12), (Scott's No. 21)

One minor variety exists, with the English numeral double.

Type II, (13), (Scott's No. 26)

Type II is much rarer than Type I.

Description and differences between the two above types:

Type I.—Siamese numeral similar to that found in the third issue; the same remark applies to the Siamese character for "att". English numeral is longer and thicker with small base and long sharp upper serif.

Type II.—Differs greatly from Type I. Siamese numeral larger. The characters in Siamese word "att" are spread apart, comma being placed about twice as far above the other characters, and lies almost horizontally; the second character appears compressed laterally and is longer than in Type I. English numeral is thick and similar to Type I except that base appears broken off.

Fifth Provisional Issue

and consisted of the surcharge "2 Atts" on the 3 Atts stamp of the regular issue of 1887. The surcharge is composed of the same components as the previous issue, with a similar arrangement. Three major varieties are recognized in this group without minor varieties.

Description of Surcharges—Type I.—Base of Siamese figure "2" usually is considerably below that of first character in Siamese word "Atts". English numeral approximately same height as second character, and has short serif. Type II: Base of Siamese numeral approximately level with first portion of Siamese word "Atts". Tail of comma inclined upward. English numeral narrower than in Type I, and without serif. Type III: Is the same surcharge as Type II printed on Type I of the 4th Provisional Issue.

Type I, (14), (Scott's No. 27).
Type II, (15), (Scott's No. 28).
Type III, (16), (Scott's, not listed).

Sixth Provisional Issue

Printed in March, 1891

Consisted of surcharge of numeral "2" in Siamese and English with Siamese word "Atts" between, upon the 3 Atts stamp of the regular issue of 1887. The surcharge was applied to the stamps by means of metal type, some 21,000 stamps being surcharged. Five major types with a number of minor varieties are recognized.

Type I, (17), (Scott's No. 29).

Two varieties are found in this type, one in which the comma above the Siamese word "atts" is horizontal, and one in which the comma is placed almost vertical. Variations are also found in respect to the size and shape of the English figure "2."

Type II, (18), (Scott's No. 30).

Slightly heavier surcharge than type I; Comma placed farther to the right, the head being level with the right margin of the first character in Siamese word "atts". Second character in Siamese "atts" heavier and broader than in type I. English figure "2" more angular than in type I.

Type III, (19), (Scott's No. 31).

This is the smallest and neatest of the five surcharges in this issue. Head of comma is slightly to right of center of first character in "atts" and placed a little higher than in preceding surcharge, its tail is directed upward at an angle of about 45°. The second character in "atts" is long and slender with a graceful curving upward top line.

Type IV, (20), (Scott's No. 31).

Surcharge composed of smaller characters than other types except Type III, which it resembles except for heavier printing. The comma is placed high with more acute angle between its tail and head. The English figure "2" is similar to Type III, in contour but slightly larger and much heavier.

Type V, (21), (Scott's No. 31).

Heaviest surcharge of this issue. Siamese figure "2" larger than in preceding types. Head of comma impinges on top of first character of "atts"; its tail is about twice as long as in other types, with small curve. Second character in "atts" taller, broader and heavier. English figure "2" heavy block type, about same height as in Type IV, but heavier and slightly broader; its upper end does not curve under but extends almost straight downward and ends adruptly.

5M brown, 10M rose, 15M blue* 1.35

Egypt Agricultural Congress

This set, too, is one of the popular ones. Our first supplies of these were less than expected and we filled many orders for less than cost rather than disappoint our customers. This offer cancels our former price of $3.25 and we can make no guarantee that we can supply at the present price after our present stock is gone.

5m brown, 10m rose, 15m blue, 50m green, 100m lilac, 200m violet* 3.50

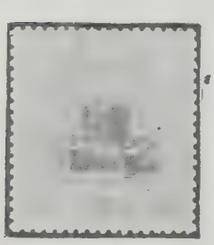
Two very attractive and popular sets.

Extra Special—Japan Coronation 10s



This stamp, 10s ultramarine and dark blue, Scott No. 146, cat. $3.00 each, is one of the scarcest $3.00 20th stamps. Scarcer than many which list $10.00 each. No dealer has any supply to speak of, and most of the holdings in Japan were destroyed by the earthquake. An Asiatic speculator who has been buying every copy of this stamp he could find for years, decided he needed money and we secured the limited lot he was able to pick up. Regardless of catalog, we advise our readers to get this item, as a few years will surely show it is cheap at our price. Nine collections out of ten miss it. These prices are special for a few weeks only. Prices—superb unused, $1.68; fine postally used (rare) 2.50 Block of four, mint, only a few 8.00

(A short time ago we had a few of these and offered them for $1.75. They went like "hot cakes", cleaning up the few our Japanese agent had or could get, and we turned down many orders).

Memel Packet Bargain

100 all different stamps of Memel, practically all unused, cat. value over $11.00, each packet at about one-fifth catalog. This is a "snap" and a money saver.

Price Only 2.35

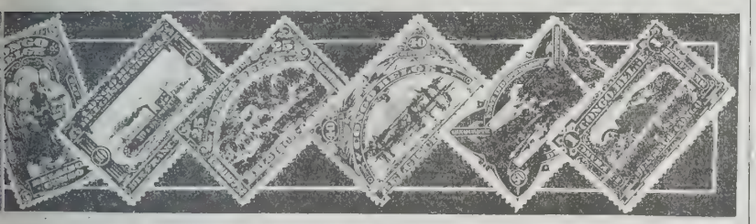
Congo Free State



The obsolete issues of this country are jumping fast in value and wholesale prices some items are double and triple Scott's cat. prices, which mean nothing at all on ny of these stamps. Our prices on these beautiful stamps are based on cost, and in ne cases we are paying double what we got the same stamps for three months ago. we have said in the past, you had better fill in your Congo spaces.

HANDSOME FRENCH COLONIAL PICTORIALS

A comparison of your 1925 and 1926 catalogs will show you what has happened to many of the values in these sets, and this is only the beginning. In fact, changes are so rapid we ourselves do not know just what is current and what is obsolete. Prices on obsolete issues are based on cost and even if they seem high, we advise you to buy, as they are going much higher before long. You'll make no mistake in filling your spaces NOW.

EDITORIAL

The Fourth of July did not pass unnoticed in a philatelic sense and we received from several readers envelopes with July 4th cancellations, commemorating the 150th anniversary of the independence of the United States. Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer did himself proud by using a three cent Centennial stamped envelope flanked with a copy of the Liberty Bell 2c and 5c Ericsson which bore the postmarks both of the Model Post Office type and of the regulation Philadelphia form. These are historical souvenirs whose interest will be emphasized by time.

Recently two publications of wide circulation and national appeal sought the services of two philatelists, competent to conduct stamp departments in these magazines; and we are pleased to say that the quest has been successful. There is no mistaking the swing of the pendulum in favor of philately and we realize that the papers of general circulation do not act as pioneers, in a stamp sense, for sentimental reasons, but that they are impelled to include collecting as a subject in which there is wide interest because it is good business policy to do so.

The Thirteenth Philatelic Congress of Great Britain which was held in Liverpool several weeks ago must have been a memorable occasion, judging from the reports that have reached us of its pleasant activities. While we cannot dismiss the thought that these annual meetings abroad are regarded somewhat more seriously than our own conventions are, yet there are social asides that give the convocations there a delightful flavor. On each of the four days of the Congress, papers were read and it was evident that the delegates stuck to their subject. Among the papers that were prepared it seems that Mr. A. J. Sefi's treatise of Philatelic Exhibitions was entitled to special mention, as he was definite in his statements as to the stimulating qualities of such displays. Too, Mr. Fred J. Melville gave a lantern lecture to the juniors. Two names were added to the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists in those of Mr. J. H. Chapman of Leeds, England, and Mr. Paul de Smeth, Brussels, respectively. There was an attendance of about eighty at the closing banquet. The Congress Cup was won by Mr. C. R. Lewis, whose paper, "Pre-label Days," was read by him at the first day's session; and Nottingham is to be the seat of the 1927 Congress. It has been suggested that Nottingham adopt the convenience afforded by badges with names of delegates, a custom that has prevailed here for many years.

Some time ago, we published the advertisement of the Pony Express as published in the New York Herald of March 26th, 1860 and the Missouri Republican, March 26th, 1860; and now through the co-operation of a correspondent, we are enabled to present the announcement that appeared in a Chicago newspaper, the Tribune, of the same period: "Pony Express! Ten Days to San Francisco. Letters will be received at the office of the United States Express Company at the corner of Clark & Lake streets, which will be forwarded to connect with the Pony, leaving St. Joseph Wednesday and Saturday. Express charges: Letters weighing ½ ounce or under 1 ounce, $2; letters weighing over 1 ounce, $4. The half ounce letters will be reduced to $1 after July 1." This advertisement must have been published early in June, 1860. When the telegraph had been completed to Fort Kearney, the rates were reduced to $1 a half ounce.

In the issue of June 7th, there was a reference to a letter that Mr. R. McP. Cabeen, Chicago, had written to a woman historian who was preparing a paper on the early railway mail service and in this connection, we now add the information that should have been forthcoming when the subject was first broached. Not alone is exact data to be found in Herman Toaspern's article in the Collectors Club Philatelist for 1923 but illustrations are given in full. It is apparent that this valuable monograph is indispensable to one who would have a comprehensive understanding of this branch of the mail service. Here we may say that the July number of the Collectors Club Philatelist has been received and its contents are of a range and value that make an impression that is not to be described in any perfunctory words. We shall try to bear testimony to the wealth of material in this issue, in the succeeding number of the paper.

"Will you please give authority for the statement that the reason why the unused stamps of the 1857-60 issue of the U. S. were once sold by dealers in sets at face value or below was because of the stamps remaining in southern post offices, when the war broke out?" asks a reader. The postal separation of the north and south was a rather slow process and the transmission of mails was gradually suspended by the north. Mail management was assumed entirely by the Confederate States within their geographical limits after May 31st, 1861. All postmasters and other postal employees were directed to render their final accounts up to that time to the Postmaster General at Washington and to return with their papers, all postage stamps and stamped envelopes belonging to the United States. It stands to reason that all the stamps were not returned and it is fair to assume that some of them that went forward to Washington may have found their way into the philatelic marts of trade, in view of the demonetization of the stamps. It was specified by the Confederate States that until postage stamps and stamped envelopes were provided for the use of the south, all mail matter was required to be paid for in money. The foregoing statements are based on a transcript of the transactions of the Confederate States and are recognized as authentic; and consequently they may be accepted as "authority."

Mr. Anoir Mariam Khan, Baghdad, (Iraq) writes: "I am sending, in consequence of my letter of April 14th, 1926, information that the new surcharge on the current stamps appeared only up to the 6 shahis and the stamps are no longer on sale. They have been succeeded by another new issue which is now being used on letters throughout Persia and foreign countries. Stamps up to 30 krans have been surcharged and the last stamps have been on sale exactly one and one-half months." It was to be expected that Persia's political changes would be reflected in its postage stamps and it has not been the unexpected that has happened.

The many collectors of first flight contract air mail cannot complain of dull business and they have their hands full in annexing covers that tell the story of the inaugural flights. It is something to be in the game at the start and these souvenirs of aerial enterprise have a host of admirers. In fact, by their patronage of the new postal airways, collectors do much to make them possible. New routes proposed are between Cleveland, Ohio, and Louisville, Ky., via Akron, Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati and from Washington, D. C., to Philadelphia.

COSTLY COVERS:—

OUR attention has been called to a new Canadian First Day cover and we are indebted to E. E. Goodchild for particulars. It is postmarked "Ottawa, July 1926" and franked with a 2c stamp. The missive is in the form of the old style letter-card and was sent out from the office of the Postmaster General July 1. Upon the inside in Old English is the following message:—"To commemorate the beginning of the sixtieth year of confederation and the restoration of 2c postage I am sending you this greeting prepaid at penny postage rates, which is effective from this date." (Signed) Charles Murphy, Postmaster General of Canada.

A MOST interesting cover is at hand from P. F. Wolsieffer, and we acknowledge the same with pleasure. It is an interesting souvenir of the Sesqui-Centennial celebration from a philatelic standpoint. It is postmarked "Philadelphia, July 4, 1926," and it bears a cancellation that is self-explanatory. It reads as follows:—"Model Postoffice Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition." A unique feature of the cover is the fact that it consists of a 3c carmine centennial stamped envelope of 1876, supplemented by the 2c Sesqui-Centennial and a 5c Ericsson.

IN addition to the courtesy extended the WEEKLY by Mr. Wolsieffer, we have also received "Model Post-office" cancellations from Harry Ioor and C. W. Urie. Mr. Urie takes large space elsewhere in this issue to advertise patriotic covers mailed from the Exhibition Grounds at Philadelphia on July 4. The cover received by us is decorated with a representation of the flag and eagle and the printing is in red and blue.

TWO distinctive cancellations were used on the First Flight Contract Airmail between Philadelphia and Washington on July 6. Out of Philadelphia a purple cancellation showing the Liberty Bell was used, as described elsewhere in this issue. We are indebted to Albert E. Gorham for one of these covers. Two covers sent by Mr. Gorham made round trips from Philadelphia to Washington. One bears a Philadelphia marking of 10 A.M., a Washington receiving marking of 1.30, departing at 3 P.M., and Philadelphia receiving at 5 P.M. The other left Washington 3 P.M. and got back to Washington for a 12.30 P.M. receiving marking. Both have the model P. O. cancellations.

JOSEPH A. STEINMETZ sends greetings via Washington, his letter having been mailed at 3 P.M. July 6. The cancellation is like those ordinarily used, with the exception that the inscription "Sesqui-Centennial Route" is used in place of the Liberty Bell design. A similar cover also reaches us from Mr. Gorham.

A DREAM COME TRUE

What must be called, I think, the "Cooperstown Find" has just been brought to light by George R. Cooley, an Albany collector and a member of the Fort Orange Stamp Club of that city. Through his friend and business associate, Frank Hale, Mr. Cooley was given permission to help himself to the huge mass of correspondence which had accumulated in the attic store-room of the First National Bank of Cooperstown, of which Mr. Hale is the genial Cashier. From what was found it would appear that from about 1825 (or even earlier) to 1872, at first the Otsego County Bank, later the First National, saved all letters in the original envelopes, tying them securely in monthly bundles which in most cases had quite evidently never been touched since first made up. I was fortunate enough to be asked to help in cleaning out the attic and in sorting and examining the covers, and the readers of MEKEEL'S will be interested in a brief statement of results.

Three trips were necessary, on each of which six or seven good-sized wooden boxes of old letters were removed. The sorting consumed some weeks of such spare time as two busy men could give to it, and is not yet entirely finished. In the following statement it should be remembered that the numbers refer always to entire covers with the letters inside, so that dates are always available for purposes of study and reference.

There were found 83 covers bearing 86 copies of the five-cent 1847. The condition of these copies averaged unusually high, by far the greater number of them having perfect frame lines and a surprising number showing excess margins. There were three pairs. All found were used in 1850 and 1851, the letters for 1845 to 1849 for some reason being missing. As to postmarks and cancellations, the five-centers classified as follows:

General cancellations.
New York,	41
Utica,	15
Cherry Valley,	3
Syracuse,	4
Albany and Buffalo Railroad,	3
Albany,	3
Steamboat,	2
Miscellaneous (Rockton, Elmira, Rochester, Fort Plain, Troy, etc.),	12
	83
Cancellations.
Square Red Grid (all New York),	31
Round Red Grid,	13
Round Black Grid (no New York),	5
Round Blue Grid (mostly Utica),	17
Town cancellation on stamp,	9
Pen,	6
Red Smudge,	2
	83

Of the ten-cent 1847, there were four, one an exceptional copy as to centering, margins and light cancellation.

The extent of the find is evident from the following figures, which closely approximate (an actual count has been impossible) the number of items included:

Number 33,	1800
Number 44,	2800
Number 65,	3600
1863, three-cent envelope,	3500
1864, three-cent envelope,	1200
1853, envelope (common type), buff paper,	2500
Stampless covers,	4000
Number 114, three-cent, 1869,	300
Three-cent, green, 1870-3,	700
	20400

Of the 1853 envelopes, all dies, on both colors of paper, were represented. There were about forty Black Jack covers, including three bisects, two from Milford, New York, used October 26 and 28, 1865, and one from South Worcester, New York, July, 1864. They are vertical cuts, cancelled with black targets, which do not, however, tie the stamps to the covers save as this is done through the perforation holes. One of these is on a double-weight letter and consists of two bisects on the same cover.

There were numerous examples of every variety of one, two and three cent stamps from 1861 to 1882, used as revenues on checks and other documents.

The only foreign stamp turned up among the thousands was from Canada, number 5, a beautiful copy, with boardwalk margins and a not dated cancellation.

Any brief notice is, of course, inadequate for a careful description of the many cancellations, pairs, strips, etc. But mention may be made that for number 33 there was but one separate paid cancellation found among the entire 1200. Does this indicate that such cancellation is rarer than now priced or supposed?

There were also but two copies of the double transfer line through three cents, a variety which is priced at ten times the figure for a paid cancellation.

J. I. WYER, Albany, New York.

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

SESQUI - CENTENNIAL

On July 6th, the Sesqui-Centennial air mail route was established with practically no previous notice. It was necessary to address the covers on July 4th in order to get them into the mail on time.

I offer (1) a first day cover mailed at Philadelphia showing the Liberty Bell postmark, (2) one mailed on the first trip from Washington and (3) in addition a 2c Sesqui-Centennial with the Centennial cancellation mailed July 4th. The three covers, which are likely to be more desirable than usual because of the limited number distributed, at $1.50. Only twenty-five sets are available and when these are gone, I have no more to offer.

If you are looking for first day contract air mail service covers of the other routes, I have them all in stock.

White Plains Commemorative Stamp

Several weeks back Dr. Jason Samuel Parker, an ardent philatelist of White Plains, advised me that influential personages in his vicinity had made a request of the Department for a commemorative stamp commemorating the battle of White Plains. He incidentally mentioned that this city was also the birthplace of New York State. Dr. Parker wrote at that time that he was digging into the archives for a subject to be used in connection with such a stamp providing that they were successful, and that they had found a wonderful painting of soldiers struggling up hill with a piece of artillery. The faces are said to be actual paintings of men who were in the battle. Another picture located was one of an important conference being held under a tree. A local artist with these subjects at hand designed preliminary sketches and it was the hopes of the committee that with these sketches they would be able to interest the Postmaster General.

On July 6th I received a wire from Dr. Parker telling me that the Postmaster General had authorized such a stamp and this will possibly make its appearance in October, the 150th anniversary of the battle of White Plains. Washington has not as yet definitely decided upon any of the details—hence, such information will follow later.

1922, 5c Roosevelt, Imperforate Vertically

A well known New York dealer has submitted for my inspection a pane of one hundred of the 5c flat plate Roosevelt stamp, plate number 16332, wherein the horizontal perforations are normal. The vertical perforations are diagonal, running from the lower right corner to the upper left. These diagonal perforations, however, cross the sheet in such a manner that we have on the right side pairs of the variety without the vertical perforations giving us copies imperforate vertically.

Air Mail Notes

The Boston-New York route was inaugurated on July 1st in accordance with our previous announcement, a plane having left New York in the morning for Boston and one leaving Boston in the evening for New York. The plane going both ways stopped at Hartford. Covers that I have seen bear the well known contract air mail route first day cancellations, those from Boston being postmarked in magenta and those from New York and Hartford in black. In addition to the air mail postmark, Hartford used a small round elliptical postmark reading, "Hartford, Conn."

I wish to thank Messrs. G. G. Ryder and P. K. Stone for first day covers from Boston. Mr. Ryder used a postal gotten up by the Boston Chamber of Commerce on which they send greetings by air mail on the first day. Mr. J. E. Guest kindly sent a cover from New York via Hartford to Philadelphia—a most interesting combination.

The establishment of the contract air mail service between the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia and Washington came as quite a surprise for the bids were not opened until July 1st and the service was established on July 6th. This is certainly fast work for one of the Government departments. It seems that the only bid received was from the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Air Service, Inc., of Philadelphia and as the planes were on hand, the service was inaugurated immediately. The first official notice was issued on July 2nd wherein we were informed that "effective July 6th contract air mail service will be established over route C. A. M. 13 from Philadelphia, Pa. to Washington, D. C., and return, a distance each way of 123 miles." This r is to be known as the Sesqui-Center route and will be operated during Exposition on a schedule whereby pl leave Philadelphia at 10.00 A. M. leave Washington at 3.00 P. M. On first trip, however, the plane left Ph delphia at 11.00. Covers carried on service bear a distinctive air mail p mark showing the Liberty Bell in center and are printed in mage Washington used the normal contract mail postmark reading, "Sesqui-Cen nial Route." Covers addressed to P adelphia bear the backstamp of the M Post Office at the Exposition grounds it is near the grounds that the pla leave and arrive.

I wish to thank Mr. H. M. South for a first day cover.

Bids for contract air mail service tween Cleveland, Ohio and Louisv Ky., via Akron, Columbus, Dayton Cincinnati were opened at Washington July 1st at the same time as bids w opened on the Washington-Philadel service.

Two bids were received for the Cl land-Louisville route, one being that the Kaess Aircraft Engineering Corpo tion of Amityville, N. Y., and a sec bid from the International Airway C pany of Cleveland. The first conc agrees to carry the mail for $2.20 pound per mile, while the second f asks $3.00. It was the latter rate quo by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Service on the Philadelphia-Washing Sesqui-Centennial route.

2c Sesqui-Centennial

July 4th, the 150th Anniversary of "Signing of the Declaration of Indepe ence" was the occasion of numerous ters being mailed from the Model P Office on the Sesqui-Centennial groun While no special cancellation was p pared for this day, they used the spe cancellation designed for the Mo Office.

Messrs. P. M. Wolsieffer and Wi M. Potts kindly remembered us with f day covers.

nter. Mr. Norona states he has just ceived a small supply of these stamps om a non-collecting relative in the ilippines, who says that they were aced on sale for a few days early in ay and discontinued on the 20th. On plying at the post office for ten sets these stamps which consist of all lues from 2 centavos to 1 peso, only ght sets were supplied and these all th straight edges. On finding out that ch stamps were not desired by stamp llectors they were returned to the post ice and a request was made for better pies, but exchange was denied until the irector of Posts was interviewed when stamps perforated on all four sides were furnished. Mr. Norona, however, states that all of the eight sets are badly centered. He mentions this in order to show that there was speculation going on at the post office and that those who purchased over the counter obtained the straight edges or the poorly centered copies. These stamps, along with the imperforate varieties unsurcharged, issued sometime back, all have a speculative tinge and it is to be regretted that the Philippine Director of Posts is permitting such transactions.

All the stamps surcharged appear to be perforated 11 with the exception of the 1 peso which is perforated 10. The 2c, 6c and 10c are surcharged in red and the 4c, 8c, 10c, 12c, 16c, 20c, 26c, 30c and 1 peso in violet.

CONGO.—Mr. Henry Hooreman reports the appearance of the 20c green, in the type of the 75c of the 1925 issue.

BELGIAN EAST AFRICA.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends for chronicle copies of the new 20c green Congo stamp with the surcharge "Ruanda Urundi" in two lines in black, as formerly overprinted for use in this territory.

BULGARIA.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. and Eugen Sekula have shown us three values of stamps bearing the likeness of Botew, which were issued June 1st last. Botew is a national hero who died in 1876 for the liberty of his country while fighting with the Turks. The values and colors are 1l olive green, 2l blue violet and 4l brown red.

FRENCH COLONIES.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. advise us that the 1fr blue of the following French Colonies have been surcharged "1f 25" in red: Cameroons, Dahomey, French Equatorial Africa, French Guiana, French Guinea, French Soudan, Ivory Coast, Madagascar, Mauritania, Martinique, New Caledonia, Reunion, St. Pierre & Miquelon, Senegal, Somali Coast, Niger Territory, Togo, Upper Volta, Wallis and Futuna slands, Ubangi.

FRENCH OCEANICA.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. call our attention to the following new items of this colony: The 1fr blue has been surcharged "1fr 25" in red; the 5frs grey and blue bears the overprint "Trois Franos" in black and the 5frs green and black has been changed by the surcharge "Dix Franos" in red.

GREECE.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the 25l lilac zigzag roulette, issued in commemoration of the centenary of the month's siege of Missolonghi by the Turks, and the garrison, after being reduced to nearly half its numbers, cut itself through the besieging armies of the Turks who afterwards entered the town and practically destroyed it.

GUADELOUPE.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. have shown us the 1fr blue with the surcharge "1f25" in red and the 2fr with the overprint "1f05" in blue.

GUATEMALA.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. and the Economist Stamp Co. send for record, copies of the 1p brown and 3p green, in the current designs but with the date "1926" instead of "1902" as on the 1p and "1919" on the 3p. The new stamps are the work of Waterlow & Sons Limited, London.

MONACO.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 75c red on yellow, Prince Louis profile design.

PANAMA.—In addition to the values noted July 5th the Metropolitan Stamp Co. send the 2c red, 4c grey and 5c blue all in the same design; the 8c lilac, 10c plum, 12c olive green, 15c ultramarine and 20c brown are of a different design with a view of a statue in the centre with the inscription "Congreso De Bolivar" beneath. The 24c grey and 50c black are oblong in shape and beside the inscription noted above show a view of a long hall with the words "Sala del Congreso de Bolivar 1926" below. From an official circular sent with the stamps we learn the numbers to be issued are, 250,000 each of the ½, 1, 2 and 4c; 200,000 of the 5c; 150,000 of the 8c; 100,000 each of the 10 and 12c; 75,000 of the 15c; 50,000 of the 20c; 25,000 of the 24c and 15,000 of the 50c.

PATIALA STATE.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that the 3a blue, De la Rue print of India star watermark, has been overprinted "Patiala State" in two lines in black for use in this native state.

ODD BITS:—

WE are advised that Karl D. Ebers is unable to secure replies to letters sent Lloyd Martin and Kenneth Pressler, both of Wooster, O.

A NEW and enlarged pricelist has been received from Anton Huber, Munich, Germany. It advertises many sets per ten and hundred, and will prove valuable to any dealer for reference purposes. A copy will be sent on request.

A NEW house organ is at hand in The Flying Mail, published by C. L. Hall, 4625 N. Leavitt St., Chicago, Ill. The publisher styles it "a breezy sheet" and it lives up to the motto. It is published "as often as justified," and a sample may be had upon request.

SUPPLEMENTING our acknowledgment of first flight airmail covers on the Boston-New York service, we are pleased to note additional courtesies of this character from Albert E. Gorham, Frank H. Gurnee and Raymond V. Bahr. In connection with the Boston-New York service, we note that New York and Hartford used the large black cancellation, while Boston had a violet.

J. MARSHALL of 12 E. 97 St., N. Y. City is about to leave for Europe. He will make an extended trip and arrive home October 1.

THE contract for airmail service from Philadelphia to Washington has been awarded to the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Airmail Service. The first flight was to have been 11 A.M. Monday, July 5. The P. O. Department, on advice of Joseph A. Steinmetz, accepted the cancellation of the Liberty Bell as a distinctive feature of the service.

THE restoration of penny postage by Canada is made the subject of an interesting story in the Toronto Globe of July 2. The story is illustrated with pictures of Sir William Mulock, Postmaster General in 1898, and Hon. Charles Murphy, who up to July 1 was Postmaster General, and six different Canad stamps of 2c and 3c values. The rate Great Britain remains 3c.

Hon. J. A. Calder was born on a farm in Oxford County, Ontario, Sept. 21, 1868. Moved to Winnipeg in 1882. Educated, Winnipeg Public Schools and Collegiate and Manitoba University and graduated in 1886—Honor Course in Science. Silver Medalist.

He began teaching school 1887. Continued in educational work till 1907 as country school teacher, village schools, high schools, normal school, then Deputy Minister of Education and finally as Minister of Education in First Government of Province of Manitoba.

Moved from Winnipeg to Moose Jaw in 1891 and to Regina in 1899, still a resident of Regina, studied law and was called to the Bar of Saskatchewan in 1905. Entered politics and never practiced profession.

Mr. Calder was a member of Saskatchewan Provincial Government from 1905 to 1917 and during that period held portfolios of Minister of Education, Provincial Treasurer, Commissioner of Highways and Minister of Railways and Telegraph.

In 1917, during the war period, joined the Federal Union Government under Sir Robert Borden as Prime Minister. Was Minister of Immigration and Colonization and President of the Council. Resigned from the Government in 1921 and was appointed member of the Senate. He began collecting stamps about 1876, has continued ever since. In turn a general collector, British Colonies, British North Americans, including revenues; now specializes in British North Americans only. About ten years ago Mr. Calder took up the study of Law Stamps issued by Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Articles fully describing these have been published in the Collectors Club Journal and other publications. Some three years ago he was appointed by the Collectors Club of New York a member of Committee to prepare material for revision of Howe's Handbook on Canadian Stamps and was assigned the first "cents" issue of 1859. Has been at work on this task ever since and expects to complete same this year.

In younger days Mr. Calder was a keen football and lacrosse player. Afterwards took up tennis, curling, golf, shooting and fishing.

He was married in 1910 to Miss Eva Leslie of St. Marys, one son Jim Junior, also a keen stamp collector.

The New York Exhibition and philately in general may well be congratulated upon securing the services of Mr. Calder on the Jury of Awards.

THE 2c COLUMBIAN SPECIALIZED ARTICLE II

By E. L. RANDALL, Corning, California.

Since preparing an article, "The 2c Columbian Specialized," which appeared in MEKEEL'S under date of December 21, 1925, the writer has continued to make an extensive study of the 2c Columbian. Those interested in this stamp ought to familiarize themselves with the previous article, as this one is supplemental to, and a continuation of, my previous comments. New die varieties and additional cancellations will be noted. Since the publication of the first article I have received many communications, both critical and helpful.

As my study has progressed, the more I am confident that the 2c Columbian supplies as many shades, cancellations and other interesting varieties as any U. S. stamp. The stamp is large, of fine color, takes a clear-cut cancellation, and is the most extensively circulated stamp of any commemorative issue. Issued for the prevailing letter rate in 1893-94, some dates will be found ranging from 1895 to 1898. It bears many of the old cancellations as well as showing the transition from the old to the new cancellations and postmarks. For these reasons I may be pardoned for predicting that the 2c Columbian will rapidly come to the front as a stamp to be collected and specialized.

SHADES: Nothing much can be added to the previous classification, except that some readers have criticised my basic color of "violet," the color given by Scott. It may be admitted that "violet" was an unfortunate choice for the basic color. The Government information gives the shade as "purple maroon." Personally, I used the color given by Scott as that most generally understood. Here, again, in the color section, is a large field for an expert.

Aside from shades classified in Article I, I have added to my collection a peculiar shade, rather a light shade of mulberry, with a pinkish sheen.

TYPES: To the die varieties may be added several new numbers as follows:

(i) Lower portion of right frameline broken as follows: (1) one-half broken, (2) part broken with part of frameline forming dot below, and (3) small break in central portion of line.

(j) Enlarged or "Squirrel-tail" 2, in both right and left numerals (scarce).

(k) Cap on right and cap on both numerals.

(l) Columbus' hat broken both front and rear (scarce).

Relative to broken frameline, type (1), the break is confined to the outer frameline in lower right corner of stamp; and, as one correspondent suggested, seems to show a progressive damage to the line, finally terminating in the line half broken. Several correspondents have called my attention to this break, which, I have learned, was first mentioned in MEEKEL'S WEEKLY of November 18, 1897.

Generally, there are other minor, or, as someone has said, "Super-minor" varieties which are not mentioned in the above. One has the white picture frame, underneath the left numeral, broken with a dark dash. Likewise both circles surrounding numerals are frequently broken. Another variety, rather scarcer than the last, has a white dot between the words "one cent" usually occurring when some other part of the die is damaged or broken. None of these varieties are unusual. Several collectors have forwarded stamps for my collection and for examination, all of whom are entitled to my thanks.

ODDITIES: Have found one or two more copies of the so called "paste-up" One stamp, Class (i-c) shows a well defined additional outer frameline about ½mm. to right of broken line and extending past the break. Another copy shows a shift in picture of Columbus, with hat badly broken at top and front rim broken away—I call it the "low hat." Among those classed (j), one shows an enlarged and elongated tail, which "re-curves" upward, touching the body of the numeral 2, as though an artist had blocked out the numeral and had forgotten to finish it. A number of copies show caps on numerals, similar to the 1890 issue, but in the Columbian the cap is attached more loosely, a fine hair-line separating the cap from the body of the numeral. Columbus' hat broken both front and rear, I consider one of the scarcer and more interesting types.

CANCELLATIONS: Cancellations cover a large range, including many found on the 3c greens. My collection has been arranged on the basis of historical or progressive development of the various types of cancellation. For instance, starting with the 14mm. bull's eyes or targets and proceed progressively up to the large oval of Boston with and without the letter B. The corks or quarterings are similarly arranged, starting with a small one of two divisions and running up to those of fifteen divisions—one composed of five sharply made arrow points is a beauty. In the same manner are arranged the grids, hob-nails and others, which, to my notion, is the more logical and interesting arrangement.

The colored cancellations, arranged together, include targets, grids, stars, etc. Among them may be noted five pointed stars, with and without circles, small star in center, colored stars with colorless centers and others, which appear in several colors, including purple, magenta, red and green. One superb little star with open center is in plum color, and a similar one is in black. There are various colored oval grids, targets, and one each red and black Maltese cross. The colored targets make a very pretty lot. The black horizontal and vertical grids enclosing letters and numerals, range from 1 to 52 in numerals, and the major portion of the alphabet in letters, including the scarcs S, V and U. The same form also encloses the following combinations: PO,

'S, E. C. S., MS. GMS, Cl, and a arce PA with a small star underneath; so several forms of small stars enosed within grids.

There are many other interesting feaires, which space will not permit deribing. Any opinion given as to scarcity ust be read with reference to the Coımbian only, and has no relation to any her issue. The following may be treated among the scarcer cancellations, and the order mentioned, viz.: Large outned star with hollow center, surrounded cork; various block and colorless letrs, like M within circle, surrounded by ashes; stamp cancelled 500; two more ancelled 94 surrounded by blunt rays evidently a year date); two line diaond with central star; battle-axe; rose; S. in circle; horse's head surrounded y blunt rays; and several forms of ack-o'-Lanterns, all smiling but one hich latter looks like an ugly Indian. he above I consider sufficient to demonrate the general scope of 2c Columbian ancellations.

GENERAL REMARKS: There are several eatures yet to be studied. Take shades, or instance, which run riot. A page of icked copies makes a very pretty appearnce. An expert in paper may find an viting field. The stamp is presumed to e printed on a soft porous white paper. he paper may be found in many varies as to color, thickness and weave. So ar, I have only selected copies of the ery thick and very thin. Some are so orous that black cancellations show clear rough on the back, and invariably the olored ones do, even more plainly than n the face. Occasionally, I mount one ace down to show a clear impression. hen, there is a large and really worthhile field for shifts, etc. My observaons have been confined primarily to rades, die varieties and cancellations, uring an examination of many thousands f copies. About three stamps out of ne hundred attract my attention, and nly two of these, on an average, are eemed worthy of a place in a specialed collection. My only excuse for such philatelic study is—personal hobby,—ut I pass along the information for the enefit of anyone who may be interested n the 2c Columbian—the most widely isseminated stamp of any commemoative issue.

Four Types of 10c 1851 Needed To Fill Spaces

Like the 1c of 1851, the 10c stamp of that series is now catalogued in four major types. Very likely hundreds of collectors have neglected to find and classify all these varieties and also very likely hundreds will be sorry a few years from now when types I and IV hit the sky. For years Type I of the 1c passed unnoticed by most collectors, now it lists at from $125 to $1,000 according to shade and plate. The Type I stamps of the 10c are often overlooked today. It is a good time to put them on file.

AN OPPORTUNITY

Recently we unearthed a book containing about 100 copies of the 10c 1851 series. One we made up and put away some years ago. All types are represented in it. Many very fine copies; some that rate good to fine. We can supply the types you lack at prices ranging from 50% to 90% of catalog according to condition.

Cat.			Good.	V. Fine
No. 35.	Type I.	Var. with full shells at bottom	$ 3.00	$10.50
No. 35a.	Type II.	Var. line at top nearly complete	2.00	4.00
No. 35b.	Type III.	Var. lines broken both top and bottom	2.25	4.50
No. 35c.	Type IV.	Outer line recut top or bottom	12.50	30.00

All these and many other varieties, cancellations and covers described in the first section of our new specialized price list now on the press. The first section covers the 1847 and 1851 issues, priced in good condition and in very fine. Something of real value to those puzzled by varying quotations. Every stamp actually in stock. This time you are looking at some real novelties. Are they not refreshing after looking at stars, letters and such commonplace cancellations? How many of these have you seen before? Three were all that I had previously seen, so the lyre, pumpkin and high hat strike me as more common than the rest of them.

Now in this lot of unusual cancellations, it will be more than ordinarily appreciated if you will drop a note or card like this for example—"No. 6 is a panther, from Panther Springs, Oh." That takes but a minute, and everyone will be glad to know what town used these odd cancels. We thank you. Address, "Still River, Mass." thro the summer.

In the above lots, No. 1 is the thin lyre, there being two of them, the other a much more sturdy one. No. 2, and used way back in the sixties before "roll your own" was the slogan! No. 3 is also called an apple. If you have this on cover, suggest you see if it is dated round Thanksgiving time when pumpkin pies are very much in flavor, that may help prove something. No. 4, this was sold in a Kelleher auction some few years ago, and is the only one that seems to be recorded. Strangely enough, a postcard from Footprints, N. Y., was sent in some time past, could this town have used this cancellation? Who knows?

No. 5 Los Angeles, so this is an Angel! No. 6, called a bear in this list. The thing might come if you snapped your fingers and called "Co boss, co boss," however. No. 7, has any of you all seen dis yeah man befo'? It has the appearance of a vaudevillian. No. 8, now here is a true patriotic cancellation. It is the type of cap that Union soldiers wore in '61. The visors always stuck in my mind, for they were about a quarter of an inch thick, and both sides were covered with black shiny patent leather, or linoleum. The cloth was blue, and this cancel is blue. What do you know about this one?

No. 9, this terrapin is late as per custom, coming along in 1894, which issue had many odd cancellations, the Jack o' Lanterns being in considerable number. No. 10 is probably one of those famous Danbury hats, for which there were many styles — Bowlers, Dicers, and assorted Kellys, and Dips.

This is the 14th group of cancellations, and we have only begun. On the second printing of 20 more groups, it will probably be more interesting if the commoner cancellations are entirely omitted, as everyone must have numerous copies of some of the more common cancels, such as the N. Y. city stars; for I once saved up nearly 50 that were absolutely unlike in detail, from that one city alone, so what's the use of showing things like that? They look almost alike in the sixties.

then unpacking it will take a few days to catch up. The frosts and woodchucks have attended to the garden pretty much, and there is not so much to do there, it is a case of see 'em (vegetables) and weep.

C. B. Durland has sent in a pretty cut cork cancel, blue ink, from Carthage, Ill., in a double ring dated July 4th. He has a real patriotic cancel from the same town hit in black ink, and showing a finely cut flag, which will be Forumized. Another cover shows a 2c and 3c '69 used from Boston to Brooklyn, and the insufficient postage is taken care of by a blue pencilled "Due 1" on face of the cover.

A. H. Schumacher has sent in one of those funny ones. It is cleanly struck, all right, and he asks, "Is it an old lady with umbrella, or an ink well?", my answer being, "Is it a Honey Bee, or an inverted thistle—or what have you?" It is on a 3c '67 small grill, and so clear that I'm going to draw it for one of our "Whatisit" groups. I believe that some reader will know what it is.

From A. B. Thacher comes an oddity pmkd. New Britian, Ct. (the home of the Devil & Pitchfork), this also being on a 3c '61. It is a faint printing, and cannot be drawn. It bears a faint resemblance to Sir Walter Raleigh in the days of his "youthage" from a wood cut. Have you seen one like this? On a 3c Cont'l is one of those Jack o' Lanterns that is different, and the sender mentions the shaggy eyebrows, which you will see in a later illustration.

C. F. McAskill sends in two Patriotics, calling attention to the fact that both of the 3c '61s are imperforate vertically. I never really believe these stamps to be so unless they are in unsevered pairs. One cover is made by S. Baynor, 118 William St., N. Y., and is printed in a violet gray showing Liberty and a motto. The other depicts an unfamiliar face in black, under it we read "Brave in the Field—Wise in Council—a true Patriot—Loyal to the Constitution and Union." I guess he is a man of the Navy as he wears a high collar, and side whiskers. He has a very forlorn expression, which may be a clue as to his identity if you have a similar cover.

Please note change in address, and if you write be sure and make the "Still" quite legible, as this will keep it away from Fall, Swift, Three, Deep and all the other little Rivers.

CANAL ZONE ON U. S. A. ERRORS

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Under date of May 28, 1924, President Coolidge, acting under authority of a joint resolution of Congress, approved February 12, 1923, issued a proclamation abrogating the Taft agreement of December 3, 1904. It had been expected that this agreement would be abrogated May 1, 1924, but the date was extended by the State Department to June 1, 1924, "with the understanding that no change is to be made in existing conditions until the end of the fiscal year (i. e., June 30th)." It was according to section 7 of the Taft agreement, which became effective December 12, 1904, that all Canal Zone stamp supplies were purchased from Panama at 40% of face value.

In anticipation of the abrogation of this agreement, the Director of Posts of the Canal Zone (C. H. Calhoun), arranged for the purchase, at cost, of a year's supply of U. S. postage and due stamps, and stationery, overprinted for use in the Canal Zone, and these had been shipped to the Isthmus. There were nine denominations of postage stamps (1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 12c, 15c, 30c, 50c and $1), three of due stamps (1c, 2c and 10c). 1c and 2c stamped envelopes and 1c post cards. The postage and due stamps totalled 3,295,000.

Panama stamps and stationery overprinted "Canal Zone" were withdrawn from sale at the Canal Zone Post Offices at the close of business June 30, 1924, and on the following day, July 1st, overprinted U. S. Postage stamps, etc., were placed on sale.

The 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 12c and 15c postage stamps, and the due stamps, are vertical rectangular in shape (19x22mm.) and the 30c, 50c and $1, horizontal rectangular (22x19 mm), all line engraved and recess printed in sheets of 400 stamps (20x20), with the exception of the $1, the sheets of which comprised only 200 stamps (10x20).

The "Canal Zone" overprint is in two horizontal lines of serifed caps, 2mm. high, with the words measuring 11 and 9 mm. respectively, and spaced vertically from 8 to 9½mm.

The vertical rectangular stamps, in imperforate sheets of 400, were overprinted from a 400 subject overprint plate, before being perforated 11, and separated into Post Office sheets of 100. These Post Office sheets (of 100) have but two margins each (the stamps on the other two sides being straight edged). The plate number appears in the upper (or lower) and the side margins of each Post Office sheet over (or under) the 5th stamp of the upper (or lower) row, and in the side margins opposite the 5th horizontal row.

Had this same overprint plate been used for the higher values (horizontal rectangular), the overprint would have read vertically. That it might be horizontal as on the vertical rectangular stamps, another plate with a different spacing was manufactured, which doubtless was also of 400 subjects, although only the 30c and 50c stamps were in sheets of this size. As the quantity of $1 was small (only 50 sheets of 200), it is unlikely that a 200 subject plate was made up for overprinting this one denomination, but rather that one sheet (200 stamps), or two sheets (400 stamps), were overprinted at one time from the 400 subject plate.

New postage rates, effective April 15, 1925, required the use of fractional values and ½c and 1½c stamps were issued April 15th and 3c and 14c on June 27, 1925. All four values are vertical rectangular in shape, and were overprinted in sheets of 400 (in red on the ½c and black on the other values).

For the vertical rectangular stamps (½c to 15c), a new 400 subject overprint plate was brought into use about May 1925, with letters differently formed and giving sharper and cleaner cut impressions than the original 1924 plate. The difference is most apparent in the letter "A", which has a sharp pointed top instead of the flat top of the first type (1924). The new overprint plate was first used for the 3c issued June 27, 1925, which is not known with the first or flat "A" overprint. As the 14c, issued at the same time, exists only with the flat "A" of the first type, it is evident that th plates (flat "A" and sharp "A") then being used concurrently.

During the fiscal year ending Ju 1925, 5,780,000 postage, and 130,000 age due stamps were overprinted b Bureau, and dispatched to the Isthm

On April 5, 1926, two further were issued with the Canal Zone print, i. e., 17c black and 20c car These are horizontal rectangular in s printed in sheets of 400, and the print (in red on the 17c), is in the s or sharp "A" type. About the same the $1 with the second, or sharp overprint was released, indicating new overprint plates with the sharp were made for both the vertical (15c), and the horizontal rectan stamps (30c to $1), at the same (May 1925), but that the horizonta tangular stamps with the second ty overprint, of the 1925 printing, are being released from Balboa Heigh the old stock exhausts.

All values of the postage series, e the 3c and the newly issued 17c and exist with the first or flat "A" overp the 3c, 5c, 10c, 12c, 15c, 17c, 20c a have been reported with the pointed and the postage due stamps, 1c, 2c 10c, are known with both the flat pointed "A" overprint.

With the first or flat "A" overprin 1c is known with overprint inverted the 1c and 12c with CANAL no ZONE inverted.

The 1c with overprint inverted curred in the first printing, 1924, and discovered in March 1925, by W. I (a messenger boy in the Port Capt Office at Cristobal), on four card mail brought back by the pilot fron S. S. Mobile City. The investig which followed brought to light 47 c in the Cristobal Post Office, and of t all but four were secured by Mr. J Coffin, Chief Clerk in the Port Capt Office. thing is known. As the overprint was plied to sheets of 400, it seems likely at one complete sheet of 400 (four st Office sheets of 100 each) must have isted originally, but all known copies th the inverted overprint are from the e Post Office sheet of 100 sold by the istobal Post Office.

The 1c CANAL normal, ZONE inrted, occurred on No. 30 of the lower ft pane, of about 100 sheets of the 1924 inting (which comprised 2500 sheets 400), and was found at Ancon and ance Field Post Offices in October 25. The error is known on sheets with ite Nos. 15359, 15437, and two others. discovery was made through a small of straight edged stamps (of which ere are 19 to each Post Office sheet of 0), having been returned to the Zone r exchange. One of these had ZONE verted, and in the search which folwed, about 100 were found. As this ror is known only on the 1c and 12c, it ould appear that the overprint plate was maged during the progress of overinting requiring the replacement of the NE slug on No. 30 of the lower left ne; and in so doing, it was attached the plate in an inverted position.

The 12c CANAL normal, ZONE inrted, has only recently been reported ne 1926)—it, too, occurred in the first inting (1924), which comprised 500 eets of 400. Its position is the same on the 1c, i. e. No. 30 of the lower ft pane, with plate No. 14406.

With the second or sharp "A" overint, the 3c, 5c postage and 1c postage e stamps, exist with the ZONE ZONE ror on No. 18 of the lower right pane, the 1925 printing, and were discovered out October, 1925.

The 3c ZONE ZONE occurred on all 0 sheets (of 400 stamps), of the 1925 inting. Of the 500 errors, 400 were und in the stock at Balboa Heights, id burned on January 30, 1926, before committee representing the Director of osts, the Auditor, and the Collector. A rtical pair (stamps 8 and 18) were reoved from the lower right pane, and e remaining stamps issued in regular urse.

Of the 5c ZONE ZONE, and the 1c ostage Due ZONE ZONE, the one ieet of each known (in a Washington, . C., collection), came from a Post Ofce on the Pacific side of the Isthmus. lthough there were 1250 sheets of 400 the 5c and 300 sheets of the 1c Postage ue, in the 1925 printing, the error must ave occured on only a few sheets, as ne have been found in the Balboa Heights stamps stock. The two plates (flat "A" and sharp "A" were used concurrently for the 1925 printing, and it may be that the greater part of the 5c was overprinted from the earlier or flat "A" plate. All the 1c Postage Due, in this printing, however (300 sheets of 400), were overprinted from the new, or sharp "A" type. The 10c, 12c and 15c (in addition to the 3c and 5c), and the three due stamps are known with sharp "A" overprint, yet of these only the 3c and 5c postage, and the 1c due have been reported with the ZONE ZONE error.

These errors were probably made under circumstances similar to those responsible for the 5c red error (in the sheet of 2c, from plate 7942), of the U. S. A., in March, 1917. Before hardening a plate for use, a proof sheet is always taken and carefully inspected for defects. In the case of the 2c plate 7942, the inspector marked three impressions (Nos. 74 and 84 on the upper left pane, and No. 18 on the lower left pane), as being too faint. The original impressions were removed, and the plate was sent to the transfer press to have the three designs re-entered. Through error, the worker received the transfer roller for the 5c (the design of which differed from the 2c only in the numerals in the lower corners). Three impressions from the 5c roller were transferred to the 2c plate No. 7942, the plate hardened, and on March 7, 1917, put to press.

In the case of the 1c and 12c CANAL normal, ZONE inverted, it may be that ZONE on No. 30 (lower left pane), printed too light, or some defect developed during printing, necessitating a new linotype slug, but which was inserted in an inverted position. With the ZONE ZONE error, "C A N A L" may have needed replacing, and a ZONE slug instead was inserted.

FAR AND NEAR:—

ALBERT H. HARRIS, editor of the Philatelic Magazine, takes us mildly to task for not mentioning the strike issue of the magazine which he publishes. Proper credit was given three of the British journals issued under the stress of the strike, but in some way we failed to note what is now called to our attention. Mr. Harris writes that it was the "only journal to issue sixteen pages including full new issue chronicle." We herewith apologize for our neglect.

OUR attention is called by Mrs. Grace P. Smith to the appearance of an article in the Publishers' Weekly of July 3 on "Neighborly Co-operation." Reference is made to the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. and Mrs. Smith says that the article is readable.

BRIGHT & SON write us concerning two new peso stamps issued by Guatemala, the 1p in orange brown and 3p in green. The details are as follows: 1 peso, same type as 1902 issue, but in one color similar to 1904 issue, but the date has been altered to 1926 instead of 1902. The stamps, however, are printed by Waterlow & Sons and have their imprint instead of Perkins Bacon who printed the previous one, and is in perf. 12½ instead of 14 as previously. 3 peso is in the same type as 1919 issue and printed in one color as in 1924 issue. It has Waterlow & Sons imprint and is in perf. 12½. The date has been altered from 1918 to 1926.

"THE mucilage on the postage stamps of the United States is made of sweet potatoes and is mixed in the basement of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, says the Youth's Companion. In a liquid form it is conveyed by pipes to machines consisting of rollers through which the sheets of stamps are fed one at a time. A fine spray of the liquid falls on the rollers, and the stamps, having got their coating, pass on through a drying flue and are then perforated and counted. The gum is as clean as possible, but the fastidious among persons who lick stamps prefer those from the center of the sheet; they are less handled."—H. N. VAN VOORHIS.

ADDENDA to article on Irish stamps: "The final phase in the overprinting took place in Aug. 1925 when the Irish Govt. Printing Dept. commenced overprinting the Saorstat high values (2/6, 5/-, & 10/- denominations) hitherto overprinted by Messrs. Thom. No announcement of this change was made and it did not become generally known until some time afterwards. The overprints are very similar in appearance but the Govt. setting of the date 1922 measures only 5½ mm against 6¼ mm in the Thom printing, and is practically without variety. The permanent pictorial high value issue is still withheld pending the aforementioned stock of overprints being used up."—J. D. MARTIN.

THE Third Annual Stamp Exhibit of the Boy Scout Stamp Club of Erie, Pa., was held in the Public Library of that city June 20-29, and was an unqualified success. The librarian reports thousands of interested visitors. The exhibition was limited to members of the Boy Scout Stamp Club. Next year the committee is planning on a special class to include boys not members. The judges were three of the professors from three of the high schools of the city, who have collections and know "the game." Professors G. O. Moore, Fay Daily, and Ralph Harbold. For three days the newspapers of the city featured the exhibit and the result is that many new recruits have been added to the hobby's roster and many old collections have been "dug up" and are working again.—E. EDITORIAL

The news is now out and the information that evidently has been in the keeping of one of our Washington correspondents for some time may be released. Another commemorative stamp is to appear on October 28, 1926, the 150th anniversary of the Battle of White Plains, which was fought by Generals Washington and Howe and whose importance was such that some historians do not hesitate to say that the conflict, measured by results, saved the country. For a detailed account of the engagement and its consequences we turn to "The Army and Navy," by Jacob K. Neff, M. D., published in 1845, by J. H. Pearsol & Co., Philadelphia: "Just before the arrival of the British at White Plains, Washington withdrew his troops from his position on the Brunx and assembled them on the heights, near the plains, in front of the British.

'In vain sage Washington, from hill to hill,
Plays round his foes with more than Fabian skill,
Retreats, advances, lures them to his snare,
To balance numbers by the shifts of war.'

On the 28th of October, the British Army appeared before the American camp. They attacked and after a desperate struggle, carried a position which Macdougall had been ordered to take about a mile from the American camp, to protect its right wing. Night approaching, the British general deferred operations till the next day. Washington took advantage of the delay, strengthened his camp and posted his army in such a way that its formidable appearance induced Howe to wait for reinforcements. The British having erected batteries, threatened to turn the right wing of the Americans and gain the height in the rear; Washington broke up his camp and removed to a country still more mountainous, near North Castle, on the 2d of November. The object of the enemy was to strike a decisive and fatal blow but the wisdom and skill of our commander prevented it and saved his country." Howe, it seems, did not consider it a wise move "to attempt to catch an old fox in the mountains" and abandoned pursuit of Washington.

SCOTT STAMP & COIN CO.

1 WEST 47TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

We do not know how the announcement of the action of the department will be received by collectors but there is reason to say that in the buzz of voices discussing the decision, there will be heard a good many raised in protest at the frequency with which the department yields to the importunities for issues of the kind. As one of the most observing veterans in philatelic rank says: "Once in a while, it seems O. K., but these issues are becoming very frequent." As a means, occasionally, to signalize some great event or personage, it is granted that a special issue is a fitting tribute but if the stamps are to come in profusion, the effect of them will wear off and they will be regarded with little philatelic enthusiasm in a short time; and the pulse of the public will not quicken at the sight of the novelties. We await with some concern a letter from Washington in the hope that we shall not have to read between the lines that another celebration stamp issue is in the offing.

We have to thank Mr. Edward S. Knapp, New York, for the following extract from a letter written September 22, 1847, and dated Baltimore, which affords a historical sidelight on stage-coach days: "I arrived here last night, from Columbus, Ohio, where I spent last week attending a great Masonic meeting at the public expense. . . . . I had a fatiguing journey to Columbus. After going from this place to Cumberland by railroad, you take the stage and travel 253 miles, crossing the Allegany Mountains at night. You are two days and two nights in the stage, without stopping but for meals, and this makes the journey a severe one but I stood it much better than I expected. The road is very fine and runs through a beautiful country,—the richest farming region I ever saw. Columbus is quite a place, with some fine buildings but looks new and unfinished." Those old letter-sheets in their contents sometimes have a real historical significance, a circumstance of which some of those who collect them are well aware.

Writing from Bangued, Abra, Philippine Islands, Mr. Constante Batoon, President of the Abra Philatelic Club, says: "I have the honor to inform you of a certain set of Philippine stamps. which, I have reason to believe, has not been announced to American philatelists as yet. I refer to the set of stamps which were issued by the Philippine Bureau of Posts to commemorate the successful arrival of Captains Loriga and Gallarza on their famous Madrid-Manila flight. This set consists of the current issue of the following denominations." Here Mr. Batoon lists the ten varieties, 2 to 30 centavos inclusive. A pen sketch reads: "Air-Mail, 1926, Madrid-Manila," with a small pictured plane underneath, "Air-Mail," and this inscription, in the shape of an overprint in red or violet, has been applied to the stamps of the current set through the 30 centavos, as mentioned. Who will not say that the honor of special stamp attention was not due the intrepid flyers.

The following example of enterprise is cited not alone because of the clever application of philately as extra illustrations for a book, as reflecting favorably on the originators of the idea but because of the possibilities of further adaptations of the plan by other dealers. Under the head of "Neighborly Co-operation," in the Publishers' Weekly, the journal of the book trade, we find the following: "In New York on 47th street the Scott Stamp and Coin Co. is one door from Brentano's and so it should seem only natural for them to shuttle their customers back and forth as much as possible. The Scott Company recently showed in its windows stamps from Papua, which, of course, you know is an island of the Eastern Archipelago lying north of Australia. Copies of Merlin Moore Taylor's book 'Heart of Black Papua' (McBride) were shown and the following card: As interesting as the story of its natives as told by Merlin Moore Taylor* are the postage stamps from this out-of-the-way corner of the world! Papua depicts on her stamps the native Dyak, peculiar to Papuans alone, whereas Brunei and New Guinea show a native village and dwellings of their inhabitants. The asterisk carries the eye to the line: "Books loaned by Brentano's." The comment of the paper is: "Stamp collectors should be interested in the countries whose stamps they collect and a bookshop window which reversed the Stamp Company's emphasis and introduced books through stamps instead of stamps through books should be able to put over a window of books on travel and life in other countries." We do not understand just how the Dyak got into the Papuan picture but we know that mistakes will happen.

Old "M. T. Dome" rises to remark: "Yur list ov 'Americans in Uniform' kin still be inkreased! Wot's th matter with John A. Postman, Jr. on th 'Speshul Delivery'? Afoot, on bicycle er just off hiz motorcycle he wears a uniform (in the pichurs at least) ov our govermint. And so du hiz relatives on menny ov th 'Parsel Post' stamps. UDYING POSTAL FACTS FROM THE CITY DIRECTORY

By HARRY M. KONWISER.

Now that the proper attention is seemgly being given to the proper study of ncellations upon stamps, as well as stmarks generally, here is a tip to the nuine stamp student—

Hie yourself to the nearest Big City brary and locate the old city dictories and almanacs.

What an earful of things you can tell ur philatelic friends about the things ey think they want to know about mps and postage rates. When they nt to know whether the big "G" canllation is legitimate upon a certain 3-nt stamp, on a cover mailed in one e large cities, do you know whether at city had a sub-station employing the " as its postal mark?

When certain town cancellations are own upon certain stamps do you ow whether these towns were really postal existence in the days when the mp was legally and legitimately in e?

You can answer this sort of queries ite easily, also obtain information, ablutely correct, as to rates and general ta of interest to stamp students, by ading the city directories of the land. Having an idle hour, one recent afteon, I visited the New York City Liary, at Fifth Avenue and 42nd street. ie third floor has a reference library obably unexcelled, and the city direcries are easily procurable by those who nt to read them.

Taking New York, the directory of 64-65 shows that the Post Office was cated at Cedar and Nassau streets, and oram Wakeman was the postmaster. his directory shows there were "United ates Mail Stations" as follows:

A—129 Spring Street; B—439 Grand reet; C—Fourth Avenue and 12th reet; D—Cooper Square; E—368 ghth Avenue; F—408 Third Avenue; —1259 Broadway; H—Yorkville; J—arsenville; K—Manhattanville; L—arlem; M—Carmansville; N—Tully ook.

We learn from the directory that agons made deliveries from the Main ost Office to these stations and carriers esumably worked out of them.

The 1861 Philadelphia directory indites the Post Office had its "principal fice" (to quote) "at Dock street, below hird" and had five "Sub Post Offices." he postal rate, we are told, was three nts per half ounce or under, domestic, r any distance not exceeding 3000 miles, nd ten cents per half-ounce or under r distances over 3000 miles.

In 1876 Philadelphia had its main office Chestnut and Fifth streets and we note ie heading "Outlying District Sub-Stations." These had letters—B, E, F, G, and I. In addition there were similar stations at Tacony, Holmesburg, Torresdale, Byberry, Bustleton, Somerton, Oxford Church, Fox Chase, Falls Schuylkill, Milestown, Veree's Mills and Wheat Sheaf, Crescentville, Olney, Sandiford.

The central office, the book says, was kept open day and night and the directory shows the various mail routes.

The Philadelphia Post Office was still at Chestnut and Fifth in 1884, but there is a line reading, "Will be removed to S. 9th and Chestnut" and also, "Money Order Stations"—these being: B—West Phila.; E—Port Richmond; F—Frankford; G—Germantown; I—Manayunk.

"Mails for Sub-stations close at Central Office" is followed by a list of "letter" stations: B, F, G, H, I, Z, also Lindley, Fern Rock and many other places.

More than four pages, in very small type, is devoted to the Post Office in the 1890 Philadelphia directory, the office now being located at "S. 9th, Chestnut to Market." John Field was the Postmaster and there were "Money Order Station" as follows: B, E, F, G, I, H, L, M, N, Z.

Under the heading "Philadelphia Stations" are noted Andora, Bustleton Frankford, West Philadelphia, and many other sections of the city, all with letters, running through the alphabet.

The Charleston, S. C., city directory of 1866, in addition to giving the information that Andrew Johnson of Tennessee was President, tells us that the local post office is open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. and that "the postage to all parts of the United States is three cents per ounce; pre-payment is required on all letters except duly certified soldiers' or sailors' letters and to Heads of Bureaus or Chief Clerks of each Executive Department in the City of Washington."

If one wants to believe there was no particular system of allocating letters to sub-stations, the proof might be garnered from the Jersey City, N. J., 1876, directory, where is found the information that the Post Office is at 117 Washington Street and "Station B" is at Communipaw Avenue and Bergen Point Road, while the only other sub-station existent appears to be "Station H" located at Newark Avenue and the Five Corners.

Taking Newark, N. J., for 1874, we find there were twenty-two carriers and nine clerks, with a postmaster, and these gave four daily deliveries. In 1887, the directory tells us, there was the main office on Broad Street and there were sub-stations designated with the letters A, B, C, D, E. There was also "East Newark." And the list shows also "Stamp Selling Stations" from numbers one to five, inclusive. Obviously, orderly methods were employed in Newark.

Cincinnati, Ohio, like all other cities of its size in 1872, had but its one post office, located at Fourth and Vine streets. But those who want something special out of this town, in the way of cancellations, should acquire some of the steamboat cancellations emanating from the United States Mail Line and other boat lines that carried mail out of Cincy.

In 1875 the directory lists "Mail Boat and Packet Lines" as follows:

Arkansas and White River Packet Co.; Cincin. and Louisville Mail Boat; Madison Packet Line; Big Sandy Packet Co.; Memphis and Cincin. Packet Co.; Nashville Packet Co.

The Cincinnati directory of 1875 as well as directories up to 1885, give a list of all the Post Offices in the United States and Territories.

In 1880 and 1882 the city of Cincinnati still had but one office, according to the directory, and this is the same in 1884 and the next year. At this time there were fourteen mailboat and packet lines, operating out of the city.

Cleveland had a main office in 1874 and also Station A—East Cleveland Station; Newburgh Station; and also Ninth Division Railway Mail Service. The same conditions appear in 1880.

You can garner a lot of postal information by looking at the Erie, Pa., directories issued from 1883 to 1890. All you ever need know about rates, etc., is shown here.

Louisville directories indicate there were four boats in the U. S. Mail Line fleet in 1872 as follows: United States, Hildreth, Master; Gen. Lytle, Whitten, Master; Ben Franklin, Fuller, Master; Gen. Buell, David, Master.

When reading directories for postal information do not arbitrarily call a "numbered place" a sub-station or a branch office, for it might turn out like the Providence, R. I., directory of 1871, showing the post office to be located in the Custom House and listing stations from 1 to 59 inclusive. Upon investigation one notes the numbers are for "Receiving Stations" and these are strong boxes "authorized by the Postmaster General to be put up at the places named below (1 to 95 all have addresses) for the reception of letters prepaid by stamps, according to law."

The Providence directory (1871) says "Letter carriers will deliver letters to all persons in the city who desire so to receive them."

Summarizing, from the recent activities of the cancellation enthusiasts, it is quite obvious that the next big philatelic work will be the effort that produces a history of the postal system of the country, featuring the development of the letter-delivery systems of the larger cities and illustrating the various cancellations in proper use in the large cities and the smaller places from the early days of the postal service.

Who will do this work and do it right? It could be done if half a dozen students collaborated, each taking a section of the land in which they reside. It would mean a great amount of research work, of course—but as long as so many so-called "common covers" are still available the undertaking is not one that is unlikely of proper achievement.

Here is a work of a sort to make real philatelists out of stamp collectors, and the placing of such a work near the hands and eyes of any person, at all interested in these, our United States, would surely do more towards securing more recruits than the mere "hurraying" about any high-priced stamps.

What a chance for the associations—like the American Philatelic Society, the Collectors Club and some of the "live locals" to do something big for philately?

A GOOD FRIEND OF OURS WENT on his vacation. IT RAINED AND RAINED. He sent us the above telegram, and as the nice fairy tales say "was happy ever after". For he got by return mail the two very nicest vacation packets he had ever seen, and he had just a lot of fun hunting them over, and when he had gotten all he wanted he did a bit of joyous swapping with some fellow-collectors, and then he made some of his beginner friends happy with some real stuff. And he will be wise enough to take his "M. C." packet along with his fishing tackle next year. One of the pleasant things about selling our VACATION PACKET each year is to have our old friends all come back with their dollar-twos. We prize the order of the MAN-WHO-HAS-BOUGHT-EVERY-PACKET-WE-EVER-PUT-UP far more than many DOLLAR-TWOS. And why do they COME BACK FOR AN "M. C." every year? LET US SHOW YOU.

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

UNITED STATES INVERTS

Six or eight months ago I had on hand upward of thirty fine copies of the United States inverted centers, issues of 1869, 1901 and 1915. Today, I have exactly two copies left, namely, a superb mint copy of the 1c 1901 and a fine mint copy of the 4c with "Specimen" overprint.

As I always aim to keep in stock such varieties, I am today in the market for any and all of the inverted centers of the United States. They, however, must be in fine condition — inferior copies or those with straight edge are not desired.

I would like to purchase superb used copies of the 1869, 15c, 24c and 30c with inverted centers and can use one or two of each. Would like a fine mint copy of the 1901 2c and several mint copies of the 4c without the "Specimen" overprint. Also in the market for a couple superb mint copies of the 24c Aeroplane.

Do you happen to have on hand a copy or two of the 1908 4c and 8c blue paper? These are desired in singles and blocks.

Always in the market to purchase anything fine in the way of United States issues and more especially the unusual and rare items. Would be glad to have you communicate with me whether you have a single, a collection or an accumulation.

I also offer the collector the finest stock of stamps of the United States in existence to pick from and this includes those from the commoner to the greatest rarities. As a rule, my stock leans towards the unused, especially superb singles and blocks, but in a great many cases I can supply perfection canceled copies as well as covers.

Sesqui-Centennial Envelope

By the time these notes appear in print, it is quite likely that the new 2c red Sesqui-Centennial envelope will have been manufactured and placed on sale at the Sesqui-Centennial grounds in Philadelphia. Mention was made of the proposed issue of such a variety recently in this column, and at that time it was stated that possibly the present die would be used with additional wording. It was found when the subject was taken up with the manufacturers that they were in a position to produce a new die without delay and they have since submitted to Washington one that has been officially approved. This design is square in shape with rounded corners and shows the Liberty Bell along with the wording found on the current 2c Sesqui-Centennial stamp. The envelopes will be printed on white only on the extra quality paper and will be furnished in sizes 5, 8 and 13. The Hartford press which will be installed at the Exposition will make the size 5 only, and these as fast as made will be sold through the Model Post Office. All three sizes will be produced at the Dayton plant for general distribution. It would not be surprising if this new die was adopted for all extra quality paper envelopes. As the Hartford press produces a better impression and as the higher quality paper enables sharper embossing, it is expected that the new envelope will be one of the most attractive ever produced.

On the first day, which will supposedly be during the week of July 26th, the variety will be placed on sale in Philadelphia only.

White Plains Variety

On a recent visit to Washington I was able to confirm the information recently furnished by Dr. Jason Samuel Parker relative to the proposed issue of a stamp to commemorate the battle of White Plains. While the Postmaster General has given his approval, the Department has not as yet decided upon the denomination or design. It will possibly be a 2c stamp and the design will be selected from sketches submitted by the New York Committee. It is proposed to issue twenty million and these will no doubt be first placed on sale in both White Plains and Washington during October, the anniversary month of the battle.

Dr. Parker kindly submits a clipping from a July 6th, White Plains paper, wherein mention is made of the fact that Representative J. Mayhew Wainwright, of Rye, N. Y., has just received a letter from Postmaster General New conveying the information that he had decided to authorize the issue.

A committee, consisting of Mr. F. L. Brown, chairman, together with Messrs. Haviland, Bremner, Ray, McMillan, Barrett and Dr. Parker called on the Postmaster General with Senator Wadsworth and Congressman Wainwright. It is through the efforts of this committee along with the interests shown by Col. Muldoon, that a White Plains stamp will appear. Dr. Parker kindly sends me a photograph of the well known painting of the "Battle of White Plains" by George Albert Harker and it is quite likely that this design will be accepted. Preliminary sketches have been made by Mr. Edward F. Ward, who in addition has submitted designs embodying the White Plains battle flag and the "White Balsam" trees from which White Plains was named.

As Dr. Parker has been most active in the good work of this committee, I have asked him to tell the story for our readers and through his efforts, Mr. R. P. Ray has kindly written the following:

"The action of the Postmaster General in approving the issuance of a commemorative stamp commemorating the battle of White Plains which was fought on the 28th day of October, 1776, has met with the approval of those interested in the history of the locality where the battle was fought and who appreciate the significance of the battle of White Plains in the military history of the country. While the battle of White Plains is not mentioned by Mr. Creacy as one of the fourteen decisive battles of the world, yet it is unquestionably one of the most decisive battles of the American Revolution. Washington's army, it will be recalled, had suffered a series of defeats which forced him gradually out of Manhattan Island and after the battle of Harlem Heights he continued his retreat northward through Westchester Country. Lord Howe, wishing to bottle him up in Mahattan, landed troops on the north shore of Long Island Sound near New Rochelle. His plan was to throw a cordon of troops across the narrow southern end of Westchester and having Washington's army between Long Island Sound and the Hudson River, capture it at his leisure. Through the admirable generalship of General Heath in retarding the landing of the British at Throgg's Neck, Washington was able to move his army northward and reached the heights of White Plains in advance of this encircling movement on the part of Lord Howe and his Hessians. Washington selected White Plains as the place to make a stand owing to the contour of the land. The battle line extended from Chatterton Hill on the west to St. Mary's Lake on the east and most of the fighting occurred on Chatterton Hill, which was the extreme right wing of the battle line. Here General MacDougal had command, assisted by Captain Alexander Hamilton in charge of a battery of artillery. The stand made at this point by MacDougal's forces made it clear to Lord Howe that the patriots were firmly entrenched and after the skirmish on Chatterton Hill, he brought the full force of his artillery and cavalry to bear on Washington's main line. This held, however, until night, when Washington withdrew his forces to the heights of North Castle, two or three miles north of White Plains. From this inaccessible mass of rocks and crags Lord Howe knew that he would be powerless to dislodge the Americans and receiving some interesting news relative to Fort Washington, he abandoned the attempt to capture Washington and retreated southward, where he successfully surprised and captured Fort Washington.

Another reason why the decision the Postmaster General pleases the torians of the Empire State is the that Westchester County, of which W Plains is the County seat, was the s of perhaps the most important poli event in the history of New York S to wit, the birth of the State of N York, which occurred at White Plain the 9th day of July, 1776, and was ap priately celebrated by the State with imposing pageant this year. Westche County was known during the Revolu as the neutral ground and it was fo over repeatedly by the opposing ar and by bands of irregular marau known as skinners.

Before the issuance of the sta Congress appropriated $2,000 to ere monument to the battle of White Pla thus recognizing the importance of engagement. Postmaster General Ha A. New, at the earnest request of Col William Muldoon of White Pla seconded by Senator James W. Wa worth and Congressman J. May Wainwright and the Westchester Cou Historical Society, decided upon the suance of the stamp, twenty million which will be issued in denomination be determined upon. It is proposed use as a design for the new stam view of the battle of White Plains, sh ing Alexander Hamilton and his batt of artillery in the foreground with G

The answer is that he has proved it to be the best, and knows that its contents will interest YOU.

922 Issue, Shades

Mention has not been made recently s to shades being found in our current sues but those who have been following ie activities of the Bureau have found iat the 3c may now be obtained in a eddish violet in addition to the bluish iolet first issued. The 4c comes in a ery light shade as well as a distinct ark shade. The 5c, 6c and 8c while arying do not show as great a difference s may be found in the 8c which comes both an olive and a yellow olive. The and 10c show little differences while the 11c we get a very dark print and very light shade. The 12c may also be und in two distinct shades. I have seen varieties in the 13c or the 15c worthy f note but the 14c comes in an indigo s well as in a light blue. The 25c comes two very unusual shades, namely, a lue green and a yellow green, the blue rongly predominating in the first variety nd the yellow in the second. Slight ifferences are to be found in the 50c and 1.00 but are such that they would interst the specialist only. As to the $5.00, have seen this in two distinct colors, ne in which the paper tends to a yellowh color and in the other it has the apearance of a blue paper. This is not the lue from an unwiped plate which prints ie center portion, but is a variety that ay be readily distinguished when the vo stamps are placed side by side.

S. P. A. MAKES LARGE SETTLEMENT

Major Guy W. A. Camp, Chairman of the Board of Governors, Society of Philatelic Americans, announces that during the current fiscal year the Board has materially reduced the losses of the Society's members sustained a few years ago through the stealing of several large circuits from the sales department of the Southern Philatelic Society, to which they belonged at the time. With the checks sent out by the Board on July 12 the Board has paid off since last August losses amounting to $1,035.84, and it feels confident that before the end of the coming fiscal year the losses of all S. P. A. members, which originally aggregated close to $4,000, will be liquidated.

Subsquent to the date these losses were sustained, the Southern Philatelic Society was disbanded and a number of its members joined the newly created Society of Philatelic Americans. Feeling that these members should not suffer the loss of their stamps and recognizing that if they did the effect on philately at large would undoubtedly be extremely detrimental to the welfare of the cause, a few experienced business men were interested in the matter. After studying the situation they voluntarily promised that if certain plans and procedure were adopted they would undertake to satisfy the losses of those who were members of the new society. Their suggestions were adopted and how well they have accomplished their purpose is shown by the fact that the total amount of losses liquidated to date is $2,981.13.

LOG OF A WEEK

The first edition of a Catalog of United States Bureau Canceled Stamps, edited by George W. Linn and published by Weekly Philatelic Gossip, Holton, Kansas, is a welcome little work that covers its subject in a way to commend itself to those who follow these interesting issues. The "Preface" tells of the distinctive character of the stamps in question and bespeaks attention for them, inasmuch as the name of town and the stamp design are printed "on the same press, from one running of paper through the press." We learn that in 1916, experiments were made by the Bureau to develop this method and it was found that the overprinted stamps could be produced more economically in most cases at Washington. Hence, we have a field in the Bureau cancellations whose attractions are admitted. Nearly all the states are represented by cities in this catalog, which has the added value of being priced. As a rule, quotations are modest and with this catalog in hand, the collector should find his progress attended with pleasure.

The Martauco Stamp Company is now installed in its new home in the Collectors Club Building, 51 West 48th Street, New York City.

Mr. C. W. Kissinger, Reading, Pa., was a recent visitor in Chicago en route to Minneapolis. Mr. Kissinger made a few calls in the limited time at his disposal in Chicago, where his friends were glad to see him.

New York Times of July 11, 1926, contained a splendid description of the impending set of three memorial stamps from Canada, which are to picture historical personages of that country.

Reservations may be made for rooms for the A. P. S. convention next October in New York by writing to the American Philatelic Society Hotel Committee, The Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, 34th Street, New York.

We thank Mr. W. E. Whitnall for a card bearing the special cancellation of the "Philatelic Congress, June 15, 1926, Liverpool," in honor of the 13th Philatelic Congress of Great Britain, held in that city.

In the newly published book, "Elbert Hubbard of East Aurora," by Felix Shay, we find on page 139: "Another time, Ali Baba was put forth as a collector—a collector of hats. His hobby, it seems, was hats! When spring came round and the millionaires of East Aurora discarded their winter supply of hats, Ali Baba was present to select the odd and curious styles his collection lacked. As other men collect book-plates, postage stamps, violins, brocades or books, so does Ali Baba collect hats. It is his one weakness. And through his collecting is he linked in a bond of brotherhood to all other collectors, the round world over." At that Ali Baba will have to take a back seat in favor of our friends who collect Indian cigar "statuary" and keeps the Indians in a warehouse.

In the Chicago Herald-Examiner for July 9, 1926, whom do we find on the picture page but our old friend, Mr. Bertram W. H. Poole, "philatelist, examining the famous McPherson ransom letter, which showed signs of tampering." Mr. Poole is focusing his trusty magnifying-glass on the letter in the corner of which we discern a stamp.

Mr. Rudolph Amort, philatelic editor of the New York Staats-Zeitung & Herold, sends us a proof of the story of an interesting find, of which we shall give a translation in the next issue.

Mr. G. A. Martin, who many years ago was publisher of the Progressive Philatelist and is now identified with the Federal Trade Commission, Washington, was in Chicago for some time, renewing old acquaintances.

Through the courtesy of Mr. S. Tanner Green of Quebec, we have recei new letter card issued by the Ca postmaster general to commemora reduction of the Canadian postage r two cents. The former rate of 2 restored on July 1, 1926.

EAST AND WEST:—

GREETINGS are at hand from Alexandria and Port Said, Egypt, from M. J. Fenster, who is making an extended trip abroad.

AN important annuoncement appears in our advertising columns this week. The Standard Precancel Stamp Catalog for 1926 is ready for delivery by the Rotnem Stamp Co., Ninneapolis, Minn. This book prices, describes and illustrates all precancels issued up to June 1. The price of the book postpajd is $2.10 paper binding and $3.10 in cloth

WE have received from W. G. Meredith, 5 Elmbourne Rd., London, S. W. 17, England, a review copy of the Third Edition of the "Postage Stamps of Ireland." It is a standard catalog of Irish stamps and the price 40c postfree makes it possible for any interested collector to purchase the same. It lists market values as of May, 1926, on over nine hundred different items. Errors and varieties are well covered, while in the control section there are shown types of the watermarks and plates in which each are found. Full details and measurements are given of the three Dollard, ten Thom, two Wide and five Saorstat plates. Anyone at all interested in Irish stamps will find this book of great value.

WE are informed by Marshall H. Hancock of the Martauco Stamp Co. that the firm is now located in its new offices in the Collectors Club Building, N. Y. City. This building is up-to-date in all its appliances and nothing has been left undone to make it thoroughly first class. Mr. Hancock affirms that this building will be a "pillar to philately" and will go a long way toward giving stamp collecting greater recognition. The firm will be glad to have its office used by Exhibition attendants.

A MEETING of those interested in stamps in Waterville and vicinity was held May 14, at the home of A. B. Cragin, which resulted in the organization of the Kennebec Philatelic Club with eight charter members. The following officers were elected: Pres., A. B. Cragin; Vice Pres., W. A. Blair; Sec.-Treas., M. F. McCarthy; Sales Mgr., P. L. Hall; Director at large, S. J. Cunningham. It was voted to apply to the A. P. S. for a branch charter. Any collectors in this part of Maine wishing to join us should write the President or Secretary for full information.

TWO months ago, several active stamp collectors of Modesto, Calif., and vicinity met, and formed the Stanislaus Philatelic Association. There were eight present at the first meeting and we have more than doubled the membership since. The prospects are very bright for a strong organization. Meetings are held every first and third Friday of the month at the homes of members, by invitation. Following is a list of officers: Pres., Adam Gruenig, Rt. A, Box 151, Ceres, Calif.; Vice Pres., H. E. Ayres, P. O. Box 586, Modesto, Calif.; Secretary, R. W. Kirton, P. O. Box 536, Modesto, Calif.; Treas., Frank Vogt, McHenry Ave., Modesto, Calif.

SOME PHILIPPINE STAMPS

By Percy A. Hill.

(The author of this article writes very plainly in regard to the airmail stamps recently issued in the Philippine Islands. Mr. Hill is active in philatelic affairs and believes that the facts as they exist should be published. He claims that two-thirds of the value of the total issue, which is $17,000, is in the hands of a few persons. As an addenda to the article we print the official circular referred to in the article.—W. O. W.)

Inasmuch as there are a good many collectors who specialize in British Colonials, French Colonials, and at present the obsolete German Colonials, it is a matter of surprise that so few American collectors pay attention to what may be said to be American Colonies. And these include not only Hawaii and the Canal Zone, but Cuba, Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines, all of which countries use or have used United States adhesives mostly surcharged. While it may be true that previous issues of these countries are not entirely correct from a philatelic viewpoint, United States stamps do not fall into that category.

If we were to ask any serious collector as to what was the rarest and most difficult Philippine stamps to collect, he would in all probability not allude to any of the early Isabellas, or scarce surcharges, but to the dollar values of the United States surcharged Philippines. As regards rarity there were only 782 available of the $5.00 issue of 1899, some 318 being destroyed of the 1100 issued. The $5.00 value of the 1903 issue is still even rarer, only 756 being available, 552 being destroyed on Feb. 14, 1906, by order of the Director of Posts. A genuine stamp, of which such a limited number exist, even if all were salvaged, is cataloged as yet extremely low. In this connection the following list may be of some interest to collectors of United States colonies.

In most catalogs the price is still low if we take rarity into consideration. As a matter of fact they are rarely seen, let alone being on sale with dealers.

The Guam issue of 1899 is in the same category, still low but hard to collect. Few dealers have them to sell at either catalog or dealers' prices. Cuba and Porto Rico surcharged on U. S. are more common. Still, when one thinks of the number of United states collectors alone, it is a matter for surprise that they have neglected these "colonials" in favor of other Colonials farther from home.

The Philippine current issue was surcharged AIR-MAIL, MADRID-MANILA, 1926, on May 13, 1926. Beneath the first line is an air-plane propeller. These are coming in for some caustic comment. Enclosed is a photographic copy of a letter issued by the Director of Posts that explains itself. The occasion was that of the arrival of one plane and two aviators of the Spanish Army on a flight from Madrid to Manila. Of the three planes that started only one made Manila. These stamps are termed "commemoratives." If real commemoratives were desired there was neither lack of time nor engravers in Manila to accomplish this. To make matters worse instead of surcharging a half million of the low values, so that the residents of the Philippines would be aware of the fact, they began with 10,000 of the 2c value and went up the scale to the P10.00 values, a total of some 58,100 stamps being surcharged.

The few that were used in the mails may well be called "rarities." Circulation is what commemoratives are generally issued for. While the Post-office people did what they could to prevent anyone from monopolizing the total issue two-thirds of the population of Manila have never even seen a copy, all the issue being sold in a few days, beginning May 13th, the date of arrival of the aviators, captains Loriga and Gallarza. That the Post-office made some P17,000 profit is no sign that the issue was not

Something For You

THE GREATEST BARGAIN LIST OF UNITED STATES STAMPS, LISTING MINOR VARIETIES

The first section of our new specialized bargain list of early U. S. stamps is now on the press. It describes and prices almost all recognized varieties of these sound stamps in both "good" and "fine" condition. It offers the many fine things we were able to pick up during the past erratic auction season. It has taken a long time to arrange and straighten out all the things we added to an already fine stock, but now it is done the result, in this "specialized" price list, is worth careful study by all stamp buyers. Strange things happen in the stamp market as they do on the stock exchange. Imagine paying $18.50 for a stamp at one sale, and then buying almost identically the same thing in the same auction room, with the same competitors, the following week for $1.80. We thought the first one going too cheap at $18.00; the second was a gift. There were many similar cases during the season. We helped our stock enormously because we studied the important offerings, bid only on things we thought sound, and were in position to buy and "salt down" the "snaps."

Our specialized price list passes along to our customers a chance at the many bargains gathered together. It in no way competes with the Standard Specialized Catalog, for it prices only the things in our own stock. But it does contain a lot of information useful to the student of U. S. stamps, listing and describing pairs, strips, blocks, shifts, cracked plates, covers, combinations, etc.

This section covers the New Yorks, 1847 and 1851 issues. In asking for it, please enclose 2c in stamps to cover mailing charges and beat the post-card infant.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

Not many of us collect Postmasters' Provisionals, or premiers gravures. Many of us must turn our attention to more plebian specimens, and what can be done with some of these has been demonstrated by Messrs. Charles Lathrop Pack and Carroll Chase.

Latterly cancellations have come to occupy a prominent part in our activities, but again not all of us can have a cover with three greedy wide-open-mouthed chickens chasing something, or a set of Waterbury covers showing besides the chickens, a fish, an elephant, and the rest of the many designs used in that town, or even a herd of kicking mules.

These notes regarding the plebians among the cancellations are not to be regarded as the final word concerning them.

On the other hand they are to be taken only as the beginning.

There are many things about them still to be found out, and it is to be hoped that those who are interested in them will report any omissions or new facts so that from time to time these may be recorded.

The chronology of these cancellations is at present in its elementary stage. Postmarks were year dated in very few places before 1878 or 1879 and the stamps themselves are usually the only guide even when on the cover. This, of course, is not very definite information.

Mr. H. M. Konwiser has been kind enough to investigate for us the available information in regard to New York City, and that is given here in condensed form.

As early as 1838 there was a branch Post Office in New York at William and Exchange Sts. according to the Farmer's Almanac. By 1872 the number had grown to thirteen designated by letters A to N, except I. In 1875 there were the same number but the letters were A to I inclusive, K, L, O and R. The next year L was not listed but M had taken its place. In 1879 I, O and R are not listed but L has been restored. In 1883 the letters include A to H, K, L, M, R, S, T. In 1889 J is included and also P. In 1892 O again appears in the list, and in 1900 the only letters not included are Q, T and X.

Besides these there were branches at Fordham, Kingsbridge, Morrisania, Riverdale, Spuyten Duyvil, Tremont, West Farms, Woodlawn, in 1875 and continuing to 1889. In 1891 besides the lettered branches there is a reference to substations numbered 1 to 21, and this only named branch is Kingsbridge. In 1898, the letters omitted were I, N, Q, S, T, X. The named branches were City Island, Highbridge, Kingsbridge, Madison Sq., Tremont, University Heights, West Chester, Williamsbridge, and sub-stations Ellis Island and numbers 1 to 104.

Prior to 1870 postmasters apparently were permitted to use any device that appealed to their fancy for the purpose of cancelling the stamps that went through their offices, and indeed much the same is true of what took place for several years afterward. But about that time, though the date is uncertain, there seems to have been the germ of an idea to use, at least in the larger cities, cancelling devices of a design different from those of preceding years, and similar for the various branch offices in any one city. Boston and New York were probably the first places to begin the use of these obliterators and their attempts are shown in the above illustrations Nos. 1, 2 and 3. Nos. 1 and 2 were used in New York and are found on the grilled three cents stamp and perhaps other values. The numbers most frequently seen are 1, 2 and 3, but other numbers are to be found running up to 14. They were used until the Continental print came into use, but there appears to be a certain amount of evidence that by 1876 they had been superseded by another design.

Certain facts seem to indicate that these numbers were in use at the general Post Office, and not at the branches. Two covers with the return card of the same firm are cancelled 3 and 14 like No. 1, and two others with the card of another firm are cancelled 2 and 12 like No. 2. A number of covers are cancelled by letters in place of figures in a block like No. 2. These are A, D, F, H, I and L and these no doubt indicate branch office cancellations, and the other branches probably used the same design.

The use of other devices was continued concurrently with these in the Post Office and also at the branches, as is evidenced by numerous covers.

The Boston device, No. 3, appears to have come into use later than the New York. I have not seen it on a grilled stamp, but it is found on National printings and also on Continental printings, and 1 is the only number that has come to my notice. If others were used it must have been only seldom or for only a very short time.

DETECTED BY VIOLET RAY

FRANKFORT, GERMANY, July 14 (A. P.) —Experts connected with a subsidiary company of the Allgemeine Elektricitaets Gesellschaft at Hanau have announced discovery of a quartz lamp by which counterfeit banknotes, fake pearls and the faintest shades of ink may be detected.

The experts to-day demonstrated how the apparatus, by means of ultra violet rays, disclosed the most subtle falsification, whose detection hitherto depended on microscopic investigation and complicated chemical analysis.

A two-page advertisement in the month of August as found elsewhere in this issue from the firm of H. E. Harris & Co.

You can't help seeing it, you must of necessity read it. There may be dullness in some lines of business but 12-paged issues thru the summer months indicate activity in the stamp trade.

Argentine.—The first of the public airmail services opened on March 3d, Mr. A. H. Davis informs us, but on March 1st an official trial trip was made when 327 pieces of mail were carried.

Australia. — Regarding the Sydney-Broken Hill airmail service, we learn from the "Barrier Mail" that the first flight arrived at Broken Hill at 2.30 p.m., on July 19, 1925, having left Hay at 9 a.m., and Mildura at noon. Captain S. A. C. Newman was the pilot of the mail plane, which had been christened "Bower Bird." The mail for the first return flight closed at Broken Hill at 6 a.m. on July 21st. A special, extra fee of 3d per half-ounce is charged for this service, which calls at Mildura, Narrandura, and Cootamandra, from whence the mail bags are transferred to the night express for Sydney. Another air service leaves Hay, and goes to Melbourne, via Denilquin and Echuca.

Brazil.—One hundred pounds of mail was carried from Rio de Janeiro to Buenos Ayres by Commander Franco, the South Atlantic flier, on February 9th.

Canada. — The definite type of semi-official stamp for the Red Lake airmail service has appeared in the same format and make-up as the emergency issues. An "under print" of swastikas in yellow is again used, but the printed design is in indigo, and represents a biplane flying over the sea immediately above a motor boat. Above the machine is a winged maple leaf with "Canada 1926" and below the boat "Special Air Delivery" is inscribed on a scroll, while across the wings of the machine is the name of the operating company.

Chile.—Upon the arrival of Commander Franco at Buenos Ayres, a flight of three service aeroplanes crossed the Andes to welcome him, and to bring a small mail, but only one machine accom-

Great Britain.—Great interest ha expressed in our paragraph on Pa regarding a cover flown during th eral Strike, but official information matter of emergency airmails is ver tradictory. The Secretary to the master-General states that "there w emergency despatches of mail by the Post Office during the troubles," but Sir Samuel Hoare, House of Commons, is reported t said that "785 mail bags were als ried, the weight is not accurately k It is also stated that the weight of carried was 2,611 lbs.

Lithuania.—Three new air stamps appeared in May: 20c carmine, 40c lilac and red, 60c blue and black. They are perf. 12, and have the "line and cross" watermark.

Spain.—Our correspondent, Mr. Davis, reports that Commander Franco, on his trans-Atlantic flight of January-February this year, carried a quantity of letters from Spain addressed to public authorities.

Switzerland.—In connection with the new Lufthansa services, a direct air mail has been inaugurated to Amsterdam, Berlin, and Hamburg, the first flight taking place on May 15th. On the same day, the route between Basle and La Chaux de Fonds was opened, and a special cachet to celebrate the occasion was used at Basle, Le Locle, and La Chaux. All are of the type we show (No. 6) with the route described on the bottom line, but the one applied at Basle has a solid background of violet behind the "winged watch." Only 761 covers were flown from Le Locle on the first day. On May 28th, there was a special flight in connection with the Basle Exhibition Jubilee, when 8,181 pieces were carried, and to each were applied a rectangular black cachet and a special black postmark. Of the total mail 2,162 were registered sendings. A special vignette was produced, and 1,500 were issued. When used on flown cards it is seen with an oblong "Jubilaumsflug" cachet in black. The direct Basle-London mail service reopened on May 27th.

Syria, Grand Liban, and Alaouites.—On May 1st, the four pictorial values of Syria and Grand Liban, and the Alaouites overprint on Syria, appeared with an aeroplane overprint in red instead of the printed "Avion" inscription.

United States of America.—We have seen a cover carried by Plane 65, which has been daily journeying on the authorized Government route to Beaver Island (Mich.), when this settlement was cut off by inclement weather.

The Chicago-Dallas Contract Route opened on May 12th. Special cachets of the "First Flight Inaugurating Contract Air Mail" type, were used at Chicago (in black), Fort Worth (in violet), Kansas City (black), Moline (mauve), Oklahoma (mauve), St. Joseph (black), Wichita (violet), and Dallas (green). We thank Mr. Guest, of Dallas, for first sight of a cover from this city, where, in addition to the circular cachet, an extra one (No. 8) was also applied to all first-day mail.

Uruguay.—Cachet No. 7 illustrates the type of special marking applied to the mail carried to Rocha on March 17th, but the cachet used for obliterating the stamps is a replica of the ones used on the Florida and Rincon flights of last year. This experimental inland service also carried mails on March 19th, 22nd, 24th, 26th and 28th. The flights were undertaken by the Centro Nacional de Aviacion.—The Aero Field.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS

By "PHILATELIA"

Olive Backs.—A somewhat neglected group in the modern Colonial emissions is the division of the fascinating coloured paper groups, known as the "olive backs," sometimes called experimental paper (green). In reality there are two separate papers, which have not been distinguished in our universal guide, firstly the true olive backs, and also the experimental paper, which is usually rougher in texture and the back slightly more green than the pale olive. There are several stamps in this group, regarding it as one, whose scarcity is only just being appreciated and which are advancing smartly in value. Two of these were recently mentioned in this series of articles, the 1sh Grenada and the 1sh Togo. The latter is the true olive back, but all the 1sh Grenada seen by the writer belong to the experimental paper group, although it is possible that, like the 1sh Nigeria, it exists on both papers.

Another really scarce stamp is the Ceylon 5 rupee with pale olive back. Although catalogued less than the 5r white back and old green, it is really worth much more, and will surely advance when its scarcity is more generally realized. These remarks apply to mint copies only; like most coloured paper varieties, used are worth much less.

Malta.—The official figures published of the numbers issued overprinted "Postage" are interesting, and explain why the 2sh and 2sh 6p are so scarce. At the same time there is no outstanding rarity as in the Self-Government series, where only 3240 were issued of the 2sh old CA. On the other hand more values appeared likely to become scarce. The 2½d and 3d will be relatively commonest, and may last some time before exhaustion, but the 1d and 2d should prove quite good investments at present prices, only 80,000 being issued, compared with one million and half a million respectively of the same value overprinted "Self Government." The ¼d is also likely to rise, as the total face value of this denomination is less than any other—£125 only. The 1sh and 5sh are also smaller quantities than the corresponding values in the "Self Government" set, and are likely to appreciate, especially the latter.

Many think it was a pity that the 1922 Melita, etc., issue was not used up in the ordinary course, if necessary withholding the new Revenue series until the corresponding values became exhausted. What the objection is to this course is not clear, except they would probably have lasted too long, in which case they would have been burnt. It may be recalled that the Georgian set was first printed and specimen copies distributed in 1912, but it took five years to use up some of the remainders, the 5sh George only being issued in 1917, and no one seemed to object, but this was in the days when Malta was a Crown Colony, and the modern issues were neglected.

To consider these latest issues from a purely financial standpoint—they will be good and increase in value despite the criticisms that have been levelled against them.

The 1922 set is also worth watching, now the remainders are out of the way. The 10sh and £1 will both be good, but of the lower values it is rather significant, if not sinister, that the duties in most demand, and consequently rising most, are the ones that are scarcest with the overprint, viz., the 4d, 2sh and 2sh 6p!

Cyprus.—The 2 and 2¾pi of this country are worth acquiring; the recently obsolete colours of the current type, in particular, are increasing. The rarity of the 1921 set is well known, but the rarity of the 45pi as compared with the 10sh is not realised, as actually fewer were sold, but the £1 with only 1600 sold seems also to be booked for still further advances, despite the increase that has already taken place.

Certain people a year or two ago were pointing out that the 10sh Malta MCA was overpriced at £15, but they have proved false prophets, as it is still rising, and as it exists in similar numbers to the £1 Cyprus and rare Script Gibraltar, forms a useful precedent and guide; all being in a similar and popular group of Colonies. S. G. 100 and 101, indeed, seem magic numbers as regards the last two mentioned Mediterranean Colonies at least!

The demand for all this class of stuff, and good British Colonials generally, is increasing all over the world, and if the home trade and purchasing power in this country are somewhat crippled by the prolongation of strikes and general trade stagnation, the holder of desirable Colonials is in the fortunate position of holding stock of increasing and international value, unaffected by local conditions.—Philatelic Magazine.

H. E. HARRIS & COMPANY :: WORLD'S LAR

FOR THE SUMMER -- Amazing Price Reductions!

Never Has Your Dollar Bought Such Startling Value!

Our sales during the summer months must be kept at par, at all costs

To overcome the warm-weather inertia of our customers and to expand our sales, substantial reductions have been made in prices of Harrisco Quality-Bilt Collections.

These collections conform to the highest standards of quality. They contain, in general, a larger percentage of high-catalogued, scarce stamps than other similar offerings now on the market. This is not a sales-argument--it's a guarantee; and your money will be refunded without question if any collection fails to give you the fullest degree of satisfaction.

The larger collections contain a much higher proportion of really hard-to-get varieties and are therefore the best investments. But ANY collection, large or small, will afford the dealer who buys it a handsome profit. And for the collector, here is an opportunity of a lifetime: a chance to obtain good stamps, at prices lower than the lowest wholesale rates ! !

Read carefully about these big-value collections and note the substantial savings which can be effected by sending in your order AT ONCE.

BRITISH COLONIALS

The important feature of these packets is their restriction to face-different varieties only, which means that stamps with perforation and watermark distinc- (of which there are thousands!) have been completely eliminated. This point alone represents a value-increase of twenty to thirty per cent over similar-sized ets offered by other wholesalers. All mounted collections are in large books, mounted by colonies with hinges.

The finest example of painstaking workmanship to be found anywhere. Assembled up to a standard and not down to a price, this collection represents an undertaking of considerable size and difficulty, but one of which we can truthfully say "well done!"

A collection of this size would not seem so unusual if the thousands of watermark, perforation and minor varieties were taken into consideration. But that's where the extraordinary part is so apparent: This collection contains absolutely straight, major varieties only! No watermark or perforation distinctions, no paper or shade differences —just clean, good stamps, all in the pink of condition, from the oldest to the newest issues. There are hundreds of mint stamps from almost every colony past and present, many fine sets (including a few high values, and lots of hard-to-get varieties of the medium-priced class which are almost impossible to find elsewhere.

The collection is mounted in several albums. It is offered on the usual "return-if-not-well-pleased" basis and is highly recommended as a sterling investment.

BRITISH COLONIALS

Face Different! A magic word which designates a huge increase in the value of any British Colonial collection. We all know that countless hundreds of British Colonials, alike on their face, are distinguished by differences in types, paper, perforations, water-marks, etc. When you buy a collection of Colonials, be sure that it contains "face different varieties" only, for these collections will catalogue from 20% to 30% more than the "ordinary kind" and are far superior in every way.

The collections offered below contain major varieties only—all face different—(no watermark or perforation varieties) assembled strictly according to the Scott catalogue; selected copies, carefully mounted with hinges (alphabetically) in large books.

For the collector who is weak in British Colonials, they are wonderful. For the dealer, good profits can be made by purchasing any of the collections and reselling the stamps at retail.

EDITORIAL

As we surmised, there has been a little letter "shower" as a consequence of the announcement that another commemorative is to be issued on October 28, 1926; and one of our correspondents becomes quite testy in his comments on the subject and he thinks that philately is in danger of being "wrecked" by the issues of the kind. This is an extreme view, of course, and has no foundation in fact but it shows how seriously some collectors regard what they consider a "menace" to their interests. From experience, we know that a subject of this kind is one on which a final word cannot be said and that it could be argued interminably. The special issues have their advocates as well as their detractors; and we suggest that a compromise verdict be arrived at by the philatelic jury. While the motives of the post office department in issuing commemorative stamps are of the best and are not based on any thought of exploiting philatelists, yet the frequent issue of such stamps has a tendency to cheapen the sentiment that would be carried by an occasional emission, for instance. It is apparent that unless the postmaster-general curbs his disposition to please, there will be too many special issues for even the liberal-minded philatelist to sponsor with a smile.

Mr. Al. Burns shows a letter sent from Vincennes, Indiana, May 23, 1849, to a midshipman on the U. S. frigate "Brandywine," in the "Brazils" which bears, in addition to the Paid marking and the Vincennes postmark, the picture of what is evidently an old man-of-war under full sail, in postmark form, surrounded by the words: "U. S. Naval Lyceum." It is probable that this old imprint has no postal significance but is the insignia of some sailors' benefit society.

Some weeks ago, or on June 25, 1926, we gave a talk at a meeting of the stamp club that flourishes at Senn High School, Chicago. This organization is an exceptional one and the claim has been made for it that it is the premier school society of its kind; and we believe that it deserves this honor. While the students themselves are given all recognition for their sustained interest in and loyalty to stamps, the impetus given to the philatelic direction of the boys by several of the instructors must be admitted. By their encouragement, the stamp club at this great school has become a force that has benefited philately. Ferdinand Fischer and Miss M. Starbird are two teachers who may be mentioned as having encouraged the stamp club in a way that is remarkable, when measured by results; and through their supervision of the boys' stamp activities they succeeded in having a half-hour of school time given to each meeting. The faculty adviser is Miss Starbird, who is an ardent philatelist; and the principal of the school, Mr. Buck has come to realize the serious purpose of the club and give it his approval. Mr. Fischer, too, is a collector of experience and gives attention to the historical side of stamps, as may be judged when it is told that he is interested in the pre-stamp covers, as well as later issues. The programs at meetings of the club are well conceived and closely attended to; and the competitive exhibits at the school are on a high plane and attract most favorable attention. The officers of the club are alert and resourceful; and the president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer are Norman Curtis, Oscar Spring and Ray Hamer, respectively. The stamp club at Senn High is a constructive factor in the field of philately and is doing a real service in the up-building of our pursuit.

When we realize that many instructors in schools and colleges are unremitting in their efforts to bring philately into the calculations of their charges, because of the conviction of the teachers that collecting has substantial merits, we rejoice in the thought of this great influence being brought to bear in favor of our pursuit. Here is work of telling kind being done with no flourish but with steady pace; and it is comforting to find that in the aggregate there is a great preparatory school from which many a competent philatelist will be graduated. The new generation of collectors will carry on the work that is now being done and they will bring a fresh and genuine enthusiasm to their tasks. All credit is given to the instructors who are aiding the cause in a most practical way.

From Mr. E. B. Aiyar, Puthenchanthai, Trivandrum, India, we have an interesting criticism of the "Philatelic Dictionary" as follows: "The book furnishes information on almost all the philatelic matters which are necessary for beginners and advanced philatelists as well. At the same time, I have pleasure in bringing to your notice an admission so far as Travancore is concerned. Under 'R' the abbreviation is to be supplied similar to other letters. R.V. represents the Maharajah of Travancore, generally designated Rama Varma, this ruling king of Travancore. This R.V. is seen in all royal emblems, in flags, coins, government publications, etc. It may be of interest to note that the provisional Court Fee stamps (Travancore Anchal with C.F. surcharged) of 1, 2, 4, ½ and ¾ chuckrams bear this C.F., C containing R and F containing V in their left sides in miniature characters quite clearly seen in the 2 ch." We thank Mr. Aiyar for various specimens that he enclosed to illustrate his remarks.

The work of preparing for the great philatelic event of the age will soon be entering its final stages. Summer is passing and when the weather begins to be more seasonably philatelic, the coming exhibition will loom largely in the near distance, so to say. The managers of the huge enterprise must be given all cooperation as theirs is a gigantic task. Actual as well as moral support must be forthcoming from the philatelic body removed from the scene of action and the workers must know that they have the support of all the well-wishers of philately.

The convention of the American Philatelic Society requires much planning to be in readiness for the hosts that are expected to descend upon New York next October, attracted by the two great events, and there is need that the New York committees having the meeting of philatelists in charge be made aware that they are not expected to bear the financial load alone. The yearly conventions have become affairs of such magnitude as to demand much time and money from the managers of them and it is not fair that they be worried by financial questions when they bend to their tasks with such a good will.

In the "Masonic News," Detroit, of July, 1926, there is a striking story in which the central theme is stamps or rather one stamp, an Alexandria local, written by Carl H. Claudy and entitled, "The Greatest of These." The local proved to be a means of saving grace and the story is a capital one which will be appreciated particularly by the fraternity. The writer knows well how to prove that philately may be made a pivotal part of the plot to advantage and we are sure that all the readers will be impressed by the part that philately is made to play. May more authors who have some idea of stamps use them in their work, as, so far as the public is concerned, the field is almost new.

TO THE JUNIOR COLLECTOR

A. R. Rogers, who is the Exhibition Manager of the International Philatelic Exhibition, informs us that the promoters desire to form a committee, representing the junior stamp collectors, to assist in putting over the Exhibition. He mentions the fact that there are stamp clubs in nearly all the high schools of New York City, and the Board of Education takes recognition of this splendid educational work by appointing to each club a teacher who spends a certain amount of time each week at the club meeting. Mr. Rogers has had interviews with a number of these people and finds them greatly interested in the forthcoming Exhibition.

It is desired that a list of the junior stamp collectors throughout the country may be secured to promote the success of the Exhibition, and any who are interested should send their name, age and address to Charles M. Ams, Secretary, 101 Park Ave., New York City. If any of our readers desire to offer suggestions dealing with the matter referred to in this article they are requested to write Mr. Rogers, who may be addressed at the Grand Central Palace, New York City.

CANAL ZONE—LIBERTY BELL

By HARRY E. HUBER.

On May 10, 1926, the U.S.P.O. Department issued a 2c stamp in connection with the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition held at Philadelphia, to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

This stamp was recess printed from steel engraved plates, in carmine, by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, Washington, D. C., in sheets of 200 (10 horizontal by 20 vertical) with a margin at the top, bottom, and two sides, in which the type numbers appears over (or under) the third and eighth vertical rows, and the side margins, opposite the fifth and seventh horizontal rows. Between the first and sixth vertical rows, and the fifth and eleventh horizontal rows, guide lines in color divide the 200 subjects into four panes of 50 stamps (5 x 10) each, and along these lines knives pass and cut the 200 stamp sheets into four Post Office sheets of 50 stamps each, while the stamps are perforated 11. Of the fourteen stamps (of the 50) bordering on the side guide lines, thirteen have one straight edge, and the other one, two straight edges.

The design of the stamp is a horizontal rectangle, measuring 37 x 22 mm., and figured within an arched opening is the Liberty Bell, swung from the tops of four ornamental columns, surmounted by eagles. Conforming to the opening is "UNITED STATES POSTAGE," above which, in straight line, is "SESQUICENTENNIAL EXPOSITION," and the dates, in the corners, "1776" and "1926," at the left and right respectively. Circles in the lower corners contain the numeral "2," and across the foot is "TWO CENTS." All lettering and numerals are colorless.

Of this stamp, 300,000 (6000 sheets of 50 each) were ordered by the Canal Zone Director of Posts to be overprinted for sale in the Canal Zone, and these were received in the Isthmus during the latter part of June. Sales were authorised as of July 4th, but on account of the double holiday, during which time all Post Offices were closed, it is doubtful if any sales were made until the Post offices were opened for business on the morning of Tuesday, July 6th.

The overprint "CANAL ZONE" is black, in two horizontal lines of serifed caps, 2mm. high, the words measuring 11½ to 9mm. respectively, in the same type as used for the ordinary stamps, sharp ½, except that the vertical spacing is 3mm. instead of varying from 8 to 9½mm.

July 6, 1926.—Sesqui-Centennial commemorative stamp of U. S. A. overprinted by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, Washington, D. C., "CANAL ZONE," horizontally in 2 lines (in black), perf. 11 Unwatermarked.

Dec. armine (Liberty Bell).

"COLLECTORS CLUB PHILATELIST"

We have not been backward in expressing our admiration for the Collectors Club Philatelist in times past and the numbers that have occasioned our rapturous remarks were founded on what, at the moment, seemed to be the most finished philatelic product imaginable. We have some reason to regret that all our verbal ammunition has been shot off, or at least, to deplore that our vocabulary is not on a sliding scale, when we examine the July number of the quarterly, wherein, the editor, Mr. H. L. Lindquist, outdoes himself. In this issue there is so much to see and tell about that we scarcely know where to begin but what entrances our eye is the first instalment of a two-part history, "Franks of the Western Express Companies," copyrighted, by Dr. Victor M. Berthold. Here is a most fascinating story told in a graphic manner by the gifted author, illustrated by a map showing old mail routes; and other pictures of western scenes that quicken the pulse of the citizen of this day. Mr. Berthold makes an important contribution to the literature of the west, it is not too much to say, by having the singular good fortune to be able to quote from the diary kept by the father of a friend of his who made the overland trip in 1849. Here is romance, indeed, and the philatelic interpolations are authoritative and embracive. The contrast between the conditions of the pioneer days and the present will be appreciated by the dullest of us and those who have a tender feeling for a by-gone era will immeasurably enjoy the treatment that is so masterfully given by the author. When complete the article will be something to have and to hold and it will grace the book-shelf of any philatelist. The postal information, it need not be said, is of a definite and detailed nature and when the reader has absorbed the story, he will have a proper understanding of western express company franks.

Elliott Perry has completed his study of "Plating the 10c 1847" and when one realizes the immense amount of study, based on a wealth of material, given to the subject, one's praises are forthcoming for the patient student, who has accomplished a task to try the most stout-hearted. As an example of philatelic application, Mr. Perry's work is almost beyond the bounds of possibility and he attains high place among the savants of philately. Sheets showing the positions of stamps include the 80's and 90's of the left and right panes.

Another exhaustive study of plating is furnished by the eminent Dr. Justus Andersen, who, in collaboration with two other students, plates Norway, 1855, 4 skilling, a stamp that has been entering into the calculations of a number of collectors; and by an enlarged copy of the stamp and numerous part stamp illustrations, block A and block B are described in their differences, both by picture and by text. The printing plate was composed of four blocks, 5x5 stamps, which have been numbered A, B, C and D; and A and B or the two upper panes are now considered. Mr. Harry M. Konwiser contributes an article, "Philately Versus Stamp Collecting," wherein he shows the gradations that enter into the development of the stamp collector into the philatelist and he makes the sound observation that broader avenues should be created through which to interest the general collector. This is a sane exposition that is worth thought. Dr. J. Fred Emerson submits a comparative study of the obliterations of the Brazil "Bull's Eyes" as the first issue of Brazil are often called and the pages of cuts are something for the collector who aspires only to a single copy of each of the three denominations, to keep at his elbow. An illustrated article by Mr. Christian L. Dull shows the handicraft of an artist such as Mr. Dull, who certainly has the ability to provide tasteful decorative effects for the album pages. Hanover is treated by Director Heinrich Birnbach, so far as the first issue is concerned and the decree telling officially of the introduction of stamps is a valuable document. Mr. Bartels continues his descriptions, with illustrations, of the New York Foreign Mail Cancellations 1870-76; and Mr. Herman Toaspern elaborates on his discovery of the Guam, ten cents brown, type II, an achievement to his credit. The editor is at home on his page and Mr. Ricketts continues his index—altogether, a surfeit of the richest philatelic fare.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

UNITED STATES INVERTS

Six or eight months ago I had on hand upward of thirty fine copies of the United States inverted centers, issues of 1869, 1901 and 1915. Today, I have exactly two copies left, namely, a superb mint copy of the 1c 1901 and a fine mint copy of the 4c with "Specimen" overprint.

As I always aim to keep in stock such varieties, I am today in the market for any and all of the inverted centers of the United States. They, however, must be in fine condition — inferior copies or those with straight edge are not desired.

I would like to purchase superb used copies of the 1869, 15c, 24c and 30c with inverted centers and can use one or two of each. Would like a fine mint copy of the 1901 2c and several mint copies of the 4c without the "Specimen" overprint. Also in the market for a couple superb mint copies of the 24c Aeroplane.

Do you happen to have on hand a copy or two of the 1908 4c and 8c blue paper? These are desired in singles and blocks.

Always in the market to purchase anything fine in the way of United States issues and more especially the unusual and rare items. Would be glad to have you communicate with me whether you have a single, a collection or an accumulation.

I also offer the collector the finest stock of stamps of the United States in existence to pick from and this includes those from the commoner to the greatest rarities. As a rule, my stock leans towards the unused, especially superb singles and blocks, but in a great many cases I can supply perfection canceled copies as well as covers.

Sesqui-Centennial Stamped Envelope

Under date of July 20th the Postmaster General announced the prospective issuance of a new 2 cents embossed stamped envelope to commemorate the Sesquicentennial anniversary of American Independence. The envelope is being issued in connection with the Sesquicentennial Exposition in Philadelphia, Pa., the stamp being printed in red on extra quality paper.

The stamp on the envelope is an upright rectangle in shape, about 1⅛ by 15/16 inches in size. The central design is an embossed Liberty Bell partly surrounded by a wreath with the figures "1776" and "1926" on either side. Above the central design appear the words "United States Postage" and directly below are the words "Sesquicentennial Exposition." The numeral "2" appears in the two lower corners, with the word "Cents" between.

The new envelope in size 5 will be manufactured on the machine which has been installed as a part of the Department's exhibit at the Exposition, the first sale to be made at the Model Post Office in the Exposition grounds on Tuesday, July 27th. These envelopes in sizes 5, 8 and 13 will be placed on sale at the other post offices throughout the country as soon as sufficient supplies can be manufactured at the envelope factory at Dayton, Ohio.

The envelope machine for turning out these envelopes at the Exposition has been in operation for some time but previous to the appearance of the special stamp they have been turning out the normal variety. These do not appear to differ from the normal stock and they have been shipping them out along with those made at Dayton.

The 2c Sesquicentennial adhesive stamp is not being manufactured at the Exposition as had been expected, due I believe to the fact that it has now been learned that such a stamp may not be made outside of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing. They are, however, showing the visitors how similar work is produced by turning out neat engravings of Washington, Lincoln, Silent Cal, Independence Hall and other subjects.

Commemorative Stamp Engravers

From time to time through the courtesy of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing I am enabled to post our readers as to the engravers who made certain dies for our postage stamps.

The Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary stamps were engraved by Messrs. H. P. Dawson, E. M. Hall, L. S. Schofield and F. Pauling.

The Lexington - Concord Series by Messrs. E. M. Weeks, E. M. Hall, J. C. Benzing, F. Pauling and L. S. Schofield.

The dies for the Norse-American stamps are the work of Messrs. E. M. Hall, W. B. Wells, E. M. Weeks, J. C. Benzing and E. J. Hein.

Messrs. E. M. Hall and J. Eissler produced the 2c Sesqui-centennial while the 5c Ericsson is the good work of Messrs. F. Lamasure and L. S. Schofield.

Plate Numbers

Plates bearing the following numbers have been produced for turning out the 2c Sesquicentennial stamps. Nos. 18540-47, 18552-83, 18634-41, 18646-53 and 18664-67.

JEAN GERMAK 49 bis Rue Sainte Anne PARIS 2e (France) [eow2

Communications, has decided to create and place in circulation special stamps for the legations and consulates and bearing the inscription 'ADMINISTRATION CONSULAIRE.' The printing of these stamps will be 50,000 of 10m, 20,000 of 50m, 5000 of 100m and 20,000 of 200m."

This reads like another Swiss "League of Nations" issue.—Philatelic Magazine.

ITALIAN COLONIES.—The first printing of St. Francis stamps consisted, according to M. Champion, of 25,000 sets for each colony.—Stamp Collecting.

JAPAN.—There is, after all, no truth in the rumor that the much boomed "most beautiful new stamps" are already on issue. Our faithful friend in Tokyo, Mr. Umejiro Kimura, Editor of the excellent Yuraku, says the stamps in question have yet to appear and that we "shall be happy if we can get them within six months from now."—Stamp Collecting.

PERSIA.—Mr. Theodore Champion in his Bulletin Mensuel chronicles the appearance of the 1c, 2c, 3c, 6c and 9c of the 1909 surcharged with native characters and "Regne de Pahlavi 1926."

RAROTONGA.—In reply to an inquiry, Messrs. J. H. Smyth, Ltd., are officially informed that the stamps at present on sale at the chief post office, Rarotonga, are as follows:—

The pictorial issue (½d to 1s) for the Islands of Rarotonga, Aitutaki, and Penrhyn; the 2½d of New Zealand, overprinted for the same three islands; and the 4d, 2s, 2s 6d, 5s, 10s and £1 overprinted for Rarotonga only.

The 2½d and 4d stamps are to be withdrawn at an early date and replaced by pictorial stamps.—Stamp Collecting.

SURINAM.—We are advised by Whitfield King & Co. that the 20c in the type of A15 has been issued in olive color.

TRIPOLITANIA.—Mr. Theodore Champion reports that two new stamps have been issued one a 5c+5c brown and a 10c+5c olive. They are of large oblong format with the figure of a woman in the centre. The perforation is 14.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Air Mail Stamps. Quantities printed and sold are reported in the current issue of the Nederlandsch Maanblad voor Philatelie as:

Value.	Printed.	Sold.
1d	210,000 sheets	65,390 sheets
3d	210,000 "	75,621 "
6d	150,000 "	53,536 "
9d	110,040 "	27,763 "

A NEW "STANDARD INDEX"

By A. B. CREEKE.

The "Standard Index to Philatelic Literature," published by Harris Publications Ltd., of Windsor House, 46 Victoria Street, London, S.W. 1, promises to be the most practical guide which has ever been printed, for it is compiled in the careful and lucid (and yet technically correct) manner that we are entitled to expect from its compilers, Messrs. Albert H. Harris and L. A. J. Baker.

Part I has just reached us. The Title-page states that the work will be completed in ten or more bi-monthly parts, published at the subscription price of one guinea—interleaved, £1 11sh 6p—and, when we call to mind a previous attempt at a similar figure, the proverbially "odious comparison" at once arises, only to be dropped, as no comparison is possible.

Mr. Harris, in his Foreword, tells us briefly and clearly the basis on which the Index has been compiled; and he gives a full share of any resulting credit to his "enthusiastic collaborator," Mr. Baker.

Very old Literature has been left out, because most of the information therein contained has been re-published in the more modern Journals and Monographs, so the whole period covered by the Magazines indexed is only from 1879 — the birth-year of the Philatelic Record—down to the end of 1925.

Nearly fifty British journals, comprising, round about 500 volumes, have been gone through, and these figures testify to the courage of the compilers in undertaking such a stupendous task.

After the List of Journals, later on referred to by their initials, we have the Bibliography. Its first two pages—the size is quarto — contain General Works dealing with Philatelic Literature; Bibliographies of the works of any firm or person, or of particular countries (as distinct from publications dealing with the stamps of such countries); and Library Catalogues. Then, in a further two pages, are to be found Indexes to Philatelic Literature for any particular period; Special Indexes, or Index-Volumes to Periodicals; Historical Studies of Early Journals; and Summaries of the Contents of Journals.

The references in this Bibliography are not confined to our own language, but include many in French and German.

Of the "Index" proper, the (to us) most useful and interesting portion of the entire compilation, there are fourteen pages in the present part, running from "Abyssinia" to the Georgian era of the "British Empire."

Following, as has been gathered, an alphabetical scheme of arrangement, we find, under each country: First, General References; then, Special References to particular issues, following the "Gibbons" Catalogue; and, finally, References to Miscellaneous Items, e.g., Air Mails, Forgeries, Reprints, Stationery, etc.

All handbooks—British and Foreign—are included in the scheme; but only those journals published within the British Empire.

Nearly every reference is followed by the price at which the work, or the journal containing the article, can be obtained from the publishers.

The result is more than good—it could not be better, within the limits laid down. We speak from an "Index" experience of some fourteen or fifteen years, which should entitle us to give a more or less authoritative opinion.

highly speculative. Four sets were sent to the catalog-makers and that is about all that are available except at a—price. It is the opinion of the undersigned that they rank in the same category as those of the Malaya-Borneo Exhibition, or those of the Dutch Indies surcharged for the Annual Fairs, and should be merely noted as such.

While the plates were destroyed as per the enclosed photographic circular, quite a few specimens have been seen lacking one wing of the air-propeller. This could only come from some part of the plate being destroyed by an interested party as the small number surcharged could not have worn out the plates. In this case these not only rank in the "speculative" class but in the "suspicious" class as well.

There is some talk of a change of color for the current issues to accord with the agreements of the Postal Congress, but thus, like other things, Philippine may again be a belated.

ADDENDA.

Certification from the Director of Posts of the Philippine Islands, as made by Jose Topacio, Dicetor of Posts:—

"That surcharged Philippine postage stamps of all denominations were issued to commemorate the arrival in this country on May 13, 1926, of Captains EDUARDO GONZALEZ GALLARZA and JOAQUIN LORIGA TABOADA, aviators of the Spanish Army, in their Madrid-Manila flight. These surcharged stamps were as follows:

Quantity	Denomination	Value
10,000	2 centavo postage stamps	P 200
9,000	4 "	360
5,000	6 "	300
5,000	8 "	400
5,000	10 "	500
4,000	12 "	480
4,000	16 "	640
4,000	20 "	800
4,000	26 "	1,040
4,000	30 "	1,200
2,000	1 peso postage stamps	2,000
900	2 "	1,800
700	4 "	2,800
500	10 "	5,000

Samples of these stamps are hereto affixed.

Immediately upon the termination of the printing of these stamps, the plates, negatives, proofs, etc., were destroyed in the presence of Mr. Nicolas Quilon, Acting Superintendent, Manila Post Office, Mr. Alejandro Garay, Superintendent of Work, Bureau of Printing, and Messrs. Jose Castañer and Walter Bruggmann, Manila Stamp Collectors.

EMIL TAMSEN OF TRANSVAAL

An Eminent South African Philatelist Who Will Serve As An Exhibition Judge

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

The name of Emil Tamsen is a very familiar one to the readers of our publication, and many of them who are to visit the New York Exhibition will be gratified to learn that they will have the privilege of meeting him there.

Mr. Tamsen started collecting some fifty years ago when he located in the Transvaal. His first stroke of philatelic luck was the purchase of stamps on letters accumulated in the Dead Letter Office at Pretoria. This gave him the foundation of his first specialized collection of Transvaal, which was sold in London in 1900. Since then he has built up several specialized collections of this and other South African colonies. At the present time he is specializing only in Transvaal.

In 1893, Mr. Tamsen was able to get access to the stamp records of the South African Republic, the results of which were embodied in an article "The Stamps of the Transvaal" which appeared in Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal 1893-4.

In 1901 he wrote the history of the last stamp issue of the South African Republic, commonly called the Pieters-

My specialized approval selections of these popular stamps will be remade early in September. Increased demand creates a shortage, and a shortage means higher prices. Any student knows the demand for these stamps and that in fine condition they are getting hard to find, and any wise collector can guess the price result in the new selections.

Many of my present books were priced a year ago and already there is advantage in the prices. I will sell from my present books at the old prices until remaking time.

Adult collectors only need apply for there are no bargains in plate varieties and cancellations for the boys. Your bank and two stamp dealers required as reference from new approval applicants.

berg Issue, and further of the several war issues, all of which were published in the above mentioned magazine. Mr. Tamsen has been a frequent contributor to various philatelic publications. One of his articles described his discovery of the four types of the rare East Griqualand Mount Currie Express stamps.

In 1899 Mr. Tamsen travelled via Mozambique, German and British East Africa, Egypt, to England and Scotland. His family is an old Danish one and many of our readers will be surprised to learn that Mr. Tamsen came to the United States in the early sixties, where his father became naturalized and Mr. Tamsen was himself an American until he left for the Transvaal, where he became a Boer and is now a "British subject by conquest." He is planning to revisit America and will return home by way of Australia. He writes us that when he left New York the East River bridge was being started, and he adds:—"I am now anxious to walk over it and see how New York looks with its skyscrapers. I expect to stay some six months in the U. S. A."

Wherever he has resided, Mr. Tamsen has taken a keen interest in local municipal affairs. He was mayor of Nylstroom for eight years in succession, and inaugurated the town's water supply system and its tree planting scheme.

He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, having started the local lodge in 1886, and now holds past rank of District Senior Grand Warden of the Transvaal. He started the first general retail store in Nylstroom forty-four years ago and is still managing the same. Through the handling of mining materials he became engaged in tin, gold and platinum mining and still has interests in them.

Mr. Tamsen is now residing on his Nylstroom farm where he has large citrus and deciduous orchards, walnut and almond groves, the largest chestnut grove in South Africa, and also large eucalyptus plantations.

From the above sketch it will be seen that our distinguished philatelist has led a very busy life and his presence at New York, upon the Jury of Awards, will make him one of the central figures of the event.

FINE AIR MAIL COVERS

Albert E. Gorham of Washington, D. C., has been a busy philatelist in recent months. This is particularly true in connection with first flights in airmail contracts. He has kept the readers of the WEEKLY fully posted by the submission of specimens, and he has now taken the pains to submit thirty-two first flight airmail covers, combining on each one of them a first flight between Boston and New York with Philadelphia and Washington, in all combinations of trips.

These covers are submitted for our critical inspection and comment. We can only say they are a liberal education in the airmail flight history which has recently taken place. Special attention is called to the fact that these covers represent "double first flights between Boston and Washington." Doubtless these are very scarce covers and will be of considerable philatelic interest.

ITEMS OF NEWS:—

AT a recent election of officers of the Newark (N. J.) Philatelic Society Isadore Schactman was re-elected president and Maurice Berman secretary.

THE Bulletin hitherto issued by the Aero Philatelic Society of America is now printed in a more pretentious form. It is to be known as the Aero News and Volume I, Number 1, consists of eight pages. A sample copy can no doubt be obtained by addressing the publication at Springfield, Mass.

WE have received a copy of the Thornhill Album, issued for the stamps of the Chinese Treaty Ports and Formosa. It is published by the Thornhill Stamp Exchange, Vallejo, Calif., and the pages are arranged by H. F. Bowker, A.P.S. 2482. Our subscribers who are interested in these stamps and desire a special album of some thirty pages will do well to write the publishers. An album for the stamps of China similar to the present volume is in course of preparation.

R. P. BROOK, Rockville Center, N. Y., is unable to secure replies to letters sent Wm. Beecher, 651 Elm St., Kenosha, Wis. Interested parties should write Mr. Brook.

HERE is a chance for one of our subscribers to favor a fellow philatelist. Horace C. Adams, A.P.S. 6863, R.F.D. 1, Box 24, Glendora, Cal., is anxious to secure a copy of our paper for Jan. 27, 1917, Whole Number 1361. Drop him a line if you can favor him.

IN the Boston Transcript for July 10 appeared an article dealing with "Commemorative Stamps as Teachers of History." It was written by Oliver McKee Jr., and based upon material furnished by Mrs. K. L. Manning of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C. The article is boldly illustrated and presents a very striking appearance.

IT has been reported that Greece is to have a set of airmail stamps of four values, 2, 3, 5 and 10dr, to be used on service between Italy, Greece, and Turkey. Evang. Melingounakis informs us that this issue of stamps will be privately created and that the Greek postal department will have no connection with it.

C. R. LEWIS, at the Philatelic Congress at Liverpool, said that the first known provincial postmark was on a letter marked "Warrington," posted in 1702, in the days before adhesive stamps. The earliest known provincial postmark of the circular type, with town and date marked in the circle, was on a Chester letter of March 23, 1804.

SIGMUND WEISER submits specimens of the new 8c Colombian patterned after the old 3c stamp. He writes us as follows:—"Please find enclosed the new value of 8cts. blue Colombian stamp which is intended for double postage. Pattern and color the same as the 3cts. stamps which probably is doomed to be discontinued as the single postage was raised from 3 to 4 cents. However, the 3cts. stamps are still valid and in stock at post offices, only the two stamps can easily be confused."

Liberty Bell Stamped Envelopes

Here is a unique first day cover. For the first time since the establishment of the Philatelic Agency a stamp has been issued which was not placed on sale on the first day at the Agency. This stamped envelope was manufactured and first sold at the Sesquicentennial Exposition only. I offer first day covers as follows:

Liberty Bell stamped envelope, Philadelphia, July 27th ..... .25
Same with Lexington-Concord set (1, 2, 5c) by air mail from Philadelphia to Washington ..... .50
Same with block of four 2c sesqui stamp by air mail from Philadelphia to Washington ..... .50

I have a few Liberty Bell envelope covers which I brought from Philadelphia and mailed at Washington on July 27th. Price, .50. This Washington first day cancellation will be scarce.

ESQUI-CENTENNIAL ENVELOPE

Here is a novelty surely!

We have received from P. M. Wolsieffer the new 2c Sesqui-Centennial stamped envelope. It bears an embossed picture of the familiar Liberty Bell and is cancelled with the "Model Post Office" cancellation. The postmark July 27 is that of the first day of issue. All in all, the cover is a very interesting one and we thank Mr. Wolsieffer for his courtesy.

This week we see what you can get from one town. Mr. Collins dug these all up in one lot, and as they are from the town which has put out so many odd and pretty cancels thought I'd show this lot intact, tho they are not so striking as many of the other Wby cancels. They of course come on 3c greens as well as on these P. C. '75s (Post Cards). No. 3 is put in to fill up the group.

Were you ever inclined to go way down South and see if you could dig up a mess of covers as nice as that lot of Carroll, Hoy correspondence? Well, Cahaba is an interesting living example of "Truth is stranger than fiction." This is the story of a lost Capitol, not capital, as that is easy to lose. It is seldom that a state loses its Capitol which has cost up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, yet this one is actually swept off the map.

Mr. R. S. Nelson has sent me a book "Memories of Old Cahaba," by Anna M. Gayle Fry, who lived there, and the following is taken from her book.

Where the little Cahaba and the majestic Alabama rivers glide into each other's embrace is located Old Historic Cahaba, the first Capitol of Alabama. This spot was of importance back in 1713, being occupied by the officers of Crozart, a rich Parisian merchant, who received a large grant of land from King Louis XV of France, and established Military and Trading Posts in this part of the country, then known as "The Prince of Louisiana."

By the Alabama State Legislature, Cahaba, the site selected by the General Assembly assembled at Huntsville in 1819, was approved as the Capitol, lots laid out, and a location for the government buildings selected by Governor William Bibb. In 1820 Cahaba had two newspapers, a Land Office, State Bank, stores, hotels, schools, etc., etc.

In 1822 land sold for $1.25 per acre. In a few weeks these sold for $60.00 to $70.00 per acre, and in a few months could not be had at any price. The sale of 184 lots amounted to over $120,000.00.

The massive State Capitol, a solid square brick structure, two stories high, surmounted by an imposing Dome, said to be similar in appearance to the Old Capitol Building at St. Augustine, Florida, and erected in that same year, was the central feature of the town, which was planned on the lines of Philadelphia, the streets having those same names. The principal business street—Vine—was ornamented by ancient shade trees, gnarled and seamed; China berry, mulberry, and water oaks lined the streets on each side.

Into this beautiful setting came LaFayette in 1825 to spend three days, where he was entertained with pomp and ceremony, passing under the arch which was erected in his honor, amid the boom of cannon, ringing of bells, and the cheers of the hundreds who had assembled to do him honor.

The grand balls were given in the Bell Tavern. "Many were the beautiful belles resplendent in brocaded satin, costly laces and diamonds, who had "tread a measure" with the stately cavaliers of those days, or merrily danced the Virginia reel in that long old ballroom, 'neath the soft mellow light of spermaceti candles or the old-fashioned lard oil lamps, with their ground glass shades."

Here you have a picture of a Capitol of one of the old Southern States in its zenith of prosperity. At no time was the population over 5,000.

LOOKING ROUND

Malta—Irish Free State—Portugal and Colonies

By "MARQUETTE".

I learn from Stamp Collecting that the "POSTAGE" overprint was applied to the following quantities of the values indicated: 4d, 24,000; 6d, 80,000; 1s, 48,000; 2s, 7000; 2s 6d, 8000; 5s, 16,000; 10s 27,000. The authority for this statement is not given. As I write, the 2s is selling at between 25s and 30s, which makes the present quotation of 15s to 17s 6d for the 2s 6d rather low. The 4d is offered round about 4s.

As stated in "Stamp News in Brief" last month, several reports of forgeries of the "POSTAGE" overprint on the better values have been received, though I have not yet seen a definitely bad overprint. The reports are borne out by the keen London demand for the 2s stamp without overprint, the price of which is rising rapidly.

The latest edition of the Ferreira Catalogue of Portugal and Colonies shows an upward tendency in many of the Ceres type stamps, for which there is an increasing demand. Generally speaking, the 15c claret, 30c chocolate on green, 40c brown on rose, and 50c orange on salmon, are showing rises in most Colonies. Since the Gibbons Catalogue lists were re-written, there has been a marked revival of interest in many Portuguese issues.

Chili is a country which should be watched just now. Dealers' stock-books bear witness to a run on many of the stamps which have been hitherto regarded as quite common, and I gather that one or two of the "wise ones" have discovered that stocks of many items are getting low, and are buying in anticipation of an early rise.

The 50st Bulgaria, with view of the bombed Sofia Cathedral, has been withdrawn, I understand, because of the painful memories it evoked among the relatives of the two hundred victims of the dastardly outrage.

As was to be expected, the new edition of the Ware Catalogue of Irish Free State shows an all-round increase in values, prices being, in a number of instances, well above the present Gibbons quotations. The Introduction speaks very highly of the Thom Rialtas high values, while the Thom Saorstat high values are also up. In a recent issue of Stamp Collecting, Mr. John Dixon says: "If Irish overprints are really as scarce as I have found them, they would be cheap at twice Gibbons prices, especially used in really fine condition." We can evidently look for further rises in the next edition of the red catalogue.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

STAMPS OF ORANGE RIVER COLONY

By C. A. HOWES.

The Orange River Free State was formed by the "Great Trek" of the Boers of the Cape of Good Hope, who were dissatisfied with British rule and migrated into the wilds to the north in 1836, finally forming the Republic in 1842. This was forcibly annexed by the British six years later, but its independence was restored in 1854, when a constitution was promulgated. When war broke out between the Transvaal and Great Britain in 1899, the Republic joined the former and suffered defeat and incorporation into the British Empire as the Orange River Colony in consequence, being annexed by proclamation of Lord Roberts, Commander-in-chief, on May 24, 1900. The Colony takes its name from the Orange river, which forms its boundary with Cape Colony and was named thus in 1777 in honor of the Royal House of Holland.

The stamp of the former Orange River Free State and the succeeding Orange River Colony are comparatively few in number, particularly when one considers the time that has elapsed since the first issue, now approaching sixty years. And the remarkable part of it is that more than one-half of all the stamps issued have been surcharges, and this without counting differences of type or minor varieties. It will thus be seen that for the "simplified collection" this country offers a very attractive field, as there are no stamps of any degree of rarity which would be needed.

The stamps were ordered from Messrs. De La Rue & Co. of London, who continued to furnish them for the Free State and the succeeding Colony until the latter was merged into the Union of South Africa. The design is the arms of the Free State, a tree of conical shape called the "Liberty Tree," whatever that may be, with three powder-horns arranged beneath. It seems that the so-called "oranges" dotted over the tree are an "artistic license" of the engraver, who added them with the idea that the national tree of the "Orange Free State" must perforce be an "orange tree." As will be seen from our introductory paragraph, this assumption was entirely gratuitous and we are unaware that the orange tree even grows there, at least not as an indigenous member of the country's flora. The stamps were printed like the regular British Colonial productions of the firm in sheets of 240, four panes of sixty each which were in ten horizontal rows of six. The perforation has always been gauge 14, but not being a British Colony the paper was plain unwatermarked white wove.

The first stamps were issued on January 1, 1868, and like the Transvaal, with which the Free State was always intimately connected, they consisted of three values: 1 penny for newspaper postage irrespective of weight, 6 pence for letter postage per half ounce or for the registration fee, and 1 shilling for the combined rates double weight letters, etc. No figures were shown but the value was expressed by the Dutch words een (one) and zes (six). These stamps sufficed for nine years, when in 1877 the letter rate was reduced to 4 pence per half-ounce and a stamp of that value became necessary. While awaiting a supply of the new value from England, recourse was had to surcharging and naturally the reduced demand for 6 pence stamps led to these being overprinted with the figure "4" in black. The work was entrusted to Messrs. C. Brockenhagen & Co. of Express office at Bloemfontein, who the printing for the Government. It done on an old fashion platen press the form was set up to overprint but a sheet at a time, owing to limitatio the size of the press. This was horizontally so that the left and r panes, whether of the top or bottom of the sheet, were the ones overpri together. Evidently figures of the la sizes were none too numerous in the f available and we therefore find four ferent varieties of type used. Of "setting," which so delights the specia nothing is known as we understand t are no blocks or even pairs of this charged stamp known. It was only use seven or eight months and the thing that can be said is that the lar sized variety of the figure "4" is the est.

The new 4 pence stamp arrived and issued in the spring of 1878 and was p ably accompanied to South Africa by 5 shilling stamp which was chronicle issued soon after the 4 pence. They v both similar in every way to the prev stamps, being inscribed vier (four) vyf (five) with their respective den nations.

Early in 1881 the supply of 1 pe stamps ran out and, pending the arr of a new consignment from London, postal authorities made use of the st of which they had the most in stock which was used less than any other— urally the 5 shilling value. This was o printed in like manner to the previo issued 4 pence, and we find there v used at least five different types of "1 d." The smallest type was alone on the first printings, and the other t ypes illustrated in the catalogues were used together in the "setting" for l printings. Of one of these types t are but four copies in the sheet of All stamps have the original value celled by a heavy black bar over the value. Inverted and double overpr are known of most of the varieties. bar may also be found at the top of stamp or entirely lacking.

In August, 1882, the rate of postage newspapers was reduced to ½ penny to provide for this the 5 shilling st was again requisitioned, being surchar "½ d" with a thin line across the value, all in black. There were no t varieties in this but it occurs inver and double. Probably at the same t the letter rate was reduced to 2 pence the parcel post rate placed at 3 pence each four ounces. This rendered th pence stamps of less use and they w employed in making up the value o pence which was not in the regular is The overprinting was done in the sa manner as before except that only pane of sixty stamps was surcharged a time according to M. Moens. Th are five distinct varieties of type in t setting, there being but four of the it "3 d" in the pane of sixty. All found doubly surcharged.

New permanent stamps of ½ pe and 3 (drie) pence arrived and were sued in March, 1883, corresponding all respects to the previous stamps. (twee) pence followed in April, 18 The ½ penny stamp was also used post-cards and was overprinted with design of the arms of the Republic black after being stuck on, thus mak a provisional post-card. These are casionally found soaked off the cards a puzzle collectors with the curious "c cellation."

In October, 1888, the 2 pence stan ran short and the 3 pence was used supplying the lack in the usual w Two varieties of type occur, a narr and a wider figure in the "2 d," but t difference is slight. A figure with curly tail instead of straight has been nce more, in 1890, the 1 penny stamps me exhausted and both the 3 pence 4 pence stamps were employed for plying provisionals. They first apred in December, 1890, and further tings appeared in March, 1891. Two eties of type appear in the "1 d" on stamps and a third variety, being a tal "I" instead of "1," is found only he 4 pence, there being but one in the ting." The surcharge is as usual in k and without any bar across the ner values. Minor varieties occur as ows: dropped "d" on both values harged, raised "d" on the 3 pence, wide space between "1" and "d" also the 3 pence. Both 3 pence and 4 e values occur with double surcharge, otless due to careless printing, but also occur doubly surcharged showboth common varieties, which must lue to the second impression being placed by the width of a stamp either ically or horizontally so as to bring n together.

ed. The surcharge occurs inverted is extremely scarce.

he Republic joined the Postal Union 892 and a 2½ pence stamp became essary, which was made in the usual by overprinting "2½ d" in black on 3 pence stamp. This was issued in ober, 1892. There appear to be no eties of type but the surcharge comes hout the period and also with two ies of printers' "lead" showing after it.

1894 it was moved in the "Volkal" or House of Representatives that Republic emulate some of the Cen- American republics and increase its enue by frequent changes in the postal sions. Whether due to this fact or o it is known that changes in the color of the set and additional values were emplated and partly carried out be- the war of 1900. The first change in the 1 penny which appeared in iet in September, 1894, but otherwise manged.

November, 1896, another epidemic surcharging broke out because of the e of halfpenny stamps, and again the nce stamp came in handy. This time e is a large-sized "½d" in black in distinct varieties, with a minor vaie of two of them. Due to some de- in the printing, a number of sheets li not show clear impressions of the print in the first two vertical rows the left pane; to remedy this they had h narrowest type of all applied again yhand, thus making five varieties of ble surcharge. Besides the above and much larger quantity, the same stamp s overprinted "Halve Penny" in two irs with bar over the old value in blk. Two varieties, no period after 'Penny" and the spelling "Peuny" are fond and careless printing has put the ba at the top of the stamp or omitted it altgether. Double prints also occur, but the high priced varieties listed in the catalogue are said to have been made by favor and not for use.

In January, 1897, the 2½ pence surcharge was exhausted and was replaced by a new type of numerals only, without the "d", on the same old 3 pence stamp. There is a variety of the fraction, occurring but once in a pane of sixty stamps.

This completes the provisional issues; but two changes belonging to the new color scheme occurred in 1897, the ½ penny to orange in March and the 1 shilling to brown in August. The 6 pence in blue was ready for issue when the war broke out in 1899, but was not issued until surcharged after British occupation.

Early military successes in 1899 by the combined forces of the two Dutch republics were speedily checked as Britain poured forth her great resources to crush the menace to her South African possessions. Lord Roberts entered Bloemfontein, the Free State capital, on March 13, 1900. The Postal & Telegraph Offices were taken over on the 14th and the stocks of the Republic's stamps on hand were immediately overprinted, the following notice being issued on March 22d:—

"It is hereby notified for general information that the Orange Free State postage stamps in use up to the 14th inst. are no longer valid, surcharged stamps of the same denomination having been substituted."

The new stamps were issued on the 19th of March in three values, the ½, 1 and 2½d. The first printing took place on the previous day, the overprint consisting of the initials "V. R. I." standing for Victoria Regina et Imperatrix" or "Victoria Queen and Empress" across the upper part of the stamp, and the value in figures followed by "d" or "s" on the lower part. It is curious to note that the new legend repeats the Dutch word "Vrij" or "Free" just above it on the stamp, a momentous change occurring by dropping the "j" and putting a "ful stop" after the first three letters. The 2½d stamp alone did not receive an additional surcharge of the value as it was already in use with the figures "2½" printed on it since 1897.

The surcharge was set up to print one pane of sixty stamps at a time. The first "setting" of March 18th had all the periods or "stops" on a level with the bottoms of the letters "V. R. I." This was applied to all the values on hand, including the new 6d in ultramarine, which was in stock but had not been issued except as a telegraph stamp. A variety with no period after the "V" occurs on all values. The ½, 1 and 6d (both colors) as well as the 1 and 5s occur with figure of value omitted; the 1d without the letter "d"; the ½ and 1d with no stop after "R" and the "I" omitted; the ½d with no stop after "I"; the ½d with small numerals; the 1s with raised stop after the "s," and the 1d and 5s with raised stop after the "R," level with the top of the letter. Careless register in printing was responsible for the omission of "V. R. I." or the value in surcharging the ½, 1, 2 and 6d (ultramarine) and 1s, and in placing the value above the "V. R. I." on these values; also in causing pairs of the 3d with and without surcharge. Double prints also occur in the ½, 1 and 3d values.

The old 1d brown and 1s orange were surcharged with this setting, the story being as follows: When the surcharging was done, the National Bank of South Africa at Bloemfontein received permission to have the stamps they had on hand included. Among these were some fifty of the old 1d and 1s. When the authorities learned of this they made every effort to call in all the copies as they had not been authorized for use. The majority of the specimens were recovered and presumably destroyed, but it is said about eight of the 1d and twenty of the 1s escaped.

The second printing and setting occurred about April 23d, and is distinguished by the fact that practically all the periods or "stops" placed after the "V. R. I." belong to a different font from the letters and are smaller than before and raised above the level of the bottom of the letters. Only one stamp has the stops level as in the first setting, while three have "mixed stops," i. e., some raised and some level. This setting is found on all the values as before.

The third setting, in which specialists find four variations probably due to at least as many printings, is marked by having a thick letter "V" on some of the stamps of the pane, but differing in position in the different printings; otherwise it is similar to the second setting with "raised stops." This surcharge appears on all values except the 4d stamp. Some of the principal varieties in the surcharge may be mentioned as: the 6d ultramarine with dropped "d"; the 1s without the "s"; the 5s with short top to the "5"; the ½ and 1d without stop after "V"; the 1d with level stop after "I"; the 1d without stop after "R"; the ½ and 1d without stop after "I"; the ½ without the "V"; the ½ and 1d with small numerals; the 1 and 2d with inverted surcharge; the 1d with double surcharge; and the 1d in pairs, one without surcharge.

The total numbers issued of the various values are stated to have been ½d 5770 sheets (of 240 stamps each), 1d 13,100, 2d 5130, 2½d 80 (= 19,200 stamps), 3d 4270, 4d 310, 6d carmine 30 (= 7,200 stamps), 6d ultramarine 2800, 1s 1830, and 5s 970. The 6d carmine was naturally soon sold out, though in spite of the small quantity it underwent at least two printings, and was soon followed by the 2½d, the 4d and then the 3d.

The lack of 2½d stamps was met by obtaining a supply of these stamps from Cape Colony and overprinting them "Orange—River—Colony" in three lines in black. They were issued on August 10, 1900. On October 13, 1900, the ½d Cape Colony stamp was issued in like manner as this value had become exhausted. The 1d stamp lasted until June 6, 1902, when the Cape stamp of like value was requisitioned and surcharged like the two previous ones. These three values were surcharged in entire sheets, the printing being done in Cape Town by Messrs. W. A. Richards & Co. The type is a peculiar font and there are no varieties of note except the omission of the period after the word "COLONY," which occurs only on the first stamp of the first row in the left lower pane of the ½ and 2½d, and the sixth stamp in the second row of the right lower pane of the 1d. The ½d is found doubly surcharged

It seems curious that the issue of a 4d stamp should not have taken place until a year and a half after this value as originally overprinted had become exhausted, as it was useful for the registration fee and for parcel post rates. It was not

The sense of nearness to the coming International Exhibition is beginning to be felt and what for some time was an event that was concerned wholly with the future is looming up now in close proximity. The philatelic papers abroad tell of preparations that are being made by philatelic leaders to attend the New York Exhibition and it is an encouraging indication that the philatelic citizens overseas are accurately gauging the importance of the momentous undertaking. The management of the Exhibition is in capable hands and it is a foregone conclusion that no effort will be spared to realize the high expectations of philatelists everywhere and that their pride in the enterprise will be justified. However, it must not be assumed that energy alone will accomplish the task. On the contrary, if the work is to have the fullest fruition, it is incumbent upon all collectors to supply funds in sufficient amount to insure untrammeled action on the part of the managers. The call is now to be made for contributions in the name of the Exhibition and the liberality of those who have given to the project must be matched by those who have not yet given personal attention to this phase of the philatelic show of the century.

While the site of the Exhibition is New York, yet the great display is dedicated to no one section of the country or to any one class of collectors. Promotors of great affairs of the kind are confronted by the difficulty of instilling the belief in the minds of those who are some distance from the scene of endeavors that they are an essential part of the creation. Philatelists in every city, town and village, to those on the farms, should not regard the Exhibition in any detached way but should feel that their support is as necessary to the success of the event as if they were on the spot. It is true that all cannot work actively in upbuilding the monument but they may draw on their purses to further the laudable object. No substitute is to be found for money in a case such as this and dollars must be in hand to furnish the motive power. The fact cannot be disguised that funds must be collected in order that the completion of the task will be assured on the mighty scale on which it was started and contributions must be made without delay. We solicit our readers to give sums such as they deem fitting, according to their circumstances. There is no dodging the personal responsibility that rests upon every philatelist in the land in furthering their Exhibition. On the theory that he who gives quickly gives twice, let a sudden shower descend on the treasurer of the Exhibition. Contributions may be sent direct to the Treasurer, Mr. T. E. Steinway, 109 West 57th Street, New York City; or to C. E. Severn at 118 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois, for prompt acknowledgment.

The role of solicitor of money for any cause is not a popular one but if there ever was an occasion where the position of the supplicant was justified, it is the present one. The proceeds of this financial campaign are applied not in the interest of any individual or class but for the well-being of all who are exponents of philatelic progress. Contributions have been made and they represent the desired good beginning, but many dollars more are necessary to keep the wheels moving at the accelerated speed that they have been making. We commend the Exhibition and its backers and have confidence in the inherent sense of philatelists all over this broad land that it is worthy of financial assistance. Thus far, a large proportion of the funds have been raised in the east and we want the list of contributors to be a representative one that will include all parts of the country. Why defer performing a duty that will not remain a passive one but will grow more insistent as the days slip by. In the words of the enthusiastic advertiser, "Do it now!"

There is no gainsaying that there are many collectors who are giving particular attention to the first flights of the contract air mail service and it is generally recognized that the covers showing the "inauguration" of new routes have a value that touches upon the historical. We may believe that the government is not ungrateful to collectors for their patronage of the first flights because they send a heavy mail on each of the occasions, thereby greatly increasing the stamp revenue of the department. The wisdom of starting their collections with the origin of the contract "firsts" appeals to not a few collectors and we hear that some of the markings used between some of the stations on the different routes the first day are destined to be good. The collector who has attended the task of getting all the combinations already has an imposing array of envelopes and having tasted blood, he will continue his pursuit for some, if not all, time to come. The collectors of air mail covers are many and their ranks will be increased in the future and those who have a leaning to this branch of our study should indulge it as profit as well as study may result from their devotion.

Mr. S. Newbury, Chicago, who has been traveling for some months in the South Seas countries will return from Australia by way of Hawaii in time to be home by August 28, 1926. He is enthusiastic on the subject of the Australian countries and cites Sydney and Melbourne as remarkable examples of progressive cities, both of which are well equipped philatelically with societies, papers and dealers. He has seen some wonderful collections, among which were Mr. H. L. White's New South Wales and Western Australia; Mr. P. Malone's Tasmania and Mr. P. T. Berry's early Victoria. Mr. Berry has been invited as one of the judges to attend the New York Exhibition and at the request of the New York Collectors Club, he will be a guest.

In order that the records may be kept straight, the following quotation is taken from a letter sent by Mr. G. V. Stewart, Pasadena, California, on the subject of the Malta provisionals: "I beg to suggest that the value referred to by Mr. Bentley in the last sentence of his letter which appeared in the issue of July 12th is the one pound, as he says: 'There will not be another one shilling value as there is a revenue stamp of this value now,' This statement is incorrect as the one shilling has already been distributed by new issue dealers and has been offered in the columns of the WEEKLY." Mr. R. Forbes-Bentley was misquoted by us and as Mr. Stewart says, one pound should have been printed instead of "one shilling."

Preparations for the forthcoming convention of the American Philatelic Society at New York next October show no abatement and the committee in charge are bending to their tasks. In view of the augmented attendance expected at New York, the problem of caring for the delegates is greater than usual and as soon as possible those who are certain to attend should notify the committee of their expectations. Mr. A. H. Wilhelm, the president of the American Philatelic Society, is anxious that the various committees render a report of their activities as of August 31, 1926, during the year, as he is interested in having the decks cleared for action at the convention, which will be the greatest ever held.

King Edward was employed, the name the Colony appearing on a banderole three loops above the vignette, giving effoil frame effect for the head while springbok is pictured in the lower left ner of the stamp and a wildebeest or gi" in the right, as animals typical of country. M. C. WHY RESIST ? M. C.

"I CAN'T RESIST ANY LONGER,—HERE'S MY DOLLARTWO." Now WHY should any collector possessed of the usual amount of commonsense spend hot-weather energy trying to RESIST a perfectly good invitation to buy a REAL PACKET? JUST BECAUSE HE CAN'T BELIEVE OUR PACKETS ARE AS GOOD AS WE SAY THEY ARE. We do talk quite loudly, but we really could not afford to pay 24c a line in M. W. S. N. and not deliver the goods,—they would put us out the back door. Our summer M. C. packets are put up with small profit, in our own office. We use discontinued lines, broken lots, good things bought cheaply as a start,—to these we add special items which we gather thruout the year from all over the stamp world, especially for the M. C. We put junk and damaged stamps in the waste-basket, where they belong. RESULT IS our packets are CHUCK FULL of GOOD, CLEAN, INTERESTING STAMPS, OF BROAD VARIETY, FULL OF SURPRISES AND SO HIGH IN VALUE THAT YOU WONDER HOW WE DO IT.

HOT AND COLD

Mr. Louis de Bouder of Cleveland, Ohio, reports that he has received from a friend in Turkey a block of sixteen of Scott's No. 540 Turkey with inverted surcharge. This is the Adrianople 40pa blue, with the 1917 surcharge that is listed inverted in the foreign catalogues but without price, we believe.

Mr. Sterling Taylor reported that the collectors of Spokane, Washington, have organized a society that has got off to a good start with a dozen members. He said that with the stimulus provided by exhibits at high schools and libraries and at the State Fair, together with contests and other entertainment, the membership should be a hundred in a year. The Historical Society of Spokane has given the use of its beautiful club-room to the society for its meetings; and this is recognition that is appreciated.

Further particulars concerning the Wolters' collection have been received from Mr. W. F. Slusser, Fort Kamehameha, Hawaii, who has sent the Honolulu Advertiser of July 10th, containing the following notice: "Wolters Stamp Treasure May Bring $500,000—Appraisers Fix Value of Part of Albums at $200,000—The appraisers who are cataloguing and setting the upset prices to be asked for the Wilhelm Wolters stamp collection have completed 41 of the 60 stamp albums in the collection. The catalogue value amounts already to around $200,000. The remaining 19 albums contain the cream of the collection, one of the appraisers said yesterday, so that the asking price on the entire collection may exceed $400,000.

Wolters, who was formerly a resident of Honolulu, in his will bequeathed his celebrated stamp collection to the municipal museum of his home city, Bremen, Germany. However, because of irksome conditions in Wolters' will, his native city declined the bequest. The court thereupon ordered the collection sold for the benefit of the estate and the contents of the 60 albums will be auctioned at New York City next October at the time of the international convention of philatelists, which is to convene there.

It is estimated that during his lifetime Wolters spent $125,000 in making the collection."

Mr. William Butler, Toronto, is gathering material for the North American Philatelic Year Book, which is promised to appear in the latter part of this year. A first edition of five thousand copies is planned and it is hoped that the enterprise of Mr. Butler will be rewarded.

A "deposit system" is advertised by a large German house, whereby it will act as a clearing-house for advertisers and those who partonize them. The money for goods ordered is sent to the Pössneck firm with a small additional sum, and when the dealer sends the stamps to the customer and they are received by him, the money is sent from Pössneck to the dealer, as the buyer will notify the clearing-house that he has received the wares.

The first instalment of the new edition of the Scott catalogue has been published as section one of the Advance Sheets and embraces the U. S. and Confederate issues through to Antigua. Prices have been moderately raised on some of the early U. S. and the 90 cents of almost all of the issues have been boosted a bit. In the 20th Century U. S., adjustments upward have been made.

From Mr. H. C. Woodruff we have received copy of the Kalamazoo Gazette containing an extended notice of the recent activities of the Kalamazoo Philatelic Society which makes interesting reading. The Kalamazoo Philatelic Society was organized in March of this year with Mr. Chas. H. Garrett as President and Mr. Woodruff, secretary. The charter closed in June with thirty members and there are more in prospect. The society feels honored in having the patronage of Mr. Filstrup and Mr. Brooks and the Gazette is sending a special write-up man to Benton Harbor to get an interview with Mr. Filstrup. The clipping reads:

"Postage stamps, valued at $100,000, were exhibited at the Thursday evening session of the Kalamazoo Philatelic Society, in the offices of Charles H. Garrett. A block of 15 five-cent brown imperforates of the 1851 issue of the United States adhesives, the largest block of that stamp known to exist, was displayed by A. W. Filstrup of Benton Harbor. Blocks of four sell regularly at stamp auctions for $1,500. A block of 15 can be counted among the priceless philatelic items.

Mr. Filstrup specializes in United States and Confederate States stamps. He brought with him to Kalamazoo only such items as are included in the issues from 1851 to 1860 inclusive. A section of his collection will be shown in the International Stamp Exhibition to be held in New York in October.

H. C. Brooks, mayor of Marshall, also showed a number of very interesting items.

Visitors at the Thursday evening gathering from out of the city included Robert G. Kirschman of Battle Creek, J. E. Lewis, Benton Harbor, Floyd C. Blackner, Plainwell, and Arthur G. Abrahams, Emil Jahnke, and J. Davis Reynolds of Flint."

At a recent meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society, Mr. Paul MacGuffin, Libertyville, Illinois, showed his splendid collection of U. S., in a dozen volumes. Mr. MacGuffin, while interested in many other countries, especially of Europe of which he has a superb showing, naturally devotes a lion's share of attention to the issues of our own country. In the early stamps of the U. S., his collection reveals many evidences of study and from the 1847 issue well down through the 19th Century his books are replete with singles, strips and blocks of rarities as well as the other stamps. His one cent blue and ten cent green are specialized, and altogether the display by Mr. MacGuffin had to be seen to be best enjoyed. Mr. MacGuffin is a collector of many years' standing and his stamps make one of the best collections in the country.

The first specimen of the new Liberty Bell stamped envelope has been received from Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer, who well remembers the time when, fifty years ago, he used the 3c Centennial envelopes. Verily, he is a thorough-bred philatelist.

HOT WEATHER

We are roasting here in Philadelphia, but in spite of the hot weather, stamp business seems unusually active and I am having more trouble in buying fine United States items than I am in selling them. Practically four-fifths of the famous quarter of a million dollar Sinkler collection has been sold and the balance is not likely to remain long. The balance of the large British Colony collection recently advertised has been sold intact.

Specialists in United States issues are realizing that the time to purchase fine specimens is when they are available. Delay usually results in a higher price being paid later.

I am working with a number of clients who contemplate exhibiting at the coming International Philatelic Exhibition, and as a result they especially desire anything unusual in the way of rarities. If you have a choice mint block or a rare perfection single or cover, please send it along. I want any of the early issues in addition to the rare 20th century varieties. Of course, I am in the market for entire collections, the main requirement being condition. Funds in practically unlimited amounts are available. The best of commercial, banking and philatelic references furnished if desired.

If you are in the market for United States issues, I am likely to have on hand the varieties wanted, whether you are after the commoner stamp or the greater rarities. My stock of 20th century singles and blocks, including coils, is unusually fine.

Sesqui-Centennial Envelope

The new 2c red Sesqui-Centennial envelope described in this column in detail last week was placed on sale for the first time at the Model Post Office at the Sesqui-Centennial grounds in Philadelphia on Tuesday, July 27th. The occasion brought quite a few stamp collectors to the grounds and as a result, thousands of first day covers were sent out. The Department accommodated collectors by setting up a canceling machine timed at 9.00 A. M. and philatelic covers usually bore this date. All of the envelopes so far sold are those made in Philadelphia in size 5 on extra quality paper.

The envelope machine making these envelopes is on exhibition in the Model Post Office and this new die went to press on Saturday, July 24th. None of the envelopes, however, were sold previous to the 27th. The envelope is attractive, is meeting with the approval of the collector and will prove an interesting addition to our envelope collections.

Mr. Braden and Mr. Gibbon of the Post Office Department at Washington were on hand to see that everything ran smoothly. I also noticed Mr. C. E. Nickles at the Model Post Office getting out his first day covers.

A few days previous to the issue of this variety, the Postal Bulletin announced that collectors desiring first day covers would receive them by addressing the postmaster at Philadelphia but not more than twenty-five would be sent to anyone collector. As it was necessary to address the envelopes in each case, it will be realized that the Department went to a great amount of trouble in order to accommodate the hundreds of collectors who wrote for the variety.

Air Mail notes

Under date of July 22nd, the postmaster at Springfield, Ill., writes that authority has been granted for a special air mail flight from the Illinois State Fair Grounds on August 27th at 4.00 P.M. He states that there will be maintained a branch postal and aeroplane station on the grounds during the entire State Fair and that a special cancellation stamp is being prepared for use on the first day. A Government air mail plane will leave the grounds on August 27th in time to reach the Maywood field at Chicago connecting with the New York night air mail service as well as the transcontinental service leaving for the west. In the letter the postmaster shows an impression from the canceler to be used, which is circular in shape and reads, "Aeroplane Station Springfield, Ill., State Fair Grounds, Aug. 27, 1926."

The communication conveying this information is a circular letter which is no doubt being sent to collectors throughout the country. The energetic postmaster of Springfield, Mr. W. H. Conkling, accompanies his letter with a printed pamphlet headed, "Air Mail Greetings," and giving Lincoln's Gettysburg address in full. The pamphlet is illustrated with a portrait of Lincoln, the monument at Lincoln's Tomb and the home where he lived while in Springfield.

White Plains Emission

The announcement of any commemorative stamp produces discussion as to the advisability of such an issue. Mr. L. Bartlett Gatchell writes a most interesting letter relative to the new White Plains stamps which are to appear in October. Quoting he states—

"Regardless of the fact that I am thoroughly against such a frequent emission of commemoratives, may I pass on to you for what they may be worth a few observations. It seems that with the Sesqui 2c stamp still available at the time, it would be most undesirable and confusing to put out an additional 2c value. The 5c is taken care of by the Ericsson and it is the writer's thought that the 1½c might be utilized to advantage. This would give the stamp a great deal of circulation on third-class mail and would add quite an interest and draw attention to this type of mail, which would be welcome I feel to advertisers in general. Up until recently we have issued our commemoratives in 1c, 2c and 5c series, and inasmuch as the 1½c rate has largely taken the place of the 1c rate it would be logical in this reuse.

I can almost enthuse over the battle scene described in your column done in a rich brown (the sepia brown of the 30c, not the 1½c) and believe that one would have to go far to find a better color or colors. Incidentally, I believe the 30c of the present series the handsomest of the lot."

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF

BRITISH EMPIRE

Great Britain.—The latest printing of the current 6d provides us with a surprise. As collectors know, this value has for many years been printed on chalk-faced paper (with a short interlude during the Somerset House Edwardian period) — a protective measure due to the extensive use of this value for revenue purposes. Now, however, it comes on a highly glazed, non-chalky paper, which will perhaps be permanent. An E 26 control strip of the 1½d shows so many hairs in the paper that it might almost be termed "granite." Mr. R. W. Ross notifies the 1½d with inverted control, and watermark inverted. Owing to a shortage of 6d stamps the National Telephone Co. at Dundee in 1891, the 1s stamp was bisected and used as a substitute. Our Publishers show us specimens and state that they have supply, while the very small stock was, at 15s. each, used on piece.

Cyprus.—Mr. J. A. Arghyrides kindly shows us two shades of the 2¾ pi, Script, of 1922. In one the colour is a true pale ultramarine, while the other is a bright, rather milky, blue. In the latter the inscriptions show a less brownish tinge than in the former.

Fiji.—Mr. J. Muir informs us that 1½d and 2s stamps are likely to be issued shortly. The former is for use on post cards, of which large numbers are despatched by tourists, while the latter is probably required by the revenue department.

India.—The first of the eagerly expected Nasik Press printings of the current issue are now to hand. In sending them, Mr. R. Roberts remarks that they differ from the De La Rue printings in much the same way as the Harrison G. B. printings differed from the De La Rue work. "Generally speaking there is a dull and heavy appearance in the Government production, whereas the De La Rue issues all have a more sunny aspect, lighter and more delicate in appearance." Mr. Roberts adds that the ½a is printed in a large unbroken sheet of 320 (16 x 20), the other values being from the familiar in four panes of 64 (16 x 4). The all-over watermark gives 964 stars on the sheet of 256 and 1080 on the sheet of 320, the stars falling all over the margins. Our informant notes evidences of the existence of at least two plates of the ½a.

Mr. H. E. Bates favours us with a cutting from the Times of India which states that all those stamps which at present bear their denominations in Urdu as well as English, shall bear their denominations in the Devanagari script also. Until the existing designs can be recast the inscription in Devanagari will appear immediately below the impression of the stamp, but it is intended ultimately to make it an integral part of the design. This obviously does not refer to postage stamps of the present designs, which have English inscriptions only, but it is evidence of a tendency which may be reflected in any new postage stamp designs adopted in future. Mr. E. C. Martinant kindly sends us a similar cutting.

Malta.—Twenty-two questions were put to the Minister concerned, in the Legislative Assembly, designed to elicit information regarding the stamp "scandal." The only reply of interest to stamp collectors is that the P.O. obtained £34,000 from the sale of stamps during March and April last. We are indebted to Count San Fournier and Mr. J. F. Darmanin for cuttings relative to the above. Another journal, for which we are indebted to the kindness of Mr. Walter Salomone, the Member of the Legislative Assembly who put the questions referred to, describes the "POSTAGE" ramp as "this gamble on the susceptibilities of philatelic feeblemindedness," which, if not very kind, is perhaps not far from the truth. It is good, sometimes, to see ourselves as others see us, but perhaps "gamble on the mercenary instincts inherent in ordinary human nature" would have been as good.

New Zealand.—From a sheet shown us by our Publishers, we note that the 5d blue, imperf., occupies the five top rows of the sheet. The sixth row is imperf. at top and perf. on the other three sides. The remaining rows are all normally perforated.

Mr. Morris N. Watt states that the Dunedin Exhibition stamps will be good in used condition, particularly if they bear the Exhibition postmark, while good clean copies will be rare, as the ink used for cancelling is very sticky and consequently smudges easily. A variety sought for in New Zealand is the 4d from the bottom left-hand corner of the sheet, which shows "POSTAGE." The "E" shows as an "F" followed by a stop on the second stamp in the top row. Mr. A. A. Rosenblum also shows us the "F" variety.

Papua.—Hagen's Bulletin states that 2½d bi-coloured (S. G. 115), was suddenly withdrawn early this year. It is not known whether this disappearance is likely to be permanent.

Sarawak.—From Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. we have the current 12c blue, in a very pale milky shade.

South-West Africa.—Mr. H. Mallet-Veale notifies the existence of a number of misplaced overprints, including one or two on the new pictorials. The most important are: First overprint. Overprint misplaced, showing "South West" and "Zuid-West" only. 1½d Due, Pretoria printing, rouletted. 2d Due, same printing perf. 3d Due. De La Rue printing. Also 3d Due, De La Rue, with first overprint so badly misplaced to right that it falls on the margin and a vertical row of stamps had to receive a further overprint.

Type III. (Thin letters, small stops.) 1s with "Africa" missing. Last stamp, bottom right-hand pane.

New pictorials. 1d "South West" and "Suid-wes" only.

Union of South Africa.—Mr. N. J. Wadley states that the new 2d (purple and black) will not be issued for some months. It will depict the Union Buildings, Pretoria. The 3d (blue and black) and the 1s (green and black) will show an ox-wagon and Groote Schuur respectively.

4d blue, only one, but with enormous margins showing portions of other stamp on two sides. This is the sort of copy you dream about, but rarely get. (Came from a South African collection of Capes only valued at $20,000.00 net). Cat. $500.00. Offered for only $125.00. Money back if not perfectly satisfied.

These are only a few of the many things I have to offer at rates that require no boosting. Most cases cheaper than if you buy "lots." In the latter case in order to work up a big cat. value a large proportion of the stamps are about as useful to you as a shoe-horn to a gold fish. However, for those who Will have Lots, I can supply. I don't want to quarrel with money nor to dictate what my clients should have; that's up to them.

Let me know What you want, I'll do the rest. Don't forget, I Also exchange. If you have any very high priced stamps that you prefer to have in a number of more moderately priced stamps, do not forget, I Am Your Man. Write for a selection with references.

FOREWORD

All the above illustrations are examples of one hundred subject electroplates, which are furnished to certain post-offices by the Department. It is well to note that the font of type is the same throughout, and that the various styles differ only in the type spacing and use of lower case letters. Another style which might well be included with the above group is what is known as Universal Style 9, consisting of the city and state names in lower case letters. Such an overprint is current at Waterbury, Conn., Santa Barbara, Calif., Connellsville, Pa., State College, Pa., South Norwalk, Conn., Conshohocken, Pa., Pleasant Hill, Mo., Fergus Falls, Minn., North Abington, Mass., and many other cities. Believing that a discussion of the illustrated styles will prove of interest, I shall consider them in order.

Hastings, Neb. — This is Universal Style 10, and in more general usage than any other single style of electroplate. There are three subdivisions of this group, classified according to the thickness of the type used, but all of which is of the same general font. For instance, examine an overprint of Brooklyn and compare it with Hastings. The difference will be readily noted, even though the style is similar. It was not until 1922 that this style made its appearance, yet in four years it has become the most universal of all. Some of the more recent additions to the list of offices precancelling in this style of overprint are: Nassau, N. H., Sandusky, O., Wooster, O., Marietta, O., Watertown and Waterville, N. Y., Kingston, N. Y., Greenville, Pa., Glendale, and Berkeley, Calif., Napa, Calif., Beaver Falls, Pa., Paris, Tenn., Cleveland, Tenn., Jeanette, Pa., and Joplin, Mo.

Lynn, Mass.—This is called Universal Style 11, but is rather limited in use. I can call to mind only the following cities that have plates of this description: Chicago, Newton, Iowa, Holton, Kans., Lynn, Mass., and Muskegon, Mich.

East Pittsburg, Pa.—This three line adaptation makes a neat appearance. Union City, N. J., and Asbury Park, N. J., recently secured plates in this style. Saint Joseph, Mo., is the only other city using it.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Here we have the city name in the U-10, and that of the state in U-9. Rather a striking combination, which just fits the stamp. Salisbury and Hickory, North Carolina, are the only cities with sister plates.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Just the opposite arrangement, U-10 below and U-9 above. West Carrolton, Ohio, has a like plate, but I fail to recall any other. Manitowoc, Wis., closely resembles it but has the city name spaced instead of condensed. Fond du Lac's plate reads: "FOND du LAC, WIS", and would have to be classified as U-10.

Multipost Coil Type. — Has appeared from Concord, N. H., Wilmington, Del., and Providence, R. I. The first two offices seem to confine their precancelling on the coils, to the 1½ cent denomination. Providence has precancelled the 1, 1½, 2, 5 and 10c to my knowledge, and possibly the 3 and 4c. Memphis and Nashville are found on the 3c vertical coil, old issue, both overprints reading inverted. Newark, N. J., inverted, is out on the current 2c vertical coil.

The type under discussion is known as Universal Style 97 and is to be found only on coil stamps precancelled by machines manufactured for the Department by the Multipost Co., of Rochester, N. Y.

McKees Rocks, Pa.—I have seen the 1½ cent handstamped in the U-59 style, which is two lines of lower case type between bars. Another new Pennsylvania town is Lititz, which has a handstamped overprint of small thickset capitals between bars. The 1½ cent is the only specimen on hand.

Richmond, Ind.—Has been precancelling of late with a one line office stamp reading "Richmond, Ind." diagonally across. I have it on the 1½, 4 and 10c of the current series.

Arlington, O.—Chas. Metz reports the 6c current series, precancelled with two lines of lower case letters, between thin bars. The overprint is handstamped.

Skowhegan, Me.—A. C. LeDuc adds to the 13c recently chronicled, the following: 9c normal and 11c inverted of the old series, and 8 and 20c current issue. All Skowhegan precancels appear in a reddish purple ink.

Rumford, Me.—Are seldom seen. The latest to catch my eye is a 6c present series, forwarded by A. C. LeDuc.

Lenoir, N. C. — Are pretty specimens. They are printed in distinctive type and mighty hard to pick up. The 8c is shown me by A. C. LeDuc.

Barber, N. C.—An odd lot of "precancels" exist from this office, of which I can find no trace in my atlas. Will some reader inform me of its whereabouts. I warn collectors against buying them until they are proven genuine.

Morrisville, Pa.—Has just received an U-53 handstamp. I have it on the 3c. On the same stamp I glimpse Mount Morris, N. Y., in the U-58 style.

Wellsville, N. Y.—Uses the same style as Wellsville, O., but black ink instead of red, which distinguishes the latter's precancel issues. Mr. H. G. Tilley sends me the 20c with Wellsville, N. Y., reading horizontally across the stamp in the U-53 type.

South Bound Brook, N. J. — Has appeared with a handstamped cancellation in three lines of squat caps, between bars, similar to U-5. Pressmans Home, Tenn., and Saratoga Springs, N. Y., are with similar overprints.

Wheeling, W. Va. — Now comes new electrotype similar to that illust in the last "Review" for Norwalk, A block of the current 2c perforate brought it to my attention.

Lambertville, N. J. — Employs pr cels solely for chick shipments. The Special Handling is of course used many values of the regular set. The is U-59. Silver Lake, Ind., is anoth fice where shipments of baby chick an important item. Precancels there come in the U-53 style. Special Handling is precancelled by e office from which chicks are shipped, is urgent for such merchandise t speedily and carefully dispatched.

Cape Charles, Va.—Mr. John M. shows me the 2c and 5c in the U-53 Also Mount Crawford, Va., in the style on the 8c old series.

Hastings, Neb.—Has appeared o new 16c Aero, reading up, in the cu electro. I have also seen Paw Mich., on this stamp, as well as Po Mich.

Manasquan, N. J.—A. C. LeDuc ports the first precancel to be chron from this city. It is the current 8c printed in two lines of very small between bars.

Fulda, Minn.—Has issued some pretty typeset precancels, which are scarce. About half a dozen var have come to my attention, all of w are perfectly legitimate.

Mora, Minn.—Uses a handstamp bold caps, between bars, that is not lar to any Universal Style. I have practically all values of the curren from ½c to 30c exclusive of the 1 and 25c. Albert Lea, Minn., has supplementing their electroplate wi handstamp of the U-53 type. A other varieties, I notice the 25c Sp Handling.

Owatonna, Minn.—Printed some cancels in caps and lower case type, lar to U-9, but they seem to be ra comparison to the handstamped ones the same city. Of the former I only the 5c both old and new series.

LeRoy, N. Y.—New precancels out from LeRoy in a font of type appears to have been set up locall am able to chronicle the current 1c 1½c.

Conclusion.—I shall be glad to for Universal Style Charts printed on board in folder form, illustrating va styles of precancellations, for si cents to any reader of this depart Inquiries and news notes are welco all times. The 1926 Catalog should the press by the time this appears. ies will be mailed to readers of thi partment on receipt of two dollars.

imperf. vertically, and also, in an unused block, imperf. horizontally.

China.—From Mr. V. R. Burckhardt we receive specimens of new printings of the current 2c and 4c on a different paper, recently adopted by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. This is thick and soft and in consequence the perforation holes are not so clearly cut, but have a woolly edge. The shade of the 2c is much less yellow than that of previous printings. This value is already printed in brown, and will shortly be issued thus.

Mr. L. H. Caldwell adds that the 1c and 5c have also appeared on the new paper and that a change in the colour of the 4c is expected.

Denmark.—Mr. E. A. G. Caröe informs us that the 7 on 20 öre, provisional, has been found with double surcharge—not surprising in view of the dark colour of the stamp.

France.—Dr. F. P. Renaut notifies forthcoming changes which will still further complicate the current issue. The 40c will change from dark olive to the scarlet of the 1.05fr, which will become obsolete. The 1fr will appear in the Sower design, still in blue, and a 1.40fr will be issued in the latter type, but in the red of the 30c for use on internal registered correspondence.

The 20c will appear in a lighter shade than that of the current 40c with the object of showing up propaganda cancellations on the post cards to which it will be affixed. This sacrifice of the stamps to the postmark will not be welcome to collectors, who find it difficult to get good used specimens of stamps, such as the 4d, yellow, Australian Commonwealth, on which the majority of postmarks show up only too well.

In the "Merson" type we shall soon have a 10fr green on red, and a 20f on green.

The 25c will appear in the Pasteur in green, and the 75c in the same ty red. A 7c stamp, probably in the "B type, is contemplated for use, pre celled, in the printed matter service

An 80c, Postage Due, complete list—for the moment!

The Helio Vaugirard has printed beautiful labels depicting the beauty of France. Presumably this has connection with the recent action o Touring Club de France, which ha terested itself in the improvement o current French stamps, and wishes designs to advertise the beauties o country.

that they could not be put into use. The design of the 25l represents Victory lamenting over the fallen heroes of Missolonghi.

Holland.—Mr. P. Gordon Wimberley states that the new 2½g is not expected to appear for some months. The current issue will be issued very shortly on watermarked paper, which makes the future of the new 1g and 5g full of possibilities.

Monaco.—Mr. R. M. Helmore states that our criticisms of the local postal officials are not justified by his own experience. Both at Monaco (Rock) and Condamine the clerks are extremely helpful. We believe our criticism was based on remarks made by a correspondent whose experience was confined to the Monte Carlo P.O.

Persia.—We have been shown a letter addressed to a member of our publishers' staff. This was franked with unoverprinted stamps of the large type with portrait of the ex-Shah, and every stamp, after being postmarked, had had the portrait hidden from view by a neatly pasted strip of paper. This excess of loyalty to the new régime is not general, as our Publishers had other covers by the same mail, on which the stamps came through without being pasted over.

Russia.—Mr. E. K. Crews favours us with the sight of a vertical pair of the 3k Lomonosoff issue, imperf. between.

Turkey.—The fine new series is at last to hand and the artist and printers are to be congratulated on the general effect. The supply of the Postage Dues is comparatively meagre, so that every purchaser of these must buy a complete set of the postage stamps also, which makes their acquisition a rather expensive affair.

As given us by Mr. Oswald Churchill and Mr. A. Yaremdji, the numbers printed range from 100,000 each of the Dues, to the 33 and 35 million respectively of the 10 paras and 5 grouch. The 2½pi is the best of the low values, the printing being 2 million.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

POSTAGE STAMP ILLUSTRATIONS

The "breeze" at the Thirteenth Congress brought the illustration of postage stamps well to the fore, and it is well that such was the case. This question of illustrating stamps in catalogues and periodicals has been a sore one for many years, and although we in England are granted certain privileges under certain strict regulations, yet it is common knowledge that in America the restrictions are even worse.

In England we are permitted to reproduce postage stamps in the text of any catalogue or periodical provided sanction is obtained from the Post Office—first of all to manufacture the necessary block, and secondly to print in black ink only. Reproduction of postage stamps for the purpose of advertisements is strictly prohibited, and under no circumstances may reproductions be made in any color whatsoever.

In America, up to a few years ago, stamp illustrations were illegal, but by constant appeals in the philatelic press permission was at last obtained to print black illustrations provided the blocks were first defaced in some way. This explains why all blocks printed in the American philatelic papers are scored with a white line, whereas no such regulation operates in England. But still United States may not be illustrated except under quaint limitations, viz., that part of the frame of a U. S. stamp may be reproduced provided the reproduction is not less than four times the size of the original.

On the other hand, coloured pictures of stamps are allowed to be included in periodicals on the continent, and many of these are welcomed by stamp collectors in this country, because of the valuable philatelic information which they are often able to gather.

The necessity of illustration will be apparent to every lover of stamps, and instead of seeing further barriers raised, we of the press would rather welcome a freer use of illustrations within reasonable limits.

Yet a further barrier has apparently been asked for by a representative body of the English stamp trade! Or so it appears from what took place at Congress, and we shall not be satisfied until the whole facts are laid bare.

Mr. Seiffert (Liverpool) raised the question, saying that complaints had come to his knowledge of people not receiving publications from abroad in which illustrations of stamps were printed, and he thought he would like to take the opportunity to ventilate such a matter of importance to philatelists. He understood that this embargo was due to some action of the Stamp Trade Protection Association. He was of opinion that the interests of Philately had been greatly helped by the wonderful illustrated catalogues from abroad, and he instanced the Ferrary auction catalogues as having brought much new material to light. He thought Congress should express some strong opinion in favor of the removal of such restrictions as were now being enforced, and moved a motion to that effect.

Mr. Nevin (Nottingham) supported, and said if this embargo were allowed to remain, English philatelists would be cut off from every catalogue, price list, or journal from overseas, many of which contained much valuable imformation. There was also the danger that other countries would retaliate, and exclude our own. He did not see why even coloured illustrations should be excluded from Great Britain.

Mr. Vallancey (Stamp Collecting) thought there had been a misunderstanding, but Mr. Hadlow (chairman of the S.T.P.A.) said that his Association's action was taken some time ago, and had reference to coloured illustrations only. They took it because of the unfair position in which it placed English dealers They did not want English dealers to be handicapped.

Mr. A. H. Harris (Philatelic Magazine) supported what had been said by Messrs. Seiffert and Nevin. It came to his knowledge two months ago that the Post Office were excluding publications containing ordinary illustrations in black, and the first thing he did was to make enquiries of the Secretary's Department of the General Post Office. He was there informed that it was being done at the request of the stamp trade, and when he asked who in the stamp trade had authority to make such a request, he was told it was made by the Stamp Trade Protection Association! He then wrote to the S.T.P.A. asking whether they had made any such request, and received a reply from the Secretary stating definitely that they had. The Directors of the S.T.P.A. might be credited with good intentions, but the fact remained that the Post Office defended their action on the ground that the S.T.P.A. had requested it.

Captain H. R. Oldfield said he did not think that anyone with any common sense at all would question that the admission of publications containing illustrations of stamps was highly desirable to their hobby, and he was quite sure that the Congress Executive were just as much in favor of it as the body of the meeting.

Eventually a resolution was agreed to on the following lines:—"That the Executive Committee be authorised to consider the important question of restricted admission of illustrated stamp literature into this country in consequence of the operation of Government rules and regulations, and to take such action as they may deem necessary."

There the matter rests for the time, but we think the opportunity might be taken for a review not only of the particular point under discussion, but of the whole question of stamp reproduction, even to the extent of allowing reproductions in colour. This, at all events, would get rid of the "unfair position" in which Mr. Hadlow says the English dealers find themselves.—The Postage Stamp.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

ODD BITS:—

"IS a dealer morally bound to give heed to letters written him?" This question has been propounded to us by one of our readers and we venture to answer the same. If the letters referred to contain orders for stamps accompanied by payment they should be given immediate attention. If the letters contain requests for information, want lists, etc., return postage should be enclosed. Where no return postage is enclosed a dealer is not morally bound to take notice of the communication sent him. It is poor business for a dealer not to cultivate the acquaintanceship of any stamp collector who may write him, but failure to receive a reply would indicate that the dealer was unable to furnish the information or goods desired.

OUR friend J. W. Sampson advises us that N. B. Davis, who is at the Essex Sanatorium, Middleton, Mass., is a shut-in who would like to be favored with some bunches of U. S. 3c green if any of our subscribers wish to send a ray of sunlight where it is needed. Mr. Davis cannot undertake correspondence but will appreciate such offerings as may be sent him. Mr. Sampson will be remembered as the author of two booklets, the "7c Vermilion" and "U. S. Postage Rates."

A NON-STOP New York-Paris air flight is promised for the last of August. Mail will be carried by private enterprise and the price is fixed at $5 each with refund of one-half to each contributor if not satisfied with the results. For further information address the Argonauts, Inc., 250 W. 57 St., N. Y. City.

THE British stamp illustration ban has been removed. We congratulate Mr. Harris and The Philatelic Magazine for the success so quickly achieved. Under the British law it is not permissible to illustrate advertisements, and a reform in this direction has now been launched by Mr. Harris.

JOHN A. JUNGKIND, Little Rock, Ark., informs us that he can get no replies to letters sent the Alfred Stamp Co., Box 119, Nashua, N. H. This "company" is run by Alfred R. Gosselin, aged about eighteen. If other persons are similarly situated they will please communicate with Mr. Jungkind.

WE are indebted to A. W. Dunning for one of the "Vivant" ribbons issued by the Austrian Red Cross. The specimen before us is printed on satin ribbon and measures 2½x15 inches. Mr. Dunning informs us that there are about forty different designs, including portraits of rulers, generals, battle scenes and mythological subjects, making a fine historical souvenir of the World War. Price 50c, six different, for $2. Mr. Dunning also submits a sample of the "Stamp Wallet" advertised in adlets. It's the best low priced article of its kind ever offered for sale.

SUPPLEMENTING our chronicle of the new 2c Sesqui stamped envelope we have also received first day covers from Jos. A. Steinmetz. with Philadelphia marking, and Albert E. Gorham with a Washington, D. C., marking, also one from Erwin Strasser. The Steinmetz cover came by airmail.

THE Beaver Stamp Society, Portland, Oregon, held its regular monthly meeting July 13. We are to be favored with a visit from F. H. Vallancey, of London, Eng. A trip up the famous Columbia River Highway, followed by a dinner given by the Society, should put us all in the right humor to enjoy Mr. Vallancey's lecture and pictures on British Colonials.—A. H. LOMAX.

THE MATTER OF CANCELLATIONS

A reader raises a doubt as to the genuineness of some of the cancellations that are being pictured in the WEEKLY, referring especially to the issue of July 19. He claims that these cancellations prove nothing unless found on the original covers and that a few years ago certain philatelic artists manufactured a big assortment of these things. We recall a big offender on the Pacific Coast.

The town grew rapidly till 1825, when the biggest flood known here swept down the Cahaba and Alabama rivers, and completely inundated the town. So the Capitol was moved to Tuscaloosa, the town remaining the county seat of Dallas, tho many influential citizens moved away at this time, 1825.

Although almost abandoned, it struggled on till in 1833 it became quite a good sized shipping port, with many new and large warehouses. Then another flood. In 1836 it began to rebuild and improve again. And so Cahaba reached its most prosperous period in the 40s, 50s and early 60s.

In 1859, when the railroad was first built from Cahaba to Marion, Cahaba was in a flourishing condition; but the war came on, business was paralyzed, and the town ceased to build up and improve, altho it still continued to be a place of importance. An army Post and one of the largest Federal Prisons in the South were located here in '63 or '64, and a number of refugees sought asylum within the town, some investing in town property; but in '65, just before the surrender, another flood came, the Post was abandoned, and when the War ended Cahaba began to realize that the clouds of adversity were falling fast upon her. In 1865 the death knell was sounded, when by a vote of the people of the County, the Court House was moved to Selma. It was a cruel blow from which the grand old place never recovered. In the '70s this became a deserted village.

In this complete ruin the artesian wells still spout their clear sparkling waters, the perennials still bloom luxuriantly, and the mocking birds are singing in the springtime.

Why go way over to see King Tut's Tomb, or the Ruins of Pompeii? Here is a dead Capitol right in our own land, silent, yet beautiful, for the cotton and the corn are growing, the stock grazing in and around the once beautifully kept lawns, and the Cherokee roses waft their fragrance on the R.F.D. air, for Cahaba has lost even its post office.

Who can do better than condone with Mr. Nelson, who writes me that he has searched ever since 1895 to find a single cover from this town? It is almost unbelievable to hear that no postmarks may be had from this town which ex right up to the late '60s, and was a itol.

Any information as to covers Cahaba, will be gladly received.

Changes In Catalogue Prices

A COMPREHENSIVE REVIEW OF THE UNITED STATES PORTION OF THE 1927 ADVANCE SHEETS

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

The United States portion of the advanced sheets of Scott's 1927 catalog were received on July 27th. While there have been no sensational advances, prices in general have moved upward, and although they have not made as many changes as some of us might feel should be made, nevertheless, they have followed their usual conservative policy in following behind the market rather than make the prices for the new year. In considering these prices, it must be borne in mind that they are for good average copies and that they do not reflect the values on superb items.

The Postmaster Provisionals, with the exception of the New York 5c black which goes to $60.00 used, stand still. These unchanged prices are warranted in view of the lessening interest being taken in our Postmasters, for they are today selling at pretty much the same price that they brought eight or ten years back. The famous New York black, along with the Providence 5c and 10c, seem to be the only varieties that command any special interest.

In the general issues, the 1847 10c in used condition is now priced at $32.50, while the reprints of this series take slight advances. Most of the unused 1851 series have been moved up a dollar or two; the 1c type II now being listed at $12.00; the type IV at $8.00, and the 3c at $3.50. This same stamp goes to 20c used. All of the 10's take slight advances as well as the 12c which is now listed at $50.00. In the perforated series of 1857 there are few changes, the 1c type II now being priced at $6.00 used, while the type V is priced at $1.50 and 75c respectively. The 10c type II and III take slight advances.

In the August series of 1861 but two changes are made, namely, the 5c is priced at $900.00 and the 30c at $1,000. Personally I do not think that their prices on this series reflect today's value of the stamps. I doubt whether the Scott Company have sold a single one of the rare varieties during the last year. In this time I have sold a complete set, as well as purchasing and disposing of a number of the single rare items, and I must say that the prices are entirely out of line. The 30c brought $3,600 at auction in October and in running this stamp up, at least three additional people stayed with it until $2,500 was reached. The stamp is well worth such an amount. If any of our good friends have a 30c that they can pick up at Scott's price, simply add 100% profit and pass it on to me. In the September printings, most of the stamps increase, the 1c being priced at $2.50 and 75c; the 3c at $1.25, and the 5c buff at $175.00 unused and $27.50 canceled. The 1862 15c Lincoln is now cataloged $20.00 unused. In my estimation this is one of the scarcest stamps of the sixties and superb copies with full gum are worth twice this figure. There are but few changes in the grills of 1867. Why, I cannot understand, for these stamps are becoming more difficult to pick up, especially in nice condition. I know of no series harder to complete than the grilled issues of 1867 to 1870. There are slight changes in the 1869 issue but few of any importance. The 90c always a desirable stamp is priced at $45.00.

In the Bank Note issues, used copies of the grilled 6c, 24c and 90c now move into new ground. The same issue without grill are not advanced unused with the exception of the 90c which is priced at $30.00. Several of the used ones take slight advances. The Continental issue, as well as the American issue practically stand still, although a fifty cent or a dollar advance is found here and there. The 1882 5c gray special printing is priced at $60.00, a very cheap price for this stamp. The 4c special printing of 1883 goes to $85.00, and if anyone has a fine copy lying around at double this price, please send it along. The 2c green imperf. is now priced at $30.00 both used and unused. It is much rarer unused and you will find ten used copies to one in mint condition. Every stamp in the 1888 series moves slightly upward, while few of the 1890 issue take advances. All of the high value Columbians of 1893 are increased and rightly so, for they are becoming more difficult to pick up. Ten or fifteen years back, these could be purchased at a discount from face but those days are gone forever as the excess has been used up by banks and other mailing houses and the stamps are really becoming scarce. The 1894 series with few exceptions have their prices increased and this issue also is becoming more scarce day by day. The $2.00 is one of the most difficult of the Bureau issues to secure in superb condition. Changes are to be found in the 1895 emission here and there, the type I $1.00 moving to $5.00 unused and $1.00 used, while the type II is priced at $10.00. Only a few changes are to be found in the regular 1898 series although the Omaha series in every case without exception is increased, the 50c now being cataloged at $4.50 and $2.50, the $1.00 at $6.00 and $5.00, and the $2.00 at $13.50 both ways.

The little bi-colored series of 1901, the first of the 20th century, show increases in most cases, the only one of any importance being the 1c invert which is now listed at $90.00 unused and $80.00 used. The 4c with inverted center is still priced at $150.00, although but one hundred are known. The 20th century issues, as a whole, have taken greater increases than the earlier ones and this is warranted due to the fact that dealers' stocks are practically exhausted and the only time many of them are obtainable is when collections are broken. They are still priced at figures that may be considered an investment. The 1902 series is changed in most cases, the $5.00 unused now being priced at $17.50, a figure that it has been bringing at auction right along. The 5c coil goes to $25.00 and is cheap at this price. The 1c and 2c 1903 coil at $17.50 are still most reasonable. All of the 1904 issue increases, the most important increase being the part perforated variety which is now priced at $90.00—still too cheap for they readily sell at $200.00 or more a pair.

All of the 1907 Jamestown take a cent or two advance and the 1908 series, with few exceptions have ten to twenty-five percent increases. The imperf. varieties and coils are changed and rightly so, for these are becoming more difficult to obtain and few dealers can furnish them. The 10c coil is priced at $20.00. The important changes in the blue papers are found in the 4c and 8c which are quoted at $175.00. The 5c, the third scarcest in the set, is listed at $75.00. The 1910 emission take additional increases this year as do the coil stamps. All of the Panama-Pacific series has been advanced, the 10c perf, 10, always a scarce stamp, now being priced at $3.00. With few exceptions the 1912 series has taken substantial increases. In the 1914 perf. 10 watermarked issue, the 1c perf. 12 x 10 is listed at $70.00. There are less than thirty of these stamps in existence and the price is too low. The 1c 10 x 12 used, the only way it is known, is still cataloged at $35.00 and this too is much too low, as but a few copies are known. The 50c stamp of this series, possibly the scarcest of the issue, is priced at $3.75. The coils take jumps for the 3c is listed at $2.00 and the 5c takes a warranted increase of 33⅓% and is now priced at $1.00. The equally scarce 4c is priced at 75c. The first rotary coils take very material advances, the 5c increasing 150% to $1.00. the 4c going to 75c, and the 3c to 60c. These are all scarce stamps. The imperf. 2c, No. 459, of which but a few were located, is now cataloged at $20.00.

All of the 1916 perf. 10 unwatermarked with the exception of the 2c increase. This series is one of the most difficult to get of the later issues and several of the stamps are still worth full catalog or more. I refer to the 50c which is now priced at $10.00, the 20c at $1.50, the 9c at 90c, the 7c at 45c, and the 5c at 35c. These are all buys at these figures.

The 1917 normal varieties stand still and rightly so, for the stamps are still available at the Philatelic Agency. The minor varieties take a five-dollar increase almost in every case. The same issue with the watermark, namely, No. 519, goes to $8.00. In the later issues here and there changes have been made but none of real importance with the possible exception of the perf. 11 1c rotary, No. 545, now priced at $1.00, while the 2c is priced at 40c. The same stamps of the next series, namely, the 2c No. 595 is now listed at 75c. Most of the higher values of the current series in used condition have taken drops and these are warranted because the stamps are more plentiful than they were when the last catalog was issued shortly after some of the stamps had begun to make their appearance in used condition.

Practically all of the changes in the official Department series are to be found in the soft paper varieties. The only hard paper varieties increasing are the Executive 3c carmine in used condition which is now listed at $15.00, and the 12c War on hard paper, always a rare stamp, which has doubled in price and is now cataloged at $3.50. In my estimation this stamp, in fine condition, is scarcer than the 1c and 2c. In the soft paper practically all of the Justice, Post Office and Treasury move into new ground. I note but few changes among the Carriers. The 1c Franklin unused goes to $75.00. Changes in the Newspaper stamps are mostly confined to the Bureau issue of 1894 and the low denomination watermarked series of 1895. The former have always been exceedingly scarce and difficult to pick up even at catalog prices. Most of the Bureau prints of the due stamps have been materially increased and some of them are still too low. If Postage Due stamps ever became real popular and two or three persons started to specialize. you would find the prices greatly increased for many of them are difficult to obtain.

As there is not a great amount of interest taken in the early envelopes, I have not endeavored to check the price changes but in the late varieties I see a slight change here and there. All of the 1½c Provisionals known at the time the catalog went to press are listed but very wisely the Scott Company have only priced the cheaper varieties. They are no doubt awaiting settled quotations on the rare ones for at present no one knows the real value of many of these envelopes. The Shanghai series with the exception of the Provisionals are all increased, the $1.00 now being priced at $3.50 and the $2.00 at $3.00.

Most of the imperforate Revenues of the first issue are increased, reflecting the new interest now being taken in these stamps. Many of the prices have remained stationary for a number of years. In the perforated series, the 6c Proprietary is now listed at $100.00 and the 30c Foreign Exchange at $7.50. The 2c Bank Check and the 2c U.S.I.R. on green were both formerly priced at $15.00 but these prices have been omitted. The 25c Warehouse Receipt part perf. is priced for the first time, the quotation being $1.50. The rarer imperfs. are also increased. The $1.30 is still reasonable at $100.00 and the $1.90 at $125.00. The $2.00 Probate of Will advances to $85.00 and the $3.50 imperf. to $100.00. The $200.00 in both conditions moves to $100.00 and $35.00 respectively. Practically all of the second issue with few exceptions have taken slight increases and most of the inverted centers rightly move to new

THIS IS SERVICE

For the first time since the establishment of the Philatelic Agency an issue of stamped paper has been made from a place other than Washington. The new Liberty Bell stamped envelope is unique. It was made and sold for the first time at the Sesquicentennial International Exposition on July 27th. It was placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency July 28th.

Many collectors of first day covers failed to get this cover because of the very short time between its announcement and issuance. Not so the fortunate members of my First Day Cover Club. Each received a first day cover addressed direct to him from Philadelphia and, just for good luck and a unique curiosity, also the new envelope, addressed direct to him, from Washington with the July 27th cancellation.

The collecting of first day covers can be indulged in by every one of you. It don't cost much to get my first day cover service and the thrill that you get from a cover of each new stamp, addressed direct to you on day of issue, is cheap at the very small cost. Particulars are waiting to be sent you.

fish grounds, some being increased as much as one hundred percent. All of the Proprietary issue of 1871 with the exception of the $5.00 value advance. Why the $5.00 on green paper remains at $50.00 I cannot say for I have never seen but one satisfactory copy of this stamp and this changed hands at much more. I doubt whether three copies exist. The 3c and 4c with inverted medallions are priced for the first time at $2,500 and $300 respectively. The 1875 Proprietaries take equal increases. Of the Playing Card varieties, the 1899 perforated are now listed at $5.00 both used and unused. The Spanish War increases have been minor although we find slight changes here and there. Practically all of the 1914 Documentary issue from $1.00 up have increased prices, the $50.00, No. 46, being listed at $75.00, the $60.00 at $80.00, the $100 at $12.00, the $500 at $40.00, and the $1,000 at $50.00. The secret black Proprietaries with single line watermark are now priced at $4.50 for the 3½c, $2.50 for the 3¾c, $1.75 for the 4c, $12.50, an increase of 100% on the 4c, and $3.00 for the 5c. Slight changes are to be found in the double line watermark series, the 6c moving to $1.00 and the 8c to 75c. The Wine stamps with few exceptions have stood still and the high values are now priced for the first time, the $40.00 and $50.00 being listed at $60.00, and the $100 at $80.00. Further Revenue changes are slight with the exception of prices on Narcotics.

Have You a Surplus of These?

We always want to buy for ready cash and at the top of the market anything fine in early U. S. stamps or covers. If you have a specialized collection of any stamp or series; a find of old correspondence; an accumulation of 3c '51s, '57s or '61s on or off cover; patriotic covers of the Civil War, either Confederate or Union, or of the Spanish American war; a few thousand Bank Note issues, even the common 2c and 3c stamps if there are enough to bother with.

Send them to us with your best cash price. Particularly if you have items you think are worth more than anyone else will pay, for that is just the kind we want. Our check or the stamps will come to you by return mail if you ask it.

Just now we are anxious to spend some real money for fine items, but don't want the culls at any price.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

Dr. Wm. Evans, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

New York made a change in its obliterators while the Continental stamps were still in use, and the new devices are shown in Nos. 4 and 5. The branch offices used No. 5 with letters in place of the numerals, but until some time in the 80s, No. 4 seems to have been used with numerals only, except that P. O. was used, probably at the Post Office itself. Late in 1878 the year date came back into use and from then on the obliterators used in each year can be identified, at least as far as New York is concerned. This date was shortened to two figures, "78," and may be found either inside the postmark, or to the right of it.

The numerals used in various cities differed somewhat in shape and size. No effort has been made to identify these. The highest one which has come to my notice is 43, and all below that have been found. That all were used in any city I can not say. It seems at present doubtful.

After New York began to use this form of obliterator it was adopted in a number of other cities and gradually superseded the forms that had been in use in them. Several modifications of it are found on 3c green stamps. The numerals vary in size and shape, the circle is sometimes omitted, the number of bars above and below the circle varies from three to five, the number of short bars on the sides may be three, four, five or six. The long bar next to the circle is sometimes not cut away in the center. These bars and the short ones at the sides may be replaced by a solid block. And some other modifications are known.

Of course to identify the place in which any of these designs were used it is necessary to see it in connection with the postmark, and it is not the purpose of this article to attempt differential descriptions even if that is possible.

Several cities used letters in place of numerals, and the letters vary in size and shape. Five letters have not been reported as having been found, T, U, X, Y, Z. One city, as yet unknown, used open letters in a black disk.

One error has come to light. This is a reversed 6 in the number 16. It is on a 3c re-engraved off cover. The ellipse has four bars above and below the circle, and four short bars at each side.

Besides the numerals and letters there were a few other designs used. The ellipse is found with the space inside the circle blank, three varieties of small stars, and two of small crosses in the circle are known. Two types of U. S. have been noted. New York used P. O., and Lake Placid, N. Y., used L. P.

This obliterator was used in many towns on the two cents red brown. The same and other modifications are to be found on this stamp as noted above. Mr. R. L. Hustis reports more than sixty

NEW RED CROSS STAMPS FOR SPAIN

By HERMAN TOASPERN.

I am informed by my friend Manuel Galvez, of Madrid, that a series of fourteen values to be in use three days, is now being prepared for Spain. In accordance with a Royal Order dated Oct. 12, 1925, a series of postage stamps for the franking of correspondence during three days was authorized. A subsequent Decree has fixed the dates of use as Sept. 15, 16 and 17.

The purpose of this Decree is to convert the postal revenues of the country to the Red Cross for a period of three days. The Spanish Red Cross deserves special recognition in view of the great amount of work thrust upon it by the campaign in Morocco.

The Spanish government has authorized Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., to execute the designs. I have before me reproductions of several of the new values. The 15c shows pictures of the Infantas Beatriz Y Maria Cristina, the 20c a Greek group picture of the Royal Family, the 50c a picture of Her Majesty, Victoria Eugenia in the dress of a Red Cross nurse. She is pictured again on the 4 pesetas in her regal robes with a tiara, the 60c a picture of His Majesty, Alfonso XIII. The entire set will be 14 values: 1, 2, 5, 10, 15, 20, 30, 40, 50 centimos, 1, 4, 10 pesetas, and 20c Special Delivery. The total face value of the set figures are about $2.80 at current rates of exchange. The stamps will be placed on sale in the 70 important cities of Spain, and will be good for domestic and foreign postage without any excess fee, as is the case with normal Red Cross and Charity stamps. They will be accepted at the P. O. at full face value. At the same time a series for the Spanish Colonies will be issued. In order to prevent future forgeries, the Spanish government intends to print the stamps intended to be surcharged for use in the colonies in different colors. This marks an innovation, which might well be copied by other countries using their own stamps surcharged for their colonies. It has been definitely decided to have the following surcharges: Zona De Protectorado Español En Marruecos," "Correo Español Tanger." It would not be surprising to see the three colonies receive them as well, i.e., "Cabo Juby," "Guinea Española," and "Sahara Español."

Of course there is no way of predicting whether the stamps will follow the Red Cross stamps of Belgium of 1918, and the St. Anthony set in value, but I believe it will be a great novelty to finally see Spain produce a really fine looking, well perforated set of stamps.

INITIATION INTO PHILATELY

By BILL BLOSS.

IV—From Stamp Collector to Philatelist

In previous articles, we have carried the beginner from the desire to collect stamps through the various stages, until he is now equipped with a printed album, and the accessories used by collectors. It is now time that he turned his attention to the study of his stamps, if he is to make a real collection and become a philatelist.

In the development of the hobby, collectors have given close attention to the various features that go to make up a postage stamp. To the stamp collector, a stamp is a piece of paper on which a design has been applied. To the philatelist, it is a certain kind of paper bearing a particular watermark in many cases, on which a design has been applied by engraving, lithography, typography, in a particular shade of color, separated by cutting or by a means of assistance, and if used, obliterated in a particular fashion.

All collectors like to arrange their stamps in proper order, and it is the study of these variations which makes this possible in many cases. A stamp on one kind of paper may be common, while the same stamp on another kind of paper may be a rare first printing. A stamp perforated with one size hole may have been issued at one period, while that with another size hole may have been issued at another time, and may prove that the stamp was made by a different manufacturer. First printings may be worth more than later printings, and are often distinguished by the shade of color used. In some cases, stamps have been printed in limited quantity on paper bearing a different watermark from that commonly used for the issue. The collector who learns to distinguish these features often profits from his knowledge by finding a rarity which would slip through his fingers otherwise.

Close attention to detail in connection with postage stamps not only makes a better stamp collection, but develops the collector into a student of detail, a trait of character worth dollars in any line of work he attempts.

Since Mr. Poole has covered the various kinds of paper, printings, watermarks, separations, etc., in his useful book "The Stamp Collector's Guide," obtainable for 35c from the publishers of this paper, or from almost any large dealer, it is hardly necessary to reprint this information in this limited space.

By means of this handy book, your catalog and your collection, you can readily learn to distinguish any variety. Read the book to see what the variety is, then study your catalog until you find a stamp in your collection that comes in that variety. Examine the stamp closely, until you become familiar with the variety, and you will soon have no trouble in distinguishing other stamps of the same variety.

For instance, you suspect you have a rare stamp on laid paper, but you do not know what laid paper is. Read the chapter on paper varieties in the book, then look through your catalog until you find an issue on laid paper. Assuming that you select the Russian stamps, since many are common on that kind of paper, place your stamp in your watermark detector or hold it to the light. If it shows the laid lines, and your susp stamp shows similar lines, it is als laid paper.

Paper varieties are often conf even to advanced collectors, but the of great importance. Give them attention, until you learn the va kinds of paper.

Watermark varieties may be tol means of the watermark detector often by holding the stamp to the lig placing against a dark surface. Th lustrated plates in the back of the rent Scott catalog are useful in di guishing watermarks. Since water varieties are recognized among the important features of stamp variat exceptional care should be paid t In thousands of instances, a stamp w a few cents with one kind of water will be worth as many dollars with other. Don't let the other fellow p by your ignorance on waterm Know when you have a good one.

Printing varieties offer the gre field of study, and are usually the ea for the collector to determine, since are visible on the face of the stamp making the plates or stones from w stamps are printed, many different cesses are used. In some cases, par larly in the early issues, the plate wa touched by hand by the engraver, so each stamp is a distinct variety fro fellows in some minute detail. Th particularly true in the case of p that became worn through use. means of these "retouches" of a lines, lines strengthened, or variatio design, it is often possible to recons the plate or "plate" the stamp, as the is known. In other words, havi number of these stamps, showing the ferences made by the engravers on stamp, it is possible to arrange the st in the order in which they were origi printed. This requires much close and is really advanced specialistic w but is fascinating, and the coll should know how it is done.

A study of the type varieties of th S. issues of 1851-7 and the price tached to the rarities will prove to collector that close study of his pri varieties pays big dividends.

Unfortunately, most of the minut rieties on individual stamps can on learned through study of texts on particular issue, or by working on stamps themselves. Much has written but the field is so large that i been scarcely touched by the student

General type varieties which occu different plates or on more than stamp of the plate are often describ the catalog, and are generally easily tected for that reason.

Color variations are important in ing the value of a stamp, and the lector should lose no time in beco thoroughly familiar with the diff shades of his stamps. Remember where the non-philatelist sees a stamp, the philatelist sees a carmine, carmine, carmine-rose, pink, scarlet, milion, red, lake, crimson, and a ho other shades.

Very often a stamp common in color will be rare in another shade, to the fact that the rare shade is a printing or a very late printing, of v few were made. Naturally if few made, it is much sought for by th vanced collector and will fetch a h price than the common variety.

Unfortunately for the collector, very hard to obtain a color chart to with. Several attempts have been to produce these charts, but none eparation varieties seem to be of less size of the perforation will often dis-

METROPOLITAN STAMP CO., 1482 BROADWAY, Opp. Times Bldg., NEW YORK

HAWAII

By C. A. Howes

The stamps of this foster-child of America divide themselves somewhat naturally into two main groups, the imperforate and the perforated. The earlier issues, all imperforate, are the ones in which the specialist takes most delight, on account of their rarity, the questions connected with their issue and use, the study they afford in minor varieties, and the delights of plating. These include the so-called "Missionary Stamps," type-set in the office of the Polynesian newspaper and issued for the convenience of the early missionaries from the United States; the so-called "Numeral Stamps," which were mostly due to lack of regular stamps and are therefore in the nature of provisional issues, and which have given tremendous scope to the devotees of "plating"; the two engraved stamps of 1853 and the lithographed stamp of 1861. This group has been ably treated by specialists whose researches in that field enable them to handle it properly and authoritatively, as witness the monumental work on "Hawaiian Numerals" by the late Henry J. Crocker.

With the second group, all perforated—or intended to be—we come to the more prosaic issues with few varieties which, through their abundance and comparatively low price, are more or less familiar to all collectors. They are almost all engraved portrait stamps and form an excellent gallery of Hawaiian royalties, in which many collectors of an historical or biographical turn of mind find enjoyment.

The letter ordering the first perforated stamp and fixing its design seems interesting enough to reproduce here. It was dated November 4, 1863, and was written by the then Postmaster-General David Kalakaua (afterwards King) to Alvah K. Clark, a former Postmaster-General, who was then in New York.

"This office being nearly out of 2-cent postage [the lithographed stamp of 1861, Ed.], I am desirous of procuring a fresh supply, and, thinking from your long connection with the postal affairs of this kingdom, that you would know just about what is wanted, I send you this order to have filled in New York, if it will not be too much trouble. The color and design of the new stamp I should like to have as near as possible the enclosed Nova Scotia stamp, but in place of 'Nova Scotia' have the word and figures '2 Hawaii 2,' and underneath 'Elua Keneta' in the same style of lettering as the sample. I forward also a likeness of His Majesty for the center, which please have copied as correctly as possible; the one on the old stamp was not done well. If it will not be attended with much extra expense, I should like to have the sheets perforated, so as to avoid the inconvenience of separating them with shears. The number required will be 10,000 sheets, of 25 on a sheet, etc."

The Nova Scotia stamp was, of course, the 10-cent vermilion of 1860. The likeness on the old stamp referred to, which was unsatisfactory, was of King Kamehameha IV, and a comparison of the two stamps does show a difference in the two portraits, though the second attempt was not wholly acceptable either as further correspondence shows. The stamp was line engraved by the National Bank Note Co., who with their successors, the American Bank Note Co., were responsible for all subsequent engraved stamps of Hawaii, and was issued some time in June, 1864. One sheet of 50 is said to have been issued imperforate. This value was for inter-island letter postage and was therefore much used. The monarch did not enjoy seeing his features upon this stamp, as he died November 30, 1863.

When the second requisition for the 2-cent stamp was sent in 1865, an order for a 5-cent stamp was included, the design to be the same, but the portrait to be that of the new King, Kamehameha V, a brother of the late King, and the color to be dark blue. Of course the inscription at the bottom was changed as "elua keneta" is the native Kanaka dialect for "two cents," whereas the word for "five" is "elima." The stamp was issued about October, 1865.

Although the 1-cent stamps of the numeral type were printed at various times from 1859 to 1865, they could not have been very extensively employed or they would be much more common. They were intended to frank newspapers in the islands and there were naturally not many of these in circulation; besides the wrappers, or even the papers themselves if the stamps were attached thereon, would be very likely thrown away and the stamps thus readily lost to posterity. In 1870, however, conditions apparently warranted a permanent 1-cent stamp and this was ordered, together with 6-cent and 18-cent values, from New York. The latter two were required to meet certain rates stipulated by a postal convention with the United States in 1870. The three stamps were issued about April, 1871. The 1-cent stamp bore a portrait of Princess Victoria Kamamalu, a sister of both Kamehameha IV and V. The 6-cent has a portrait of Kamehameha IV, still different in appearance from the two on the 2-cent stamps, and the 18-cent a likeness of His Highness M. Kekuanaoa, the "Custodian of the King's Spittoon." This curious office is thus explained:

"One of the tenets of the ancient Hawaiian faith was that the saliva of the sovereign was sacred, and that if necromancers ever got possession of any part of it they could, with the aid of it, offer incantations that would result in deplorable cataclysms to the nation. Hence the important office of the king's spittoon bearer, whose fidelity insured that every vestige of royalty's expectoration should be buried by night with the most profound secrecy lest the native priests should be able to secure the means for practicing their dreaded diabolism."

The venerable gentleman held his position under Kamehameha I and married a daughter of that monarch; and three of his children were the two Kamehamehas, IV and V, and Princess Victoria.

One sheet of 50 of the 6-cent was issued imperforate, having been sent to the office of Honokaa, Island of Hawaii.

David Kalakaua, a grand-nephew of Kamehameha I, was elected to fill the then vacant throne on February 12, 1874, and it was decided to place his likeness on a new 2-cent stamp to supersede the vermilion stamp of 1864. At the same time a 12-cent stamp was ordered to meet the requirements of a

That the International Philatelic Exhibition is taking form is shown by the appearance of an "advance program" that replaces all previous editions of what may be called prospectuses of the Exhibition; and it is noticed that a final edition is to be dated July 20, 1926. There are sixteen pages in the booklet and the contents cover the event in all its phases, if we take into consideration an insert in the form of an application for entry, with shipping instructions and a form of insurance policy. A cut of Grand Central Palace is shown and reference is made to the official catalogue of which an edition of five thousand will be printed; and it is advised that collectors book their orders now at fifty cents each. There is to be exhibits by the governments of Austria and Sweden and other exhibits of the kind will be made, no doubt. The United States post office department will be represented, and we quote: "The Post Office Department is preparing a very interesting exhibit of United States stamps to be displayed at the Exhibition. They have also arranged with the U. S. Bureau of Printing and Engraving to have printed on a hand press at the Exhibition, the 1926 two-cent Sesqui-centennial Stamp, which is issued in celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. They will bear a special imprint and be printed in sheets of twenty-five, the regular issue being in sheets of fifty. Collectors and dealers may obtain them at the U. S. Post Office Branch Philatelic Agency, at the Exhibition, where all current issues of U. S. stamps in mint condition will be on sale."

Last week an appeal was made in this column for funds for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the great undertaking, and we are hopeful that it is not destined to have been made in vain. It is absolutely necessary that philatelists removed from the scene of action rally to the support of this worthy cause, and the sponsors of the Exhibition lay stress on the assertion that the event is to be an asset to the philatelic nation. Naturally, the active workers for the success of the Exhibition must be within hailing distance of the enterprise, and it is but fair that the financial burden be lightened by the co-operation of many willing hands. It is the duty of all collectors to establish an intimate contact with the Exhibition by being part and parcel of it through the contribution of money for its consummation. Mr. Theodore E. Steinway, treasurer, 109 West 57th Street, New York, or the editor of the WEEKLY will acknowledge the receipt of the offerings of the rank and file of philatelists.

The following letter has been received from Mr. F. B. Wilson, Nashville, Tennessee: "In a recent issue, F. L. Applegate in his 'State Revenue Notes' seems to have overlooked the growing popularity (?) of the tobacco stamp for taxation purposes. Tennessee adopted this form of taxation last year, but if Hill McAlester is elected governor this autumn, he promises to repeal it. I think that Georgia started the fun about four years ago, and Arkansas and a few other states are using adhesives as a form of state tobacco taxation. I attach a few of these stamps which run from 1/16c to 50c. As a part of a general collection, I doubt if they have any place or value." We thank Mr. Wilson for his letter with exhibits, as we have had no notices of the Tennessee tobacco stamps further than those that were given when the stamps first appeared. Quite properly our correspondent moderates his opinion of them as having a general collecting appeal but, nevertheless, there are a number of collectors who attend eagerly to issues of the kind.

Several letters of unusual interest on the question of U. S. commemoratives have been received, and in fairness to a reader in Washington, we present his angle: "The core has not been reached in my opinion. Why do collectors assume that they are the chief actors? Are the stamps issued for their benefit, or detriment, as some would say? Do they believe that their likes or dislikes decide the matter? To my mind, the subject extends far beyond them. I have some basis for saying that the department is influenced by the reaction of the people as a whole and that is reasonable that great events of the past be brought to the eye of the public for the good effect that results. Philatelists are not being milked by the modest denominations that recent commemoratives have taken." Mr. E. W. Determann, Vincennes, Indiana, says that a great event should be commemorated by a "proper stamp" in order that the public be made familiar with it and he has in mind "the sequi-centennial or George Rogers Clark Memorial to be celebrated at Vincennes, Indiana, in 1929, where in 1779, the Northwestern Territory was created by Colonel Clark who defeated the British forces at Fort Sackville 'on the banks of the Wabash'." One thing we must do in this connection, and that is not to make airily suggestions for future commemorative stamp issues, as the good old post office department is overworked as it is.

Mr. R. Forbes-Bentley, Birchircara, Malta, writes: "I am in receipt of your issue of July 5, 1926, reporting the scandal of the forgeries of the 'Postage' series, and I notice one slight error which it would be as well to correct as it gives a wrong idea. You state: 'and one end of the word "Postage" is usually more heavily inked than the other.' This should read: 'One end of the word "Postage" is usually more embossed than the other.' I mean by this that the pressure of the type on the stamp is uneven. This can easily be seen when the stamp is turned over." Here we wish to acknowledge the interest attaching to the information that this correspondent favors us with periodically.

Our brother in service, Mr. Harry F. Kohr of the Kansas City Star, does us a good turn by sending a recent number of Poetry, containing an unpublished letter from Eugene Field, which we read with avidity, having known him when he was first headed for the Hall of Fame. The letter in question was written to the late Henry Stanton Monroe, from Frankfort-on-the-Main, July 26, 1890, by Field, and has the charm of the delightful intimacy that characterized his private and other correspondence. The following sentences were marked by Mr. Kohr: "When I got to Hanover I found that they were collecting postage stamps, and I'm blessed if I didn't pitch in and go to collecting, too. The result is that I have amassed about 2,000 stamps and incurred my wife's eternal ill-will and disdain." This is a side-light that is new to us, as by his own words, it is proved that Eugene Field had one virulent att at least of stamp collecting.

The Honolulu "Star-Bulletin" July 16, 1926, forwarded by Mr. W. Slusser of Fort Kamehameha, Haw tells that shipment of the Wolt "$175,000 stamp collection begins n week." This is the collection, c tained in sixty volumes, that was by will of Mr. Wolters to his nat city of Bremen, but which was accepted by the officers of the mu ipality because no provision was m for the expenses of installing maintaining the collection. This pr erty is to be sold in New York "at time of the Exhibition." The ne paper article is a good one and worth republishing.

BARBADOS TERCENTENARY, 1927

By HARRY E. HUBER

In March last a suggestion was made to the Government of Barbados that a series of special stamps be issued to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the colonisation of the island, in 1626, and of the institution of representative government in 1627. The design proposed for the Colonisation series is vertical rectangular in shape, with the head of His Majesty the King in an oval at the top, and a representation of "William & John" below, while that for the Legislative series follows the design of the current 5s of Great Britain (horizontal rectangular) in the use of His Majesty's portrait at the right, and the Colonial Seal (not confined to a circle or oval) at the left. Favorable action has been taken by the Island Government, and in a recent issue of the Official Gazette the Colonial Secretary has advertised for designs for these commemorative stamps, which designs must be submitted by August 15th. A prize of £10 is offered for the best design submitted. It is doubtful if these stamps will be in readiness for issue much before March, 1927.

It was in 1625 that King James I granted Barbados to the Earl of Marlborough, and under the latter's protection, Sir William Courteen, a London merchant, fitted out the "William & John," commanded by John Powell, for the colonisation of the island. They reached their destination in January, 1626, and disembarked near the spot where the sailors of the "Olive Blossom" landed in 1605, and there laid the foundation of Jamestown (so called in honour of the King), and appointed Capt. William Dean their Governor. The town is now known as Holetown, and is about seven miles to the northwest of Bridgetown.

In 1627 King Charles I granted all the Caribbees to the Earl of Carlisle, who settled an annuity of £300 on Lord Marlborough, to compromise his claim; and under the impression that Barbados was not one of the Caribbee islands, the King granted it to the Earl of Pembroke in the following year. Lord Pembroke supported Courteen's right of preoccupation against Lord Carlisle, and under this last grant, the settlers of Jamestown continued to hold possession until 1629, when they were defeated by Lord Carlisle's men, who, landing in Carlisle Bay, in 1627, had founded the town of Bridgetown.

The institution of representative government in Barbados dates from the Royal Charter of James I, of June 2, 1627, and was confirmed by the Commonwealth in the articles of surrender of the island, signed January 11, 1652.

Next to the House of Commons, and the House of Assembly in Bermuda (1620), the Barbados House of Assembly is the most ancient legislative body in the British Empire. The Government now consists of a nominated Legislative Council of nine members, and a House of Assembly of 24 members, elected annually by the people on the basis of a moderate franchise.

Of all the islands of the British West Indies none have made as many interesting issues of postage stamps, and in as pleasing designs as Barbados, and while most of these have been of a general nature, commemorative stamps have not been lacking.

Seal Series, 1892-99.

The typographed Seal design of 1892 was of a simple nature, showing merely the Colonial Seal (crowned female figure riding in a seashell chariot drawn by two sea horses), lettered at the top "BARBADOS," and having the denomination in a horizontal label at the bottom, added at a second operation from duty plates. It had a life of almost 20 years, and in that time appeared on paper with three distinct watermarks, i. e., Crown CC, Crown CA, and multiple Crown CA. Introduced July 18-22, 1892, the denominations ½d, 1d, 2½d, 5d, 6d, 8d, 10d and 2s6d were printed on Crown CC paper, as was also the ¼d added May 5, 1896. Three years later (1899) a 2d slate and orange was brought into use, and in 1903, the 2s6d was changed in color from slate and orange to purple and green—these two being on Crown CA paper. Printings made in 1904 and 1905 were on multiple CA watermarked paper, and in 1909-10 the ¼d, ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 6d and 1s were issued in colors according to the Crown Agents' color scheme. On August 14, 1912, the remainders in this design, comprising ¼d, ½d, 1d, 2½d and 1s in Universal colors, and 2s6d of 1904-5 were burned.

Diamond Jubilee Series, 1897.

The first commemorative series of the Colony was issued November 15, 1897, in honor of the 60th anniversary of Queen Victoria's accession to the throne. The stamps were in large size, of nine denominations (¼d to 2s6d) and typographically printed on Crown CC paper. The design, by E. F. S. Bowen, of the Barbados Public Works Department, was intended to be in the usual size, but to save expense the die of the Seal series of 1892 was adapted to a diamond shaped frame, and heraldic devices of the United Kingdom added in the four corners. Two consignments were received, one in November, 1897, and the other in June, 1898, in the following quantities:—

¼d,	500,040
½d,	499,680
1d,	500,040
2½d,	50,040
5d,	10,080	8,400
6d,	10,080	5,280
8d,	20,040	2,160
10s,	10,080
2s6d,	10,080

The remainders were destroyed at the end of 1901.

Nelson-Trafalgar Centenary, 1906.

In 1905, the Centenary of Nelson's victory at Trafalgar (October 21, 1805), was celebrated, and a commemorative series of stamps was prepared in seven denominations (¼d to 1s), printed in two colors, on Crown CC watermarked paper, showing the monument erected to Nelson's memory on Trafalgar Square, Bridgetown, Barbados, on March 22, 1813, —with a background of palm trees. The inscription, "First monument erected to Nelson's memory, 1813," is not quite correct, as an earlier monument was erected in Montreal, in 1808. The dates "1805" and "1905," as well as "Nelson" and "Trafalgar" appear at the sides. The design was by G. S. Goodman, the Solicitor

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, Mass.

HOT WEATHER

We are roasting here in Philadelphia, but in spite of the hot weather, stamp business seems unusually active and I am having more trouble in buying fine United States items than I am in selling them. Practically four-fifths of the famous quarter of a million dollar Sinkler collection has been sold and the balance is not likely to remain long. The balance of the large British Colony collection recently advertised has been sold intact.

Specialists in United States issues are realizing that the time to purchase fine specimens is when they are available. Delay usually results in a higher price being paid later.

I am working with a number of clients who contemplate exhibiting at the coming International Philatelic Exhibition, and as a result they especially desire anything unusual in the way of rarities. If you have a choice mint block or a rare perfection single or cover, please send it along. I want any of the early issues in addition to the rare 20th century varieties. Of course, I am in the market for entire collections, the main requirement being condition. Funds in practically unlimited amounts are available. The best of commercial, banking and philatelic references furnished if desired.

If you are in the market for United States issues, I am likely to have on hand the varieties wanted, whether you are after the commoner stamp or the greater rarities. My stock of 20th century singles and blocks, including coils, is unusually fine.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

The review of new catalog quotations on the first page of this issue will take the place of our regular Chronicle by Mr. Ward.

ALGERIA.—Designs of the new set, recently chronicled, issued on June 1st, are described in the Times, from which we extract the following notes:

The entrance to the Great Mosque of Djama el Kebir, which adorns the values ½c to 10 centimes, is from a design by M. Watremetz, while the characteristic street scene upon the stamps of 15c to 25c is the work of the Parisian artist, M. Montader. The highest denomination so far issued is 45 centimes purple, showing a view of the Kasbah (Citadel) by M. Anthony. On the franc values, yet to be issued, appears a panorama of the city of Algiers as seen from Mustapha Superieur, after the design of M. Brouty. Like the majority of modern French Colonial issues, the new stamps are surface-printed at the French Government printing establishment on the Boulevard Brune, Paris.

New values in the Citadel Type are reported by L'Echo de la Timbrologie. 50c deep blue, 60c yellow-green, 75c carmine, 80c orange.

Numbers issued. M. Weber informs us that the new set has been printed in very large quantities, the 40 centimes alone being twelve million copies.—Philatelic Magazine.

BERMUDA.—Changes reported by the Crown Agents: Ship design—Colour changes: 2½d reverts to blue, and 3d reverts to purple on yellow. New Scripts: 1sh black on emerald. King's Head design—New Scripts: 2sh 6d black and red on blue.—Philatelic Magazine.

CHILE.—The following information has been received from Mr. R. Roberts:

I have just before me one of the most curiously set up sheets that I have seen in the whole course of my philatelic experience, and that is, a complete sheet of 150 of the new Chili Postage Due stamps.

These are printed in a large unbroken sheet of 150 (15 across, 10 vertical), the frame being the same all over, printed in deep blue, but the duty tablet consists of various denominations scattered all over the sheet in red.

1st row consists:	—4 $5; 4 $2; 6 $1; 1 80c.
2nd	" "	7 80c; 8 60c.
3rd	" "	4 60c; 11 40c.
4th	" "	3 40c; 12 20c.
5th	" "	15 20c.
6th	" "	15 10c.
7th	" "	12 10c; 3 8c.
8th	" "	15 8c.
9th	" "	2 8c; 13 4c.
10th	" "	1 4c; 14 2c.

Each row of the above reading from left to right. Printed on unwatermarked paper, perf. 12½.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—We have received from Whitfield King & Co. copies of two new items of this country. They are the 4c blue, portrait or Santander, 1917 design and 8c blue, 1917 Arms type.

COSTA RICA.—Whitfield King & Co. send for note the new 20c blue Air Post stamp. It is oblong in shape, with an airplane flying above the clouds at the right. At the top is the name of the country in a frame, while at the upper left corner the usual crest of the country. Our correspondents also report the 5c, No. 121, in green.

FRANCE.—Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts have shown us the 10fr green on red, in the Oliver Merson type.

GREECE.—Air stamps? Mr. E. Melingounakis writes us that the Company which exercises this line is absolutely a private one, so stamps created by it have nothing to do with the Greek Government. The Greek Post Administration gets the air mail taxes through the old postage stamps still in use. This shows you that if the Society should issue air mail stamps, those would be nothing else but "ETIQUETTES" without any philatelic collecting value. It would be simply a private issue, which could be bought later on by Kilos.—Philatelic Magazine.

ICELAND.—Mr. W. T. Wilson reports the appearance of a new provisional. The 40a blue, No. 128, has been surcharged "EIN Krona" in two lines in red.

ITALY.—Mr. R. Roberts calls our attention to the 25c green and yellow that has recently been issued. It is a new color and new design for this value, and is like the type for the 1L of the 1901 issue.

KELANTAN.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent for chronicle the 2c green, and the 30c lilac and carmine, script watermark.

NEW ZEALAND.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the 9p, King George type, engraved, in a shade of olive yellow. The perforation is 14 x 13½ and the perforation in the sheets received is peculiar, it being done in two operations, 5 rows and 12 from the bottom, and the operation being repeated from the 6th row up. It frequently happens, therefore, that vertical perforations of the top half of the sheet are not in line with those of the lower half, so that many stamps will be found from the middle two rows corners torn off. Two separate combs seemed to have been used, one round cutting the perf. and the other a perfectly clean cut; they seemed to have been used either together or independently, so that some sheets are clean cut all over; some sheets clean cut at the top and some at the lower half.

TANGANYIKA.—An esteemed correspondent asks, "What is the authority for the statement that Tanganyika is to have King's Head stamps. Do you mean only the high values or all denominations?"

The authority in question is that of the Crown Agents for the Colonies, who now inform us that the new surface-printed stamps will be bicoloured, the King's head being enclosed in a border similar to the familiar Nyasaland type, with the inscription "Mandated Territory of Tanganyika."

The denominations will be as follows: Ordinary size—5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 75c. "Receipt" size—1s, 2s, 3s, 5s, 10s, £1.

Stamp booklets, containing twelve of the new 5c, six of the new 10c, and twelve of the new 15c adhesives, are also in active preparation. Details of colour, etc., will be given in a later issue.—Stamp Collecting.

TURKS AND CAICOS ISLANDS.—An impending alteration in the colour scheme affects the ¼d value, which is about to appear in black.—Stamp Collecting.

URUGUAY.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the 2c lilac, 5c pale blue, 12c deep blue, 20c pale brown and 36c rose of the type of Scott's A100, no watermark, with surcharge for Official use as the 1 issue, all in black.

ZANZIBAR.—The following are the denominations and colours (obtained from the Crown Agents for the Colonies) of the new series foreshadowed by us May 1st:—New Design, Engraved, Sc wmk.—1c brown, 3c orange, 4c green, blue-purple, 8c grey, 10c sage-green, red, 20c blue, 25c purple on yellow, purple, 75c sepia.—Stamp Collecting.

neral of the Colony, and his initials ear in the two lower corners of the me. Originally planned for issue on falgar Day, 1905 (October 21st), the mps did not materialise until March 1, 6. On July 6, 1907, the ¼d, 2d and d were re-issued on multiple Crown paper.

ve Blossom Tercentenary, 1906.

n the same year (1906) a special 1d mp, dated 1605-1905, was created to rk the Tercentenary of taking possesi of the island in July, 1605. Lady ter, the wife of the Governor, was re-nsible for the design, which represents hin a frame of bearded fig trees, a nette of the "Olive Blossom," from ich Sir Olive Leigh, and his men, ded at a spot near the present Holeon, and set up a wooden cross inbed "James K of E and this island." ess printed by De La Rue & Co., Ltd., three colors (green, black and blue), multiple Crown CA paper, the stamp s issued August 15, 1906.

ingston Relief Fund, 1907.

or the relief of the sufferers from the hquake and fire at Kingston, Jamaica, January 14, 1907, a special stamp was horised for issue by the Governor-in-Executive Committee "in order to exed as widely as possible in this island ilities to subscribers of small sums to fund for the relief." To this end the slate and orange of 1899 was surrged locally by T. E. King & Co., h the words "Kingston—Relief—Fund. d." in four lines of script type, and issd to the public January 25, 1907. It s sold at 2d, was good for 1d postage, the overage was credited to the Reli Fund. Two panes of 60 having been irdvertently issued with the overprint irerted, an entire printing of 6000 stmps was purposely run off upside dwn to prevent philatelic speculation in tl errors. A total of 24,000 of these stcharges were made, of which approxiately 14,000 were inverted.

King's Head and Seal Series, 1912.

n 1911 the Colonial Government decied to philatelically mark the accession o King George V to the throne by a new isie of postage stamps, and to this end advertised for designs in the Official Gazette of April 13, 1911.

GOVERNMENT NOTICE.

The Governor-in-Executive Committee ving decided to signalise the accession o His Majesty King George V, by the isie of new postage stamps, which shall ber the head of the King in addition to tl Barbados Arms, invites the submission of designs complying with the above description.

t is desired to make the least possible change in the present design, and consequently designers will probably find that the best manner in which effect can be given to the proposed change will be to contrive that the portrait is shown on, or within the border of the stamp.

Designs should be sent to the Colonial Secretary not later than April 20th.

By Command,
Signed, J. A. BURDON,
Colonial Secretary.

Colonial Secretary's Office.
April 5, 1911.

Three designs were used for the series, all of which embodied the King's head in a medallion, and the Seal of the Colony. The pence values were in small size; one design being used for the ¼d to 2½d, and another for the 3d, 4d and 6d. The shilling values were in large size. Although typographically printed the stamps are one of the most pleasing series of the Georgian reign. The ¼d and ½d were issued July 23, and the other values August 13, 1912. The following quantities were requisitioned:—

¼d,	980,000	6d,	60,000
½d,	1,700,000	1s,	36,000
1d,	3,020,000	2s,	12,000
2d,	60,000	3s,	12,000
2½d,	900,000
3d,	60,000
4d,	40,000

Between April 1 and June 22, 1916, large quantities of all values excepting the ¼d and ½d were overprinted "Revenue," pending receipt of London prepared fiscal stamps.

Large Seal Series, 1916.

A representation of the corrected Seal of the Island (the figure in the chariot being changed to that of King George V) was reproduced in the design of the large Seal series, issued June 16, 1916. The stamps, which were of large size, were recess printed in single colors, on multiple Crown CA paper. On February 18, 1918, the 4d and 3s were issued bicolored, with the vignette re-engraved, and the circular border omitted, giving the stamps a very unfinished appearance.

1d War Tax, 1917.

On October 10, 1917, the 1d in the 1912 King's head and Seal type was issued with WAR TAX overprint, applied in London, and used from October 15, 1917, to April 1, 1920, when the war tax on letters was removed.

Victory Series, 1920.

To commemorate the success of the Allied arms, a Victory series of stamps was prepared after designs by the Colonial Treasurer, W. L. C. Phillips, and issued Sept. 9, 1920. The pence values were in a design showing the Winged Victory from the Louvre, Paris, and the shilling values, the figure of Victory surmounting the Victoria Memorial outside Buckingham Palace, London. The stamps were again in large size, recess printed in two colors, and on multiple Crown and Roman CA paper. The 1d was re-issued August 22, 1921, with the script CA watermark.

Small Seal Series, 1921.

The large Seal series of June, 1916, had never been altogether satisfactory for general use, and in the summer of 1920 the Crown Agents were asked to prepare a design with the Seal reduced in size. These stamps were issued November 14, 1921, the 3d and 4d (on yellow) and the 1s (on green) being on multiple Crown and Roman CA watermarked paper, and the others on script CA. A printing of 6000 of the 1s on script green was issued September 18, 1924, and exhausted within a few weeks.

Postage & Revenue Series, 1925.

A unified series of stamps, for postage and revenue use, line engraved, and with the Colonial Seal slightly larger than in the series of 1921, incorporating the Colonial motto, and the inscription "Postage & Revenue," was issued April 1, 1925. All denominations were printed on script CA watermarked paper.

THE WOLTERS' PROPERTY

Packed in specially constructed cases and protected against weather by coverings of tin, the first instalment of the famous H. Wilhelm Wolters' stamp collection will be sent from Honolulu to New York for auction next week.

In compliance with an order of Judge E. K. Massee, the entire collection, which is one of the five greatest in the world, will be sold at auction. Although the stamp volumes, valued at $175,000, were willed by the late H. W. Wolters to the city of Bremen, Germany, it was learned by executors of the will that the German municipality would consider such a valuable collection in its present form as a liability rather than an asset. Legal steps were then taken to convert them into cash. The collection will be auctioned by J. C. Morgenthau & Co., on a commission basis.

At present the Wolters' collection, which includes examples of all the rarities in the stamp world, is being listed and valued in the vaults of the Bishop Trust Co.

To the uninitiated, the business of listing, cataloging and poring over the pages of Scott's catalog for valuations, appears to be a dreary pastime. But the huge task has been undertaken by a pair of stamp enthusiasts for whom the work, judging by their continued application over a period of many weeks, has been an adventure rather than a dusty job.

Every morning between 8.30 o'clock and noon, Bruce Cartwright, a stamp collector and authority on rare Hawaiian stamps, and F. W. Reid, professional stamp collector, are engaged in going through the massive volumes of Wolters' stamps.

To date they have examined 45 of the 60 volumes and, when the work is completed, the men will have listed and valued at least 50,000 stamps. At the same time the volumes are being treated for mildew, which was found to have attacked the pages in a slight degree. None of the valuable stamps were touched by it, Reid said.

According to the stamp expert, the most valuable stamps in the entire collection are five Hawaiian stamps, of the type known as "missionary stamps." These were issued in the Hawaiian kingdom in 1851. The "five cent blue" of the group is valued at $2,000; two "13 cent blue" are valued at $1,500 each; while a valuation of $2,500 each is placed on two other "13 cent blue," thus placing the value of the Hawaiian group at $10,000.

Other valuable stamps included in the collection are: "12 pence black Canadian," $1,000; two Tuscany stamps, $1,000 and $1,500 each, and two stamps from Switzerland valued at $750 each.

"The Wolters' stamp collection is unusual not only because of its great monetary value, but because it is so well balanced," Reid said. "One would think that Wolters would have been partial to the stamps of his native country, Germany. There are only five volumes of German stamps, while the remaining 55 volumes are devoted to stamps of other nations. The collection includes all the rarities of the world. Besides the rare stamps mentioned, there are 50 stamps in the albums worth from $250 to $1,000 each," Reid declared.

The Wolters' collection represents the result of zealous collecting covering a period of 25 years. During the latter years of his life, Wolters devoted practically all of his time to stamp gathering. The collection is in custody of Joseph Caetano, C. C. von Hamm, James L. Cockburn and John L. Fleming, temporary administrators of the Wolters' estate.

The stamp collection has been an inspiration to numerous collectors in the territory, Reid said. It was recently made the subject of a talk given by Reid before members of the Hawaiian Philatelic society, which meets on the second Tuesday of each month at the Library of Hawaii, at 7.30 o'clock.

Among the enthusiastic collectors and owners of valuable stamps in Honolulu are: Mrs. W. D. Westervelt, who has a collection valued at $40,000. Dr. A. N. Sinclair has a complete collection of unused 20th century stamps. Bruce Cartwright is one of the leading authorities on Hawaiian stamps, and is consulted by philatelists abroad. C. W. Best has a large general collection of some 25,000 varieties. F. W. Reid is the only professional in the territory and has collected since 1885. John Gribble has a fine collection of United States and British colonies only. Dr. H. S. Palmer, of the University of Hawaii, has an extensive collection of European stamps. E. M. Ehrhorn specializes in stamps of South America. E. L. Caum owns an interesting collection of Pacific islands and Oriental stamps. — Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

THE NEW IRISH COINAGE

From the Irish Statesman (Du welcome suggestions from indivi coins will redeem the aesthetic reputa

U. S. 1870-1900

varieties of the figure 1, but not so many of the figure 2, and it is probable that higher numbers will be found in less variety, since many towns used only one of two numbers.

Mr. Gilbert M. Burr reports numbers as high as 52, but no odd numbers above 23, and Mr. S. C. Rogers reports practically the same. Miss McClenthen sends a cover from New York showing 37.

Several cities used letters instead of numbers, and a few used two letters. New York used PO; Philadelphia, PA; Lockport, N. Y., US; Lake Placid, N. Y., LP; West End, N. J., WE; Chicago, Ill., CG for Cottage Grove Sta., MS, Madison Street Sta., SY, Stock Yards Sta., WD, West Division, SW, South West, and High Bridge, New York City, used H. B.

The 2c green of 1887 was also much cancelled by this design. Mr. Burr reports New York numerals as high as 52 with odd numbers missing above 23, and Mr. Rogers' list of letters omits T, U, V, X, Y, Z. He includes a new double letter, IP, and a combination of a letter and a numeral, 4 inside of C.

Mr. Rogers reports the high number in the 1890 and 1894-5 issues as 56 and his missing letters as Q, T, U, X, Y, Z.

At about the same time the vertical ellipse, No. 5, also came into use, though less generally. It was used in New York with the branch letters in the center on three cents re-engraved, and the PO of the Post Office on the same stamp. The letters are A to H, K, L, M, R, and should include S, T, though no one has reported these two. Boston used it with numerals, but how high these ran I am unable to say. Mr. Rogers reports 10 as the highest he has.

There were some modifications of this design. One has the side bars much heavier and only two heavy short bars at top and bottom. This is also known without the central circle. The Boston design has four short bars at top and bottom.

On the 2c red-brown the missing letters are N, Q, U, V, W, X, Y, Z, and on this stamp the numerals go up to 12. On the 2c green all the above letters except N are missing and in addition I, L, M, O, R, S, T, and 11 is the high number. In 1890 I, N, Q, T, U, X, Z, have not been reported. The highest numeral is 15, but 3, 4, 6, 13, 14 are missing, and in 1894-5 besides the letters missing in 1890, C, M, and S are also missing and the only numbers reported are 2, 7 and 8.

This design is the one used in New York on supplementary mail, with numbers 1 and 2 in the center and four short bars at top and bottom. It may be that the numbers differ from those used in other places, but this requires verification. Again an error in the form of a reversed 2, off cover, so that the place in which it was used is not known. It occurs on a 3c green.

Numbers 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 are other forms of cancellations which came into use at about the same period. No. 6 has numerals up to 20, and some letters. Boston used letters in a block of this size and also in a smaller block, H being the one most frequently seen. The highest numeral reported in No. 7 is 22, while the letters include A to J, T and Z. Another form of this obliteration has a bar on the sides as well as at top and bottom. No. 8 has numbers as high as 19, and the letters A, D, E, H, J, K, M, O, S, T, V, X, Z.

Number 9 was used at Cincinnati, O., before 1883, as it has not been reported on 2c red-brown, and is found in both blue and black. The numbers run up to 11, but Z seems to have differed from the others in that it had two circles instead of one, and only three short bars at the sides. This type was also used at Louisville, Ky., in black for a short time. The only letters I have seen in this design are A and C. No. 10 was used at Washington, D. C. The numbers run up to 6. No. 11 was used at Boston, Mass., and Philadelphia, Pa., and No. 12 was also used at the latter place. The highest number reported in these is 18. The last three are known on American printings and on 2c red-brown.

Nos. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 are some other forms of this class of obliterators. The towns using them are not known by me.

This is by no means all of the forms used. There are a number of others, but space forbids an exhaustive attempt to list them all now, and most of them are modifications of the ones shown in the illustrations.

If there is sufficient interest in these cancellations to warrant it, more will be said about them later.

Letters were frequently used with a different significance. Some of them are undoubtedly the initial of the town, others of the postmaster, and still others to denote the direction in which mail was to travel.

It will be seen that there is still a great deal of research work to be done regarding these cancellations, and that these notes are most elementary.

CANAL ZONE BOOKLETS

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Although U. S. postage and due stamps, envelopes and post cards overprinted for use in the Canal Zone, were issued July 1, 1924, stamp booklets were not available until October, 1924, when three varieties were placed on sale. The overprint (CANAL ZONE, in two horizontal lines, flat "A") is in the same type as on the sheet stamps.

15,000 booklets (24 1c stamps, 25c)	360,000
50,000 " (12-2c " 25c)	600,000
10,000 " (24-2c " 49c)	240,000
	1,200,000

These stamps were printed from plates containing 360 subjects (20 horizontal by 18 vertical) with a ¼" margin between each third horizontal row, and then cut into sixty panes of 6 stamps each (2 horizontal by 3 vertical, with margin at the top for binding). The stamps of these panes are not perforated at the outer edges. On these sheets of 360 stamps, the plate number apears in the upper margin (over the 14th stamp), and in the lower margin (under the 7th stamp), but in cutting into the small six-stamp panes, the lower margin with the plate number (as well as the side margins) is trimmed off, leaving only the one in the top margin, through which two wire staples pass in binding the small six-stamp sheets between covers.

The 2c (25c) stamp booklet contains two panes of six stamps each; and the 1c (25c) and the 2c (49c) booklets, four panes of six stamps each, with interleaving wax sheets.

The stamp panes, placed sideways with top to the left, are stapled at the left between colored covers, 79 x 43mm., bearing on the front a double lined circle on an engine turned device, lettered "Canal Zone —Postal System," and to the right nine lines of printed matter, viz.—"The Panama Canal (curved)—25c (within a shield)—This book contains— Twenty-four — One-Cent — Canal Zone — Postage Stamps—Price—Twenty-five Cents." The inside and back covers contain information as to postal rates. The 1c (25c) booklet has a pale green cover (with blue green printed matter), the 2c (25c) buff with red printing, and the 2c (49c) pink with red printing.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, a further lot of 2c booklets was sent to the Isthmus from Washington, but with the overprint in the sharp "A" (1925) type.

25,000 booklets (12-2c stamps, 25c)	300,000
5,000 " (24-2c " 49c)	120,000
	420,000

postal treaty with New South Wales. This bore a portrait of Prince Leleiohoku, a younger brother of the new King and Heir Apparent to the throne. The two stamps appeared about February, 1875, and one sheet of 50 of the 2-cent was issued imperforate. The black color of the 12-cent stamp proved ominous, as the Prince died scarcely more than two years later.

In 1881 a new 1-cent stamp was ordered with a likeness of Princess Likelike, younger sister of the King. The first supply was in dark blue. As Hawaii joined the Postal Union on January 1, 1882, it was evidently thought wise to obtain 10-cent and 15-cent stamps for double and triple rate letters, so these values were ordered with the new 1-cent stamp. The 10-cent shows a bust of the King in uniform and the 15-cent a bust of Queen Kapiolani. The stamps were issued about March, 1882.

The Postal Union colors for the 1- and 2-cent stamps were adopted and ordered about the time of joining the Union. The 1-cent in green and 2-cent in lilac-rose, together with supplies of the 5-cent in ultramarine instead of the previous dark blue, were received and issued about June, 1882. The 5-cent stamp is known imperforate and also imperforate horizontally. A curious practice of the Postal Department is to be noticed in requisitions for the 1-cent stamp, the old stamp of Princess Victoria being ordered in several and both colors of Princess Likelike being ordered right along, although the green was always in larger amounts.

Because of the apparent need of higher values than the 15-cent stamp, orders were given in 1883 for 25-cent, 50-cent and 1-dollar stamps. The first bore a representation of the statue of Kamehameha I, which stands in the square in front of the Government Building in Honolulu. The 50-cent has a portrait of King Lunalilo, a descendant of Kamehameha I, who succeeded to the throne on the death of Kamehameha V in December, 1872. He reigned but a little over a year, dying on January 3, 1874. The 1-dollar bears a portrait of Queen Emma, consort of Kamehameha IV, a beautiful woman both in feature and character, who was almost idolized by the natives. With the same requisition for the high value stamps was an order for new supplies of the 10-cent and 12-cent stamps, but in new colors, as the black in which both were previously printed did not show cancellations well. New supplies of the 2-cent were also included, which were in bright rose instead of the previous lilac-rose. This bright rose stamp is known imperforate. These new stamps were ready for issue by October, 1883.

In 1886 the Legislature passed a bill licensing the sale of opium, and instead of providing a revenue stamp of $1 to meet the requirements of the new law, they used the postage stamp of that value, as there was a large quantity on hand and they were not greatly in demand for postal use. This use continued from 1886 to 1888, with no other distinguishing mark but the cancellation, this being either the written name of the collector or a hand-stamped Maltese cross in black or violet.

In 1884 the 10-cent stamp was again changed in color from vermilion to red-brown, being issued about October.

In 1890, when on a trip to the United States, King Kalakaua was taken sick and died in San Francisco. His remains were taken to Honolulu in a warship. Having no issue, he was succeeded on the throne by his sister, Liliuokalani, and this resulted in the substitution of her portrait in the place of the late king's on the current 2-cent stamp. This, the last stamp issued by the kingdom, was placed on sale on November 8, 1891.

Queen Liliuokalani had held the reins of government but two years when she made an attempt to force the Cabinet to grant a new Constitution giving greater powers to the sovereign and the natives. She not only failed, but was deposed in consequence, and a Provisional Government was formed on January 17, 1893. On May 20, 1893, all values and colors of stamps on hand were issued with the overprint "Provisional—Govt. —1893" in three lines in red or black. The 12-cent mauve, at first overprinted in black, soon appeared with it in red, a mistake of the printers but about twice as common as the black. One sheet of 50 of the 6-cent was overprinted in black in error, and the same of the 10-cent brown in red in error. Of course there are a number of minor varieties in the overprint; inverted overprints on the 2-cent of 1891, and the 5-cent of 1882; double overprints on more than half the set, and the 1-cent green and 18-cent in pairs, one without overprint.

In October, 1893, a public competition for designs for a permanent set of 1, 2, 5, 10 and 25-cent stamps was announced, accepted designs being paid for at $10 each. It resulted in the selection of a set by Mr. E. W. Holdsworth of Honolulu. The designs were sent the American Bank Note Co. in November and the beautiful set issued on February 28, 1894. The 1-cent is, of course, the coat-of-arms of the Islands; the 2-cent is a view of Honolulu with the "Punch Bowl" in the background and Diamond Head at the right; the 5-cent is the statue of Kamehameha the Great, as already seen on the old 25-cent stamp; while the new 25-cent stamp gives a portrait of Sanford B. Dole, head of the Provisional Government, later President of the Republic and first Governor of the Territory after annexation to the United States.

Efforts looking toward annexation failed, owing to the opposition of President Cleveland, and on July 4, 1894, a Republic was proclaimed. This is the reason that the set of stamps bears the word "Hawaii" only, while the 12-cent value, issued October 27, 1894, is inscribed "Republic of Hawaii." This latter stamp shows a picture of the steamship "Arawa" of the Canadian-Australian line.

About the middle of January, 1897, the Foreign Office of the Republic was supplied with a set of six values for use on official correspondence. The stamps bore the likeness of Mr. Lorrin A. Thurston, who had served as Cabinet Minister under both King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani, and afterwards represented the Republic as its Minister in Washington. Their use continued until August 12, 1898, when the formal transfer of the Islands to the United States took place.

The regular postage stamps were not superseded with the annexation of the Islands, but remained in use while the status of the former Republic was being settled by Congress. During this time the 1-, 2- and 5-cent stamps were changed to the Postal Union colors, forming a sort of provisional colonial issue, the 2-cent rose appearing on February 2, 1899, the 1-cent green in May and the 5-cent blue in July. All the Hawaiian postage stamps issued for general postal purposes were available for use until the Islands finally became a Territory of the United States, on June 14, 1900.

On January 28, 1897, all obsolete issues, being those preceding the regular series of the Republic, were burned in the furnaces of the Electric Light Works at Honolulu. The remainder of the Republic's issues were forwarded to Washington and on February 9, 1901, were burned in the special furnace used for such purposes in the Post Office Department building. —New England Stamp Monthly.

Reported by ALBERT E. GORHAM.

First Day, Aug. 9

The 32nd Annual Convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans was called to order by President W. L. Doepke, at 10 a. m., after invocation by Rev. S. H. Alling. The Postmaster of Cincinnati, Hon. A. L. Behymer, extended the address of welcome.

The Secretary read the call for the Convention, 77 members being present and 301 represented by proxies. The President announced the following Committee appointments:

Welfare: Dr. E. W. Lawrence, F. L. Coes, C. D. Millar.

Necrology: C. W. Kissinger, Joseph Hoffman, A. E. Gorham.

Election of officers announced—Pres., W. L. Doepke; Vise Pres., E. W. Heusinger; Secretary, Wm. Lycett; Treasurer, Dr. D. G. Bray; Board of Governors, F. F. Greeley; Directors at Large: F. L. Coes, A. H. Wilhelm; International Secretary, G. C. Cuenod; Counterfeit Detector, Gustave Larson; Attorney, T. V. Morgan; Publicity Manager, O. J. Richardson; Librarian, W. R. Ricketts; Asst. Librarian, H. V. Bachman; Historian, N. R. Hoover; Trustees: Samuel Bennett, Dr. J. J. Waygood, P. M. Wolsieffer. Official Organ, Stamp Collector's Magazine.

Telegrams were read from several officers and members expressing regrets for not being in attendance. Reports of officers were read and referred to Committee on Officers' Reports. Mr. C. D. Millar announced the entertainment features provided by Branch No. 2, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Second Day, Aug. 10

The reports of officers evidences a healthy growth during the past year, as may be noted from the following resumé:—Membership 1925, 718; 1926, 910; a net gain of 109. Finances, net gain of $76.01 in General Fund. Sales Dept., balance on hand. July 1, 1925, $2,524.90, July 1, 1926, $3,597.60; a net gain of $1,072.70. Cash sales for year ending July 1, 1926, $11,603.68. Exchange Dept.: An increase of 82% over previous year with no losses chargable to Insurance Fund.

Assistant Librarian reports about 6,000 pieces of literature in Library available for use of the membership.

Historian has compiled a history of the Society since organization for future publication.

Board of Governors report a most successful year as to increase in membership and branch societies and advised that the Society would be represented at the International Exhibition in New York City in October.

The Board also gives great credit to Miss Helen Hussey for her recruiting efforts during the past year, and presenting her with engraved resolutions as a testimonial. The reports of all officers, upon recommendation of Committee on Officers' Reports, were approved and an honorarium of $70, voted to Secretary Lycett in lieu of traveling expenses to and from the Convention. A number of amendments to the Constitution were adopted, which will appear in the next issue of the Year Book.

Some of the more important changes in the Constitution involve a payment of a reinstatement fee of 50c; notice or call for the annual convention two months instead of three months in advance; Board of Directors, eleven members instead of nine; final authority on questions of interpretation of Constitution, subject to approval of the Board of Governors, to be determined by review by the Convention; Secretary to attend each annual convention and receive reimbursement for expenses as approved by Board of Governors. Sales Manager to deduct dues of any participant in Sales Department in arrears 60 days for dues and to retain books of members in arrears. Exchange Manager—an entirely new section governing the Exchange Department; Auction Manager to have discretionary power to reject any offering of stamps submitted; Board of Governors to have entire charge of liquidation of Sales Department claims against the Society.

Committee on Necrology reported deaths of the following members since last Convention: 3793, Hezekiah Weed; 3994, Henry F. Leonard; 4217, Fred W. Klayer; 4133, Geo. J. Filsinger; 4106, Robt. K. Thomson; 2374, M. O. Garritt. In respect to their memory the members present arose and stood in silent reflection on their passing.

Action was taken looking to the protection of stamp collections of members who might die intestate.

Reading, Penn., was unanimously decided as the place of holding the 1927 Convention.

A special Committee was appointed to consider the advisability of formation of juvenile branches throughout the country.

Meeting was adjourned at noon for a sight-seeing tour of Cincinnati at 2 p.m. and an auction sale of stamps at 8. p.m., both of which were largely attended.

SHANGHAI - CHINA FLIGHT

To The Editor

On page 396 of your issue of August 2nd, there is a brief description of the covers carried by Major de Pinedo from Shanghai to Japan on his flight of last year. Altho a full description of this flight and the covers carried appeared in the Aero Newsletter of the Aero Philatelic Society, it would seem that information about these covers has not had general circulation, and as this short article raised some questions about these covers, I desire to give thru your columns some added information.

Major de Pinedo, on his history-making Rome-Melbourne-Tokio-Rome flight, carried 50 covers from Shanghai to Kagoshima, Japan, where they were turned over to a Japanese postal official. These covers are franked with the provisional three cent stamp, China No. 229. The stamp carries the cancellation of Shanghai September 12, 1925, and the covers have a special cachet in violet as illustrated in your article. It is interesting to know in this connection that at the time of the flight of the Danish aviator, Lieut. Botved, this spring, the Postal Department in Peking issued an order, of which I hold a copy, forbidding foreign aviators flying over Chinese territory carrying any mail within Chinese territory. This would seem to end the possibility of any further covers carried by European aviators from China to Japan.

Permission was secured of the Italian Consulate General in Shanghai for the carrying of a small lot of fifty letters. The Consulate reported that latest cabled information was that Pinedo would arrive in Shanghai on the 12th, and because of the long delay in the Philippines, he would continue his flight to Japan the next day. The Deputy Postal Commissioner in charge of the Bureau of Mails agreed to handle the letters and the letters were turned over to him and delivered at the Consulate on that day. However, just at that time one of the typhoons that sweep up along the China coast in regular periods from the middle of August to the last of September got under way. During the few days that one of these storms last, navigation in the smaller coast steamers is dangerous; so that to attempt to continue the flight across to Shanghai from the Philippines was out of the question. The flight was delayed day after day as the storm continued, and it was not until the 21st, nine days later, that the weather was satisfactory to continue the flight. After a one day delay in Shanghai to go over the engine, the aviator resumed his flight on the 23rd, not going directly across to Kagoshima as he originally intended, but because of fear of another typhoon going by way of Korea.

A word of explanation is also necessary as to why these covers have been so late appearing on the market. The letters were all addressed to parties in care of the American Consul at Nagasaki, Japan. Major de Pinedo reported turning over the letters to a Japanese official upon arrival at Kagoshima to be carried to their destination by Japanese post. After waiting some time for the letters to arrive at Nagasaki, the consul there began an inquiry, which only ended the first week in March when the letters (a part of them missing) were located in the Department of Aviation of the Bureau of Communication at Osaka.

These covers, I believe, are the first letters to be carried by airmail from China to Japan and foretell the day not far distant when there will be regular airmail service between Shanghai and Tokio, connecting with American steamers at Yokohama. A Japanese company has already been organized at Osaka and chartered by the Japanese government to carry on a passenger and mail service between Osaka and Shanghai.

Trusting that this covers the points of inquiry raised in the previous article, I am,

Very truly yours,
Lloyd S. Ruland.

ASSORTED

Our correspondent, Mr. P. J. Drossos, Athens, Greece, has proved his prowess on the racing track, as it is learned that at the First International Motor Car and Motorcycle Speed Races, held at Athens on July 18th, he won the first prize in the Motorcycle race of 200 kilometers for motorcycles up to 350 c.c., on a 2¾ h. p. machine. Congratulations are extended to our speeding philatelist.

The Scott Stamp & Coin Company has issued an album for new issues that is intended for their reception temporarily. This "New Issue Provisional Album" is to appear quarterly, beginning July 1, 1926, and is to be sold by subscription only. This year's printing is limited to 2,000 copies.

Mr. B. H. Lorenz, Valley City, N. D., has remembered us with a cover bearing the 5c Ericsson, postmarked July 31, 1926, the 123rd anniversary of John Ericsson's birth on July 31, 1803.

First day covers of the new Sesquicentennial stamped envelopes have come from Mr. P. H. Ward, Jr., Philadelphia; Mr. Charles J. Buckstein, Atlantic City, N. J., and others. Mention should have been made before of the receipt of a photograph postmarked May 30, from Mr. W. G. Windhurst, Marion, Ohio, showing the laying of the corner-stone of the Harding Memorial at Marion, Ohio, on May, 30, 1926. In the foreground Senator J. S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, member of the American Philatelic Society, is shown as a leader in the ceremonies.

From Corporal J. M. Cohen, 132nd Infantry, I. N. G., a card has been received showing an aerial view of the Illinois National Guard Encampment at Camp Grant, Illinois.

Some of the changes found in the Advance Sheets are No. 3966, third issue revenue, 2c orange and black on green, inverted, from $7 to $15.00; Panama-Pacific, 10c orange, perforated 10, unused, from 42 to 43 and No. 477, unwatermarked, perf. 10, 50c unused, from $7.50 to $10. The new price of the 75c parcel post unused is $1.50 instead of $1.75, the old price. It looks as though 20th century are on the upward grade in the U. S. section.

Air Mail Envelopes

I will supply envelopes printed with the red and blue stripes, fine quality, at the following prices:

1000 for $4.50, postage extra; 100 for 75c, postpaid; smaller quantities at one cent each, postpaid.

Shields all, and you have perhaps seen the majority of these, or others that looked very similar. No. 1 is a bit out of the ordinary, as the stars are given a definite shape, where they are generally depicted as open spots, being mere gouges into the cork, or wood from which the obliterator is fashioned. No. 3 is a finely executed shield, and being so large, the maker took plenty of time to make it carefully. The copy I saw was hit very neatly, giving the full impression. It is quite possible that this comes from N. Y. City, and if any reader has it on cover, the town name would be welcomed. Note that all five stars are cut so as to show each of their five points, this takes much care in cutting them out of wood or cork. No. 10 was most cleanly hit, not a bit smudgy, and while it almost blotted the little blue locomotive out of existence, the cover as a whole is very handsome.

Many readers like Confederate stamps and covers, especially the latter. Here is an unusual cover sent in by Mr. R. S. Nelson, "The Old Stamp Hunter." Glancing at it we see a beautiful wide-margined copy of the Incomplete Die of the common 10c stamp, in blue—not indigo. The stamp is pmkd. MARION DEC 31 ALA, and in mss. on cover is FORD DUE 10, as the first address, Demopolis, is crossed out, and Jefferson replaces it, both towns in Alabama. So far it is just a very fine cover. But the interesting part is inside, for it is a folded or turned cover, being used twice, as often was the case where envelopes were so scarce. The inside shows the pmk. EUFALA DEC 11, ALA. And in the corner is C. S. above and PAID directly under the CS. These two letters are in large Capitals being as long as the word "Paid," and making a neat rectangular form.

We read and read about these prestamp cancellations showing PAID 5 or PAID 10, and while the accepted ones are those shown in the Scott Catalog only, it is surely possible that many a true Local is not "in it" to date. The accepted ones are those which occur only at the top right where the stamp should be, and they must be printed, or up till a short time ago they were all printed, tho now some rubber, or wood stamped ones are recognized. The Montgomery was one; but this has been found so often that collectors are not very keen about them any more. They would rather have them from some town they do not have in their collections.

If everyone could get together on this, a very finely illustrated set of these prestamp designs could be produced which would make an interesting booklet on Confederates.

In line with that Intemperance cover which showed a design all over the entire face of the envelope, we find another Propaganda cover, this one bearing on slavery. This cover is much the same in appearance as the English made Intemperance edition, and is one of those gray surfaced envelopes "ENGRAVED & PUBLISHED BY J. VALENTINE, DUNDEE. (25 Adhesives or 30 Plain Sent free for 12 Penny Post Stamps.)" At bottom of envelope is JOHNSTON-HUNTER EDIN & LONDON at left, and at right is ACKERMAN & Co LONDON.

The whole face of this envelope is covered by the design except for a small vignetted opening in the center for the address to be written. At the left is a figure of Liberty with a banner which reads "GOD HATH MADE OF ONE BLOOD ALL NATIONS OF MEN," while at her feet in an attitude of supplication is a negro, and behind her is a lion. The group is looking across a choppy inlet toward a palm grown promontory, where the blacks are held in "fours" by wooden neck yokes. One unfortunate is being lashed at a whipping post, and another is apparently being branded, while a third is lying on the ground. The whites all have whips which are being flourished in a way that helps fill in the open spaces in this sordid picture. In the offing we see a two masted brig hove to, completing this work of art.

How many of these Propaganda covers are there? Has anyone saved up any of them that are different than the ones mentioned? The gray surfaced envelopes are of English manufacture, and those made in the U. S. A. are on the brownish yellow envelopes common to that early period.

From Mr. A. A. Leve comes an interesting cancellation on a 3c 1861 on cover from Macedon, N. Y. A black ball surrounded by a circle is the motif, and running up from left to right in the black part we read in script initials what looks like G L E N. The GLE is very plain; the name of the return address is "R. M. K. Glen & Son" so I am guessing that the last letter is an "N," tho it is called an "L" as sent to me. Possibly someone has a clearer copy, and it is so pretty that a drawing would be worth seeing. Not many cut letters are found in these cancels and you recall how nice the OCT looked on the 3c 1861 from Putnam, Ct.

Suppose that I ask right now, Has anyone got any nice monogram cancellations to be shown in the Forum? If so, my address is as above, and they will be drawn up, and returned in due course.

M. C. HANNA, Box 936, NEW KENSINGTON, PA.

QUEENSLAND

By C. A. HOWES.

Queensland, like Victoria, was originally a part of New South Wales, from which it was set off as a separate Colony on December 1, 1859. As usual it did not take long to consider the desirability of having a special set of stamps for the new Colony, as those of New South Wales were of course in use at the time. An order was sent to the Colonial Agents in London who applied to Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., and they prepared the simple and beautiful design that all collectors admire. The head of the Queen, which was stipulated to be the same as upon the then current Tasmanian stamps, was copied from the painting by A. E. Chalon which represented Her Majesty in robes of state on the occasion of her first visit to the house of Lords. Values of 1, 2, 3 and 6 pence and 1 shilling, as well as a stamp marked simply "Registered," were engraved by William Humphrys and a supply of the 1, 2 and 6 pence stamps sent out to the Colony in June and July, 1860. Of these the 6p were all imperforate and of the other two values part were imperforate and part were perforated. Upon receipt of the consignment a Post Office notice was issued to the effect that the new stamps would be put on sale on November 1, 1860, and that from that date the stamps of New South Wales would cease to be available for postage in the Colony. Other supplies soon followed, with the 6p perforated and the 1s and registered stamps, so that these latter should have been available soon after the first issue of the stamps. The 3p did not arrive until about April, 1861.

The 1, 2 and 6p stamps of the first supplies, both imperforate and perforated, were printed on paper watermarked with a large star which had been used for the larger sized stamps of Ceylon, St. Helena, South Australia and Tasmania. This was evidently a temporary measure during the preparation of paper with a smaller sized star for these smaller sized stamps, as the 1s and registered stamps sent out in August, 1860, and subsequently, as well as the 3p, were never printed upon the large star paper. The small star watermark was a special one for Queensland and all the stamps were printed on it by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. as well as the 1, 2 and 6p later on in the Colony.

The London printers sent out their last consignment of all values to the Colony in June, 1861. The Colony then decided to establish a Government Printing Office and do its own printing, and therefore ordered the plates sent out, which was done on February 1, 1862, together with twenty reams of the small star watermarked paper. The large supply of English printed stamps on hand, however, did not require any further printings until November, 1862, when work was begun upon 1 and 2p stamps. The watermarked paper was not used, however, but a rather thick, soft, yellowish-white wove paper. The colors varied some from the English printed stamps, particularly the 1p which was in Indian red and also orange-vermilion instead of deep rose. These locally printed stamps were issued on December 16, 1862. Early in 1863 the 6p stamps were required and this value was printed in a yellow green instead of deep green and issued on April 17, 1863. The 1s followed, being printed in a grayish-black instead of violet and issued on July 14, 1863. The 3p stamp was printed in a somewhat lighter shade of brown the English printed stamp and issue September 1, 1863.

The use of unwatermarked paper the absence of certain checks upo manufacture of the stamps were the subject of a letter from the Tre to the Government Printer, in whic use of the watermarked paper proper control was advised. This dently brought out the stock of watermarked paper that had come England with the plates, and its use was to fill a requisition for the istered" stamps. These were issue latter part of June, 1864. No fu supplies of this special stamp printed and its use was discontinu July 1, 1873. Though no value wa pressed it represented the usual reg tion fee of 6 pence. Printings of 2 and 6p stamp followed on this marked paper, but dated copies ar known with year date earlier than

Of course further supplies of the marked paper had to be obtained these were ordered from Englan usual. Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & furnished them on request and in of their following the previous watermark, the new sheets had the "QUEENSLAND POSTA STAMPS" in disconnected script italics as a watermark. This was dis in three lines, the word "Queens having the remaining two words i line repeated twice beneath it, the being surrounded by an interlaced border. Apparently four of these "fra occupied a sheet of the size of the sheet with a quatrefoil ornament 12 mm. in diameter separating them each other. (The sheet containe stamps in 20 horizontal rows of 12 e Single stamps only show a portion o or two letters of this watermark shape of curved lines, though some the quatrefoil is found. Only the 2p stamps were printed on this pape issued in January, 1866. The reaso this was that a large amount of Tre bills were needed about that time be of financial difficulties, and as the p stamp paper was the only waterm paper available for these notes it appropriated and used up, so that th of unwatermarked paper for printin postage stamps was reverted to time.

Meanwhile new values of 4 penc 5 shillings were found desirable an Government Printer was asked to pare them with as little delay as po As it would take a long time to get plates from England, the new s were prepared by lithography in the way: an impression was taken fro of the steel plates (probably the the least worn), the original erased from the stamps, a lithog transfer taken, and the new value in by hand on each stamp on the This resulted in slight differences size and spacing of the letters o stamps which may be readily det Supplies of both values were print the unwatermarked paper and issue ter part of September, 1866. From January 1, 1880, until April, 1882, the 5s stamp was available for fiscal as well as postal purposes.

From 1868 until 1875 two different types of watermarked paper were used. The first was some on hand which had apparently been left over from printing Treasury notes; it bore the word "QUEENSLAND" in large single lined capitals repeated four times in the sheet, and a large number of truncated stars placed at equal distances in straight rows throughout the sheet, so that one star fell more or less irregularly on each printed stamp. New special paper for the stamps had also arrived from England, having been furnished by Messrs. De la Rue & Co., and this bore a double-lined letter "Q" surmounted by a small crown, regularly spaced in the sheet so as to fit one watermark to each stamp impression from the plate. Both papers were used for all values, but the truncated star paper was apparently exhausted by the end of 1874. About this time a new perforating machine gauging 12 was imported, where the one previously in use gauged 13, and all values on both watermarks are found with both gauges, the 2 and 6 pence also being reported compound.

In 1874 a new plate of the 4p was made by lithographic transfer as before, but in this time of only 120 subjects printing sheet of 12 horizontal rows of 10 stamps. It was printed in a pale yellow, instead of pale lilac, upon the "Crown and Q" paper so there is no confusion with its predecessor.

For some years the question of collecting all stamp duties, both fiscal and postal, by means of one set of stamps instead of separate "postage" and "stamp duty" sets had been under consideration. The step was finally taken and a Treasury notice of December 22, 1879, stated that: "The public are informed that from and after 1st January, 1880, the issue of separate stamps for duty and postal purposes will cease. The present postage stamps from one penny to one shilling, and the present duty stamps from two shillings upwards, will, in future, be the only stamps issued." The only postage stamp above one shilling was the 5s of 1866, which was thus available for revenue use. The revenue stamps all had the words "Stamp Duty" on them, and to avoid any misunderstanding it was decided to replace them by new stamps similar to the postage stamps which bore nothing but the name of the Colony and the value. Consequently lithographic transfers were made from one of the postage plates (probably the 1s), and stones for printing values of 2, 2s6d, 5, 10 and 20s stamps were prepared, as had been done before. The paper was the "Crown and Q" watermark and the perforation by the 12 machine. The various values were issued between March and August, 1881.

These lithographed shilling values were only temporary, while awaiting new steel engraved plates ordered from Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co. in London in March, 1881. These were the large and handsome stamps issued in April (2s and 5s) and July (2s6d and 10s) 1882 and May, 1883 (£1). The plates had thirty stamps in six horizontal rows of five each. The watermark first used by the printers at Brisbane was the small "Crown and Q" used for the ordinary sized stamps. For use with the high value plates the sheets were cut in two and placed sideways, so that the stamps show two watermarks sideways, one above the other. The perforation was 12. In November, 1886, the stamps were printed on "beer duty" paper with watermark of a "large Q and Crown" and of thicker quality. The spacing of this watermark more nearly fitted the size of the stamps and it is upright. The 2s became obsolete in June, 1889, on the issue of a new 2s stamp in the small postage size.

It was suggested in 1876 that by the electrotype process the production of stamps might be accomplished in a more rapid and cheaper manner than by the engraved plates. The Government Engraver went to Melbourne and Sydney to look into the process and on his return recommended its adoption. He ordered a die for the 1 penny postage and another for the 1 penny stamp duty from Sydney, both cut for the production of electrotypes. They arrived in May, 1877, but the electrotype plate of the 1 penny postage was not ready until August, 1878. The sheet was arranged for 120 stamps in twelve horizontal rows of ten. The stamp was supposed to be a close copy of the engraved 1d stamp, but the design was "reversed"—the colored part showing white and vice-versa—and the profile bust of the Queen was substituted for the full face portrait. A curious fault occured on the 48th stamp on the sheet, the "U" of Queensland resembling an "O." This was caused by the electro sticking to the matrix and a bit of the raised surface being broken away.

The 2, 4 and 6d stamps were next taken up. In making the electros from the matrix, the value was erased, leaving a blank space in the lower half of the oval band on the electro, upon which the new value was then engraved by hand. Consequently, each of the 120 stamps of each value shows some slight variation in the lettering of the value. These new stamps were not issued until 1879, the 2d in April, the 1d in May, the 4d in June, and the 6d at the end of 1879 or beginning of 1880. A second electrotype plate of the 2d prepared in 1880 is recognized by the fact that in nearly every case the letters "T W" of the value are joined together. The letters are also very large, occupying nearly the whole width of the oval band. A second plate or rearrangement of the 1d shows the "QO" error as Number 44. A third plate shows no trace of it. EDITORIAL

It is unusual to find in midsummer so many indications that interest in philately is not flagging, as at present. Indeed, so much attention seems to be given to the externals of stamps just now that one would think that we are in the midst of the stamp season. This favoring circumstance may be due in part to the wave of expectation aroused by the coming Exhibition, but at any rate, it exists. The absence of many collectors from their accustomed haunts is to be expected but some of the absentees are taking their stamp interest with them, in effect. Never before has there been a time when so many clippings have been coming from readers who find them in the outside press. Underlying all this, is the comforting thought that philately is establishing its position in the large outside world. It will no longer be denied its place in the sun.

From Mr. Chas. H. Garrett, Kalamazoo, Michigan, president of the Stamp Dealers Protective Association, we have received the important information that the alleged "society" operating from Birmingham, Alabama, is probably sponsored by the most persistent philatelic swindler of the time. It is claimed that "Axel J. M. Johansen, alias Svend Munk, John Jansen, M. Friberg (at New York City) and later, Martin Johnson and the Edgewater Stamp Company, 900 Montrose Avenue, Chicago," is the guiding spirit of the Alabama enterprise. Investigations that we have instituted showed that while something was irregular in this connection, the real findings were somewhat confusing. The organization and its president are entitled to praise in its success in definitely tagging the outfit.

Here is an interesting story of a pen-cancellation on the original envelope as submitted by Mr. Richard E. Tims, Tama, Iowa: "A collecting friend recently turned up an odd cover bearing a 2c of 1898. On the back of the envelope was the receiving postmark, 'Tama, Iowa, Aug. 17, 1902.' The 2c stamp was canceled with four pen-strokes and in the place where the postmark would appear normally, there was written in black ink: 'Basque, Ok., Aug. 15, 1902'. (The 'Ok.' stood for Oklahoma). The original letter which was inside shed some light on this. I quote one passage: 'The post office here is just being established and they are having a hard time getting settled. No cancelling machine is provided yet.' Evidently, the postmaster must have had a tough job, as all letters would have to be cancelled and postmarked by pen and ink."

Through a delay in delivery of a letter from Mr. A. E. Pade, New York, which he sent under date of July 20th, we have been unable to publish the following interesting news that Denmark is to establish a philatelic agency, heretofore. Word has been received that the Danish Postal Administration has decided to open a Philatelic Agency in Copenhagne this Autumn, thereby acting upon a suggestion made to it by Mr. A. E. Pade. As a member of the Collectors Club and, incidentally, a Fellow of the Hot Stove League, Mr. Pade wrote recently to the Postmaster General of Denmark complaining about certain circumstances in connection with the later new issues of Danish stamps. Mr. Pade also is a member of the Copenhagen Philatelic Club and being of Danish birth, he recommended that Denmark follow the example of the United States. He explained the workings of the Agency at Washington and now has the satisfaction of knowing that another postal administration has recognized philately and shown that it is friendly to the great army of stamp collectors. Mr. Pade may know that he has rendered a service to philately and has been instrumental in increasing the prestige of our pursuit and as a philatelic benefactor, he is worthy of acclaim.

Several weeks ago, Mr. Joseph A. Steinmetz, Philadelphia, suggested that the cataloguers could augment the value of their works by obtaining more data on the subject of legitimate bi-sects and in consequence giving these interesting varieties more attention in the catalogues. It is known that scores of these split stamps were used with official sanction but it may be difficult to authenticate their existence by postal records, at this late day. In many cases, the provisionals were used without express permission but custom may have said to have validated their office. In the case of some countries, the catalogues are rather complete in their lists of the bi-sects, but as Mr. Steinmetz says not a few of these oddities are ignored in the consideration of other countries. We understand that the cataloguers are not averse to amplifying their compilations of such stamps and that they will be pleased to have submitted to them documentary evidence that would tend to validate the postal significance of the bi-sects. In late years, there has been a tendency to question the pretensions of halved stamps because of the possibility of philatelic intent having entered into their creation, but even so, there may be said to be a few sheep among the goats that may be browsing around.

In the Children's Section of the Baltimore Sun of Sunday, July 25th, 1926, there is an article headed, "Children Revive Stamp Collecting," and while we shall not discuss the minor note sounded in the opening sentence, "Stamp collecting is coming back," it will be worth while to refer to a portion of the subject matter that is illustrated by a picture of a cover which is said to be the only one of its kind in existence. We quote: "Mr. Perry W. Fuller, himself a collector, has a stamp which apparently was used by a postmaster of Baltimore on April 5, 1848, and is the only one of its kind known to be in existence. . . . . For thirty years it was in the collection of Count Ferrari, said to have been the largest and most valuable collection in the world. It is the 'unusualness' of this stamp that makes it impossible to determine its value. Should another one be discovered, showing that this is part of an authentic issue, instead of just the whim of some postal employee, each stamp would be worth about $10,000. As it is, Mr. Fuller says, the stamp is worth only what anybody is willing to pay for it. The stamp is about an inch square and bears no printing or figures except a large 10, in a circle. Within the circle and around the figure, which appears in white, is finely tooled engraving. The letter on which it was found was mailed from the jewelry firm of Canfield Brothers & Co., to Lemuel Lynch, another jeweler, living at Hillsboro, N. C. . . . . It is possible that the stamp might have been a sample submitted by some engraver to the postmaster. . . . . Count Ferrari's collection to which Mr. Fuller's stamp belonged was recently sold at auction by the French government." This cover was bought in the Ferrari sale by Mr. Michael Miller of Baltimore, one of our correspondents, and it would be interesting, indeed, if a fellow to it were found. The configuration of this label is similar to that of the "5" impression of the Lynchburg Confederate envelopes.

A Few More Subscriptions Can Still Be Accepted

The enthusiastic reception accorded by collectors everywhere to the first quarterly edition of the

has left us with but few of the 2000 published copies still available, and we will shortly be obliged to announce that no more subscriptions will be accepted for the first year's issues.

The NEW ISSUE PROVISIONAL ALBUM is a temporary home for the large numbers of stamps issued between the publication of the various editions of our albums. It is issued every three months, and provides spaces for stamps of the three months previous as chronicled in Scott's Monthly Journal. Pages are regular album size, specially bound with a linen hinged back, and each edition will be large enough to include all new issues.*

FULLY ILLUSTRATED

This album is sold by subscription only. The price $2.50 entitles the subscriber to 4 issues, published quarterly, post free.

We advise collectors interested to write at once. [tf

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

W. C. Stone, Springfield, Mass.
Noah Webster Library, W. Hartford, Ct.
G. M. Guidi, M.D., Elizabeth, N. J.
Nadie Buchanan, E. Liverpool, O.

It is very evident that our veteran philatelist, William C. Stone of Springfield, Mass., does not intend to retire from stamp collecting. Anyway, he renews out membership in our Honor Club and for the next five years he will receive the WEEKLY regularly. Mr. Stone has always been actively identified with the A. P. S. and has aquitted himself creditably under many Society responsibilities.

The Noah Webster Memorial Library of West Hartford, Conn., takes its place upon our honor list through the courtesy of Mrs. Louise W. Kellogg of West Hartford, Conn. Mrs. Kellogg will be remembered as a longtime advertiser in the WEEKLY. Her letter concludes:—"I had almost decided to sell out my stock but there's such a fascination about selling that I may retain it."

Dr. G. M. Guidi of Elizabeth, N. J., is an oldtime subscriber of the WEEKLY. He has been upon our list for more than fifteen years and in connection with the recent expiration of his subscription he decided to join our Honor Club.

Our fourth applicant for membership this week is Bradie Buchanan, East Liverpool, Ohio. Mr. Buchanan very kindly accompanies his check for $5 with a cover from South Africa bearing one of the new triangular stamps. A unique cancellation is employed:—"Fruit for health." It is of roller type and the English inscription alternates with one in Dutch.

It takes a Coney Island barker to describe them, and the President's new cook to excel them. WHAT? WHAT? WHAT'S the noise about? It isn't vulgar noise, it's delighted applause (not all our own, either) over the splenderifous packets we are putting up as fast as the nations of the earth can issue the stamps and send them to us. And how they do go! ! Everybody likes a little extra excitement, especially in vacation time.

ALONG THE WAY

Mr. Lloyd S. Ruland who has sent us interesting particulars of the Shanghai-China lap of Major de Pinedo's flight is a resident of Nanking, China, who is spending a year on furlough at Lexington, Illinois. He is a member of the Nanking Philatelic Society and also of the Aero Philatelic Society of America.

The Mailbag in a recent issue heads an item: "Chorus—We want those beautiful green stamps back." It approves the fight being made by the National Council of Business Mail Users to have the old rate of one cent restored on unsealed, third class matter and private postal cards.

Mr. John Rausch of San Francisco, Cal., has found three different shifts on the 10 cent green, U. S., 1894, type. No. 1 shows line in white circle from "E" of Ten to "N" of Cents; also line on bottom below background. No. 2 has line at bottom of stamp and No. 3 presents line in lower circle from "N" of Ten to "E" of Cents.

Alma Newcomb of So. Brewer, Maine, writes: "Mr. Walter N. Emerson of Chicago called to see me several times in July and spoke of his friendship with you. I think that he would tell you of me and how I am crippled for life. The notice in the WEEKLY last winter was a wonderful help and I sold thousands of mixed stamps and now to sell more would interest me as well as help." Our correspondent has been a shut-in since childhood and any one who has stamps that are in the way may draw their own conclusion; they would be thankfully received.

Dr. H. I. Daveport of Auburn, New York, writes:—"I bought a pane of the current seven cent stamps at the local post office a few days ago. In looking them over, I discovered that stamp No. 33 in the pane has a distinct prolongation of the upper frame line about 1 mm. beyond the right frame line. Also, stamp No. 63 shows a prolongation of the lower frame line about 1 mm. beyond the right frame line. This is the right upper pane of plate 17623 and unfortunately there was not another similar pane in the office. I thought that someone might spot a similar pane and determine whether this is a constant occurence in this plate."

We have a card from the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia from Mr. William Butler, Toronto, the publisher of the forthcoming Year-Book.

first plate of the 2d shows the "C" of "PENCE" made into a "G" by a white flaw Number 116.

The watermarked paper ran out and for a period in 1878-9 a white paper watermarked with the name of "T. H. Saunders" and the date "1877" was used pending a new supply of regular paper from England. For protection, because of the lack of the regular watermark, bands of interlaced wavy lines were lithographed in pale lilac upon the back of each row of stamps, this being the so-called burelage, or moiré or burelé, band noted in the catalogues. It appears only on the 1 and 2d typographed stamps and a new printing from the engraved plate of the 1s stamp of 1860. The electrotyped 1s was not issued until June, 1880.

In February, 1880, the rate on newspapers was changed to 1½d when sent to Europe, and as this required a half-penny stamp which did not exist in the then current set, 20,400 1d stamps were overprinted "Half-penny" vertically and issued on February 21st. The old rates were restored one week later so the ½d had but a short life. The "QO" error occurs in these stamps.

As already detailed, the issue of separate series of stamps for both postage and revenue purposes was discontinued on January 1, 1880. "The present postage stamps, from one penny to one shilling, and the present duty stamps, from two shillings upwards, will, in future, be the only stamps issued." So reads the notice; but the public jumped to the conclusion that every value of every issue of the "duty" stamps was available for postage, and so used any of them that were at hand. This view was tacitly admitted by the Post Office, which permitted them all to pass unchallenged. Hence any Queensland revenue stamp issued up to that time is liable to be found with proper postal cancellation; but as a matter of fact few stamps of a higher value than one shilling seem to have been required for postal purposes at that period.

The die used for the 1879-1881 issues of electrotyped stamps was never wholly satisfactory, and in 1880 the Government Engraver decided to order a new one from Messrs. Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co. of London. Considerable difficulty was experienced in obtaining just what he wanted from them, but he finally received it in April, 1882. It was engraved for the 2d value, and the oval band bearing the lettering was widened and the lettering made larger as specified. It may be interesting to reproduce the following portion of the Government Engraver's letter: "For further information, I may state that I make the plates for printing in the following manner, viz.:—Impressions are taken in lead by means of a drop hammer. A sufficient number of these are soldered together to form a part, or the whole of a sheet, numbering 120 stamps; this mould is then placed in the battery to receive a deposit of copper, which, when sufficiently thick (taking two or three days), is separated from the lead, backed type high with metal, and is then ready for the press." As a matter of fact, the stamps of this issue, as well as the one immediately preceding, were electrotyped in blocks of four, thirty of these blocks making up the printing plate. In preparing values other than that denoted on the die, the lettering of the value is filled in, so that this portion of the oval band appears blank on the electros, which then have the new value engraved by hand on each one.—New England Stamp Monthly.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

Washington Notes

As a member of the Executive Committee of the International Philatelic Society, I was authorized sometime back to take up with the proper authorities at Washington the subject of a Government exhibit at the coming International Philatelic Exhibition to be held in New York from October 16th to 23rd inclusive. I was officially informed that the Department would be pleased to arrange for a fitting contribution to this Exposition. It is hoped and expected that a branch of the Philatelic Agency will be opened so that visitors may be able to purchase the same supplies that could be obtained from Washington. In addition, the Department will make a display of proof stamps as well as other stamps that are now available. I had suggested that a special size plate of the 2c Sesqui-Centennial stamp be sold at the Exhibition in unlimited numbers and I am informed that some arrangements of this kind can no doubt be made and the matter will be taken up the latter part of August. We are not asking for a new issue but simply the prevailing stamp made in a special sheet of possibly twenty-five stamps and as their sale will be unlimited, there will be no possibility of anyone claiming that the issue is speculative or that any special person or persons are favored. If such stamps are printed, they will be available to the visitors in New York and those out of town will be able to secure the identical variety through the Philatelic Agency in Washington.

I have also taken up with the Department the subject of actually printing some of the stamps at the Exposition but have had no definite promise on this point. It is to be hoped that the Postmaster General, the Third Assistant Postmaster General and the chief of the Stamp Division, Mr. M. L. Eidsness, Jr., will be in attendance at the Exhibition. It is also hoped that Mr. Warren Irving Glover, the Second Assistant Postmaster General, will be present, for although he no longer is in control of the stamp producing portion of the Department, he nevertheless is greatly interested in stamp collectors and has direct supervision of the air mail.

Scott's 1927 Catalog

In my review last week of the advance sheets of the Scott's 1927 catalog, I overlooked two details which are worthy of special mention. It is noted with pleasure that the new catalog will not separate the first issue of Postage Due stamps into two sets, namely the yellow brown and brown, but are rightly combining these sets as one. No one has ever been able to furnish the two sets originally listed for with the exception of the 3c, none of the others are found in the real yellow brown. Mr. Luff now lists the set and gives us the 3c yellow brown as a sub-variety. This change is to be commended and we hope it will be reflected in the new albums when published.

I also note that in the case of the first issue of Newspaper stamps, that the reprints are listed for the first time. They certainly are worthy of catalog rank just as much as any of the other reprint issues.

It is hoped that the time is not far distant when the "Specimen" Department stamps will be listed in the standard catalog. They are special prints in every sense of the word and have just as much right in the catalog as the special prints of the postage stamps prepared at the same time. It is true these were never available for postage, but then it will be recalled that the reprints of 1847 and 1857 which are now in the catalog were never available for postage. The new edition of the catalog will be one of the finest ever published and the Scott Company is now reaching a point where we will have a difficult time in criticising their listings.

Postage Due

I have recently been shown the northeast pane of the 3c 1917 perf. 11 Postage Due from plate No. 8477, wherein the twenty-sixth stamp showed a slight defect in the plate. This is particularly noticeable in the large central figure.

Envelopes

J. M. Bartels Company has just issued a small twelve-page pamphlet devoted to the new envelopes from 1916 to date. This is particularly interesting because it lists and prices the known varieties of the recent 1½c surcharges. A careful study has been given to the subject and practically all varieties known to date up to and including the recent Sesqui-Centennial variety are listed. It is difficult to criticize prices on these new varieties for one man's judgment is almost as good as another. The only omission that I offhand note is the Universal type on the 1c issue of 1907, die D on buff. This is quite a rare variety of which less than twenty-five were found in one of the southern post offices. Every collector interested in our envelopes should certainly have one of these lists on hand which may be obtained from the Bartels Company at twenty-five cents.

Air Mail

The below cut is self-explanatory. Full information concerning this air flight was given in our issue of August 9.

Canal Zone.

Mr. L. Bartlett Gatchell calls my attention to the surcharge found on the recent issue of Sesqui-Centennial stamps. The lower slugs are not always spaced the same in respect to the upper slug so that in some cases we find the "E" of "Zone" directly under the "L" of "Ca instead of evenly spaced as on the nor stamp.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—Mr. R. Rob and the Economist Stamp Co. have sh us copies of the new commemorative issued July 1st last. THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

Edited by FREDERICK W. ALLEN, 815 Delaware, S. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

LOGANSPORT IND. | MADISON WIS. | MICHIGAN CITY, IND. | LOS ANGELES CALIF. | OMAHA NEBR.

Bureau Prints—The Bureau precancels maintain their place in the limelight, and many new precancel collectors are a result of their issuance. The 7c, 8c and 9c are appearing from a few cities. San Francisco appeared to be the first city to use the 7c, and Kansas City, the 8c and 9c. Chicago is reported on the 10c coil, and Rochester has at last appeared on the 2c, which is the sole variety issued to this office. A list of the May orders received at the Bureau is as follows:

Ordinary
Memphis	3c
Providence	2c, 8c
Coiled
Chicago	3c, 4c, 5c, 10c
Pittsburgh	3c, 4c, 5c, 10c
Philadelphia	4c, 5c, 10c
New York	4c, 5c, 10c
Scranton	2c

General Survey—The number of new electroplates that have appeared recently has tended to arouse new interest. The precancel hobby is fascinating in that there is something new always showing up. The first three types illustrated above seem to be universal, as a host of offices have received plates similar to the illustrations, especially the first two.

Logansport, Ind.—This style is similar to the one known as U-8, but differs slightly in spacing of lines, and spacing and thickness of the letters. Some cities that have recently received plates of this style are: Bellingham, Wash., Burlingame, Calif., Milwaukee, Wis., and Monticello, Ill.

Madison, Wis.—The 1½c is the only variety I have seen in the new type illustrated above. Norwalk, Conn., has a sister plate. Although South Norwalk has used precancels for many years, Norwalk has not employed precancels previous to this time.

Marion, O.—Is another office that has a new plate of this description. I have a quantity of the 25c Special Handling precancelled in this type, but have not noticed anything else. Staunton, Va., and Greeley, Colo., are also out with this style of precancellation.

Michigan City, Ind.—As the illustration shows, this is simply a three-line adaptation of the type used for the illustrated Madison. It makes a pretty appearance. Probably the future will bring forth many additions to the list of holders of this type of electro. As yet, Clay Center, Neb., and Wichita Falls, Texas, are the only others.

Los Angeles, Calif.—It was somewhat of a surprise to see the new style illustrated for Los Angeles. Kansas City came out with it also at the same time. Perhaps others will follow.

Omaha, Nebr.—The Omaha illustration resembles slightly the Bureau style for this city, and may confuse the novice somewhat. It is a new 100-subject electroplate and will supersede the Universal Style 8 plate that has rendered service for so long.

Saginaw, Mich.—Is out with a peculiar style that appears to be a typesetting. It consists of large serif caps between lines. Mr. Francis Engel shows it to me on the old 8c and I have it on the current 3c.

North Chicago, Ill.—Is using a neat printed precancellation of condensed caps between bars. Have noticed it on the 1½c and 2c.

Eminence, Ky.—Still precancels with bright purple ink. The type is tall, thin caps between lines. On the 11c, 20c and 30c it makes a beautiful appearance. I also have it on the 5c, but it is not as striking.

Bristol, Conn.—Chas. Metz reports the 10c in the U-53 style, which is handstamped. I also possess the current 11c. Bristol, Pa., is another newcomer, which employs the U-52 handstamp. This was shown me on the current 2c by H. G. Tilley.

Lowell, Ohio—Chas. Metz reports the 3c and 4c from this town in the U-54 style, which are new to me.

Camden, N. Y.—I am indebted to Mr. B. S. Osborne for sample precancellations of this city, and the following information concerning them: "The Camden office has recently precancelled stamps as follows: ½, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 12, 20 and 30c of the present issue. Also a few Lexington-Concord issue, 1, 2, and 5c, that were on hand. The Osborne Specialty Co. holds the only permit in Camden for these stamps and we are using them up principally on packages of pencils going to the small retail merchants throughout the country, after the goods are ordered by the wholesaler serving the territory."

Nashville, Tenn.—Some months ago I inquired for the reason why there appeared on Nashville precancels, in the new type, vertical lines between the bar intervals. At that time I suggested that probably the new style precancels were produced from set up type and not an electroplate. Mr. L. M. Bare of Nashville confirms this opinion and writes as follows: "Dr. W. J. O'Callaghan, the Postmaster at Nashville, says that he believes the post office to be a business proposition, and when run properly to be one of the greatest assets of the Nashville business man. To carry out his ideas he has set up a printing press in the main post office and issues a printed letter at frequent intervals conveying special ideas and features wherein the P. O. may be used as an advertising medium. This, it seems, has proven very beneficial to the P. O. here, as for the past quarter Nashville showed the greatest increase of any of 50 selected cities. But to get to stamps: this same press is used for precancelling purposes; type being set up, and the vertical hair-lines of which you make mention, are caused by the spacing bars being too high. All stamps precancelled in this office now have those lines."

Bloomfield, N. J.—Don't discard the 2c Bloomfield Bureau coil, because it has a postmarking in addition to the regular overprint. The reason for this is that these stamps are all used on first class matter and must be postmarked. As there has been much misunderstanding in regard to the regulation permitting the use of precancels upon first class mail, I consider it in order to reproduce the following at this time:

Use of Precancelled stamps on First Class matter. As published in U. S. Official Postal Guide, monthly supplement, dated Sept., 1924:—

"Precancelled postage stamps may be used on first class matter by persons and concerns specially authorized to use such stamps on matter of that class in the manner indicated below.

Any person desiring to use such stamps on first class matter should file an application with the postmaster at the post office of mailing, showing the average number of pieces to be mailed daily, weekly, monthly, etc. The application shall be forwarded by the postmaster to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Classification.

On receipt of the department's authorization the postmaster will issue a permit to the applicant to use precancelled stamps on first class matter and accept first class mailings bearing such stamps under the following conditions:

(a) The date of mailing, in connection with lines similar to those used in a cancellation postmark, shall be placed by the mailer on each piece of first class matter.

(b) To facilitate the handling of the matter in the mails the mailer must comply with the requests of the postmaster for the facing and separation thereof into states, cities, etc., and present the matter at such place as the postmaster may designate.

Postmasters will please bring this matter to the attention of all persons using uncancelled stamps in coils on first class matter and advise them that for their future needs the department will, in cases where the quantity mailed is sufficient to make the use of precancelled stamps advantageous, furnish two-cent precancelled stamps in coils which they may use on their first class matter after obtaining permission therefor in the manner above set forth, thus expediting the handling of their first class matter."

I am indebted to Mr. H. S. Wheeler for the above information, who sends for inspection a cover from the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co. of Boston, bearing a precancelled 2c coil stamp, and a regular oval cancellation showing date of mailing, etc. There are seven wavy lines to complete the marking. Mr. Wheeler states that this is the only firm in Boston with a permit to use precancelled stamps on first class mail. The canceller is especially made for this firm and must be used over the stamp.

Conclusion—The editor will be pleased to render any desired assistance to collectors along the line of precancelled stamps. Universal Style Charts, showing the various styles of electroplate, handstamped, Bureau, and other precancellations, will be furnished for sixteen cents. Address all matters concerning precancels direct to the editor of this department.

3pf to the 1 mark denomination and will consist of stamps showing the heads of famous poets, musicians, etc. (Goethe, Schiller, Beethoven).

GUATEMALA.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise us of the following new items for this country: 1p 50c blue, portrait of Just Rufino Barrios, printed by Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., of London, and 5p brown violet, in the type of Scott's A63.

ITALIAN SOMALILAND.—The Economist Stamp Co. report that the 1L 25c blue, Victor Emanuel commemorative stamp has been surcharged "Somalia Italiana" in two lines in black.

Also the 75c red, 1L 25c blue, 2L 50c orange and black and orange and black Lira due, in the type of the Italy A46, as surcharged for use in the colony with the usual two lines "Somalia Italiana."

LIBIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the two special delivery stamps of 1924 have been surcharged as noted above under Eritrea. The overprint is the same value and type.

OLTRE GIUBA.—The Economist Stamp Co. call our attention to the 1L 25c blue, Victor Emanuel commemorative stamp of Italy, which has been surcharged "Oltre Giuba" in black for use in this colony.

The current 75c red, 1L 25c blue and 2L 50c orange and black, of Italy, have been surcharged for use in this colony.

PERU.—We have received from the Economist Stamp Co. the 5c Tacna y Arica design in yellow green.

TRIPOLITANIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 1L 25c blue Victor Emanuel commemorative stamp with the surcharge "Tripolitania" in black.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Mr. R. Roberts informs us of the 3p blue, postage due stamp, redrawn, local print, no watermark, perf. 14. Heretofore this has only been issued in the De la Rue printing watermarked Springbok.

HERE AND THERE:—

WE are advised that D. H. Bacon of Derby, Conn., a former dealer and philatelic printer and well known to the fraternity, is in the hospital undergoing an operation. Mr. Bacon is over seventy years of age.

WE are indebted to H. R. Peterson, Harlan, Iowa, for a clipping from the Des Moines Sunday Register Magazine of August 8. It is a half-page feature, finely illustrated, and gives the particulars connected with the Highland Park Stamp Club of that city. The article is attractively written and displayed and makes a good publicity feature.

IF any of our readers know the present address of A. R. Werner, 148 E. 92 St., N. Y. City, it would be greatly appreciated by Benedith Prieth, Avon, N. J. This party is reported as having left the address given and cannot now be located.

W. J. REED, 1134 Illinois Ave., Dormont, Pittsburgh, Pa., will be very pleased to show his artistic, newly remounted U. S. collection to any local collectors who may wish to see the same. It is in two volumes, arranged along novel lines and in many colors. Mr. Reed is proud of some U. S. S. Mayflower covers recently obtained upon a visit to Washington.

A NEW book on British North America is announced by Fred Jarrett of Toronto. The manuscript for the book was awarded a gold medal at the Montreal Exhibition last year. It will consist of 300 pages and there will be nearly a thousand cuts in addition to exhaustive notes. Postal stationery, revenues, proofs and essays will be listed. Price $2.50. We shall give the book a review notice when issued.

IN a recent issue Harry E. Huber in an article upon the Canal Zone Sesqui-Centennial issue stated that July 6 was probably the first date of issue. Mr. Huber said that sales were authorized July 4 but on account of the double holiday no post-offices would be open for business until Tuesday, July 6. Fernald Hutchins has shown us a cover postmarked Balboa, July 4, and we quote from his letter:—"While it is probable that most offices did not commence using this stamp until July 6, the office at Balboa was open for duty on July 4 and actually used this stamp. I have also seen a letter from the postmaster at Balboa in which he states that his office was open for business on that day."

AN advertising label has been issued by the Swedish Philatelic Society exploiting the Exhibition to be held in Stockholm September 17-20. The dates 1886-1926 would seem to indicate the long life of this standard society. Thanks to B. Thorsen for sample submitted.

A NEW STAMP ASKED FOR

(Several subscribers have sent in the following clipping. T. R. Hungerford of Washington accompanies his with a further clipping from the Washington "Post" showing a group of representatives from patriotic organizations calling on Postmaster General New in advocacy of the "Old Ironsides" stamp.—Ed.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—The frigate Constitution—"Old Ironsides" of song and story—will be commemorated by a special two-cent stamp if Postmaster-General New heeds the pleas of representatives of 20 patriotic organizations.

Headed by Mrs. Noble Newport Potts, president of the National Patriotic Council, the delegation also requested the department to place in use a cancellation stamp bearing the legend, "Save Old Ironsides." The organizations are aiding in raising $500,000 to recondition the famous "battle-wagon" of revolutionary days and believe that a special stamp and cancellation legend would create interest in the effort.

A. ODFJELL, FAMOUS NORWEGIAN PHILATELIST

Will Serve As One of the Judges at the International Exhibition at New York

By W. T. WILSON.

MR. ODFJELL is one of the most charming of philatelists, with a widely travelled experience from the time his father at the age of 25 years, appointed him captain of one of his steamers on the Mexican coast. Mr. Odfjell is now in his 45th year and he has been a collector since 1891. He resides at Minde, Norway.

His particular speciality is his superb collection of Norway, notable for its wealth in entire sheets, enriched by the purchase of the Senator Ackerman collection of unused, as well as the "Leavy" collection of used. He is now working at the reconstruction of the plates, values of the 1856-57 issue, of which no entire sheets are known.

AFGHANISTAN.—Having acquired the world famous collection of Afghanistan, formed by the late Sir D. P. Masson, who was practically on the spot for a long number of years, Mr. Odfjell has so enlarged and extended it, both in entire sheets and on covers, that it may be considered the finest known. First exhibited at the Brussels International Philatelic Exhibition in 1924, where it obtained a silver gilt medal, in a class in which it was overshadowed by a very famous collection of Egypt. Moreover, there is a possibility that the importance and completeness of this Afghanistan collection was not thoroughly appreciated by the judges. At Montreal it secured a Gold Medal and the very high commendation of that experienced judge of these different stamps, Mr. Charles J. Phillips.

MEXICO.—He has travelled a good deal in Mexico with his charming wife, hence its stamps have won their way to his favor. He has specialized in that most interesting section, Guadalajara, of which his recent article on the sub-offices and postmarks in the Collectors Club Philatelist is a fruit.

Turning from his hobby to pastime we find that he wields a hefty salmon rod on his great river in Norway—"Gaular"—the salmon fly being his favorite lure.

A Cover Bargain

I handle thousands of old U. S. original covers every year, with the more common varieties in predominance, of course. Many of us remember when the 3c 1851 were considered almost worthless even on cover, but all of us now know what specialists have done for that stamp. I hate to think what I would be tempted to offer a man for 1000 unpicked 3c 1851 covers!

I believe other stamps — now common — have good futures—but my safe and storage capacity seems to be taxed to the limit and so I am making an offer you can't lose on.

For MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

INITIATION INTO PHILATELY

By Bill Bloss.

V—Cancellations and Their Place in Philately

After considerable neglect by philatelists for a number of years, the subject of cancellations and postal markings is finally coming into its own.

Some of my readers will laugh at this statement, and will say that cancellations have certainly arrived, judging from the prices that are now being charged for common stamps with rare obliterations. However, considering the long period of time in which little or no attention was paid to cancellations, and the fact that countless foreign cancellations of equal merit to our "paid" and "steamboat" markings can still be bought without premium, we are inclined to think that cancellations are only commencing to arrive.

It is surprising how little attention is paid to cancellations by the average collector, even those most interested in used stamps. Many collectors are satisfied to get a single copy of a used stamp, and as long as it is used, they do not care how it is used.

About ten years ago, when extreme specialization of the common U. S. stamps commenced generally, much attention began to be paid to cancellations, though even the rarities commanded little in price. The writer recalls a beautiful copy of the 24c 1857 with Supplementary Mail in oval frame in blue, which he purchased in a New York sale for $3.60 and finally, after considerable argument on his part, "landed" on ye Editor of Mekeel's at the modest price of $5.10, said Editor passing remarks having to do with highway robbery, and we personally know that he did buy the stamp out of the goodness of his heart, rather than because it would be worth $59 to-day. We hope he still has it, but it has probably gone on its way into some big collection.

At about the same time, we were favored with an opportunity to go through a hundred thousand unpicked, and these were really unpicked, three cent greens and kindred stamps. Out of every thousand, we found a few "paid", some nice colored, letters, numbers, and once in a while a "forward" and "steam" and railroad. We sold the commoner varieties at a nickel, but we could not sell the rare ones at more than a dime for some years, and then they went like hot cakes. To-day we could ask two or three dollars for some of them, without blushing or dropping any extra change in the Conscience Fund. This merely to show how cancellations have increased in value in the past ten years.

Cancellations play an important part in the study of stamps, and because of this fact, deserve all the attention a collector can give them. The dated marks fix indelibly the time of use, and in some cases, are extremely valuable in recording the history of issuance and use of the stamp. The odd cancellations are interesting in themselves, and because they tell of customs of the postal service and of the times in which the stamp was used.

Foreign cancellations are quite as worthy of study as United States cancellations, but many collectors are still unaware of this fact. The wise are buying up the good ones and salting them away, awaiting the day when they will cash in by selling to the fellows who are letting them slip through their fingers.

Foreign cancellations are even more valuable to the collector than United States markings. All United States postage stamps are postage stamps solely, while many foreign issues are available for fiscal, telegraph and telephone use, and in many cases the cancellation is the sole means of identifying the stamp as a postage stamp, or of condemning it as being a misfit in a postage stamp collection. A stamp used postally may be quite rare, but very common as a telegraph or fiscal. The student of cancellations can distinguish, while the ignorant pays the postage price for the fiscal.

By the same means, it is often possible to identify a genuine postally canceled specimen from a canceled-to-order variety. The postally canceled stamp may be rare, and should command a higher price than the canceled-to-order stamp. Here again the man who knows, profits.

The demand of specialists for U. S. cancellations is beginning to be reflected in the foreign stamps, and we prophesy that the next ten years will see some fancy prices attached to foreign stamps with meritorious cancellations. Certainly, in the case of the smaller countries, particularly the African, Asiatic, and insular countries and colonies, the small town cancellations are rare and well worth saving.

The collector interested in some particular group or country, for instance Congo, Sudan, Bolivia, West Indies, will find fun and profit by securing a large map of his pet country, studying it for the small towns, and learning which towns do a big postal business and which do not. He will soon learn to consider a common stamp with town cancellation from some little bush village as being a real rarity, and can make a nice collection by study and watchfulness.

It is surprising what the cancellation hunter can find in going through a mixture of ordinary stamps. Many countries use railroad, steamboat, and travelling post office markings for these branches of the service, and a little careful study soon reveals them. What real collector would not get a thrill from finding a "T. P. O." on his ordinary Sierra Leone penny stamp, or a "paquebot" (packet-boat — an obliteration in wide use in the smaller countries, and even on late U. S.) on a common West Indian stamp? He would be dead indeed if he could not stir his imagination with

International Philatelic Exhibition

Every American philatelist of course will try to attend the Exhibition in New York in October, the greatest philatelic show of all time. Uncle Sam is going to have a branch Philatelic Stamp Agency and is going to print and sell right there the 2c Sesqui stamps in a special sheet of 25 stamps. If you cannot "make" the Show, let me send you one of these sheets by mail. One dollar will bring one to you, together with some interesting reading matter about the Agency.

I shall be at Booth Number 7 at the Exhibition to show you a few First Day Covers.

AS IS

Mr. Harry M. Konwiser writes us from his rustic retreat at Camp Wadsworth, New York, to ask why a collection consisting of all the cancellations in use in the U. S. in 1915 or 1920 or 1925, when, is not a commendable one. The markings on low priced stamps may be used to prepare and complete a collection of this sort. The simple idea in collecting when backed by a flavor of the historical is gaining in favor.

Mr. Gustave de Lachasse, France, who arrived in New York City some time ago, has completed his trip to Oakland, California. He will return to New York in time for the Exhibition. Mr. de Lachasse has many friends in this country who follow the movements of this veteran collector with interest.

Here is how one of the umpires in the philatelic league puts it: "A single stamp issued to celebrate something of (vague) history is not like issuing a set, a la some foreign lands!"

That redoubtable editor, Mr. H. L. Lindquist, specialist in Norway, and a member of the convention committee of the A.P.S. is wooing nature in the Adirondacks, where thought of "copy" and men do not disturb his slumbers sweet. We trust that his pay goes on while he rests as it is the first vacation that he has had in years.

Mr. K. W. Hecht, Romona, California, sends for inspection copies of the 10c orange and blue Guatemala, No. 118, with the surcharge "specimen" showing variations, one of which is "speciman."

The Advance Sheets are coming on the air and about half of them have been received, the "M's" having been reached. It is safe to say that the catalogue will appear on time.

An important new volume is announced for September 1st, on the stamps of British North America, by Fred Jarrett. The work of three hundred pages with many cuts and exhaustive notes is promised and attention will be concentrated on the cancellations, postmarks and minor varieties. All stamps, including minor varieties, will be priced.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

Dr. Wm. Evans, Editor,
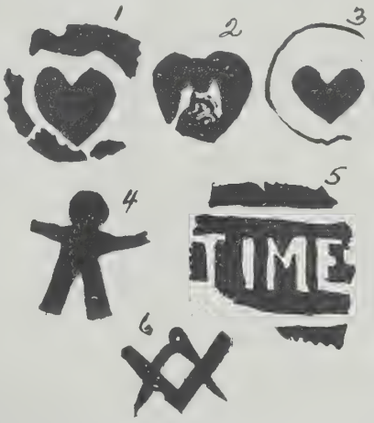
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)



Nos. 1, 2, 3, hearts on 3c green, No. 4, ginger-bread man on 3c green. No. 5—who can tell us anything about this one? It's on a 3c green. No. 6, Masonic, also on 3c green but as the cancellation is red it's rare and very attractive.

Nos. 2, 4, 5, 6, were sent by Mr. K. N. Woodward.

Mr. J. E. Spanmeth sends a little lot of 3c green covers, pieces, and loose stamps. Among the covers are three postmarked Ward, Nevada, in blue. An adhesive dated "Jun 28 1877" and a stamped envelope dated "Jul 16 1877" have a round postmark and are cancelled with Targets, but a stamped envelope dated "Dec 21 1877" shows a change to an octagonal postmark and a magenta open star in a circle on the stamp.

Two covers from Hamilton, Nevada, both dated Dec. 16, 1879, have a single adhesive, and a strip of three, each cancelled by a solid star in a circle.

A piece shows a stamped envelope cancelled by an eight-pointed star in magenta. The star is crossed by parallel lines something like the one used at Glen Allen, Va. Postmark reads "bury Park" "w Jersey" Aug. 14, 1877. Of course everyone knows that town is Asbury Park.

Off cover we have a large purple round block with a big open figure two in the center. Not often seen in purple.

A double cancellation, consisting of a neat Maltese Cross and a bull's eye on the same stamp. Probably from a forwarded letter.

The initials R. K. N. with five lines above and presumably the same number below. Each line shorter than the one below. No doubt the initials of a postmaster. Not an uncommon practice in those days.

A nice blue Lehigh Valley R. R. Mahonoy, Pa., Dec. 10, 1877 cancellation squarely on the stamp.

A blur on the chin of G. W. making it look as if he had decided to wear whiskers. Another blur, and a big one, completely obliterating the word cents, and all the engraved detail in the lower right corner of the stamp. Carelessness!

A heavy line on the neck of the vignette, and a damaged "T" in "Three," may indicate damages to the plates. More about things of this kind later on.

A shift of the whole upper part of the stamp, which gradually lessens in intensity toward the bottom, is a very interesting item. A 2c 1883 showing a peculiar condition of the hair back of the ear, making it look as if some sort of ornament were there, is another item sent. Has anyone a duplicate of this? It is extremely odd.

Mr. S. J. Hoens sent a little booklet full of nice items. Most of them are 3c P. O. Dept. stamped envelopes cut square. They are cancelled by stars of various designs in blue, purple or black, and are really attractive.

Then there are three pages of 3c green adhesives with colored cancellations, among them being one of those elaborate monograms which Mr. Atherton showed us a few weeks ago, in magenta and some unusual stars and crosses.

From Judge Benners come two covers bearing postmarks which are new to me, though perhaps others have seen them before. The stamps are 2c 1895. The postmark is a large circle. At the top are the words "Collect'n & Dist'n Wash'n. D. C." in two lines following the curve, "Nov. 27" between the W and C, below this "Trip 5," and following the lower curve "Wagon No. 1" The date "97" is between the postmark and the obliterator, and the latter is an ellipse of bars with the figure 1 in a circle in the center. The second cover differs only in the date, May 27, and it is "Trip 6" and "98."

In the same lot is a 3c green from Clarion, Wright Co., Iowa, Aug. 9, 1881. If this isn't in Mr. Bates' list you can add it.

Then there is a cover from San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 31. No year and no stamp. Possibly, perhaps that ought to be probably, a letter sent at the time of the earthquake, when stamps were not obtainable.

Mr. George W. Corwin sends an example of an advertising scheme which is quite novel and striking. The stamp is a 2c brown stamped envelope cut square. It is surrounded by a square of heavy lines. The angles of the square are filled with horizontal lines. The square is bordered by a white band. Then comes a blue frame, bearing in white letters the inscription at the top, "The Mutual," at the right, "Life Ins. Company," at the left, "of New York" and at the bottom, "Richard A. McCurdy, Pres." In each top angle is a small white ornament.

A FINE OPPORTUNITY occurs to obtain choice early BRITISH COLONIAL STAMPS in superb condition. They can be selected from at under ½ catalogue. Also EDWARDIAN AND GEORGIAN issues, either mint or superb used, mostly at ½ catalogue. Approval, references.

Outside this frame is another white band, and then the outside frame line. It was probably printed on the stamped envelopes after they were purchased from the government, and the combination of the brown stamp with the blue of the advertisement is very attractive. (Due to postal regulations this cannot be illustrated.—Ed.)

Mr. C. R. Hurd reports a cover addressed to Hanover, Germany, on which the postage was paid by a 15c orange and a 2c vermilion of the 1871 issue and a 3c 1869 re-issue. That's a mighty uncommon combination for very few of the reissue of the 1869 stamps were used.

Mr. J. W. Sampson also reports some very unusual and interesting covers. One has a 7c vermilion with a strip of three 2c vermilion used to pay the postage and registration fee on a domestic letter, in 1875. Another has a 7c and 15c on a cover to India which was the rate at that time. Another to India has a 7c and a 6c which is nine cents less than it should be. Can anyone give us an explanation?

Mr. Sampson also describes two pieces of covers, which at present writing are about as rare as Alexandria Postmaster's provisionals, though perhaps not quite as valuable. One has a 7c National with a 12c 1869 and the other a 7c National with a 3c 1861, in each instance the stamps being tied by a cross roads cancellation.

Another of Mr. Sampson's prizes is a 7c with a cancellation somewhat resembling that used on the "Bomba Heads" of Sicily. You know, a fancy frame which doesn't obliterate the medallion. Has anyone a similar cancellation on any other stamp of this series?

A 2c vermilion on a 3c Centennial green stamped envelope is another of Mr. Sampson's nice items.

QUEENSLAND

By C. A. HOWES.

The first plate prepared from the new die was naturally the 2d, as that required no alteration. The stamp was issued August 1, 1882, on the "Crown Q" watermarked paper and perforated 12, as was the previous issue. The 6d was next prepared, being issued November 6th; the 1d followed on November 23d, a period being placed after the value. The 1s appeared on February 6, 1883, and the set was completed by the 4d on April 18th. Between 1882 and 1889 several new plates of the 1d and 2d were prepared, that of the 1d in 1887 having no period after the value, and having the shading on the throat cut away from the vertical line at the left, leaving a narrow white space to the right of the throat line. This latter alteration was probably made on the die, as the 2d appeared with it at about the same time, while a new 2s stamp prepared from the die and issued on March 19, 1889, shows the same variety. This latter stamp superseded the large 2s blue, as the value was much in demand and was somewhat slow and expensive to produce by the steel plate process. A scarce perforation, 9½ by 12, is found on the 1d, 2d and 1s of the first die variety and the 2d of the second. In 1890 a new perforating machine of the "comb" type was procured with a gauge of 12½ to 13, which has been in use since that time.

The shades of color found in the 1d range from pale yellow to vermilion, and on March 4, 1887, the Postmaster-General complained of the varying shades of both the 1d and 2d and threatened to refuse them unless they were printed in the approved colors. The official explanation of the cause was simple. The color of the 1d was supposed to be vermilion, made from "cinnabar" or sulphide of mercury, but there was a chemical reaction between this substance and the copper of the electrotype which caused the ink to change color more or less after printing. With the 1896 and subsequent issues the electrotypes were given a thin coating of silver, which prevented the copper coming in contact with and affecting the printing ink.

On January 1, 1891, the postage to the United Kingdom was reduced to 2½d per half ounce letter, so that both ½d and 2½d stamps were called for. The Government Engraver used the Queen's profile of the Bradbury Wilkinson die but engraved a different frame for each value, the ½d having the longer dimension horizontal. The ½d was issued December 19, 1890, and the 2½ on December 9, 1890. On April 4, 1892, a 3d value was issued, prepared as before from the second variety of the die. This superseded the 4d value. It may be remarked that all values prepared from this second variety of the die show one stamp in each block of four used in making up the plate with the "LA" in "QUEENSLAND" joined together.

In 1892 revenue stamps were again reverted to as the following notice announces:—"On and after 1st July, 1892, all duties hitherto payable in Interchangeable Postage and Duty Stamps must be denoted by Duty Stamps only (new issue) with the exception of the One Penny Stamp which may be used as heretofore for either Postage or Duty purposes." The new revenues were "long" stamps and were never authorized for postal duty. They began with 6d, so when in 1894 an insurance fee of 3d was imposed in certain cases, the 3d postage stamp was used temporarily. The 3d duty stamp was issued on November 28, 1894, when official notice reaffirmed the fact that the 1d stamp only was interchangeable as postage or duty. Finally, in consequence of the formation of the Australian Commonwealth, which took over the postal systems of the six states while the local revenues of the state remained their own, a new 1d duty stamp was issued on January 1, 1901, when it was announced that "the Penny Postage Stamp shall not be available for other than Postal purposes."

Toward the end of 1894 the re watermarked paper ran short and ings of the 1d and 2d stamps were upon the thick "beer duty" paper large watermark that was being use the large shilling stamps. A quantity of the 1s (30,000) was printed on this paper, as well as th (114,000). The 1d and 2d were January 16, 1895 (1,041,000 and 8 respectively), the ½d on August 7th the 1s on October 15th. Supplies 1d proving insufficient, a further pri (420,000) was made on unwaterm paper and a burelé band lithograph blue across the back of each hori row of stamps. This was issued ruary 19th, and the ½d printed same manner (171,600) on Augus The ½d was again printed on a unwatermarked paper with the "Q" embossed (240,000) and issue August 10th, 1895. Early in 1896 same paper had to be used for th (1,560,000) which was issued on ruary 25th, and the 2d was likewise p on it in limited number (30,000) b parently was not issued, and then by take, until 1899.

Toward the end of 1894 it wa nounced that a modification of the of the stamps from ½d to 2s wa pending, to consist in the removal background of lines surrounding head. This portion of the design to be left plain in order to rende postmark more conspicuous, as it said that lightly cancelled stamps frequently being used a second The first stamp so modified was t which appeared in February, 1895 lowed by the ½d on May 11th an 2d on June 19th. In September stamp was issued, similar to the with figures in lower corners but white background; and the 2½d white bacground followed it in June. The next modification to be under was to add figures to the lower co of the stamps without them, and t appeared thus in September, 1896. 6d stamp was being made ready i manner when it was countermanded, had finally been decided to place nu als in all four corners of the s Proofs of the 6d with numerals in corners only had been taken, and s parties have declared they have cancelled copies, though others deny this can be so.

The stamps with numerals in all corners (and with white backgroun the profile in those not previously i thus) began their appearance wit 2d in April, 1897. The 1d follow August; the 6d in April, 1898; t in September; the ½d, 2½d (carr and 3d in October; the 2½d, lilac on in January, 1899; the 1s in July; the large single numeral, and 5d in Oct and the 2s in February, 1900.

In 1898, in order to perforate the value stamps by a quicker process officials tried a "form" made up of zig-zag or saw-tooth rule which w "roulette" the sheet at one impre As the impression did not show well when "registering" the sheets "rule" was inked at first until p alignment was made. Thus some s show the rouletting in black, or ever orless and black where a sheet had put through twice. The 1d only experimented on and was issued in vember, 1898; but as they did not rate readily, public disapproval prompt and emphatic and they were withdrawn. About the middle of uary, 1899, some 2500 sheets of the letted stamps were perforated and issued, causing the "rouletted and 13" varieties.

On July 4, 1903, appeared the 9d s in what was supposed to be the runner of a general Commonwealt

, the name of the state to be inserted the bottom. It had a companion in w South Wales, but the idea went no ther. The stamps were prepared in lbourne and printed on "V and Crown" er, being perforated 12½. There are varieties in the size of the word ueensland." In 1906 it was printed "Crown and double-lined A" paper. n September, 1906, the 2d appeared re-engraved form, the portrait having n altered; and a second re-engraving, in upon the portrait, appeared in ril, 1908. The salient points of differe are: Original—diadem, back hair point of bust do not touch oval frame ; 1st re-engraving — they all touch; re-engraving—diadem only does not ch and forehead not shaded. The t re-engraving comes watermarked h "Crown Q" and "Crown and single-ed A," but the second comes with the er watermark only.

Because of the wearing of the old tes, the 5s and £1 were printed from iographic transfers in 1906 on the rown Q" paper used sideways, thus ing two watermarks to a stamp.

Beginning in 1907 the series began to printed on the "Crown and single-ed A" paper, the 2s 6d and 10s being ded in lithographed form like the 5s d £1, and a new 4d like the ½d of 1898 ng issued in 1909. Following the is- of the first Australian Commonalth stamp on January 2, 1913, the neral issue gradually superseded the ate's issues.

The so-called "Charity Stamps" were ued during the Boer War of 1900 to the Patriotic Fund for the wounded d dependents of the victims, as Queensld sent several contingents to South rica. The Post Office notice of June 1900, announcing them says: "A ecial Issue of Postage Stamps of the minal value of One Penny and Twonce, to be sold at Sixpence and One illing respectively, for the benefit of e Patriotic Fund of Queensland, is now sale at this [Brisbane] and all other ncipal Post Offices in the Colony . . ese stamps can be used for Inland stage only, if desired." The stamps re oblong, of about the size of two dinary stamps, the 1d being upright d the 2d having the longer dimension rizontal. They were lithographed in eets of sixty on the ordinary paper, so at each has two watermarks, the 2d ving them upright and the 1d sideways. he numbers printed were 6,500 1d and 920 2d, of which approximately 4,000 the former and 3,000 of the latter re sold.—New England Stamp Monthly.

CANADIAN POSTAL DOINGS

J. Avery Wells of the Home of the Postage Stamp writes us from Ottawa, Ont., under date of August 16, as follows:—

"I made a call upon the Philatelic Agency here in Ottawa this morning to buy our supply of the new commemoratives which were announced for today, August 16. Owing to a change in the government since the authorization and also the uncertainty over the coming elections, the date of issue has been postponed. The stamps may come out at any time. They may not come out until after the election, and they may be suppressed altogether.

I was shown sheets of the three stamps, the 5c with the portrait of McGee, which is really the one over which there is question, the 12c green with portraits of Baldwin and La Fontain, and the 20c carmine with Laurier and McDonald. The 5c stamp is of the same size as the current issue and the 12c and 20c are of the size of the Queen Victoria Jubilee. The Agency is really very much embarrassed over this uncertainty, over which it has no control.

I learned also that the current 3c, both regular perforation and some that were printed for coils, are to be overprinted '2 CENTS' to use up the supply. About ninety million of these will be overprinted. The envelopes have already been thus overprinted."

We are greatly obliged to the manager of the firm for this information.

LOOKING ROUND

By "MARQUETTE".

With reference to Mr. Stanley Phillips' remarks re market correspondents, in his article in the June M. J., I may say frankly that I am a member of the Gibbons staff, but that in these notes I try to give readers unbiased information. The value of my hints can easily be judged as time goes on, but, like all those who try to forecast market tendencies, I must admit that I do not expect all my "tips" to be "winners."

Regarding the Malta "POSTAGE" series, La Revue Postale publishes the "official figures" on the authority of M. Gisquière. The source of these official figures is not stated, and, while not intending to imply doubt of the good faith of those supplying or publishing such figures, I would remind readers that the only absolutely sure guide is an official statement published in an official publication, or obtained at a later date from the archives. I give the figures quoted, as likely to be of interest:

¼d, 120,000; ½d, 160,000; 1d, 80,000; 1½d, 160,000; 2d, 80,000; 2½d, 240,000; 3d, 160,000; 4d, 24,000; 6d, 80,000; 1s, 48,000; 2s, 8,000; 2s 6d, 8,000; 5s, 16,000; 10s, 24,000. The possibility of further printings being made of some values must not be lost sight of, even if these figures are assumed to be correct.

As regards the 2s, a reliable correspondent states that he himself saw 2,400 copies sold at the G. P. O. alone, between 9 and 10.30 on the day of issue, and that, taking into consideration sales effected between 7 and 9 o'clock, and the filling of requisitions, he considers the number sold is very much greater than has yet been stated in print.

A stamp worth picking up is the 4d Due, of Australian Commonwealth, with the narrow watermark, Type 6. This stamp has been obsolete for some time. Two "foreigners" of which I hear good reports are Holland 17½c, mauve, Queen's portrait, issued in 1906, and the current 25 öre, scarlet, of Norway, in the Lion type. This type is to be withdrawn, and the 25 öre has not been in great demand, so that used copies should be better than the other values.

A market correspondent of a contemporary states that the 2d, New Zealand, with the litho. "watermark," should be worth something like 2s 6d. I see that our Publishers still price it at 9d. Our readers must use their own judgment as to whether it is worth buying. I know, at any rate, that "391" only got about a third of the quantity it asked for, and that they are selling quickly.

The four values of the engraved series of Persia (portrait of ex-Shah) with "Pehlevi" overprint, have been withdrawn, and I am reliably informed that they are fetching about ten times face in Teheran. I do not think many have reached this country.

A Greek dealer tells me that he has to buy stamps of Crete for his stock, in Paris, and even then finds it very difficult to get any. All the remainders were used up for the Greek revolutionary overprint of 1922. Crete is an interesting little country and its stamps are very attractive. I should not be surprised to see prices rise before long. It would not need a very big demand to make them do so.

With the change now taking place in the current series of India, it will be advisable to fill up one's gaps in the Georgian issues of this country and the Convention States. There are numerous shades in the Indian series, which make a very good show in the album. I find a very brisk demand for Indian Native States stamps, not only from collectors in England and India, but from abroad. The pricing of this group seems to have been neglected in the catalogue for several years, but I do not expect that condition to obtain much longer. When the move does take place, there is no doubt of its direction.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

EDITORIAL

A number of readers mailed us the clipping sent our newspapers by the Associated Press under the date line of August 12th, telling of the possibility of the issue of another commemorative stamp to celebrate the frigate, "Constitution," which is enshrined in the affections of Americans. It is said that if the Postmaster General heeds the petitions of numerous patriotic organizations, the special two cent stamp as a tribute to Old Ironsides will be forthcoming. There certainly is one commemorative in the offing to mark the 150th anniversary of the Battle of White Plains and now comes the probability of another.

Our Washington correspondent, whose information is so welcome and authoritative, even though his identity may not be divulged, sends a few comments inspired by the latest news, which will not be received with loud huzzas by collectors, as a rule. He says: "The newspapers have been telling of another commemorative that will bring the frigate, Constitution, into public notice and collectors will have something to augment their temperature at a time when cool breezes are in demand. There will be the expected arguments on the effect of commemoratives on philately and there will be much said by the adherents of either side of the question. Taking into consideration the position of the opponents of the issues among collectors, have they ever given weight to the position of the post office department? The pressure that may be wielded by an organized movement for a stamp that is based on what in a public sense is not an unreasonable request is not lightly ignored." We suppose that our correspondent could say more but contents himself by letting us read between the lines.

While we really know little about the wire-pulling that may attend campaigns for special stamps, it is not to be denied that forces set in motion by those who petition for the commemorative stamp are not to be unheeded. We know, however, that any new issue means added work for the department and it is suspected that left to its own devices, the post office people would find enough to occupy their time and energy with the regular issues. If the great public reacts to the commemorative issues favorably, our guess is that they will be continued, as numerically, the objectors among the collectors do not stack high alongside of the people as a whole. When the public cries, "Enough," the commemorative will lose its potency as a reminder historically, or otherwise.

We have received the following observations on the comparative rarity of the TEN cents Confederate, catalogue number 208, and the 10c Confederate with outer or frame lines, No. 209, from Mr. Edward S. Knapp, whose studies of the issues of the Confederacy have rescued many interesting details of the stamps from obscurity. Mr. Knapp writes: "Ask almost any collector of Confederates which of these stamps is the rarer canceled and the answer will be, 'Why, the Outer Line, of course,' but I have my doubts that the answer is correct. It has been my hope to reconstruct the plates of both of these stamps, some day. Mr. Ashbrook and I have been working together on the plating of the Outer Line for several years and during that time, I have been working myself on the plating of the TEN, so I have opportunities of seeing a good many of both stamps and have kept a record of each. The Outer Line unused is very rare indeed, while one frequently finds the TEN unused. Of their comparative rarity, unused, there is no question; the Outer Line is rarer ten to one, possibly. Now let us consider the used copies. Just to start an argument, I assert that a canceled TEN is as rare (if not rarer) as a canceled Outer Line. My record of used copies as singles is about even. We have the record of some ten used pairs of the TEN canceled. We have a list of some ten used pairs of the Outer Line. I have seen only three pairs of the TEN canceled. We have records of strips of 3, 4, 5 and 6, used, in the Outer Line. Who has seen anything larger than a pair of canceled TEN's? I have seen just one strip of the kind, a strip of seven. I have never seen a vertical used pair of the TEN, which hardly seems possible, does it? Yet, how many have you seen, Mr. Reader? We have a record of just two vertical used pairs in the Outer Line. I hope to be told that I am wrong and that is my object in writing this article, but anyone who tells me so, must prove his case by showing me used pieces of the TEN cents that have not yet come to light. My address is: 158 East 64th Street, New York City." It will be interesting to know whether any of our readers will be able to refute the findings of Mr. Knapp, which are based on practical experience, so to say, with the stamps.

A reader in Pasadena, California, writes: "I have just come across the following, from a recent issue of the WEEKLY, which I should like to call to your attention: 'The Philatelic Journal of India states on official authority that no stamps overprinted 'Koweit' were either issued or printed. The numerous rumors regarding the existence of such stamps must therefore be set aside as false.' (Reprinted from Stamp Collecting.) I am at a loss to account for this statement, several British dealers having seen the Koweit stamps; also, some time ago, a complete set was put up for auction in London, and according to Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, 'Ordinary and Service stamps with overprint Koweit were prepared for use but were not issued'." Here, it would seem that we have arrived at an impasse, inasmuch as the Philatelic Journal of India is recognized as an authority and Gibbons' catalogue admittedly is founded on philatelic fact. If we had to make a decision in this instance, we should say that the stamps existed, even though they were never issued. Competent witnesses have declared in favor of the physical existence of the two long sets, which are placed and priced in Gibbons.

A reader invites attention to his query, which is to the effect: "When were stamps on the covers or envelopes first collected?" This is a question that does not allow of a definite answer, we should say, because almost from the beginning of philatelic time, certain stamps, such as U. S. locals, were preferred when attached to the missives on which they paid the postage. In correspondence with the late John F. Seybold, renowned as a collector of stamps on original, he said that he was attracted early in his collecting career to stamps of the kind and he expressed the opinion that "in time" he would have plenty of company in his field. However, it is not remembered when he first began to obtain his stamps on covers, but in the '80's he was in field. Mr. Edgar F. Nelton had amas many interesting covers by about 18 and from this time, the original co enthusiast has been with us in suffici number to make his presence felt. early as 1868, a New Jersey collector peared in the field, soliciting U. S. loc for which he offered other stamps exchange and he said that he "wo like them on the original letters on wh sent." It may be said that almost soon as collecting became somewhat g eral, a few stamp lovers saw that in case of stamps such as U. S. and C federate locals, their interest and desi bility were enhanced by their close as ciation with the covers, even thou there was the underlying thought t the correspondence that bore them tenc to authenticate the stamps.

A Few More Subscriptions Can Still Be Accepted

The enthusiastic reception accorded by collectors everywhere to the first quarterly edition of the

New Issue Provisional Album

has left us with but few of the 2000 published copies still available, and we will shortly be obliged to announce that no more subscriptions will be accepted for the first year's issues.

The NEW ISSUE PROVISIONAL ALBUM is a temporary home for the large numbers of stamps issued between the publication of the various editions of our albums. It is issued every three months, and provides spaces for stamps of the three months previous as chronicled in Scott's Monthly Journal. Pages are regular album size, specially bound with a linen hinged back, and each edition will be large enough to include all new issues.*

FULLY ILLUSTRATED

This album is sold by subscription only. The price $2.50 entitles the subscriber to 4 issues, published quarterly, post free.

Wonderful

That's the word to express my sentiments about the Sesqui-Centennial. I put in many days at the Centennial in 1876; "every day" at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893; two weeks at the Pan American in 1901; two weeks and three days at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis in 1904, and when I say the "Sesqui-Centennial" at Philadelphia is "WONDERFUL" I talk from experience of having seen some big shows. When you attend the Convention of the A.P.S. and the great Int. Stamp Exhibition in New York in October, set aside at least one week for the Sesqui in Philadelphia. You will never regret it. That reminds me that I have a sale coming off (No. 277) on September 15th. Please mail your bids early.

A TALE OF COOPERSTOWN, N. Y.

By Paul Floyd Cornish

"I tell you Abe Lincoln is wrong, all wrong." The voice was high pitched, with a tone of excitement. "Those southern folks who have paid money for slaves have as good a right to them as we folks here have to our cattle and horses."

There was a sound of a bang of furniture in the office, which made the banker pause as he hung up his overcoat.

"How would you like to be a slave and work for nothing?" answered a sturdy masculine voice, "then perhaps get a licking for not doing more work! I tell you President Lincoln is right, the slaves should be freed and the government should pay their owners for their loss."

The banker smiled at the little tiff between his Junior clerk and bookkeeper, but he thought it had gone far enough that morning, so he shut the outer door with a loud slam, and then after a minute he went on into the inner office, to find both of his assistants busy at work. "Good-morning, Miss Bell; good-morning, Sam," he said cheerily. "I think that this is the coldest November that I ever saw here in Cooperstown."

"Yes, sir!" said Sam Hale, a bit shyly. "They say the lake iced over last night as far up as Hutter's Point."

"You will have skating soon, I guess, Sam. Now, I want you to tackle a new job this morning. Come out here in the back room and I will show you what I want. You see these boxes of letters stacked up here? Well, I want you to carry them all up into the attic and store them away up there. You will notice that they are all tied up each week by themselves and then each year is put in one of these boxes. Now, when you put them away, Sam, be sure and arrange them according to date."

The boxes of letters were heavy, and by the time Sam had them all carried up stairs, he had forgotten all about the cold morning. Looking the letters over, he found the oldest ones dated 1825. These he put high upon the top of a long shelf, and then stacked the boxes in order of their years. With the years 1861 to 1870, the boxes grew bigger and heavier, so that the shelves were all full when he called Mr. Clarke, the banker, up to look at the finished work.

"Maybe it is a waste of space to save all of these old letters," said the banker, "but they are not worth much for waste paper now, but perhaps the price will go up during the war."

"The war!" gasped Sam, "is there going to be war?"

"I am afraid so," answered Mr. Clarke. "The feeling between the states is becoming very bitter, and I can see no way to avert a struggle in arms."

Then came the break at Fort Sumter in April, 1861, followed by the call for men to serve in the Northern army. Sam Hale was one of the first ones to enlist from Cooperstown, and one of the last to return after the last final struggle at Gettysburg. Pale and thin from the weeks and months of hard living, Sam came to the bank one morning in a badly worn uniform of blue. "May I have my place back, Mr. Clarke?" he asked.

"Mr. Russell, our treasurer, did not come back to us," answered Mr. Clarke, in a quiet tone. "Somewhere in the southland he gave his all for the Union. I want you to take his place, but first, I want you to carry all of those letters up in the attic, and be sure, Sam, that you file them carefully according to date."

So Sam Hale became the treasurer of the First National Bank of Cooperstown, New York. During the hard times that followed, Sam directed the policy of the bank, and then in turn, his son took his place.

One day Sam's grandson, Robert Hale, came home from Law College at Albany, bringing a friend, who inquired about the possible chance of finding any old stamps on letters around the bank. Robert recalled what his grandfather had told him about his early work, so, with his father's consent, the boys explored the attic of the bank, bringing to light over twenty thousand envelopes with old stamps on, the lot having a market value of nearly ten thousand dollars.

"What are you going to do with your share of the 'find', Robert?" asked his father, when the attic had all been cleaned out.

"I think I will buy a new Lincoln car for you and mother," answered the thoughtful youth. "I think grandfather would have liked me to do that; it surely proves that even waste paper cannot lie around a bank without becoming more valuable every year."

SALMAGUNDI:—

B. J. DATTNER has begun the publication of what is to be known as "Dattner's Monthly." No. 1 may be obtained by writing Mr. Dattner at 5044 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

FRANCE increased its postal rates on August 1. Letters to foreign countries are now 1fr 50c and post cards 90c. This information is received from Rev. J. Dreyer through Philip H. Ward Jr.

OUR old advertiser Fred E. Prohaska has signed a contract for the coming season and will be with us beginning with the issue of September 13.

WE learn from the New York Times that the auction sale of M. Ohlman, at Cincinnati, in connection with the S.P.A. Convention, featured some high prices. A lightly cancelled copy of the 30c 1869 with center inverted sold for $1,255.00. It had a tiny tear which had been neatly repaired. A Hawker airmail cover brought $395.00.

THE collection of Lt. Col. J. Philip Benkard will be sold at public auction Sept. 8, 9 and 13, by J. C. Morgenthau & Co. This collection is very rich in all U. S. issues from 1847 down to 1925. Mr. Morgenthau will also handle the Wm. Wolters collection during the coming season. Its value is estimated as upwards of $200,000.00.

W. R. STAPLIN suggests that we list the names of those who will attend the A.P.S. convention and will secure certificates at the time of the purchase of railroad tickets. We are very glad to co-operate in the manner indicated.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, Mass.

HERE'S ANOTHER

It gives me great pleasure to announce that I have just acquired the well known collection of Mr. Chas. L. Smith of Salt Lake City. Mr. Smith's collection consisted of the postage, revenues and envelope stamps of the United States and its several colonies. In each case, he sought after the choice single copy in mint condition and from 1901 to date collected mint blocks. Practically everything with the exception of the rarities are present and this includes many items that can only be obtained when a collection such as this comes upon the market. This collection is one of the few that I have had the pleasure of purchasing, which contained a complete lot of the coil stamps in mint pairs, including all of the earlier rarities, as well as the later scarce die varieties. Unfortunately, only one pair of each was present and these have been sold. However, if you are looking for such unusual items, it will pay you to keep your want list with me, for I am constantly picking up fine things, which are immediately sent out to those interested.

If there is anything which you need in blocks, your want list is especially desired at the present time, for I can furnish all of the normal varieties of the 20th century and many of the minor varieties, in mint block condition.

Always in the market to buy anything choice in the way of United States issues, either collections or individual stamps. Cash is ready in any amount for choice properties.

Washington Notes

I am informed that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is arranging to produce the 11c and 12c current issue on the rotary press for precanceling purposes. This will give us new varieties of the current stamp perforated 10 instead of 11 as heretofore. With these stamps available, the Department will have completed its original program of issuing all varieties from 1c to 12c upon the Stickney rotary press. In producing stamps by this method in addition to precanceling, the Department saves thousands of dollars during the course of the year. They will no doubt consider carefully as to whether it is worth while to produce the higher denominations by this method. If they find the quantities precanceled are sufficiently large, there is no doubt but what more will follow.

White Plains Stamp

As to the new White Plains stamp, it is more or less believed that the denomination will be 2c and the color, of course, red. The copy of the painting described in this column sometime back was found to be unsatisfactory for the purpose because of the great detail. As a result, a new painting has been submitted to Washington representing Captain Alexander Hamilton's battery. This shows four men working a piece of artillery. If the model is accepted, we will have something similar to the 1869 issue and the stamp will be most artistic. The lettering on the variety is being done by an old employee of the Department, who formerly designed paper money.

Other sections of the country have been active in asking for new stamps and one idea which may meet with favorable consideration is the suggestion to issue a stamp illustrating the frigate "Constitution"—"Old Ironsides." Upward of twenty patriotic organizations, including one headed by Mrs. Noble Newport Potts, President of the National Patriotic Council, have requested such a stamp in addition to a special canceler bearing the legend, "Save Old Ironsides." These organizations are aiding in raising one-half million dollars to recondition this famed frigate of Revolutionary days and they believe a special stamp and cancellation would create interest in this patriotic effort.

The Mohawk Valley Historical Association is asking the Postmaster General to issue a memorial stamp commemorating Revolutionary history in that vicinity.

Mr. W. R. Staplin kindly sends numerous newspaper clippings from Utica papers relative to this subject.

State 6c "Sepcimen"

I have just acquired a new error of the overprinted Departments, namely, a 6c State with the "Sepcimen" surcharge. This variety has not been noted heretofore.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of July 31st the Department announced additional schedules in connection with air mail service from the United States via London to continental Europe.

On August 7th, announcement was made of the fact that in connection with the national air races to be held in Philadelphia on September 4th to 11th, inclusive, special air mail service will be operated between that city and New York. We are informed that notice concerning schedule and rates of postage are to be announced later.

On August 14th, the Information Service of the Department announces that the Mexican Post Office Department is arranging with our own to connect with the contract air mail service between Fort Worth, Texas, and Chicago, Ill., and thence to the transcontinental air service both ways. Letters from the United States into Mexico via this route will be treated as special delivery upon their arrival. The Mexican Department issues a detailed schedule list with rates, and it is noted that the charges run from 30c to 55c in accordance with distance traveled. It is expected that a letter from Mexico will arrive in New York in eighty-one hours and twenty-one minutes or in San Francisco in ninety-two hours via this route. No definite date of inauguration is given and it is assumed that the service is now in effect.

On August 17th, the same Information Service announces that the Postmaster General has accepted the forty-five-day notice of discontinuance given by Charles Dickinson, contractor of air mail service No. 9 running from Chicago to St. Paul, Minn., and he has immediately readvertised for bids returnable September 4th, for the operation of this line. It is hoped that new arrangements will go into effect before the present contract is terminated. Mr. Dickinson accepted this contract on a basis of forty-eight percent of the receipts, whereas the other bidders required 75% and 80%. Evidently he has been running at a loss.

the lower corners. The overprint on both stamps is in black.

ITALIAN SOMALILAND.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that the Propaganda stamps for this colony have been received and are the same as those mentioned for Cyrenaica, except they have the name of this colony.

MONACO.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends copies of two new items that have recently appeared. They are the 20c rose, the type of the same value in the 1924-27 series and the 20c brown on buff, postage due stamp.

MOROCCO AGENCIES.—Mr. Bernard King notifies receipt of two novelties, viz.:—French currency; surcharged on current B.B. adhesive, Waterlow printing, Control C25: 75 centimes on 9d olive-green. Spanish currency; surcharged on current B.B. adhesive, Waterlow printing, Control A24: 15 centimos on 1½d chestnut. The latter is the first denomination of the Spanish currency set to appear with the new watermark.—Stamp Collecting.

NEJD.—The current set of postage and postage due stamps have been overprinted to commemorate the Islamic Congress being held at Mecca, representing all the Mohammedan Countries of the World. The overprint is in Arabic, and reads:—"10 Zilkada, sanat 1344, Al Mootamar al Islami," signifying "1st June, year 1926, Congress of Islam." The issue is a limited one.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Philatelic Bulletin.

NEW ZEALAND.—Wilcox, Smith & Co. send us a photograph of the new 2sh stamp issued the 12th of July last. The central part of the stamp shows a profile head and shoulders likeness of the King in military dress. The figures of value are in the two upper corners and in the lower corners are ornaments with the name of the country between. The 2sh is blue and the 3sh, which is the same type, is mauve. The stamp is the work of the Government Printing Office and the printing is on a par with that done in the recent Exhibition series.

OLTRE GIUBA.—Whitfield King & Co. advise of the Propaganda stamps being the same as those listed under Cyrenaica, except they bear the name for this colony.

POLAND.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 15gr rose with the two line surcharge "Port Gdansk" in black.

TRIPOLITANIA.—Whitfield King & Co. inform us that the Propaganda stamps for this colony are on sale and are the same as those listed under Cyrenaica, except they bear the name "Tripolitania" at the base of the stamp.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF

BRITISH EMPIRE.

Australian Commonwealth.—Mr. A. A. Rosenblum sends us the following interesting budget:

"1. From 20th May control of stamp printing has been vested in the Commonwealth Bank, on its taking over the Note Printing Branch (to which stamps have been attached, vide Harrison imprint). As yet, no definite change of policy is anticipated. Stamps are supplied to the G.P.O. at cost.

2. Effects of Harrison's retirement are showing: (a) 1½d (new shiny paper) without imprint at base. This was objected to by the G.P.O., so we have (b) 1d with imprint of temporary printer, viz. 'A. J. Mullett' in place of 'T. S. Harrison.' Most other values are expected with Mullett imprint. A permanent appointment will be made next month, with a consequent further change.

3. Paper. All values of K.G. series have now been printed on new Wiggins Teape paper. (Only 1d and 1½d issued to date.) Use of this paper will not be continued. Meanwhile a fair supply of new Multiple paper is due from the same firm and will, of course, be used before supplies from a new making are brought into use.

4. Perforation. Large stocks of stamps on hand have not been perforated. These include Harrison and Mullett printings. The 14 machine is on its last legs, and may break down before the new machines are ready next month. Anyway, we can expect some duplication of control imprints when the 13 x 12½ machine is used for the reserve stocks.

5. Plates. The old 1½d plates with all the retouches have now been replaced. Electros from the new one are indistinguishable except by absence of retouches. Meanwhile hardened steel plates for direct printing are being prepared for this value. A new die is being engraved for the purpose—and will undoubtedly differ from the present one.

The new plate may be in use before the new perforator—anyway, we will probably have printings on both present and on Multiple wmk. paper. I leave you to work out all the possible combinations which we may have to expect. And yet, the whole thing is perfectly legitimate."

Barbados.—Miss I. Greaves shows us the current 1d in a rather deeper shade, recently issued.

India.—Mr. F. G. Mayhew brings to our notice some minor variations in the surcharge of the 1r on 15r, King Edward, Service.

(1) Foot of "E" of "ONE" more or less broken, appearing as "F."

(2) Both letters "E" of "RUPEE" similarly broken.

(3) Top of first "E" of "RUPEE" broken.

Kenya.—Mr. C. N. Luck shows us new shades of the current 50c and 75c, the former in the palest of greys and the latter in a paler, yellower olive.

Malta is very annoyed because the rarer "POSTAGE" values seem to have found their way into Italian hands and are now being offered in Egypt and elsewhere without any profit accruing to the local speculators, except, perhaps, the gentlemen who engineered the whole thing. It must be remembered, however, that political feeling runs very high in Malta, and finds much freer expression than it does in our own press, and a lot of the criticism in connection with the "scandal" is put forward with a view to embarrassing the Ministry, while there are naturally a number of people who feel that they should have had a share in the profits.

New Guinea.—The colours of the current 6d and 5s should be amended in our Catalogue. The 6d is reddish brown and the 5s olive-bistre. In pointing this out, Mr. A. A. Rosenblum records a new Colonial rarity, the 6d printed in olive-bistre, the colour of the 5s, and with the "O.S." overprint.

Mr. Rosenblum was in the Commonwealth printing office when a consignment of the 6d, unoverprinted, was being passed, and it was found that they were in the wrong colour. Only a very few sheets had been run off, and they were apparently regarded as "spoils." Stamps coming under this heading are regarded as unsuitable for issue as postage stamps, but not sufficiently so to be entirely rejected. They are therefore used up as "O.S." stamps, and this accounts for so many Commonwealth "freaks" being known perforated "O.S." only. In this instance the sheets in the wrong colour were similarly treated, and have now been issued with the "O.S." overprint, and one or two used copies are known. The total printing must be extremely small. Collectors should carefully examine the pedigree of any copies offered them, as the colour is not a difficult one to convert.

Palestine.—Mr. A. W. Tyrrell shows us new shades of the current issue, viz., 3m, distinctly paler; 4m, dull pink; 5m, brighter orange; 7m, deeper brown; 13m, deep bright blue; 2pi, brownish olive.

Papua.—Mr. A. A. Rosenblum states that the old South Australian paper has now run out, and printings are being made on the old Commonwealth "war savings" paper (as S. G. 50*b*, 50*c*). This will be easily distinguished. Mr. Rosenblum thinks that in a hot damp climate the 14 gauge will not hold, and that, after the first printing, a larger perforation will be found necessary.

Seychelles.—Mr. J. Harms shows us the 20c from Plate 11, in a dull blue, a very distinct shade. The 6c from the same plate is not so deep in colour, while will be issued MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 27th. I have made arrangements to have catalogues ordered from me on their way to customers before 5 P. M. on date of publication. This will insure their being among the first to have the new prices. In order to save bookkeeping, remittances should accompany order (cash, check, money-order or unused U. S. stamps), and catalogue will be forwarded on day of receipt.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

CONVENTION CERTIFICATES

It is our desire to be helpful in securing a sufficient number of certificates of purchase of railroad tickets to obtain reduced rates to the New York Exhibition and A. P. S. Convention. To that end we will print the names of all who intend to visit New York in October and who will secure certificates when purchasing tickets.

We cannot take the space to print the names of persons residing in and near New York, for obvious reasons. The total secured each week will be carried forward in each successive number. Send in your name at once.

MEMBERS OF THE SHARON STAMP CLUB OF SHARON, PA.

The Sharon Stamp Club is a live organization and is an important factor in the philatelic activities of that city. last regular meeting was held August 9 at the Bell Telephone offices. In addition to the regular business meeting auction, Paul Wentz gave a talk on lettering albums. The club now has twenty-one adult members and it meets mon right through the hot weather. The Sharon Club is Branch 71 of the A.P.S. The names of the group pictured from to right are as follows:—Back row: Oliphant, Sepashy, Newton, Shartle, Thompson, Everall, Esslinger, Neeley, Rud Dunfee. Front row: Draper, De May, Shaughnessy (President), Wentz (Secretary), Weyandt.

the purple of the 30c is brighter. A 9c in carmine-red, is expected to take the place of the current 12c which appears to be now unobtainable. The 4c, green, was also out of stock recently.

Union of S. Africa.—Writing in a South African newspaper, "Perforation" states that the 4d, triangular, "rouletted," referred to in our May notes, is probably one produced by a youngster with the aid of a sewing-machine, in order that his job as office boy might be facilitated. Several similar copies have been traced to this source.

OTHER COUNTRIES.

Argentine Republic.—Mr. A. H. Davis has now ascertained that if the recent 5c, Rivadavia Commemorative, was used in Uruguay, it was done without official authority.

Costa Rica.—This country has given us the most beautiful Air stamp yet issued. It is an artistic gem. Mr. G. Noriega states that 500,000 were printed. Of the 10c on 12c, provisional, 100,000 were surcharged.

Esthonia.—Mr. F. Dreyersdorff kindly points out that, as regards the 5m, Air triangular, overprinted or surcharged in 1923, Nos. 44 and 45 were done only in vermilion and No. 48 only in carmine, while the 20m on pair of 5m was done first in carmine, and later in vermilion. The latter is scarce.

Of the 45m, Air triangular, imperf., there are two printings, one in bright violet and the other in a more reddish shade. Here the first printing is the best. The same value, perforated, came first in the reddish shade, but now comes in the bright violet colour.

France.—Algeria. The new Pictorial series is disgraceful. The designs would have been attractive, but the printers have surpassed themselves, and now all beauty is lost in a faded blur. It is time something drastic was done to improve the stamps of France and her Colonies.

Grand Lebanon.—Mr. F. G. Mayhew learns that a Republic has been established at Beyrout and that the stamps of Grand Lebanon will probably be overprinted, prior to the issue of a permanent series. Thanks !

Norway.—Mr. A. N. Jorstad states that it is unlikely that stocks of the 45 öre will be surcharged, as has been reported in some quarters. The current Lion type is to be printed in future from new steel dies, as were the "Svalbard" stamps. The 10 öre from the new die will probably appear before the end of the year.

Portugal.—Mr. C. J. Chambers states that an official decree announces that special Parcels Post stamps will no longer be issued, as their use is very limited.

The following values in the "Ceres" type are to be cancelled: 8, 20, 30 and 75c, 1.50, 2.40, 3 and 20 escudos.

The following stamps whose issue is forecast in the decree, appear to be novelties: 2c, chocolate; 4c orange-yellow; 25c, drab; 40c, emerald; 1E, purple; 4E 50c, light yellow; 5E, "terre de Cassel" (whatever that may be); and 10E, red.

Siam.—Mr. A. Preecha informs us that the generally received opinion that the new stamps recently listed are a Cor tion issue, is incorrect. They were pared to commemorate the 15th yea the reign of King Vijiravudh, but o to the premature death of that mon in November last, they were qu issued to the public as ordinary pos stamps in March, and are still avai for postal use.

Uruguay.—Mr. A. H. Davis states the following numbers were printe the new Air Stamps: 6c, 50,000; 30,000; 20c and 25c, 20,000 each. first three values are used on the Mo video-Buenos Aires route, while the is for use on an internal route bet the capital and Rocha, which is linke by air because it has no railway sta though it is now an important centre.

Letters addressed "poste restante" now subject to fees amounting to ne 1s6d, which makes this form of co pondence an expensive luxury.—Sta Gibbons Monthly Journal.

GREAT SCOTT, MI
July 7, 1

MR. PHIL. A. TELLICK,
Stamp Expertalizer,
Care of MCKEEL'S.

Dear Phil:—

I am sending you the following: A Correction. (2), A Question. A Two-Cent Stamp.

(1). You are very wrong about I. R. overprint. It Really stands for perialism Rampant. The explana follows.

During the campaign of 1900, w Imperialism was a burning issue, ator James Q. Etukishuk, of Al (Dem.), introduced a bill providing a set of twenty-three labels, running one cent to thirteen dollars, to be only for franking political literat The designs as suggested were to historical scenes from the Spanish Philippine wars, of educational nat Unfortunately, in committee, the bill so slashed and amended that in its f form it provided only for the surcha as actually issued, and by the time two stamps were put on sale, the elec was over and everybody had forgo the original idea. Except me.

So now you know all about it, you can tell your inquirer the truth.

(2). What is the value of the gr and orange one-quarter grindstone Island stamp, issue of 1891 with the trait of King O'Keefe? I cannot fin in Scott.

(3). (Here our correspondent hin a "2 cent stamp" of Netherlands.)

Very truly,

AIRPOST CHRONICLE

Australia.—Australian philatelic papers state that only 39 letters were carried on the first mail flight to Broken Hill in July, 1925, but the first flight from that town carried a mail of about eight times that number.

Canada.— The Elliot airmail service, which opened on March 5th, was suspended on the 20th of that month, writes a correspondent. This was due, he thinks, to the breaking up of winter. We have since learnt that a new airmail route, authorised by the Post Office authorities, opened on July 1st from Sioux Look-out to the Red lake goldfields and to the Woman Lake and Birch Lake areas. The extra airmail fee is 25c to Red Lake, as before, and 50c to Woman Lake, and a limited issue of stamps, in panes of eight, has been made in these two denominations. Mr. Roessler shows us a cover carried from Red Lake and bearing the third Elliot type stamp, which has the blue cachet of the Patricia Airways and Exploration, Ltd., at Sioux. It was postmarked at Red Lake on May 26th.

Send One Dollar for 12 old U. S. Covers '51-88. Cancellations on 3c green and 2c brown. Fine approval selections of U. S. and foreign stamps. CLEVELAND CADY, Tenafly, N. J.

China.—A Pekin correspondent reports that special stamps for the Mukden airmail service were prepared some time ago, but none have yet been seen on flown covers. We have seen a set of three: 15 cents green, 30c red, and 45c violet, which depict a letter-carrying pigeon flying over typical Chinese buildings with Chinese inscriptions on scrolls above and below.

Germany.—Mr. Wiley advises us that the first flight of the reopened Berlin-Moscow service left the Templehofer aerodrome early on May 1st. Covers carried on that day were postmarked on April 30th, and on receipt at Moscow a special three-line cachet in violet was applied, as well as the postmark, dated May 3rd, and a large cachet in Russian, advertising the service between Moscow, Berlin, Paris, etc. Though the mail actually arrived on May 1st, the date of the postmark is explained by the fact that it came after the last delivery of Saturday and was consequently held over till Monday.

India.—The Calcutta mail taken on board by the Danish pilots and addressed to Bangkok has at last been returned. The Royal Danish Consul applied his official rubber stamp on receipt of this small mail in Siam. One of the most interesting covers we have seen is one of a few that were carried on the Spanish flight from Calcutta to the Philippines. It is signed by the pilot, and the Indian franking stamps are cancelled by the small "Madrid-P.I." aeroplane cachet while the reverse side bears the large "Madrid-Manila" aeroplane in black, surmounted by the arms of U.S.A., Spain and the Philippines.

Italy.—During the aviation week at Padua, 1,000 special cards were issued and sold only to those who purchased tickets for the air field. Incidentally, the tickets entitled holders to a free flight. The flown cards bear circular red cachets and are postmarked June 7th.

Roumania.—The airmail from Bucarest to Galatz reopened on June 2nd, and on the first day a violent storm destroyed the machine just outside Galatz. The mail, however, was saved. Flown letters have the same type of air postmark as before, but the inscription is now in Roumanian instead of French.

Switzerland.—The airpost service from Basle to Schaufhausen was inaugurated on July 1st, when, according to the National-Zeitung, 13,650 pieces, weighing 71 kilogrammes, were carried. A rectangular cachet, which included the propaganda design of the exhibition, was used to obliterate the stamps, and an extra circular cachet for the first flight was also applied. On the same date a special flight was made, carrying mail, to commemorate the opening of the International Exhibition. Official cards and vignettes (at 50c each) were on sale, and a rectangular cachet was applied to all the mail. The vignette, printed in blue and black on a white background, depicts an aeroplane flying over a dock in front of which is a futuristic paddle-steamer with a suitable inscription. This is the first proof of the existence of a Swiss navy that we have yet seen! The vignettes were obliterated by a special propaganda cachet. Dr. Vogler has been good enough to give us all advance particulars.—The Aero Field.

LUDER-EDELMANN'S LATEST

Adjectives fail us in describing the latest auction catalog just published by the firm of Luder-Edelmann, Zurich, Switzerland. In the first place the text describing the 4468 lots gives us a book of 184 pages, including a cover printed in gold, brown, red and black. All the rarities cataloged are emphasized by display lines.

This book is supplemented by a second consisting of 67 pages of illustrations. So many rarities are illustrated that we cannot begin to enumerate them. They are enough to dazzle the eyes of even a lukewarm philatelist. A 5c Brattleboro on cover is one of the things that stand out very prominently. We note also a block of twelve Jacksons, three by four, and there are other things too numerous to mention. Pairs, strips and blocks on and off cover are shown in a bewildering assortment.

This sale occurs Sept. 13-18 and we take this opportunity of congratulating the Luder-Edelmann firm upon being able to handle such a superb array of rarities.

A SOLDIER'S LETTER

By W. O. MARKHAM.

I recently acquired a Civil War cover franked as Soldier's Mail (free) which had two verses instead of address, etc. They read:

This letter comes from a Yankee Sharper
To his noble mother, Mrs. Rhoda Harper;
For Zanesville, Ohio, I now direct it,
Hurry it through, for she will expect it.

Free from all pay for a year or better,
I am obliged to frank this letter;
Please, postmaster, push it through,
And when I am paid, I will pay you.

BOOK REVIEW

The J. M. Bartels Co., 116 Nassau St., N. Y. City, is sending out its first supplement to its catalog of U. S. Envelopes. This supplement begins with the series of 1916 and includes all issues to July, 1926. The list is arranged according to dies, papers, sizes, knives and watermarks. The price is not indicated.

We have received from D. Field, 7 Vigo St., London, W1, England, a checklist of the postal issues of the Hejaz, Jeddah and Nejd. The list includes all the postal issues from 1924 up to June, 1926. It is very complete and fully illustrated. Practically every variety quoted is priced. The list was compiled by B. F. Warin. Here is a splendid opportunity for anyone who wishes an interesting side-line to engage in a study of the intricacies that can be found in the overprinting of the provisionals described. The price of the booklet is not given.

the finding of the diamond dotted cancellation on his Sudan camel stamp, indicating a camel post or travelling post office in that remote land.

The collector interested in collecting town cancellations of a small country can usually obtain a list of the post offices of the country, for a small fee, by writing to the postmaster general at the capital of country. A courteous request, with return postage and registration, will usually bring the desired information or a letter telling how it can be obtained.

Another valuable use of postmarks is in identifying stamps used outside the country of origin, or "extra-territorials", as they are known. For many years, students of Great Britain stamps have carefully watched for letter and number cancellations indicating the use of British stamps abroad, and these have a catalogued value in Gibbons.

Circumstances have made necessary the use of many issues outside the country of origin. India stamps frequently are found canceled in Aden, Zanzibar, and other places. United States stamps are used to-day in Hawaii, Porto Rico and the former Danish West Indies, though these can scarcely be called extra territorials, since the three groups are now part of our country. Ante-dating the overprinted stamps, United States issues were used in the consular offices at Shanghai, China, with no mark to distinguish them except cancellation.

The sea-post cancellations are among the most interesting and desirable markings. In addition to the "paquebot" mentioned above, one may find markings of the various steamship companies of the world, indicating that the stamp was posted on a ship or picked up by a steamer at a port of call. Watch for the "Deutsche See-Post" on your Germans, Africans and Asiatics, or for the Hamburg-American Line Atlas Service, or United Fruit Co. or Royal Mail on your West Indians and South and Central Americans.

Various odd cancellations occur on certain countries. Japan has issued some ornate obliterations in connection with its commemoratives. Australians canceled "Too Late" refer to the fee charged on letters posted after the close of the mails, and from their profusion, would indicate that the Australians are particularly lax in doing their mailing early.

Cancellations are often of great value in determining the authenticity of a stamp. We were recently offered a rare Zululand stamp on Great Britain, beautifully canceled "Threadneedle Street", where the Bank of England mailing is done. Write your own conclusion to that. Here again, the date on the ca lation is important, for we have surcharged, trimmed and altered st on specimens dated before the issu of the variety in question.

In a later article, we will take up tain countries and show in detail can be done in cancellation collec one of the most fascinating studie the hobby.

Study your cancellations, and lear sheep from the goats. Start a little lection of postmarks and rare can tions, and you will find it the one vo that will interest collector and non lector alike. Watch for the small to the odd names, the colored and f obliterations, the T. P. O., the railr the ship marks. All are worth sa and will pay their own rent later o

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF JAMAICA

By BILL BENEDICT.

(On June 28 Bill Benedict, aged 11, son of William F. Benedict of San Francisco, Cal., gave a radio talk on "The Postage Stamps of Jamaica" to Mr. Merell's KFRC Stamp Club. Bill is one of the partners of the B. & B. Stamp Co., carried on from 1056 Clay St., as many of our readers well know. We are pleased to accompany this article with a picture of the bright young man who is taking such an interest in philately and who knows his stamps well enough to not only deal in them, but also to write and talk about them. The following article is the radio address which Master Bill Benedict gave to the Radio Club.—Ed.)

I have been a stamp collector for the past five years, ever since I was six years old, but this is the first time I ever made a speech about it. I am afraid I am not going to make a very good speech, but I have studied a lot about it and will do the best I can.

My father helped me with ideas for this talk and afterwards corrected it, but I hope you will not think my Dad wrote this because he didn't. I did myself, so if you feel like your time is wasted when I get through—blame me, not Dad.

I feel honored at the invitation of Mr. Merell to speak over the radio. Mr. Merell is one of the finest men I have ever met and I hope that all you members of KFRC Stamp Club will know him personally some day.

A little over a year ago I decided that I was not getting anywhere with general collecting because my father also collected general and we were only duplicating each other's collections. We thought it over and Dad started to collect only Scandinavia, especially Iceland, and I found no country I liked better than Jamaica. Dad gave me all his Jamaica and I gave him all my Scandinavia. I then bought a loose leaf album and started in collecting those Jamaica stamps I didn't have. I collect both unused and used, pairs, blocks, strips, errors, cancellations and so forth, and all I need is 34 more mint and 14 used stamps, not counting errors. When I get a stamp nowadays it costs quite a bit of money but it sure feels good to fill the empty space and cross it off my want list.

When my Dad made a talk over KFRC a few weeks ago on Iceland he told about the country itself first and then about its postage stamps. I am going to follow the same plan.

Jamaica is called "the land of wood and water." It is the largest and most important of the British islands in the west Indies and is 90 miles south of Cuba. It is 150 miles long and 50 miles wide. Its capital is Kingston, which is almost the size of Portland, Maine. There is a mountain chain called the Blue Mountains which runs from east to west through the island, the highest peak being Blue Mountain, 7,423 feet above the sea.

The highest temperature of Kingston is 97 degrees and the lowest 61 degrees, with an average of 81 degrees. The rainfall is from 50 to 120 inches a year and this is plenty for agricultural uses.

The main exports of the West Indies Islands, including Jamaica, are sugar, coffee, fruits and spices. Jamaica ginger and Jamaica rum are famous and are the best that can be had.

The southern part of the island suffered from an earthquake in 1907, which caused many deaths and much damage.

Jamaica's population in 1921 was 857,921, of which only about 16,000 were whites. The population of Kingston is about 58,000.

The money is the same as Great Britain's. One pound equals twenty shillings and one shilling equals twelve pence.

There are 112 Jamaican stamps, of which 31 were issued in the 19th Century and 81 in the 20th Century. There are 33 different designs. Among the 112 stamps, 94 are straight postage stamps, 4 are officials, 11 are war and 3 are charities. There are 6 different watermarks and 3 different perforations. The classes of stamps which Jamaica has not issued include air-mail, special delivery, postage due, parcel post, newspaper and military stamps. There are 16 surcharges, one for straight postage, 4 for official and 11 for war tax.

Jamaica is a favorite country with collectors because of its paper colors, its pictorials and its large variety of war stamps. The old queen's heads are among the finest surface-printed stamps issued by any British Colony.

Before Jamaica had any stamps of its own it used stamps of Great Britain, which were cancelled with a letter and a special number for each town. This be-

Dealer's Stock

Owing to press of other business, we have decided to discontinue our cheap approval department and to clear out our stock at a bargain price. The stock consists of a well chosen variety of old and new issues, foreign and colonial, mostly cataloguing 3c to 25c; very little of the ordinary cheap approval stuff is included.

By the old (1926) catalogue the stamps listed over $8400.00.

This stock would form a wonderful start for anyone wishing to enter the cheap approval business, or would be a very useful addition to a dealer's stock.

The price asked is only $1400.00 and terms can be arranged with responsible parties.

gan in 1858 and ended about 1860, when Jamaica issued stamps of its own. The first stamps of Jamaica appeared on November 23, 1860, with a pineapple watermark, perforated 14. Jamaica is the only country which has ever used this watermark. There are six values of this issue, each bearing the portrait of Queen Victoria. The values are 1 penny, 2 pence, 3 pence, 4 pence, 6 pence, and 1 shilling, the 3 pence not appearing until September 10, 1863. These stamps are usually not well centered so you cannot be too fussy about them. In November, 1861, the 1 penny was cut in two officially and used as a one-half penny. Scott catalogues it at $20.

The second series was issued in 1870-71 and was watermarked Crown CC, meaning Crown Colony. The change was made so that Jamaica would use the same paper that the other British Colonies were using. There were six varieties of the issue, running from 1 penny to 1 shilling. The perforation was 14, the same as the pineapple issue.

The first half-penny value Jamaica ever issued came out in 1872. This took the place of a 1 penny bisected of the Crown CC issue. The bisect is scarce and its price is high.

In 1875 two higher values, 2 shilling and 5 shilling, were issued for the first time, and were perforated 12½ instead of 14.

The first Jamaica stamp to have the Crown CA watermark was the 4 pence of the 1883-84 issue. CA means Crown Agents. The perforation was again changed to 14. Other values followed. The 2 pence rose, which was issued in 1884, is scarce because it was used only a short time.

Following this a number of color changes occurred, between 1885 and 1890.

An entirely new design appeared in 1889 and two values, the 1 penny and 2 pence, were issued. Queen Victoria's head was smaller on this stamp than on any other of the Colony.

The first and only surcharge among the strictly postal issues of Jamaica is Scott's No. 27, which came out in 1890 and catalogues $2.50 mint and $2.00 used. Certain errors in this surcharge catalogue as high as $12.50. As you might well expect I haven't got these errors but I hope to pick them up some day. The surcharge was made necessary by a sudden change in the postal rate between Jamaica and the United States. A permanent stamp of the new value appeared in 1891, in the small Queen's head design.

To follow the lead taken by other British Colonies Jamaica decided to issue a pictorial stamp. This appeared May 3, 1900. It was printed in red and showed a picture of Llandovery Falls, which is on the Roaring River near St. Ann's. The value was 1 penny and it marked the admittance of Jamaica into the Imperial Penny Post, which had been established May 24, 1899.

The stamp was very unpopular and was crabbed at a lot. Some people said that its size required a large tongue to lick it, and others said it gave the idea of the country of Wales, where there is another falls by the same name. The solid red color also was disliked and in fact the stamp was just about as popular as the measles. The paper, watermarked Crown CC sideways, was taken as an insult because the Crown Colony government had long before gone out of existence. It was later learned that the large size of the stamp had caused the use of this paper.

The criticism of the stamp's color caused the Government to reissue the stamp in 1901 in red and black, but even the new stamp was never popular because the cancellation could not be plainly seen against the black.

An interesting point about this design is that, above the "RY" in "Llandovery," a man appears to be standing on a rock at the base of the falls. This is not a man but is simply a peculiar appearance of the rocks, although some people tried to connect it with an old Indian legend of a Spanish don who committed suicide there.

In the year 1903 a new design, showing the coat of arms of the Colony, was adopted, and stamps of the values of ½ penny to 2½ pence were issued, with the watermark Crown CA and perforated 14. The famous error in which the "V" is left out of "Serviet" occurs on each value. This error catalogues high, Gibbons listing the 5-pence at ten English pounds.

In 1905-09 ten values were issued in the old designs, all having for the first time the Multiple CA watermark. Five of the values were on chalk-surfaced paper and the "Serviet" error occurred on the ½ penny, 1 penny and 5 pence.

In 1906-10 there was a slight change in design and colors and eight values were issued, five of them on chalky paper. The scarcest stamp of this issue is Scott's No. 54, the 4 pence black on yellow chalky paper. It is one of the scarcest stamps in Jamaica and is cheap at pretty close to full catalogue. By luck I have this one mint but I haven't yet got it used.

Jamaica was one of the few Crown Colonies that did not celebrate the coronation of King Edward the Seventh, which took place in 1902. The only stamp with King Edward's portrait, Scott's No. 58, appeared in 1911 after the King's death. It is not very common. The last of the Victoria heads appeared the same year, the 4 pence red on yellow paper.

King George's portrait first appeared on a Jamaica stamp in the issue of 1912-19. Four of the values were on ordinary paper, five were on paper colored through and having a chalky surface, and three were on paper colored only on the surface. These surface-colored stamps are by far the hardest to get. The 1 shilling on surfaced-colored paper catalogues $1 for instance, and only 30 cents for the same value on paper colored through.

In 1919, the first of the famous Jamaica pictorials came out. This set has made Jamaica a favorite among collectors, especially among the boys. The issue was printed on paper watermarked Multiple Crown and Block CA, and perforated 14 and 14½. There were eleven different

DOUBLE PRINTED DOCUMENTARIES

These are the wildest of the wild. We gathered up all that were offered several years ago. Altogether we found less than 100 copies of Scott's Nos. 4225a, 4226a, 4227a. Held them thinking more might turn up. Haven't heard of any. These are not the "slip doubles" so often found on the 3c offset, but the clearest of double and possibly triple strikes. We offer the few we have as follows:

4225a superb, o. g., centered	$5.00,	Block $25.00
4226a superb, o. g., centered	5.00,	Block 25.00
4227a superb, o. g., centered	5.00,	Block 25.00

We also have some remarkable double prints and other freaks of the offset printings in regular postage. Quotations on request. On approval of course to those on our lists.

Have you asked for your copy of our Specialized bargain list, pricing all stamps in good as well as fine condition? Hundreds of unusual items listed. Issues of 1847-1851 now ready. 2c stamp it costs you, but worth $10.00 as a guide to current values.

9.	Gargoyle?	1c 1882	?	"	W. H. Schneider

Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 are Shoo Flies. Inquiry among the "oldest inhabitants" here elicits this re "Shoo Fly"—"It was a train, went thro here at 5.30 a.m., and back at 7.30 p.m."; "It carried Boston & Maine R. R. workmen, as well as passengers."; "It was named after a song, Shoo Fly dont bother me."; "Old Fred had to make a shoe fly to catch it at 5.30."

Those are some of the answers handed me, wholly without charge, take your pick, and then you are likely to be wrong. My dictionary, a mere infant in size, says "shoo—a noise made to scare hens"; all of which is wonderfully helpful.

No. 5 is a dandy conventionalized eagle. No. 6 some reader may identify as from Waterbury. No. 7, apologies to the owner of this, as my notes do not show the name of owner. No. 8 looks more like a wasp than a bee, so have decided to name it a wasp owing to its delicate waist line, also to distinguish it from numerous others of the bee family. No. 9: This last thing should come in a Whatdoyoucallit Group, yet it fitted the space very well, and here 'tis. It was clearly printed, and the reproduction is exceedingly lifelike, meaning true to the original. While it may be the "speaking likeness" of a rooster, am calling it a gargoyle, a name handed to many an unheard of beast or bird.

The past week end was a regular orgy of cancellations, for Dr. Carroll Chase turned over his books in their entirety to me, and as a result we shall eventually see some 125 illustrations on stamps of the 1851 and '57 issues that we might otherwise never have seen. There are no "may-bees" in this lot, every one being a sure-nuf clean cut cancel, and worth looking at, as only the best were picked, stars, Paids, numerals, and a large variety of the commoner appearing cut cork cancels were passed by as there were so many rarities that had to go into the Forum, and time fairly gallops away in going thro many hundreds of odd cancellations.

You perhaps recall that in a former Forum the celebrated Carroll-Hoy correspondence was mentioned. I have often made inquiry re this find, the Doctor and I talked this over and came to the conclusion, after matching up the many versions, that it was made by two people, and divided by them. If some kind reader who has the facts at hand will permit these facts to come to the Forum, it will make welcome reading to us all. Names may be deleted if need be.

This is undoubtedly the most remarkable find of early U. S. covers ever made. That Palfrey correspondence found at about this same time was possibly far richer in stamps of higher denominations, and in the issue of 1847.

The reason I am so eager to present the data of the find, is that it would supplement very nicely the cancellations used from the philatelically noted town of Canton, Mississippi, and now my data, as far as the cancellations and dates go, is about ready to present to you in a coming number. This of course requires your co-operation, as I have but 26 different cancels so far.

If interested, readers will send a list of their cancellations, I will ask for any that are not included in my 26 varieties, as a complete layout would be nice to see. I have nothing of interest in the '60's, have you? Oh, yes, the two Confederates; but I mean in the early '60's,

A FINE OPPORTUNITY occurs to obtain choice early BRITISH COLONIAL STAMPS in superb condition. They can be selected from at under ½ catalogue. Also EDWARDIAN AND GEORGIAN issues, either mint or superb used, mostly at ½ catalogue. Approval, references.

VI—Sources of Supply

Much of the successful growth of a stamp collection depends on the three words "Sources of Supply".

Without sources of supply the collection must needs stop in its infancy, or at least cease to grow, for if the collector had no source from which to obtain new stamps for his collection he would soon lose interest in the hobby. The stamp collector is indeed fortunate, for his sources of supply are world-wide, many and varied, and due to the ease with which he can obtain and transport his treasures, he has a great advantage over his fellows in other fields of collecting.

The man who lives at the beach can make a wonderful collection of seashells, but it is very difficult for the man who lives inland to collect shells. First of all, he seldom finds any near home, and secondly, it is quite a shipping problem to transport them to and from the man on the beach who may have some to sell. The antique collector faces the same problems, unless he is fortunate in living near good "hunting grounds" or has endless means to lure choice pieces from other localities. And so it goes down the whole line of collecting, though some of the collectors of other lines may take exception to this. How often does the coin collector find his friends donating coins to him?

The stamp collector is a lucky bird, in this respect, for his stamps come to him from all parts of the world, without difficulty. He gets stamps on his mail, his friends remember him and give him theirs, and the ease with which a valuable lot of stamps can be sent by mail make it possible for the collector to exchange, buy and sell over the whole world. So his sources of supply are everywhere.

The stamp collector's sources of supply may be divided into two classes: one involving purchase, and the other covering stamps acquired without pecuniary outlay.

In the early days of philately, collectors paid more attention to stamp hunting and exchange than they do today. In the old days, when the country was full of nice attics, with old trunks rich in hidden stampic treasures, an ambitious collector could scout around his own community and dig up a find or two, which not only helped his own collection, but gave him a goodly stock of traders or duplicates which he swapped with other collectors for stamps he needed. While there were dealers in stamps almost since the start of collecting, the business was not as extensive as it is today.

Today, while there are still finds to be made, they come few and far between. The old attics have been ransacked, and the old hair trunk has given up its treasures in too many instances. The present day custom of filing without saving the envelope does away with the nice accumulations of old covers. In fact, the old attic itself is passing out of existence. This, combined with the great number of stamps issued, makes it more difficult for the collector to obtain his stamps without purchase.

It is scarcely necessary to go into much detail regarding the means of obtaining stamps by purchase. The reader of this article has already discovered that there are hundreds of dealers who will gladly trade stamps for dollars with him. He buys his cheap stamps in packets, his better ones in sets, his rarities in singles, and patronizes the auctions. The city man has some advantage over the rural collector, for he can drop into his local dealer's store or office, and select his stamps from stock. The rural man, however, scans the columns of MEKEEL'S and orders his by mail, or requests favorite dealer to send him a selectio choose from. It is easy to buy sta if one has the necessary "wherewith

So we can dismiss the first clas supply, with a word of caution to the lector to appreciate a good d source, by co-operating with the d who serves him well. Don't expect impossible, don't hold his selec longer than two or three years, and order on approval a lot of stamps w you don't intend to purchase if he up to his part of the contract by sen what you ask for, in the way you it, at the price you want to pay.

Sources of supply not involving chase may be divided into three cla stamps found or received on stamps given by friends, and stamps tained through exchange. To classes I am going to add a fourth volving some cash, that of st bought from non-collectors who re them on foreign mail, such as the b mail order houses, etc.

It is possible for the man of stamp spending-money to obtain a collection by expenditure of effort, he will often be rewarded by sec pretty pieces which he cannot Every one receives some stamps on and in this day of cancellation hur shade chasing, block gathering, and cancelitis, it is worth while saving e thing, even to the commonest, if the dition is fine. Your common two stamp salvaged from the waste-b may be just the variety some spec will want, and will be glad to swap stamp you need to get it.

Inquiry among one's friends will bring many nice stamps into the lection. The collector who is ash of philately, and keeps his stamp-cra a secret does not get them, but the low who boosts for the hobby by co out into the open and saying, "I stamp collector, and proud of it, a want any stamps you care to give will often find that his friends get from some remote quarters and are to give him what they have no use Stamps are one thing that a non-coll is usually glad to give away.

Your banker probably will be gl pass you out a few of the stamps he through his foreign exchange nections. He doubtless divides other collectors, but he may have good ones for you. There are, in cities, thousands of good stamps into the fire daily because no coll has canvassed the business houses, t the stamps received. These may or not be worth much, but one never k along with the Lyres, etc.; and after the War.

Were it not for the Carroll-Hoy correspondence, few collectors would have a cancel from Canton, Mi., I believe, for it must have been a small town back in the '50's. At the start of the Civil War the expert jack knife artist brought forth a hurriedly cut "PAID 5". Doubtless some of our readers have these cancels on covers. It shows the letters and the 5 in black ink. Another thing, it is far more difficult to cut a cancel so that the letters show black, than to cut one into the wood or cork, so that the letters show colorless.

You who have several of these Canton cancellations look at them very carefully. It is quite probable that this P.M. did some re-cutting on these cancelling devices. I think that at least four of his obliterators were recut—the triangle, the small sized PAID 3, the PAID 5, and the cross which shows both solid and then with a colorless rectangle inside this cross.

Canton put out a dandy Confederate Provisional now recognized by Scott Catalog as No. 19a. Take a look at it. What do you suppose the script capital "P" stands for Not paid, as the word appears in full, possibly the first letter of the P.M.'s name, or it may be as hard to puzzle out as that little 8 in the bottom of the number 5 in the New Orleans Local, Scott Nos. 106-109. Now you see why any data on the Carroll-Hoy find, or Canton, Mi., is desired. And dont forget that Shoo Fly, please.

hat is to be found in a mail-order ouse mixture, and usually something ood will turn up in every lot. Don't verlook the U. S., either.

Save your duplicates, and trade with ther collectors. If you don't know any ther collectors, join the A.P.S. or one f the other societies, and pick out some ollectors from their rosters. You will nd many collectors in foreign countries ho are glad to trade stamps of their ountry for those of yours. Most of the ig collectors demand scarce stamps, but here are many beginners who will trade ie common ones.

The writer knows of one collector who as nearly 40,000 varieties of stamps, nd he has seldom bought any, save mixres, job lots, and cheap wholesale lots, hich he uses to trade with collectors ie world over. He spends much time i his correspondence, but he has made me good friends in foreign lands, and rewarded by having some very scarce amps in his collection, which he has ained through their kindness.

The serious trader will find a few olicies necessary to protect himself, and secure good exchange. He should being to a good society, and confine his perations with his fellow members, or if e trades with a non-member, he should aturally ascertain the other man's ntegrity before sending a valuable election.

He should ascertain the size of the ther man's collection, and what he likes. e should either confine his correondence with those writing his own nguage, or should correspond in the nguage of the other man, for he may ot be able to translate your letter, while ou can usually translate his.

Above all the trader should be prompt attending to his correspondence. Much me is required in handling the mail, and slow correspondent seldom gets very ir. He should remember that the other llow likes good stamps, too, and should nd as good as he receives.

Make some foreign friends. You will id their letters interesting, you will find iat they can supply you with many arce stamps which seldom are picked p through ordinary channels, and you ill find that they can give you much aluable information about the stamps of eir countries, their customs, and you ill gain much knowledge not to be btained otherwise.

But don't expect to send your foreign riend a lot of junk and expect him to nd you some rarities. He may, but sually he is as well posted as you are, id he is no more anxious to give you mething for nothing than you would k, in his place.

LATEST EXHIBITION NEWS

During the Exhibition free lectures will be given each afternoon and evening in the enclosed Lecture Room, which will seat 250 persons. These will be illustrated by Pathe films and lantern slides. The following well-known authorities have accepted the invitation of the Committee to speak. Lectures will be limited to 40 minutes:—

The American Bank Note Co., New York, N. Y.; Rev. C. C. Silvester, Wyncote, Pa.; Major J. A. Steinmetz, Philadelphia, Pa.; C. A. Howes, Boston, Mass.; H. A. Diamant, St. Louis, Mo.; August Dietz, Richmond, Va.; Rev. T. R. Kimball, Hyde Park, Mass.

Other well-known speakers will be secured, among whom we hope to have Messrs. F. J. Melville and H. Vallancey from Great Britain.

Official Catalog Advertisements

The Committee wishes to draw the attention of stamp dealers to the advantage they can secure by advertisements in this catalog. Here is the unique opportunity of displaying a prominent advertisement in a volume that will be on the shelves of all the chief stamp collectors of the world and which will be constantly referred to for information about the many great exhibits herein described.

A bold well written and displayed advertisement should be a source of new business for years to come. The latest date at which copy can be received is September 15th. We urge speed as space is not unlimited. It is certainly to the interest of all dealers to have their names in this catalog. Send matter and check to A. R. Rogers, Exhibition Manager for the Committee, Grand Central Palace, New York, N. Y.

Make reservation for rooms as soon as possible as accommodations in New York in October are always difficult. If names and addresses of hotels are wanted, Mr. A. R. Rogers will supply them.

Are you a member of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions? If not, send $2.00 at once to the Treasurer, Theodore E. Steinway, 109 West 57th Street, New York City. This will entitle you to:

(1.) Admission to the private view of the Exhibition before it is open to the public.

(2.) Sets of the superb Exhibition stamps, specially engraved in the highest style of art by the American Bank Note Co.

(3.) The satisfaction of knowing that you have aided in the greatest philatelic publicity work that has ever been attempted.

The Committee has made an addition to the awards—in Class XIII, Sec. 5a, 20th Century stamps of the British Empire. Gold, Silver and Bronze medals are now offered in this class.

JUST A MOMENT

Who did not see the Saturday Evening Post for August 14th? Reference is made especially to page 138, where some interesting allusions to stamps are made in this journal of phenomenal circulation.

Mr. H. S. Swenson of Minneapolis was a recent visitor to Chicago where he spent some time in communion with local collectors.

Victor M. Berthold's article on Western Franks which we extolled recently as a feature of the latest issue of the Collectors Club Philatelist is to be followed by a second part which, we are told, surpasses in interest the first instalment. Mr. Berthold first gave these articles in the form of an address at the Collectors Club on January 23rd, 1926. The original map that illustrated the section in the magazine is accurate in every detail as it was based on thirty maps, all obtained from officials at Washington. Many months of research work were necessary before the finished product was presented publicly. We have all respect for the intelligence and industry of Mr. Berthold.

The arrangements between the Mexican post office department and that of our country whereby letters from Mexico City will make connection with the Fort Worth, Texas, plane, will interest collectors. Connection will be made at Chicago for the Transcontinental Air Service from Chicago to New York. Schedules of rates are available at post offices.

Mr. E. B. Lemmond, Spartanburg, S. C., was a caller at the Chicago office of the WEEKLY when recently he passed through that city. We remember Mr. Lemmond for favors done the paper in the past.

Recently, the Brooklyn Sunday Eagle had a page article, "Seeks Origin of Postal System," embellished with a picture of Dr. Thaddeus P. Hyatt, who will be remembered as having been instrumental in having the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences form a philatelic section in 1900. At the time the WEEKLY published a special number in recognition of the tribute. Dr. Hyatt has become an authority on the early history of mail distribution.

Several correspondents have asked for a complete list with addresses of the various postal agencies maintained by the different governments for the convenience of collectors. Will some reader oblige us with the information that will bring the directory down to date? The addition of Denmark to the credit column was recently announced but there is some uncertainty about the operation of agencies in France, Germany and Portugal, if such they may be called.

NEW YORK EXHIBITION SPECIAL

Monday, October 4, 1926

OUR PLAN

¶ To co-operate in every possible manner for the success of the Exhibition. It promises to be the greatest event of its kind that the world has ever seen.

OUR NEED

¶ The aid of our advertisers in producing a special number that will excel the 1913 publication. Great as was the success of that issue, 1926 will surpass it.

A Very Large Exhibition Special Will Be Issued Teeming With Features

We shall print an edition of at least 15,000 under date of October 4 and all large advertisements must reach us by

Sept. 10, the Last Day for Receipt of Copy

¶ How much space do you wish to use? What are your plans? Let us know at once just how we can serve you.

We shall present everybody attending the Exhibition with a copy of this special number. We have engaged a booth, which will be presided over by Miss Mildred O. Wylie, and every endeavor will be made to increase the prestige of our hobby.

EDITORIAL

As the days drop away from the calendar pad, interest in the two great events billed for October, 1926, is intensified. The proximity of the convention of the American Philatelic Society, which will be called to order on Monday, October 18th, and of the International Philatelic Exhibition, October 16th to October 23rd, 1926, is such that those who are undecided whether they will partake of the entertainment must make a decision. Many philatelists deserve a holiday and an opportunity is now given to have a royal one and it is felt that those who do not take advantage of this philatelic occasion of a life-time are ignoring their best interests. Two attractions are truly a lode-star that should attract philatelists from all sections of the country and it is especially desired by the projectors of the twin spectacles that a representative attendance be present. All parts of the country should yield its quota in order that both affairs be well-rounded successes and the planners of the convention and the Exhibition have built on broad lines. Let doubt give way to decision as it should be felt that it is worth while to have a hand in writing philatelic history.

The International Philatelic Exhibition to be held in the Grand Central Palace, October 16th to the 23rd, 1926, is of momentous importance but if its magnitude is to be sustained, collectors everywhere must rally to its standards. Attendance at the Exhibition almost becomes a duty and the crowd must be composed of units or the individual collectors. Men have been working to accomplish a great result and unless the efforts of many months are to be compromised, each philatelist, living at a distance, must pay his respects at the shrine, if it is at all possible. Give serious thought to the call that New York is making in order that it may be known that American collectors are not lukewarm in recognizing what may truly be named an epochal event in philatelic history.

It is seen that foreign support of the Exhibition is hearty and helpful and the philatelic press abroad is practically unanimous in commending the undertaking. It is probable that in some of the countries where exhibitions have been held in the past realize the scope of the undertaking and its possibilities of speeding philately generally. Even so, it is remarked gratefully that the good-will so freely expressed is a heartening factor for all concerned in our Exhibition.

Our correspondent in Baghdad, (Iraq), Mr. Anoir Mariamkhan, writes: "I am enclosing herewith the original letter that I received from the Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs at Teheran, regarding the issues of stamps under the new Shah." The following is a copy of the official statement: "I have the honour to answer your letter of April 11th, 1926, asking for information about the stamps with a view to publication in MEKKEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. The dynasty of Kadjars being abolished in Persia and a provisory government established, the Persian post office proceeded to issue the stamps surcharged, Provisory Government Post Pehlevi. Twenty thousand sets were printed and surcharged but only thirteen thousand were placed in circulation. The stamps were on sale about three months. The provisory government turned to permanent and a quantity of the stamps 'Ahmed Mirza' remaining in stock, the Persian post office put in circulation the stamps (Ahmed Mirza) surcharged, 'Regne de Pehlevi', pending new or special stamps. These stamps are to be regarded as provisionals and they were on sale for two months from 27 Esfend 1304 to 18 Ordibehecht, 1305. The complete set of the stamps was not surcharged but the four following values were overprinted: 1 chahi, 121,000; 2 chahis, 139,000; three chahis, 284,000 and six chahis, 8,000. A set of these stamps is to the value of twelve chahis in Persian money. Since 18 Ordibehecht, a stamp of the lion and sun surcharged, 'Regne Pehlevi, 1305' (1926) is in circulation. The Administration is preparing to issue stamps with the effigy of H. M., Riza-Chah Pehlevi, and they will be available shortly." The letter is signed by the Postmaster General of Persia, to whom we extend our thanks and we acknowledge the good offices of Mr. Anoir A. Miriam Khan in sending the communication.

Mr. P. J. Drossos, Athens, Greece, informs us: "The Air Service between Italy, Greece and Turkey began on August 2nd, 1926. Greece has issued no special stamps in consequence, the ordinary values being used but each air mail letter is charged an additional 5 drachmas. A new stamp has appeared, the postage due, one drachma (the 5d having been issued previously) on thinner paper, in light blue, instead of ultramarine."

A reader shows a letter bearing the current two cent, U. S., that was sent from Juneau, Alaska, in 1924, that was canceled with the regular Vancouver, B. C., postmark, and the impression in green, "Vancouver & Skagway R. P. B., Steamer 'Princess May.'"

Mr. Joseph A. Lanahan, New York, has sent us a readable story on the theme of the suggestions of the Ericsson stamp, as follows: "Have you noticed the 'spirit pictures' in the Ericsson stamp? You know it is an oblong stamp, having as its central figure, a woman 'holding her cloak and combing her hair' as our English friend says, surmounting a statue of Erickson seated, whose pediment extends to the sides of the stamp. Above the pediment on each side is a clump of trees. The background is formed of fine parallel lines. Framing the picture above is a quasi-arch between two shields. If you will examine the background in the irregular triangles formed by the trees, the arch and the statue, even without a glass, after the fashion of the picture puzzle in the Sunday papers, where you are to find 'the farmer and his dog,' you will notice the faint outlines of figures. I have shown the stamps to several friends, some whose interest in stamps simply is 'postage' and they have 'seen the spirits.' I have examined a pane (50, right, plate number 18,598) and in every stamp I found one or two figures, I also found them in about fifty others. Two blocks of six of the same position (18,599, right, plate number under the middle stamp) all showed 'phantoms,' but corresponding stamps did not show the same figures. A possible explanation might be that the lines are not drawn to the same depth thruout,—there is a reason, both mechanical and physiological for this—and the ink may not have taken with absolute uniformity, creating lights and shades which form the 'phantoms.' Of course, imagination and (shall I call it artistic sense?) are excellent aids. There is no significance to the 'Spirits' but hunting for them (or is 'evoking' the term?) would make an interesting 'game' and afford amusement during the 'long white nights.'" At any rate, Mr. Lanahan's phantoms are not gruesome 'shades' and after testing his manifestations, we are willing to admit that there is something to them.

A writer on postal reform said in pamphlet published in 1848 that "by introducing small stamps for postage and having all letters prepaid, the mail would be relieved of a large share of dead-letters now so burdensome." He said that six months after the introduction of postage stamps in this country, many citizens had yet to see one because it was not incumbent upon the sender of a letter to prepay it in money or stamps.

DEATH OF WM. GIVEN

In the death of William Given, who passed away at the Western Hospital, Toronto, on Friday, August 20th, the Canadian Philatelic Society, of which organization he had been Secretary-Treasurer since 1923, has sustained a deep loss.

Although in his 75th year the late Mr. Given looked no more than 60 and was as active and alert as a man half his age. In his retirement he took a zealous interest in the C. P. S. and it is largely due to his stewardship that the Society has reached its present height. His place will be hard to fill.

Mr. Given was born at Ventnor, Isle of Wight, but had resided in Canada for many years. Educated privately, he became a Master Printer for thirty years, and was a member of the Toronto Typographical Union, No. 91. In philatelic circles he was well and favourably known, not only as a dealer and collector, but as a sincere student of philately. He first became interested in stamps in 1907 and was a member of the A. P. S. and P. S. S.—WILLIAM BUT

The enthusiastic reception accorded by collectors everywhere to the first quarterly edition of the

New Issue Provisional Album

has left us with but few of the 2000 published copies still available, and we will shortly be obliged to announce that no more subscriptions will be accepted for the first year's issues.

The NEW ISSUE PROVISIONAL ALBUM is a temporary home for the large numbers of stamps issued between the publication of the various editions of our albums. It is issued every three months, and provides spaces for stamps of the three months previous as chronicled in Scott's Monthly Journal. Pages are regular album size, specially bound with a linen hinged back, and each edition will be large enough to include all new issues.*

FURTHER NOTES ON THE U. S. BUREAU PRECANCELLED STAMPS

By FREDERICK W. ALLEN

A noticeable feature of this class of cancellations is the slight difference in the overprints appearing on the coil stamps as contrasted with the regular ones, perforated around. Although almost identical, a difference is to be perceived and it has puzzled students of these issues. Mr. Geo. W. Linn suggested the generally recognized difference to be caused by the stretching of the rubber blanket used in the "offset" process, which he surmised was the method used for precancelling. A correspondent states that this is not the case and thoroughly explains much that has hitherto been the subject of guess-work. Believing that readers will find his communication of interest and value, I reproduce it herewith:

Mr. Geo. W. Linn's article "Stretched Printing on Bureau Cancelled Stamps" in the April 17th issue of Gossip suggests that the generally recognized difference in the dimension of the overprint of the town name and bars on the ordinary stamps and coils is due to the stretching of the rubber blanket used in the "offset" process that you consider is probably used.

The offset process, however, is not used as the precancellation is applied to the stamp from an electrotype roll after the stamp is printed but before gumming.

The difference in dimension of the stamp results from the stamps in the ordinary type being printed from foot to head on the roll of paper and the sidewise coils in the opposite position, i.e., looking down the roll of paper. The paper comes in rolls from 22 to 24 inches in diameter and in running through the press is dampened. The paper passes over the stamp plates and then is dried by running over electric heaters. It then goes over the electrotype precancelling cylinders to the gumming and final drying rack. There are probably 50 feet of paper in the press between the feed roll and the final roller on which the paper, still in the continuous strip, is recoiled.

Both the ordinary and coil stamps leave the press in roll form and are transferred to perforating and cutting machines where the continuous sheet is cut into sheets of 400 subjects for ordinary stamps.

The roll of coil stamps, before being cut into sections, is rewound from the original roll into smaller rolls about 9 inches in diameter to facilitate handling, and then it is from this roll that the measured sections of 500 or 1000 stamps in length are cut. These measured lengths with identifying label separating each length are split into ten finished coils, the identifying label separating each unit serving as a seal for the coil.

During the paper's progress through the press it passes over probably ten or more guide rollers and there is, consequently, considerable tension on the paper, especially from the recoiling roll which draws the paper over the gum drying heaters.

As the paper is dampened before printing and also the grain of the paper is lengthwise as wound on the roll there is a stretch of the paper which increases the dimension of the stamp, as well as the overprint in a direction parallel with the length of the paper.

In the case of the stamp impression there is also a stretch of the plate, due to the bending of the plate into a half cylinder to fit the press. This stretch is in the same direction as the paper stretch. Consequently, the difference in dimensions of the ordinary and coil stamps is due to the combined stretch of plate and paper. The electrotype cylinder from which the precancellation is made is presumably cast from a matrix taken from a flat setting of the type and the bending of the matrix to cylindrical form would likewise increase the dimension of the overprint lettering in the direction of the curving. As the matrix is much thinner than the plate the increase of dimension of the lettering is less.

Thus the change in dimension of the overprint is principally due to the stretch of the paper, while that of the stamp is more evenly divided between paper and plate.

The electrotype precancelling cylinders are made at the Government Printing Office to the order of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, being machined at the Bureau to fit the press. The ink is fed to the precancelling cylinder from a reservoir through a series of five rolls. The precancelling cylinder

Philippine Imperforates

As agent for Mr. Leon J. Lambert, I am enabled to offer my clients the imperforate issue of the Philippine stamps issued in Manila in June, 1925. Mr. Lambert has such confidence in these stamps that he is willing to buy them at certain prices and sell them at other figures. The quantity available is limited and the figures at which they are priced are subject to change. In fact, I am instructed to raise the quotations within a reasonable period. In the case of the higher values of some, I can furnish less than forty copies, so with collectors taking pairs and blocks of four, they are not likely to last long.

In the bid column, I give the prices that Mr. Lambert is willing to pay for these varieties and in the second column the price I am asking for superb mint copies. Pairs and blocks can be furnished at proportionate rates.

Washington Notes

We recently described in this column a new design which had been submitted by the White Plains committee to the Postmaster General for use in connection with the White Plains stamp and I now learn that two essays are being made up from this painting by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Both will show the same scene but one will be large like the Sesqui-Centennial and the other the size of the Norse-American. This smaller stamp will have a large "2" in the center at the bottom of the stamp and will be somewhat similar to the issue of 1869. The designs will be submitted to the committee and it is to be hoped that the smaller one will be accepted.

The Department is now giving serious consideration to the subject of their participation in the coming International Philatelic Exhibition and it is to be expected that their exhibit will be one of the most attractive, not only to the collector but to the non-collector as well.

The 2c Sesqui-Centennial envelopes have now been issued on extra quality paper in sizes 8 and 13. These are not printed in Philadelphia but in Dayton only, as the machine at the Sesqui-Centennial is turning out the size 5. I note the varieties produced in Dayton are in a much deeper shade of red and heavier printed than those produced in Philadelphia. A casual inspection of the two stamps leads me to believe that they are identical and that we will not be able to designate them as the Philadelphia and Dayton dies.

Mr. H. Clay Reed is the first to have called my attention to these new sizes.

Mr. Anthony Edelblut kindly sends me a clipping from the Interstate News, wherein mention is made that the Sesqui-Centennial will be held in Vincennes in 1929 to commemorate George Rogers Clark's Revolutionary activities. Congress is to be asked to issue a special stamp in addition to a coin and added to this they will want some real cash. The clipping mentions that Yorktown may have settled the fate of the colonies but that Clark's capture of Vincennes was the determining factor in negotiations at Paris which placed the western boundary along the Mississippi and made possible the Louisiana purchase in 1803.

Air Mail Notes

Mr. Claude W. Parker kindly sends me a communication from Springfield, Ill., bearing the postmark of the "Aeroplane Station" at the State Fair Grounds on the day of the opening of the Fair. This is dated August 21st, is circular in design and printed in blue. This is not to be confused with the special air mail cancellation to be used on August 27th from the same grounds.

Under date of August 18th, we are informed by the Information Service of the Post Office Department that the time approaches when the Postmaster General may ask private contractors to name the terms on which they will take over the business of carrying the transcontinental air mail. Mr. New has been in favor of turning this route over to a private concern from the very first but when it was started, there did not seem to be private capital available by any concern interested in the subject. Since the establishment of the contract air mail routes, several concerns are in a position to compete and it is believed that satisfactory arrangements will be made in the near future.

Philippines

In this column several months back, mention was made of the fact that the entire series of the current Philippine stamps from 2 centavos to 10 pesos, together with the Special Delivery, had been issued in an imperforate condition. While these were delivered in May of 1925, up until this time none of them have come upon the market. My personal investigations have resulted in my learning something as to the issue.

It seems that a good portion of the stamps were purchased by Mr. Leon J. Lambert, who today holds the main portion of these stamps available, as none of them are in the hands of the Philippine post office. Mr. Lambert writes that the stamps were received in May, 1925, and that they were sold over the counter at the Manila post office in June, 1925. The quantities in some cases, he states, are limited and of the 10 peso denomination, for instance, only two hundred were issued. There was such a hooray when these stamps appeared that the Director of Posts has advised that no more will be issued and General McIntyre, in charge of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, writes Mr. Lambert under date of July 21st and states that under no circumstances will the Bureau sell Philippine imperforate stamps without special instructions from Manila. During the latter part of last year, certain parties tried to induce the Director of Posts to issue more of these stamps, but the application was refused.

There is no doubt but what this issue has a speculative tinge, nevertheless, they have been produced by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing on the requisition of the Bureau of Insular Affairs in accordance with instructions from Manila, have been regularly used for postal purposes and, therefore, undoubtedly have a standing.

AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.—The current 4d value, like the 1½d, already noted, has appeared without imprint. According to Messrs. J. H. Smyth, Ltd., it is in quite a new shade, there being no trace of olive in the colour; our friends definitely record it as bistre. —Stamp Collecting.

BECHUANALAND.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 1sh overprinted on Great Britain, new watermark, as before.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Mr. G. V. Stewart advises that the 10sh new type, old CA watermark, is now obsolete and an order for a further supply, but on script paper, has been placed with the Crown Agents. Mr. Stewart also reports that it is rumored that only 4000 of the above stamps were issued and already 1 pound 10sh is being asked for this stamp in England.

CHINA SPECIALIZED

Collection of Mr. James Starr

The purpose of this collection is to exhibit the stamps of China, together with all information of interest pertaining to them that can be obtained. As the collection is constantly receiving additions it is shown "as is" without being dressed up for exhibition purposes. All the writing and illustration has been done by the owner.

The collection is nearly complete per catalogue and consists of the regular postal issues of China, with its offices in Thibet and East Turkestan, with their errors and surcharges, special issues, such as air mail, express delivery, stamps surcharged for postal saving use, etc., and while not actually stamps but pertaining to the postal system, insured letter envelopes, letter sheets, post cards and counterfeits, also stamps of the Treaty Ports.

The first and second issues being plateable, are collected in singles, new and used, and any sort of strips or blocks. There are also some large blocks obtained prior to systemizing the collection, which have been retained, but in general the system is:

1. Singles, unused for shades.
2. Singles, used for shades and cancellations. Pairs and strips occasionally kept to show postmarks.
3. Blocks of four unused. No effort made to collect shades, but any turning up retained.
4. Blocks of four, used. Shades taken if offered and different cancellations kept. In this class and the preceding one, occasional large blocks appear, where these were obtainable, and blocks of four were not offered, when a larger block showed the Bureau imprint or side lines, or a good postmark, or sometimes, especially in later issues, to dress the page.
5. Errors of all kinds as they occur.
6. Counterfeits, single only.
7. Proofs, as obtainable.
8. Specimen sets, singles only.
9. Sheets, any obtainable, of first two issues. One only, preferably of lowest value, of subsequent issues to show the makeup of the sheet. When the same form of sheet is found in two or more issues, but one sheet is collected.
10. Covers.
11. Express Delivery stamps, complete, of parts unused and some used.
12. Letter sheet and insured letter envelopes, used and unused.
13. Booklets. One of each combination.
14. Post Cards. New and used.
15. Postal Saving stamps, as obtainable.
16. Sundries.
17. Treaty Ports stamps. Singles unused, singles used, blocks and covers kept if offered but not tried for.

The items of especial interest are:

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

MAKE A NOTE OF IT:—

BERNARD E. CHARTER, Milford, Conn., has contracted for space for the coming season. Mr. Charter is a member of the A. P. S. 8411 and the Collectors Club 704. He comes to us well recommended.

IF any of our readers have auction catalogs of Mozian's March 1924, sale or Max F. Bier's May, 1924, sale, A. C. Gakenheimer, 2501 W. Baltimore St., Baltimore, Md., wishes to be advised.

WE have received a sample of Phillips' Monthly Bulletin for September. It is a large pamphlet of 32 pages, quoting a very extensive range of offerings. Sample copy will be mailed by the W. C. Phillips Co., Hartford, Conn., on request.

MARSHALL MILLER under date of August 8th advises us of the proposed visit of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Vallancey to Tacoma, Wash., August 28th. They will make a three days' visit and various functions have been arranged, including a dinner at the Tacoma Hotel.

OUR Beverly office was recently favored with a visit from H. G. Webb of Washington, D. C. Mr. Webb showed us a picture of Baltimore's first post office. It was certainly a very primitive affair and affords quite a contrast with the great buildings now to be found in our large cities.

WE have received a letter of thanks from R. J. Burke, Sunnycrest Sanitorium, Dubuque, Iowa. He is very grateful for the stamps sent him by some of our subscribers. He writes: "I want to thank you for the item in the WEEKLY. I have already started to get responses. It makes a person really feel good to know that others interested in stamps take an interest in those who are sick. I write my letters on a pad on my chest and sincerely hope you can read this one." Will some of our subscribers who have not already done so send Mr. Burke some of their duplicates and help give a bit of cheer to this young shut-in?

A RECENT number of the Winnipeg Mirror contained a two-column article dealing with the growth of the Van-Cleland Book and Art Store. This firm is making a special feature of dealing in stamps and considerable of the article is devoted to Mr. Van's stamp activities.

WE are indebted to George H. Allen of New Bedford, Mass., for a 2-years' subscription for the Free Public Library of that city. We greatly appreciate co-operation of this kind.

WE have received from M. T. Mauck, 911 Harlem Ave., Baltimore, Md., a very complete German Republic price list, based on 1927 quotations. Anyone interested in these stamps should apply for a copy.

WE have received a finely illustrated price list from Jean Germak, 49bis Rue Ste.-Anne, Paris 2, France. It is handsomely gotten up, and as Mr. Germak is a regular advertiser in the WEEKLY, we take pleasure in recommending this list. Send for a sample.

U. S. BUREAU PRECANCELLED STAMP

is about three inches in diameter. Four electrotypes are clamped to the roll to make a complete precancelling roll, one revolution overprinting 200 stamps in the ordinary type or 100 of the sidewise coils, a different cylinder, of course, being necessary for the coils and ordinary stamps. Each of the four electros making up the precancelling cylinder for the ordinary stamps has 50 subjects, 10 lengthwise by 5 around the cylinder. There are on each section of the coil electrotypes 25 subjects i. e. 5 by 5.

The precancelling cylinder for ordinary stamps has, as stated above, 200 subjects which must correspond with one-half of a 400 sheet of ordinary stamps. As cutting margins must be left between sheets the synchronizing of the stamp roll and the precancelling roll is necessary.

On the coil stamps there is no cutting margin and, consequently, it is not necessary to have the precancelling roller synchronize with the stamp roller.

As the above has all been carefully checked at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing it may be considered as authentic.

New Varieties

The June report of the Bureau shows the following unchronicled varieties to have been placed on order:

Reading, Pa., 1½c coil.
Davenport, Ia., 1½c coil.
Kansas City, Mo., 8c, 9c.

The post offices had apparently been holding back on the 1½'s until legislation on postal rates was fixed, as every order that called for coils included the 1½c denomination. In fact, nothing but these were ordered except Washington, which required more 2c coils. Almost all the orders for the ordinary stamps also included the 1½'s. Several ordered 1's as well. Kansas City and Brooklyn ordered more 7's.

Since the appearance of the Gossip catalog interest has increased. So many new varieties have since appeared that it would be logical to issue a second edition in the near future. To assist those who wish a supplementary list of the new issues, that will bring the catalog up to date as a check list if this list is incorporated therein, I present one at this time. Items starred (*) have not been seen by the writer.

NEW FIRM—M. HERBERT & CO.

Signs Contract for 5000 Lines Beginning With This Issue

Elsewhere in this issue appears the half page ad of the new firm of M. Herbert & Co., succeeding Stanley R. Rice. Mr. Herbert has been known for many years as a collector of fine stamps, and is an authority on 20th century British and French Colonies. Mr. Stonehill, the other member of the firm, is a gentleman of high standing. We bespeak for the new concern the patronage of our readers.

We might mention, en passant, that M. Herbert & Co. have just taken a 5000 line contract for the coming season.

CANADA NEW ISSUE DELAYED

(Clipping from E. E. Goodchild)

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—Some reasons why the Government has held up the projected issue of historic postage stamps were officially indicated today. There have been a number of complaints. One is that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is linked with Sir John A. MacDonald on one of the stamps.

It is argued that Sir John's confederate was not Laurier, but Sir George Etienne Cartier. Some objection has also been made against the late D'A McGee being on a stamp. The wh project has been suspended for furt consideration, but assurance has b given that if the issue is ever proce with, Cartier will be included.—Monr Star.

CONVENTION CERTIFICATES

It is our desire to be helpful in securing a sufficient number of certificates of purchase of railroad tickets to obtain reduced rates to the New York Exhibition and A. P. S. Convention. To that end we will print the names of all who intend to visit New York in October and who will secure certificates when purchasing tickets.

We cannot take the space to print the names of persons residing in and near New York, for obvious reasons. The total secured each week will be carried forward in each successive number. Send in your name at once.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

By R. D. MACGUFFIN

Colonial Stamps as an Investment, by J. T. Molony. Wholesale London agent, F. H. Vallancey, 89 Farringdon St., London, England. Retail price, 50c.

This is a cloth-bound book, and discusses the subject that has already been brought to the attention of our readers by Mr. MacGuffin. Mr. Molony believes that collectors should make a closer study of investment values. The various chapters deal with Supply and Demand, Mathematics of Collecting, Popularity and Rising Values, Necessary and Unnecessary Issues, Collectors and Dealers, Modern versus Classic, etc. A chapter of special interest to us is one dealing with the "Necessity of Keeping in Touch with the Philatelic Press." There are in the United States at least 100,000 collectors who subscribe to no stamp paper, and have no way of keeping posted upon stamp values. Mr. Molony's book should be very helpful in promoting interest in philately from the financial standpoint, and it is perfectly proper that this element in the makeup of the ordinary collector should be catered to.

scenes and one portrait, each one plainly labelled. The scarcest values in this issue are Nos. 85 and 86, the 3 shilling and 5 shilling, which generally sell at full catalogue. On the 2½ pence, the flag on the left was found to be drawn upside down and in 1921, this was corrected. The 4 pence of this issue is considered one of the finest appearing British Colonial stamps ever issued because its colors and the border of oranges make the stamp a very fine looking one. A 6 pence value, entitled "The Abolition of Slavery," was prepared but was not issued on account of its bad colors and printing. The colors were red and dark grey.

An entirely new watermark, the Multiple Crown and Script CA, was put out in 1921-23. The values were the same as the 1919-21 issue except two new 6 pence values were added. One 6 pence stamp showed the town and harbor of Port Royal in about 1850. The 6 pence value of the 1912-19 type, bearing the protrait of King George, was also issued on the Script watermarked paper.

Jamaica has never used a special design for an official stamp. It has simply surcharged straight postage stamps with the word "Official." In 1890, the ½ penny Victoria type was overprinted "Official" and in 1890-91 this same overprint, in thicker letters, was put on the ½ penny, 1 penny and 2 pence of the Victoria types.

The War Stamps of Jamaica are very interesting because of the large number of minor varieties, due to errors in surcharging. One of the errors catalogs $40.00, while three of them catalog $20.00 apiece.

In order to provide money for war purposes, the postal rates were raised in 1916 to 1½ pence per ounce for letters, and to 1 penny for postcards, and a tax of 3 pence was placed on packages. The last of the war stamps were issued in 1919.

The only charity stamps that Jamaica has ever issued are the Child Welfare set of three values, which is watermarked Multiple Crown and Script CA and perforated 12. The Child Welfare issue came out on November 1, 1923, for the Child Saving League of Jamaica. It was sold out almost immediately to stamp collectors, stamp dealers and others, so that a new supply had to be ordered from London at once. The stamps were reissued in 1925. Each stamp was sold for ½ penny over face value, the extra money being used for the poor children of the island.

The stamps are very interesting because the scenes look as if they might be pictures of our own Southern pickaninnies.

There are 254 towns and postoffices in Jamaica, each having a cancellation. So far, I have 145 different cancellations and it sure has been work getting them. But when you get a new one it is a great thrill.

There are many funny town names, such as, Anchovy, Alligator Pond, Bonny Gate, Comfort Hall, Dry Harbour, Fyffe's Pen, Giddy Hall, Harry Watch, Half-Way Tree, Laughlands, Lucky Hill, Pear Tree Grove, Pepper, Salt Gut, Shooter's Hill and Wait-a-Bit.

I have read several books about Jamaica and its history, and have learned many interesting things.

Port Royal, for instance, in the sixteenth century, was the richest and toughest town on the globe. The pirates of the Spanish Main made their headquarters there and spent the booty which they stole from Spanish treasure ships. In 1692, when it was toughest and richest, along came an earthquake and threw Port Royal into the sea from the sandspit on which it stands, claiming many lives. Then those people who were not killed went further up the harbor and founded the City of Kingston.

These are some of the reasons why I collect the stamps of Jamaica. The country can be completed without a terrible big cost and there are very few stamps that you cannot sometime get.

Before I close this talk I want to say "hello" to a fellow stamp collector in San Jose, who I know is listening in to me. He is Kenneth J. Cramphorn, a "shut-in" Canadian veteran of the World War and I want you to take down his name and address. He doesn't know I am going to do this but I want to ask all of you to send him some of your duplicates, for there is no one more deserving of them and his only pleasure is collecting stamps and listening to the radio.

Have you got your pencils ready? If you haven't I'll wait a minute for you. (Pause) The name is, Kenneth J. Cramphorn — C-R-A-M-P-H-O-R-N — 757 O'Brien Court, San Jose, California. I'll repeat it to be sure that everybody gets it: Kenneth J. Cramphorn—757 O'Brien Court, San Jose, California.

I thank you for listening to my talk and hope you have all enjoyed it. Good night, Kenneth. Good night, everybody.

DR. SERGE AVAZON

By WILLARD O. WYLIE

Twice this year the philatelic fame of Dr. Avazon has been broadcasted by the metropolitan dailies. The Brooklyn Sunday Eagle of Feb. 14 and the New York Herald-Tribune of April 18 both contained full page features of great publicity value for which Dr. Avazon furnished the facts upon which the articles were based. Quite naturally the genial doctor was compelled to tell something about his own interest in philately.

The Eagle article is illustrated with a fine halftone of our friend and one of the pages of his French collection. The Herald-Tribune featured the Balloon Post of Paris in 1870, the first airmail established. This article also was attractively illustrated.

Our readers will hear from Dr. Avazon during the coming winter months, as he will occasionally write for the WEEKLY. He is greatly interested in the stamps of France and has written and lectured much upon this specialty. His album pages are artistically arranged and one of our recent issues pictured what he can do in this direction.

Dealer's Stock

Owing to press of other business, we have decided to discontinue our cheap approval department and to clear out our stock at a bargain price. The stock consists of a well chosen variety of old and new issues, foreign and colonial, mostly cataloguing 3c to 25c; very little of the ordinary cheap approval stuff is included.

By the old (1926) catalogue the stamps listed over $8400.00.

This stock would form a wonderful start for anyone wishing to enter the cheap approval business, or would be a very useful addition to a dealer's stock.

The price asked is only $1400.00 and terms can be arranged with responsible parties.

CONGRESS OF BOLIVAR, 1826-1926

By HARRY E. HUBER

Except for the 1878 (Arms) and 1887 (Map) series lithographed in Colombia, the stamps of Panama have hitherto been produced in the United States. Even while the Isthmus was yet a Department of Colombia, the American Bank Note Co. printed the Map series of 1892-1896 (patterned after and a refinement of the lithographed design of 1887), and these, appropriately overprinted, were used for several years after Panama became an independent Republic on November 3, 1903. The first permanent series of the Republic, of 9 denominations, ½c to 50c de balboa, made its appearance towards the end of 1906, and was produced by the Hamilton Bank Note Co. of New York. In 1909 the American Bank Note Co. secured the stamp printing contract, and for over 16 years printed the general and commemorative series. But the contract for the series (in three designs) commemorating the first centenary of the Bolivarian Congress (held in Panama from June 22nd to July 15th, 1826), was placed in England, with the firm of Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., London.

In a conspicuous position on the first page of the Diario de Panama (No. 11325) of Wednesday, 2nd June, 1926, is printed the text of decree No. 89 of 1st June, 1926, under prominent headlines announcing that "The issue of stamps commemorative of the Bolivarian Congress is to be 1,715,000, comprising twelve different denominations, and to prevent the cornering of them by philatelists, the Executive has restricted their sale to collectors and stamp dealers. On the 10th inst. they are to be placed in circulation at all the Post Offices of the Republic."

1st June

By which there is authorised an issue of postage stamps commemorative of the First Centenary of the Congress of Bolivar.

The President of the Republic in exercise of his legal powers—

DECREES

Article 1.—That there is authorised the issue of a series of postage stamps to commemorate the First Centenary of the Congress of Bolivar, conforming to the following:

a.—250,000 stamps of the denomination of ½ centesimo de balboa, color orange, whose engraving represents the bust of the Liberator, with the inscription "REPUBLICA DE PANAMA—CORREOS" in the upper part; in the center, the engraving aforesaid, with the figures "1826" to the left, and "1926" to the right of the engraving; "CONGRESO DE BOLIVAR—MEDIO CENTESIMO DE BALBOA" in letters and numerals in the lower part.

b.—250,000 stamps of the denomination of 1c de balboa, color green, with the engraving representing the bust of the Liberator, with the same inscription.

c.—250,000 stamps of the denomination of 2c de balboa, color vermilion, with the preceding engraving and inscription.

d.—250,000 stamps of the denomination of 4c de balboa, color gray, with the engraving and inscription of the preceding stamp.

e.—200,000 stamps of the denomination of 5c de balboa, color dark blue, with the engraving and inscription of the preceding stamp."

(1) Bust of Simon de Bolivar (½c to 5c)

The stamps are line engraved and recess printed in single colors, in sheets of 100 (10 x 10), on white unwatermarked paper, and perforated 12½ single line. Under each stamp of the sheet the printer's name, "Waterlow & Sons, Limited, Londres," appears in small colored caps.

The stamp design is a vertical rectangle, measuring 22½ x 25½ mm., at the top of which, in a straight line, in colorless letters, is "REPUBLICA DE PANAMA." Immediately under, in small colored letters, "CORREOS" conforms to the central circular medallion, within which is a portrait of Bolivar (so inscribed in colorless letters at the foot), facing the right, and differing only slightly from that on the 1926 series of Venezuela, produced by the same printers. At each side of the central medallion are four inverted trefoils, in pendant formation, and at the foot, on a ribbon, is the inscription "1826—CONGRESO DE BOLIVAR—1926." In two lines of colorless letters (between colorless numerals of value in each of the lower corners), the value is expressed, "MEDIO CENTESIMO—DE BALBOA".

Simon de Bolivar, the liberator not only of his native land, Venezuela, but also of Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia, was born at Caracas on July 24, 1783, in a house which still stands near the center of the city, across a narrow plaza from the market. His family were rich, and owned large estates in different parts of the country. In 1799 he was sent to Spain to complete his education, and there was married in 1802. He returned to Venezuela with his wife shortly afterwards, and there she died on January 22, 1803. Several years were then spent in travel, and not until the end of 1806 did Bolivar return to Caracas. There he became the leader of the revolutionary element, and in 1810, being accused of sedition, was forced to leave the country. In Europe, he met Francisco de Miranda, and on 5th December, 1810, returned to Caracas, bringing the latter with him. Then came the Declaration of Independence (July 5, 1811), the organisation of the republic, with Miranda as military chief, the capture of the citadel at Puerto Cabello, the defeat of the revolutionary army at Victoria, the quarrel between Bolivar and Miranda, and the betrayal of the latter to the Spanish authorities in 1812.

When the revolutionists had recovered from their demoralisation, Bolivar became their leader, and continued as such

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
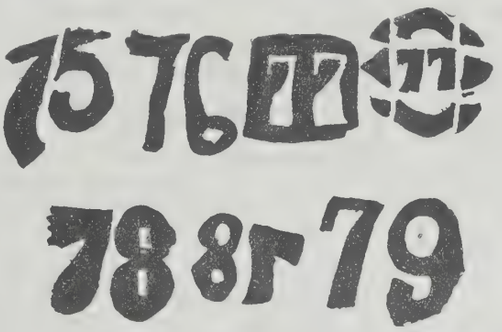
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

Here are some more year dates used as cancellers sent by K. N. Woodward, after the lot sent by Mr. Burr had been completed. These are all in black on 3c green stamps, but as none of them were on covers the places in which they were used are unknown. This lot is all of the cancellations of this character that have come for observation up to this time. Thus far, none of those illustrated have been identified.

Harry M. Konwiser, who has spent much time in the last year in the study of the Department stamps of the U. S., reports having a 10c Interior Dept. on soft paper, on the original envelope, which he describes as follows:



In the issue of May 10, a name for illustration No. 4, belonging to W. J. Michels, was requested. Here it is, from Edw. L. Caum, who says, "I would take a long guess that it is an owl face. If you will look up some of the coins of ancient Athens, you will find Athena's owl with just as crude looking a map. In fact, from the looks of it, the 'artist' might well have been a coin collector, and have drawn his inspiration from the masterpiece of some old Greek die-cutter instead of from his imagination." If no one suggests a better name, Mr. Michels can call his cancellation a classical owl's face, and be safe.

Here are some things about a few of the lacking items in the list of R. R. cancellations which clears up the doubt with regard to them.

PORTLAND, SACO & PORTSMOUTH" finishes that name Mr. E. F. Stillings says, and adds that "this was later called the Eastern R. R. and years later became the Eastern Division of the Boston and Maine, and now is the Portland Div. of the same R. R."

"—B. Ex. A. V. R. R." B. A. Ashcraft says, "I have a cover showing the first letter to be R., and as the return card is that of Tyler, Pa., I asked a former station agent of that place, who informs me that it is Red Bank Express, Allegany Valley R. R. This is a part of the present Penna. system, and the train runs from Driftwood to Red Bank." That makes it the marking of a particular train in the same class as The Fast Mail, and other train markings, and increases its interest, if not its value.

"CIN - - - - - UIS R. P. O." is identified as Cin. & St. Louis R. P. O. by H. F. Kohr.

Several lists of new markings in all three classes, R. R., R. P. O., and Agt., have been sent in, and when enough have accumulated to make a goodly sized list, they will be compiled, but it seems inadvisable to report them as they come in, a few at a time, scattered through several weeks' notes. That will confuse us all and probably result in duplication of names. There must be a great many of these markings that have not been reported as yet.

A few have reported R. R. cancellations in later years. It is the intention to first complete, as nearly as possible, those used between 1870 and 1882, and later ones are not desired just now.

"This is a Department of the Interior, Patent Office, Official Business cover, on white, as per the normal box in the upper right corner. At the left in three lines are the words, 'Draftsman C Division.' The letter enclosed in the cover is from the Patent Office, dated June 14, 1884, and is addressed, as is the outside of the cover, to John M. Freeman, Mannsville, N. Y. The stamp is the 10c Interior on soft paper—there is no doubt about that. This stamp is cancelled, 'Washington, D. C. Reg.' in the customary Registry oval of 1884. This Registry cancellation also appears in the box at the upper right. These are both in black. The registry number 17356 appears in blue at the lower left corner of the official notice box. The words 'Registered Jan 21 1884,' in three lines, are in reddish purple at the right of the name and address. On the reverse side appears, in blue oval, 'Chief Clerk, Jan. 21, U. S. Patent Office.' It obviously took the week after the letter was written, before the Chief Clerk got it to the Registry Division." That's what red tape did to rapid transit in those days. This comment is mine.

Now, Mr. Konwiser asks: "When and where anyone has seen a 10c Interior on soft paper on cover?" Who has any value of Interior on soft paper except on 3c cover? They are worth having all right.

Occasionally we see one of the issues before 1870 from towns in the Territories before they were admitted to Statehood and the postmarks have the Territorial designation in the form of a T following the initial of the Territory, as K. T., Kansas Territory, M. T., Minnesota Territory.

Was this the custom after 1870? Not long ago a 2c red brown postmarked in Ind. T. was sent in by M. H. Lyons, Jr., but did the others use it? Who has

A few covers from Forts have been sent in. Prof. Gamber sends Fort Yates, Dak., in blue, but the person who received the letter opened it by tearing off the end on which the stamp was placed and half of it is gone.

Fort Logan, Mont., is another sent by Prof. Gamber. This is octagonal, but unfortunately not plainly enough struck to decipher positively.

C. W. Haynes sends Stone Fort, Saline Co., Ill., in a double oval. The outer one notched. This is on 3c green, and in magenta.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF HAYTI

By Bertram W. H. Poole.

Chapter XXV.
The 1913 Issue

In 1913, seven of the then current stamps of the issue of 1906 were issued in entirely new colors. The 4c appeared in olive instead of carmine-lake; the 7c in red instead of gray; the 8c in olive green instead of carmine rose; the 10c in red brown instead of orange; the 15c and 50c in yellow instead of olive green and red respectively; and the 1 piastre in vermilion instead of claret. These stamps were, of course, printed by the American Bank Note Company and are, except as regards color, exactly similar to the corresponding denominations of the series of 1906.

Chapter XXVI
The 1914 Provisionals

The early days of January, 1914, saw the beginning of another revolution headed by General Oreste Zamor. On February 14th all opposition was overcome and Zamor appointed himself President. To mark the successful termination of the revolution and to show who was at the head of affairs in Hayti, Zamor caused all the stamps then in stock to be overprinted with his initials, the date, and, in some cases, with new values. Three different styles of handstamps were used. The one most frequently in evidence shows "Gl O. Z.—7 fev. 1914" in two straight lines with a row of dots below within a rectangular frame.

Two different handstamps were used of this type differing in small particulars. They may be distinguished by a short or long foot to the "L" of "GL" and the position of the first "1" of 1914 with regard to the period above it. Both types are known on all the stamps overprinted except the 3c brown of 1906 which is only known with the type with short foot to "L". The stamps found with this style of overprint are the 8c of 1898-99, the regular issue of 1904, the 50c of the same issue with "Post Paye" overprint, all the values of the 1906 issue for foreign postage, except the 5c and the 3c for domestic postage of the same series, the 3c and 20c for foreign postage and the 2c for domestic use of the 1910-11 set, the three LeConte stamps issued in 1912, and all seven value of the 1913 series.

The next type of handstamp consists of "Gl O. Z.—1 Cent de Piastre—7 Fev. 1914" in three straight lines within a rectangular frame. This was applied to the 50c and 1 pia values of both the 1906 and 1913 sets.

Another type of handstamp was applied to the 20c and 50c stamps of 1904 only. This is diamond-shaped with the date "7 fev. 1914" across the centre with "Gl O. Z." and "7 Cent" above and below respectively, following the outline of the diamond.

Most of these overprints and surcharges may be found inverted, double, sideways, in pairs with and without overprint, etc.

The two 7 cent provisionals may be found in pairs imperforate between the stamps and the 5c of 1904 is recorded imperforate vertically.

Chapter XXVII
The Unissued Stamps of 1915

The provisionals recorded in the last chapter were for temporary use only, pending the arrival of an entirely new issue which had been ordered by Zamor's government from the American Bank Note Company of New York. This series, consisting of eight different denominations for foreign postage and five for domestic use, were duly despatched from the printers and arrived in Hayti in February, 1915, but were never in use for the reason that befo stamps were delivered to the Administration some of the case broken into while they were still custody of the Custom authoriti large quantities of most of the di values were stolen. Although stamps are listed in the catalogue regular issue they really belong category of stamps prepared for never issued. Obliterated copie said to be known but as the stamp never available for postage such were cancelled through inadverte by favor.

Some of the stolen stamps we covered and after some discussion whether the series should be pla sale or not it was finally decide the wisest course would be to dest the stamps delivered to or recove the government. They were accor publicly burned in the Place de l of Port-au-Prince on July 24, 19

WHAT CAN YOU USE IN THE RECENT FRENCH COLONIALS?

Metropolitan Stamp Co., 1482 Broadway (Opposite Times Bldg.), N. Y. C.

the presence of the leading government officials. At that time the numbers known to have been stolen were as follows:

For Interior Postage

2c yellow and black,	100,000
5c yellow green and black,	50,000
7c rose and black,	100,000

For Foreign Postage

1c deep green and black,	100,000
2c red and black,	500,000
3c olive green and black,	150,000
5c blue and black,	500,000
7c orange and black,	150,000
10c brown and black,	250,000
15c olive gray and black,	100,000
20c brown and black,	80,000

Some of these were later recovered and burnt but unfortunately no figures are available. It will be noted that among the stamps stolen were 500,000 2c for foreign postage though none of these are known to exist today. Either they were all recovered and destroyed or have never been offered by the thieves. For years the 20 centimes was very scarce, only two or three copies being known, but of late some have come on the market.

The stamps of this series were all of oblong shape like the stamps of 1906 and all were printed in two colors, the centers being black in all cases. On the 1c, 5c, 10c and 15c values for foreign postage a portrait of President Zamor is shown, and Zamor's effigy is also upon the 5c stamp for interior use. On the 7c for foreign use is a portrait of T. Auguste while on the other denominations the Arms of the republic form the centerpiece.

CHAPTER XXVIII

The 1c Provisionals of 1915-16

Had it been possible to place on sale the unissued stamps described in the foregoing chapter philatelists might have been spared a great deal of trouble and annoyance for, from October, 1915, until April, 1920, Hayti's stamp output consisted of one unsightly surcharge after another. Apparently it was chiefly due to a perpetual shortage of low values for the majority of these crudely produced provisionals are of the facial values of 1 and 2 centimes. That they were not issued primarily to fill a philatelic demand may be inferred from the unprepossessing appearance of these daubs and the fact that they were issued under the more or less watchful eye of a director of the Postal Department chosen by the United States government. It certainly shows uncommonly poor judgment, to say the least of it, on the part of this official that he should allow such a slip-shod state of affairs to continue over such a prolonged period. But for the fact that they may be said to have been issued under the auspices of the United States we think most collectors would be content to leave this conglomeration of surcharges severely alone. For most of the following information, especially as regards the numbers issued and dates of issue of the respective varieties, we are indebted to the excellent article from the pen of Mr. Everett A. Colson which appeared in the WEEKLY for October 9, 1920.

By October, 1915, the supply of 1 centime stamps for domestic postage had become completely exhausted and it was decided to surcharge the unoverprinted remainders of the 1904 issue as well as those of the same series with "POST PAYE" overprint. The surcharge consisted of a large numeral "1" within an upright rectangular frame, very nearly as large as the stamps themselves, and it was struck in either red or blue. The numbers issued and dates on which the respective varieties appeared are stated by Mr. Colson to be as follows:

On Issue of 1904 (Nord Alexis)

1c in red on 5c dark blue, June 27, 1916,	10,000
1c in blue on 10c orange, June 13-27, 1916,	74,143
1c in blue on 20c orange, June 20, 1916,	35,050
1c in blue on 50c claret, Oct. 19, 1915,	197,770

On Issue of 1904 with POST PAYE Overprint

1c in blue on 20c orange, June 20, 1916,	11,044
1c in blue on 50c claret, Oct. 19, 1915,	8,297
1c in red on 50c claret, Oct. 19, 1915,	933

On Issue of 1906 for Foreign Postage

1c in red on 7c gray, Nov. 19, 1916,	248,668

The 1c on 50c in red is the rarest of all these provisional surcharges. The date given for the 1c on 7c gray is that on which the first lot of 150,000 were surcharged, the balance, bringing the total to the figures quoted above were not completed until April 3rd, 1917.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., AIR FLIGHT

On Aug. 27, a special air mail flight took place between Springfield, Ill., and Chicago. The State Fair grounds were the point of departure and all letters are postmarked 4 P.M., leaving and 7 P.M. Chicago, arriving. We have to thank Homer P. Macnamara, M.D., Raymond V. Bahr, Charles Hall, E. Strasser, Melvin D. Spencer and A. E. Gorham for covers received. All have the two markings above indicated and bear in blue ink the design pictured in the WEEKLY recently:

The Macnamara cover differs from the others in that it bears an additional Springfield marking in violet. It consists of the following in a circle: "Aero Plane Sta—Aug 27, 1926—State Fair Grounds—Springfield, Ill."

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

MR. SEVERN ON A VACATION

No editorial matter this week!

Mr. Severn has gone up in the wilds of Wisconsin, far away from the noise and confusion of the city. To complete the rest that he will have, no editorial copy is to appear from his pen this week.

As the other members of the staff all have their troubles we will fill the space usually headed "Editorial" with some other copy.

SWEDISH POSTAL EXHIBIT

By BARON JOH RUDBECK

Regarding a notice in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS of July 5th, 1926, page 351, about the Swedish Government's postal exhibit at the Stamp Exhibition, New York, I beg to hereby inform you that naturally the Royal Swedish Postal Administration arranges the exhibit itself without the good offices of any private person. It has been decided that I shall go to New York in October and there arrange the Administration's exhibit of stamps.

The Swedish Postal Museum at Stockholm, of which I am Director, is managed by the Royal Postal Administration of which I am Superintendent, and has lately been greatly developed by the same, with the result that it is now one of the most comprehensive in the world.

The Society, "Friends of the Postal Museum of Sweden," of which the Post Master General is the honorary president and I am the president, is quite new and has not yet been able to do anything for the Postal Museum.

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN, August 15, 1926.

Philadelphia Stamp Club, Phila., Pa.
H. C. Lamb, Yakima, Wash.

George C. McNabb sends us a check for $5 for membership in our Honor Club. It is taken out in the name of the Philadelphia Stamp Club, 1626 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., and we thank the Club for its co-operation.

We are also pleased to enter as a member of our Honor Club, H. C. Lamb, of 218 S. 18th Ave., Yakima, Wash. A remittance of $5 for five years' renewal of subscription is received just as we go to press.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

A Few More Subscriptions Can Still Be Accepted

The enthusiastic reception accorded by collectors everywhere to the first quarterly edition of the

New Issue Provisional Album

has left us with but few of the 2000 published copies still available, and we will shortly be obliged to announce that no more subscriptions will be accepted for the first year's issues.

The NEW ISSUE PROVISIONAL ALBUM is a temporary home for the large numbers of stamps issued between the publication of the various editions of our albums. It is issued every three months, and provides spaces for stamps of the three months previous as chronicled in Scott's Monthly Journal. Pages are regular album size, specially bound with a linen hinged back, and each edition will be large enough to include all new issues.*

FULLY ILLUSTRATED

This album is sold by subscription only. The price $2.50 entitles the subscriber to 4 issues, published quarterly, post free.

We advise collectors interested to write at once. [tf

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.

* The 1st quarterly edition, now out, is somewhat larger than later editions as it goes back to the publication of the 1926 Catalogue, thus connecting it with the latest edition of the International bound and loose leaf albums.

FAR AND NEAR:—

THE C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. of St. Louis, Mo., has taken out a contract for 4000 lines of advertising, to be used during the coming season. This firm is now on a more stable basis than ever before in its history, and we take pleasure in commending the Hussman Co. to the patronage of our readers.

IF any of our subscribers desire any information in regard to a party by the name of C. H. Gunter, of Tampa, Fla., formerly of 219 Peachtree Arcade, Atlanta, Ga., they will do well to write R. H. Peck, Atlanta, Ga., enclosing stamp for reply. Mr. Peck has written us at length and the facts revealed are such that we deem it wise to publish this notice.

WE are indebted to Gordon Crouch for first day greetings from the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, which he calls the "world's greatest annual exhibition." The Exhibition is advertised by a circular postal marking arranged in an effective manner, and bears the date of August 28.

THE itinerary of Fred J. Melville's trip to the Exhibition includes a visit to Boston. Mr. Melville will be accompanied by the two British dealers, Frank Godden and R. Roberts. It is expected that the Boston Philatelic Society will take note of the presence in the city of these distinguished visitors.

AN interesting article on stamps was published in the New York Times August 29. W. Milton Sisson and Frank Bennett are the first two subscribers to call our attention to the same.

WE are advised that the Penna. Stamp Co. has removed its office from Manor to Greensburg, Pa., and the firm is much pleased with its increased facilities for business.

A WARNING has reached us from R. Roberts, the British dealer. It is signed by W. J. Glover, Financial Superintendent of the Canadian Post Office Department. In connection with the carrying of air mail from Ontario to Red Lake Goldfields, to Woman Lake and Birch Lake areas, he declares that the P. O. Department has had absolutely nothing to do with the stamps said to have been used, but which are merely labels. These were affixed on the reverse side of the letters carried by aeroplane.

THE Marks Stamp Co. has very kindly sent us a lengthy clipping from the Toronto Daily Star, dealing with the postponement of the day of issue of the new set of stamps. We have already referred to this matter in our columns. The new set, if ever issued, will undergo certain changes.

NEW ISSUES FROM MR. FOCKE

When the Managing Editor of the WEEKLY conducted the New Issues Dept., he had a faithful correspondent in Mr. Hermann Focke of N. Y. City. His information was always reliable and he had the happy faculty of scenting any new thing that came along in his South American mail. He sends us some items this week that bear all the earmarks of his old time vigor. Hearty thanks, Mr. Focke:

Costa Rica—5 centimos blue (Scott's No. 121) remainders surcharged "3 Centimos" in black, and color changed to 5 centimos green.

10c, same issue, Scott's 122, color changed from red brown to pink (all 3 copies herewith).

Guatemala—6 centavos (same as No. 209) is again printed by Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., in new color (ochre) and with U. P. U. 1926 instead of 1902, same as 10c now cinnamon and the new value of $1.50 deep blue, of same design as the $1.25 value (Scott's No. 216). The latter two values were reported in the WEEKLY two weeks ago, so they are not new.

Honduras — This country has surcharged the 6 centavos value (Scott's No. 187) "Acuerdo Mayo 3 de 1926" in black and "HABILITADO" in red, which means, translated, "Agreement of May 3, 1926" and "Provisional"; certainly a very necessary issue, but what the agreement was, I don't know, perhaps a gentlemen's agreement that there will be no revolution before September.

Malta—On August 2nd, appeared the ½d green value of the new set, same design as ¼d, 4d, 4½d and 6d previously reported. My correspondent at Valetta reports that there will be no change in the design of those shilling values which do not have the name of what they represent printed on them. On the other hand it must be noted that this new issue is for the first time since 1881 minus the familiar Maltese Cross, an omission which is to be regretted, and may perhaps be corrected later.

Peru—This country has added to its present set a 15 centavos value in dark blue with portrait of the Grand Admiral Lamar; general design same as that of the 1924 issue.

Panama—A commemorative stamp has appeared, value 2 cents, de Balboa in vermilion, with head of the Liberator Bolivar, in recognition of the "Congreso de Bolivar" with years 1826-1926, no doubt celebrating the centenary of independence from Spain.

Venezuela—This country has run short on its 25 centimos regular postage stamp, and has pressed into temporary service a beautiful little revenue stamp, value 5 centimos, brown, by surcharging "CORREOS—Vale—B O .25—192 red; quite a pretty little stamp, ought to attract attention. Of cour "B" in the surcharge stands for " var", the monetary unit of Venezue the value of a gold franc or 20c i money.

All the above novelties are enc for your inspection.

COLLECTORS AND DEALERS

By PERCY A. HILL

Without collectors there would be no dealers and perhaps vice-versa—the old problem of the hen and the egg as to who was first. The pyschology of the collector is an unknown quantity for various reasons. Some tire of the hobby or lose interest, others devote a monthly sum to methodical acquisition, and others and their style cramped owing to financial stringency, but to all of these the dealer is the natural feeder, as the day of personal exchange has gone. In general the true stamp lover does not divorce himself quickly from his hobby. He very naturally acquires all the cheaper or medium varieties and then proceeds to build from both ends. If finances permit he will join a new issue service to keep abreast of the times, and buy the older issues, extending his collection to the rarities.

Now there are very few new issue services that are comprehensive enough to satisfy all, and in this case he is forced to buy and choose from a half dozen different firms and dealers whose ads fill the pages of each philatelic journal. From some he may purchase right along, according to service rendered or special "bargains" that lure, or from some other quirk that pleases his personality. From others he desires only some speciality they advertise. Hence the growing numbers of general dealers in the United States.

A number of collectors prefer British, German or Swiss firms rather than patronise home industry. I have found out in many instances that it is done because the dealers in those countries take a longer chance on the collector than do our own. They may send approvals unsolicited up to four figures and may be satisfied if the customer takes five or six dollars' worth. Some of the British and Swiss firms seem to be especially daring in this way, or shall we say they have more faith in the collector? The French firms are rather slow in some cases for most collectors, and the fluctuating franc has discouraged commerce; still the correspondence takes more of a personal turn, and in the majority of cases the dealers use long-hand prolix letters, small orders treated the same as large ones. This human touch, that of personal letters our dealers lack at present, no matter what the purchase may amount to. Still there are signs that they are taking up this phase of affairs, and I have even noticed that some of our dealers are doing a C.O.D. business, which is rather risky in cases of weighty stuff like albums, unless to regular customers who as a rule do not desire this kind of service. Credit—and we may say that the approval business is credit—has a lot to do with the encroaching of the foreign dealers on the home market, and not the lower prices. By this we mean responsible firms, not those sent out by some at ten per cent off catalog and consisting of mere junk that does not defray the postage.

The day of the exclusive standard dealer seems to be going, due perhaps to higher prices and exclusiveness, otherwise we would not have some two hundred firms and dealers advertising in MEKEEL'S on an average, nor does there seem to be any one city that has the trade. Just as we are learning to develop our industrial exports and are forced to adopt the lines of competition in commerce, so perhaps the philatelic business will be forced to develop. The urge given to philately is due greatly to the war or its issues and the general traveling done in that hectic period by half a world, so we might also observe that even common junk is not inexhaustible. The earthquake in Japan destroyed billions of the common stuff hoarded in Tokio and Yokohama, and we see where even that country will, of a necessity, register an advance in stamp prices.

Human nature being the oldest institution on earth, and the collector being also human, continually strives after "bargains". I have often thought that philately is thrift—one of the primal virtues if not carried to excess—for collectors are always alive to bargains even if the difference is eaten up by postage in reaching distant dealers. Then there are the exchangers who send out stuff that sells at a dollar a thousand varieties, and who chortle with glee if they get a ten-center, utterly oblivious of the fact that their outlay in time and postage would have brought them twice that number of stamps, like the lady who joyfully spends a dollar's worth of gasoline chasing the ninety-cent saucepan. They get a kick out of it, for the thrill is what holds up the collector until they total up the expense, and then think of the danger of their getting writers' cramp.

Coming back to dealers, there are some of the persuasive and persistent kind that one hates to let a circular go to waste without at least buying a modest amount so as not to discourage them, just because perhaps they possess the primal function of the stamp itself—that of sticking. Dealers need to go after business when competition becomes general. They cannot hope to hold as permanent fixtures all those who deal with them, but they can try, for this holding means in many cases the use of the red and not black ink in the annual business statement. There is no other country that comes up to the United States in variety and profusion of philatelic journals. Perhaps there cannot be too many dealers. The more dealers, the more collectors, and so on until the day may come when some anti-philatelic Volstead may arise and write us out of the constitution!

The real stamp lover is not content with taking one organ devoted to his hobby. As there are different stamps so are there different views of philately, different prices, and different bargains.

R. FORBES-BENTLEY,
BIRCHIRCARA MALTA
Cables: "PHILATELIC-MALTA". [64

We all know how the enthusiasm of the hardened collector subsides after he shows his Mozambiques to an admiring crowd, and which he has acquired at half catalog, to have a brother philatelist show him a bulletin where they can be bought at about one-third, but that is all in the game, the seeking of the elusive "sleeper" and the "hard-to-get" stamps. Most certainly it is a growing hobby. During the last few years we have seen friends, who never thought of staying home nights where their wives could keep an eye on them, take to the collecting game and preserve harmony in the household. Others who have retired from business or service, and have taken up the hobby, are not reduced to the danger of an early exit from this planet because of lack of interest in life, and in this single thing it serves a great purpose. I once heard a worried business man, who had neither time to relax nor inclination to quit his weary round, bemoan the fact that he could not enjoy himself like his collector friends, and that he was missing a bet. Quien sabe?

Philatelic knowledge is like the famous light, it should not be hidden under a bushel, or was it a bushel basket? Turn it loose and add to the harmony. No one philatelist can be like Napoleon and carry all human knowledge upon his person. Exchange of stamps and ideas, information about watermarks and issues, prices and bargains, are the life of the hobby. The extremes of philately are the collector and the dealer, the two-cent Guiana and the five-pfennig Germania, the Ferrari and the John Brown. The link that binds them is information diffused by a philatelic paper, for one stamp will call for another just as long as the collecting instinct survives.

Washington Notes

On August 27th the Department issued at Washington the 1½c rotary press in imperforate condition in sheets of four hundred. This is the first rotary imperf. in sheet form that has appeared and is the second imperforate rotary that has ever been issued, the first one being the well known 2c imperf. coil.

It will be recalled that in the printing of these stamps there are margins all around so that the sheets of four hundred show large gutters dividing the four panes, making it possible to obtain a center line block of four with substantial spacings between.

I understand that the 1c and 2c will be issued in similar condition and will replace the flat plate printings which they contemplate discontinuing in the lower denominations, just as soon as the present flat plates wear out.

Mention was made sometime back of the fact that plates had been made for the 1c and 2c booklets from the rotary press. The 2c was also issued on August 27th at Washington.

1898, 10c Brown

Mention was made in this column several weeks back of the fact that Mr. George W. Linn had discovered a pair of the 1898, 10c brown, showing the type I and type II together. I have just had the pleasure of examining this pair which is a vertical pair, straight edged on the right, showing that it comes from the right edge of one of the left panes. I hope to have an opportunity of checking up on the proof sheets in Washington and learning as to the exact plate and position.

The pair is canceled with a New York registration cancellation and was possibly used around 1900 when the first type II appeared. It is, of course, in the brown shade. The upper stamp happens to be type I and the lower type II.

Air Mail Notes

As previously announced, there was a special flight from the State Fair Grounds at Springfield, Ill., and on that occasion the postmaster used a special cancellation as illustrated in this column in our issue of August 23rd. The postmark is in blue and in addition covers received the normal cancellation of the Springfield office showing an aeroplane in flight and reading, "Air Mail Saves Time." Its postmark, bearing date of August 27th, is timed at 4 P.M., and shows a backstamp of the Chicago office of the same date, timed at 7 P.M.

I wish to thank Mr. Claude W. Parker for mailing me one of these covers.

The Post Office Department has announced that special air mail flights will be made between Philadelphia and New York during the time of the national air races from September 4th to 11th inclusive. They state that the rate will be 8c with proportionate advances for longer distances. They have not made mention of the fact that a special cancellation will be used but quite likely this will be the case.

Metered Mail

Mr. Benjamin Cadbury calls attention to the fact that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., in mailing out stock certificates by registered mail, used a 17c meter marking dated "New York, Aug. 12, Permit No. 14, Meter No. 5719," printed in the red of the 2c meter instead of the black of the 17c stamp. This is a usual procedure, for the metered mail is generally printed in all denominations in the color of the stamp.

Philippines

I am informed by Mr. Leon J. Lambert that we may shortly expect a complete set of the Philippine stam in new designs. He states that t proofs for the approval of the Direct of Posts are now in Manila. This is t first information that has come to my tention relative to a new issue.

In this column last week, mention w made of the current series of Philippi stamps in imperforate condition whi were issued at Manila during May a June of last year. As a matter of r ord, it will be advisable to enumera the plate numbers of these imperfor varieties. They are as follows:

6c,	21,972
8c,	21,973
10c,	34,792
12c,	21,974
16c,	89,998
20c,	21,985
26c,	21,991
30c,	21,993

The new Scott's advance sheets ma the following notation relative to th series imperforate:

"Nos. 274 and 290 to 303 inclusive e cepting No. 296 exist imperforate. T Director of Posts offers to supply i perforate stamps to anyone who w order 10,000 pesos worth."

This information is incorrect, for N 274 does not exist imperforate with single line watermark but comes unw termarked only. This unwatermark stamp in perforate condition has not yet appeared.

When the issue was first available, were informed by the Philippine pape that further supplies could be purchas by anyone ordering stamps in the amou of 10,000 pesos. This condition has n prevailed for many months as the B reau of Insular Affairs at Washingt has refused to honor any requisitions e cept from the Director of Posts, and t Director of Posts has given assuran that no further orders will be placed f more. The issue is without a dou strictly speculative but they were legi imately issued by the post office and us to prepay postage, although a supply w cornered in behalf of collectors.

It is gratifying to know that our ow Post Office Department would not san tion such activities in our own stamp While these are printed by the same B reau of Engraving & Printing, they con under the War Department which h charge of the Philippines, rather tha under the Post Office Department whic has charge of the issuing of our ow stamps.

ALGERIA.—Whitfield King & Co. ca our attention to three more values of t new set of stamps. They picture a cast and have the words, "Republique Frar caise" in two lines at the top wit "Postes" and "Algerie" at the bottor The figures of value are between the tw words at the base of the stamp. Color BARBADOS.—Tercentenary Commemorative.—By courtesy of Miss C. Greaves of Barbados we are able to reprint an Official Notice of July 24th announcing a commemorative for February next.

POST OFFICE NOTICE

The Governor-in-Executive Committee has decided to commemorate the tercentenary of the settlement of the Colony of Barbados in February, 1927, by the issue of a Postage Stamp.

Persons wishing to submit specimens for the design of such a stamp are asked to forward same to the Colonial Postmaster at his office by the 16th August, 1926.

The designer of the specimen approved by the Governor-in-Executive Committee will be granted a gratuity of £10.

H. H. HEATH,
Colonial Postmaster.

4/7/26—4n.

Our correspondent says that this stamp is regarded, so far, as only a temporary addition to the current set, but no doubt the design will influence the decision as to whether there will be only one stamp or a complete set.

½d shade.—From the same source we learn that the one penny recently appeared in a "softer scarlet."—Philatelic Magazine.

BULGARIA.—Notes by M. Poukareff translated from L'Echo de la Timbrologie:

The 10 leva (S.G. No. 243) is nearly sold out and will be replaced during August by a large stamp in the 1881 type.

A third printing of the 1 leva olive-green (King Boris) will be issued shortly. The design has again been modified.

The Boteff series (chronicled in our last reference) ceased to be available for foreign postage on July 31st. The stock will not be destroyed but used up on internal correspondence.

A commemorative set will be issued next year in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the liberation of Bulgaria.

A new permanent set is being prepared but will not be issued for some time. The designs are not yet settled.—Philatelic Magazine.

CEYLON.—In view of the recent reduction of the rate for letters from Ceylon to other parts of the Empire, from 12 cents (=2d) to 9 cents (=1½d), effective July 1st, the Government has sanctioned the issue of a 9 cents stamp in the type of the current cent values. Mr. F. C. Hollick kindly sends us a cutting from The Times of Ceylon of June 29th in this connexion.

The colour of the new stamp will presumably be red-brown, like the British 1½d, a colour not at present included in the colour scheme of the Cingalese adhesives; but probably three or four months must ensue before it is ready, as, of course, the stamps are printed in England.—Stamp Collecting.

CUBA.—Commemoratives not to be issued.—The Government was petitioned by certain patriotic societies to issue commemorative stamps of 1c and 2c bearing portraits of the first three martyrs in the struggle for independence, who were shot on March 24th, 1826. Consideration was given to the suggestion but it was rejected because there was not sufficient time to prepare the design and print the stamps.—Philatelic Magazine.

EGYPT.—Mr. R. Roberts sends the following new shades in the King Fuad design: 2m intense black, 4m pea green, and 5m deep chestnut.

FEDERATED MALAY STATES.—Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of the $2 green and carmine, on script watermarked paper.

FRANCE.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 1fr blue, Sower type and the 1fr 50c blue in the Pasteur portrait issue.

GREECE.—Our Athens Special Correspondent, Mr. P. J. Drossos, writes:—

As Messrs. Aspiotis Bros., of Corfu, have not been able of late to deliver the required quantities of stamps in time, an order for some of the current values—20, 40 lepta, and 1dr, and some more perhaps—was given to an Austrian firm. It was expected that the stamps would have been engraved, or at least that they would have good perforation, and on the whole have been more presentable than those prepared here. Unluckily this is not the fact. The stamps which have just arrived, and which can scarcely be detected from the local ones, are lithographed on the same paper and have bad perforation. The Austrian firm has not included its name in the margins at all. —Stamp Collecting.

INDIA.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 2R, new Security Printing at Nasik. The stamp is buff and carmine, watermarked multiple star "all over" on thick non-curling paper as before. Mr. Roberts sends the following information regarding the new printing:

The set of these stamps is peculiar, instead of being set up in eight panes of 12 with large marginal gutter between, an economy has been effected by eliminating the central horizontal gutter and combining the four central panes of twelve into two panes of 24 (each 4 x 6), so that the sheet now consists of, four panes of 12, two at top and two at bottom, and two panes of 24 in the centre, with wide vertical guttering down the centre of the sheet; thus effecting a small economy in paper.

One cannot help observing that four times the amount of paper might be saved by dispensing of the wide guttering altogether.

It almost appears as if the old plate had been cut down and joined up in the centre. If this is the case it has been done skillfully as the stamps all over are well centered.

The paper does not seem to be cut to any particular size and it is difficult to follow the reason of this half-hearted attempt at economy.

The colour of the buff is considerably paler, whereas the head plate is in a brighter carmine shade than the De la Rue print.

The workmanship of this printing is a great improvement upon the lower denominations previously referred to, and though the frame plate is a little bit flat the detail is extremely good, and the head plate is bright and clear and compares most favourably with the De la Rue print.

MALTA.—Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts have shown us the ½p yellow green, in the new King's Head medallion design.

NEW ZEALAND.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent copies of the new design 2sh and 3sh stamps noted last week. Mr. Roberts, in commenting on the workmanship, informs us that he considers them "the most hideous and poorly produced Colonial stamps he has received for many years."

POLAND.—We learn from Messrs. Goutvein and Champion that the pictorial 3gr blue has lately appeared on thin paper, perf. 13 instead of the original 11½ gauge.—Stamp Collecting.

FIRST DAY COVER "SCOOP"

Even as the everyday newspaper man prides himself upon a scoop so Albert E. Gorham shines in the reflected light of two luminaries.

On August 27 there was placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency, Washington:
2c Rotary Press in booklets containing two panes of six stamps each.
1½c Rotary Press, imperforate, spaced 2¼ millimeters horizontal and 2½ millimeters vertical (8 mm. between vertical planes of 100 stamps and 9 mm. between the horizontal panes). A cross is used to designate the middle of the sheet instead of the usual guide lines.

Result—First day covers Aug. 27 and our thanks to Mr. Gorham for stamps submitted.

FIJI

By REV. W. G. IREMONGER

Most of us are or would be, like the well-known Mr. Tod, the creation of Beatrix Potter, "of a wandering habit"; even if it never gets any further there is in nearly all of us the desire to see new lands and strange faces, to tread the new road that will take us away from the things that we do and see every day. This desire is especially the heritage of the Britisher, who has assuredly done more wandering than any other nationality, and it has usually been wandering with a purpose that has been accomplished. However, it is only comparatively few who can indulge their fancy in this direction, while the majority have to stick at home at their work, which seems mighty dull at times, and do without.

I am myself one of those who have always desired to travel, and have been unable to do so; but I have found a way that, while not being the real thing, is about the next best thing to it—I make my stamps do it for me. As Kipling's serving-men,

"I send them over land and sea,
I send them East and West."

They go on their travels to different parts of the world, and back they come to rest in my albums, bearing strange names on their faces to tell me of those places to which they have been. It is true that they sometimes take an unconscionable time to return, and are almost given up as lost—one lot took two and a half years before they came back to me; it is true also that a very few never return at all—under half a dozen in all the many hundred that have gone; but the rest of them are there to speak to me of those places that I may never see, but that imagination pictures as probably a great deal more attractive than they are in reality. So perhaps it is better as it is.

One of the places that holds a chief place in my regard is Fiji; for here is a country that appeals to the romance of man, and to his appreciation of the beautiful. Not one island, but 250, lying in the Pacific Ocean; sufficiently south of the Equator not to be too hot, yet north enough to be warm; volc in origin, a land of rivers and mounta where the land grows enough of it to feed its people; it is a paradise.

The islands came into contact civilization before any other of the cific Islands, and although at one t the people were violent cannibals, w favourite dish at dinner was "long p they are now as peaceable as could wished.

The islands form a rough th quarters of a circle, with the opening t south; on the west are the two lar islands, Viti Levu and Vanua L of which the former is over 4000 sq miles in extent and the latter just 2500, while the rest of the islands consist of under 1000. Viti Levu is island from which the group takes name, Fiji being an English corrup of Viti, the "V" in Fijian being nounced hard like an "F." Natur most of the population is to be fo on the two largest islands, and on t are many plantations, mostly at mouths of the rivers, or on their ba The principal products are sugar, co and various fruits, of which the r profitable are the pineapple and banana. Most of the trade is with Zealand and Australia, though s products were shown at the Empire hibition in order to introduce them the notice of this country.

To the east lies the Lau Archipel a network of islands, of which Lakel the chief, while to the north are Ringold Islands and Taviuni, and to southwest Kadavu.

The capital of the group is Suva Viti Levu, and the other principal to are Levuka, the capital till 1882, on small island of Ovalau off Viti L Lautoka, the old capital before the lands were ceded to Great Britain, Nausori. The island of Rotuma, miles to the north of Vanua Levu, is cluded in the group, although it is on edge of the Ellice Islands.

The post is organized in two w for the inland places there is a servic native runners; while for the places the coast certain vessels are licensed take and deliver mails. The princ post offices are run in the usual way, the smaller ones are as a rule mana by the chief planter, or by the only for whose convenience the office opened, as it gives him the right to ceive and send mail by the vessels ready mentioned. Often the office se only one plantation, and if anything pens to the planter the office freque closes, sometimes not to open again some time, or never. Recently there the case of one planter who commi cide—someone said that it was in de-ir at the infrequence of the mails!— consequently the office was closed has not been reopened. The result all this is that it is very difficult to what P. O's there are at any given e. I wrote to the Postmaster at Suva a list of the offices, and received in rn a printed list of sixty-six offices, which three were already closed when list was sent to me, while of the rest ee more were closed when I wrote hem. Another difficulty that presents lf is that a certain number of the ces have no cancelling stamp of their , the letters being so treated at the rest office that has a date-stamp, gen-lly Suva, Levuka or Nausori.

here are two forms of cancellation se; the first is the usual date-stamp, ch is used in the more important ces, and consists of a circle varying size from 24 to 29 mm. in diameter. the upper part is the name of the e, preceded by the letters "P. O."— "P.O. Nausori"—round the circle; the bottom "Fiji," with concentric s between them on either side; while date is in three lines across the centre. the size of the circle varies, so does of the words from 2½ mm. to 4 high.

he other form of cancellation is the plest imaginable, taking the form of name of the office in capitals 3 mm. ; this is evidently a metal stamp, and enerally impressed in black, though sionally to be found in purple, or wn—the latter may be a mixture of and black! This cancellation is also nd with the date either written in, added from a rubber stamp—either er the other, or diagonally across the np. There is an additional one in use he islands of Cicia and Lekutu (both he Lau Archipelago) added to the ve; this is similar in arrangement to which is familiar to collectors of y Gold Coast stamps; it takes the n of a sunk die, with the words st" above, and "Office" below, which ear on the envelope in uncoloured let-in a circle 26 mm. in diameter. The office at Natawarau, which is now ed, had two rubber stamps in use at erent periods, one consisting of fancy pt, the other of sans-serif capitals, le the ordinary ones are in serifed tals.

he following is a list of the offices have date-stamps in use:—

	Loma Loma.	Savusavu.
	Nadarivatu.	East.
a Bay.	Nadi.	Somo Somo.
keti.	Nadroga.	Suva.
ngton.	Nailililí.	Tavua.
o.	Naiserelagi.	Viria.
asa.	Nausori.	Vuna.
eba.	Navua.	Vunidawa.
toka.	Raki Raki.	Vunisea.
uka.	Rotuma.	Waiyevo.

If the other cancellation, which we call the Name cancellation, there now in use twenty-seven varieties. following is the list:—

lailai.	Nabouwala.	Savu Savu
a.	Naduri.	West.
utu.	Naidiri.	Solevu.
ani-	Naitoni-	Totoya.
nua.	toni.	Tunuloa.
utu.	Natovi.	Udu.
ary.	Ono.	Point.
go.	Rabi.	Waikava.
akula.	Savu Savu	Waimotu.
uku.	Central	Wainunu.
ala.	Sawanika

have the Matakula and Wainunu rks on the same envelope, and believe the one office (Wainunu) has been erseded by the other. The Mago rk that I have is spelt Mango, and leads to the question of spelling. In old style you will find that the old g's name was spelt Thakombau, while he new style it is spelt Cakobau; the son is that in the language now a "b" always pronounced as "mb," while a is pronounced as "nd," a "c" as "th," a "g" as "ng" (soft as in "hang"). old atlases you will find the island of thia marked possibly; it is the old of spelling Cicia. Similarly you find Nandi for Nadi, Mbua for Bua, so on.

here are two special dated cancella-tions in use at the Suva P.O.; one is the postmark for Registered correspondence —a double-lined circle, of which the outer one is 28 mm. in diameter, with "Registered Suva" at the top between the circles, and "Fiji" at the bottom. The date is in three lines across the centre. The other one is similar to the usual Suva one, with the exception that the letters are smaller, being only 2 mm. high instead of 3 mm.

One result of my correspondence with Fiji has been to bring me into connection with a fellow-collector, who is also a planter and a postmaster, from whom I have obtained some of the information that I have been able to give above, and to whom I am most grateful for all the help that he has given me.

In addition to the Name cancellations that I have given above there are a certain number to be found on the earlier stamps, and that are now obsolete either from the offices having been closed, or from the offices having been "promoted" to a date-stamp. In the following list the first five are the names of offices that have been closed:—

Malau, Nailaga, Sabeto, Tavuki, Tuba; Loma Loma, Nadarivatu, Nadroga, Raki Raki, Savu Savu East, Somo Somo.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

CONGRESS OF BOLIVAR, 1826-1926

until the end of the war. Then he united Venezuela, Colombia and Ecuador in a confederation, and became their first President. Leaving the Government in charge of the Vice President (F. de P. Santander), he went to Peru and Bolivia, in 1821, where he took command of the revolutionary armies, and accomplished their independence. He resigned from the dictatorship of Peru in 1826 to become the Perpetual President and Protector of Bolivia, but in the following year returned to his own country and was re-elected President. Gen. Jose A. Paez, who had been one of his most efficient aids in the revolution, defied his authority, assumed the dictatorship of Venezuela, and proclaimed its secession from the Confederation, and absolute independence on September 22, 1830. The Colombians supported Bolivar, and again elected him their president. He returned to Caracas, but was coldly received. His banishment was decreed, and taking refuge in a small country house, about 5 miles outside of Santa Marta, Colombia, died there, of pulmonary tuberculosis, on the 17th December, 1830, with none but the Indian attendants around him. Twelve years later (December 17, 1842), his body was brought to Caracas with great ceremony and deposited in a chapel of the cathedral. When Guzman Blanco erected a Pantheon in Caracas for the burial of the distinguished dead, Bolivar's remains for a second time were moved, and placed in a magnificent and impressive sepulchre.

either side (over the value tablets) on ribbons superimposed upon laurel leaves, are the dates "1826" at the left and "1926" at the right. Acanthus leaf ornamentation fills the upper spandrels, and the printer's name appears in minute colored caps under each stamp of the sheet.

The same Law (No. 5 of 1925) which provided for the holding of the commemorative congress also instructed the Executive to take the steps necessary for the erection at Panama of a monument to Bolivar, in compliance with a resolution passed by the Fifth Pan American Congress held at Santiago in Chile, in 1923. This monument is to be a joint homage of the Pan American Republics to the memory of the great Liberator "to commemorate his initiative in convoking a Pan American Congress to study with the co-operation of all the Governments of America, the great problems of the New World."

The eminent sculptor, Benlliure, chosen for this important work, has submitted an imposing project in which the central figure represents Bolivar in a thoughtful attitude, with a bas relief on either side, depicting scenes connected with his heroic history. Above Bolivar's head are inscribed the words "La-Libertad-Conquistada-es-Superior a la Riqueza" ("Liberty attained is superior to riches") across which two figures, incarnating Liberty and Peace, clasp hands, while above broods the condor, symbolical at once of South America and freedom, unfettered by the limitations of space.

k.—25,000 stamps of the denomination of 24c de balboa, color dark gray, with an engraving representing the Sala del Congreso de Bolivar (Congress Hall) existing today in the edifice where the school of the Christian Brothers function; with the same inscription of the preceding.

l.—15,000 stamps of the denomination of 50c de balboa, color black, with the engraving and inscription of the preceding."

(3) Sala del Congreso de Bolivar (24c and 50c)

The design of these two denominations, which is horizontal rectangular, measuring 29½ x 21½ mm., pictures within an arched opening (inscribed at the bottom, in minute colored letters, "SALA DEL CONGRESO DE BOLIVAR, 1826") a long council chamber, or hall, with arched openings in the side walls, and a raised dais at the far end, in which the deliberations of the Congress of 1826 were held. At the top of the design "REPUBLICA DE PANAMA" appears in a curved line (conforming to the vignette opening), and "CORREOS" in a straight line below, both in colorless lettering. A ribbon below the vignette is inscribed "1826—CONGRESO DE BOLIVAR—1926" in colored figures and letters. Between squares in the lower corners enclosing colorless numerals of value, the value is expressed in two horizontal lines of colorless letters "VEINTICUATRO CENTESIMOS —DE BALBOA." Acanthus leaf ornamentation in the upper corners and at the sides, completes the design. The printer's name appears under each stamp of the sheet.

The "General Assembly of the American Republics," as the congress was officially called, was formally opened at Panama on the morning of 22nd June, 1826, with two delegates from Colombia, two from Central America, two from Peru, and one from Mexico. It held ten sessions and adjourned on the 15th of July, 1826, having adopted for the approval of the countries represented (and such of the American Republics as should later care to adhere), a "treaty of perpetual union, league and confederation between the Republics of Colombia, Central America, Peru and the United Mexican States"; an agreement for the future meetings of the assembly every two years in time of peace, and every year in time of war; a "convention on contingents" to be supplied by the members of the confederation, and a special and confidential agreement relating to the army and to the confederated navy.

Bolivar, at that time President of Peru, was deeply disappointed at the modest results of the congress which he rightly considered was destined to mark an epoch in international relations; but he referred the treaties, conventions, or agreements to the Congress of his country, which, however, did not ratify any of them. The Congresses of Guatemala and Mexico likewise refused to ratify, and that of Colombia did so only partially.

Bolivar does not seem to have contemplated the presence of representatives from the United States, but Colombia, Mexico and Central America expressed to the Government of the U. S. their desire that delegates be sent to the Congress. The Secretary of State, Henry Clay, was anxious that the U. S. be represented, and John Quincy Adams, then President, no less so. However, as the invitation had been extended to the U. S. much later than to the other Republics, the delay experienced in securing the approval of the Senate to the nomination of Richard C. Anderson and John Sergeant, as commissioners of the congress, was such that the General Assembly had adjourned before the U. S. representatives could reach the Isthmus.

OLDEST MAIL ROUTE IN AMERICA

By courtesy of Frank P. Brown we have received a clipping from the Bridgeport Post of Bridgeport, Conn., giving the story of the oldest mail route in America. We cannot quote it in its entirety but the following particulars will be of interest:—

On the lawn fronting the Olivet Congregational Church, at North Avenue and Main Street, Bridgeport, Conn., stands a tablet marking the establishment in January, 1673, of the first Post road in America.

The existence of this tablet and the fact that the Post road of which North Avenue is a part, was the first route over which mail was carried in this country came to the attention of the government through Charles E. Prior, who wrote the Post Office department at Washington about the tablet and they asked for a photograph of it.

The dusty files of the department were inspeected carefully for a record of this first mail route, but no trace of it could be found. The postal officials then were quite anxious to get a photograph themselves inasmuch as it marked the first mail route in America.

They communicated with Postmaster Arthur F. Connor, asking him to have the tablet photographed for the chief clerk of the Post Office department, who wanted one photo for his files and another for exhibition Sesqui-Centennial exposition in Philadelphia.

Back in 1673, over 100 years before the Revolutionary war, a Post road was established between New York and Boston.

The tablet says that it was at that time "Ye Olde King's Highway," which followed in general Indian trails and was the first mail route in America. The tablet was placed to mark the route by the Mary Silliman chapter, D. A. R. in 1915.

Dealer's Stock

Owing to press of other business, we have decided to discontinue our cheap approval department and to clear out our stock at a bargain price. The stock consists of a well chosen variety of old and new issues, foreign and colonial, mostly cataloguing 3c to 25c; very little of the ordinary cheap approval stuff is included.

By the old (1926) catalogue the stamps listed over $8400.00.

This stock would form a wonderful start for anyone wishing to enter the cheap approval business, or would be a very useful addition to a dealer's stock.

The price asked is only $1400.00 and terms can be arranged with responsible parties.

CANAL ZONE POSTAGE DUES

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Postage due stamps of three denominations, 1c, 2c and 10c, numeral type, lake, on unwatermarked paper, perforated 11, of the U. S. A., and overprinted in black CANAL ZONE, in 2 horizontal lines, flat "A", from the overprint plate used for the postage stamps, were issued July 1, 1924. These stamps are vertical rectangular in shape, measuring 19 x 22 mm., and in design consist of a large numeral on a lozenge of lathe work, arched above which is "Postage Due", and below, the value "ONE CENT" on a ribbon. The letters "U" and "S" appear in the upper left and right corners respectively. The numeral and all lettering is colorless. These stamps, printed in sheets of 400, were overprinted before being perforated and divided into Post Office sheets of 100.

First consignment, flat "A".

Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 1924

1c,	100 sheets	10,000 stamps
2c,	250 "	25,000 "
10c,	300 "	30,000 "
	650 "	65,000 "

These stamps, exhausting in January, 1925, necessitated the manufacture, locally, of a provisional issue, by additionally overprinting at the Canal Zone Printing Plant, Mount Hope, Canal Zone (just outside of Cristobal), of a quantity of postage stamps (already overprinted CANAL ZONE, flat "A", at Washington, D. C.) with POSTAGE DUE, in 2 horizontal lines of sans serif caps 2½ mm. high. The words measure 15½ and 6½ mm. respectively, and are spaced 2 mm. vertically. The overprint was applied in red to the 1c (15,000) and the 10c (40,000), and in black to the 2c (25,000).

In June, 1925, a further lot of U. S. A. due stamps, overprinted CANAL ZONE, but with sharp "A", was received from Washington.

Second consignment, sharp "A".

Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 1925

1c,	300 sheets	30,000 stamps
2c,	500 "	50,000 "
10c,	500 "	50,000 "
	1300 "	130,000 "

One sheet of the 1c of this printing, with the ZONE ZONE error on No. 18 of the lower right pane, is in the possession of a Washington, D. C., collector. It was discovered about October, 1925, and came from a Post Office on the Pacific side of the Isthmus. Although this 1925 printing comprised 75 sheets of 400 (300 Post Office sheets of 100), the error must have occurred on but a few sheets, as none other have been reported so far.

Third consignment, sharp "A".

Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 1926

1c,	500 sheets	50,000 stamps
2c,	500 "	50,000 "
10c,	500 "	50,000 "
	1500 "	150,000 "

Although the sale of postage due stamps to the public was never permitted, many got out through favor. So numerous were the requests received by the Philatelic Stamp Agency, at Balboa Heights, C. Z., for supplies of these due stamps, that on Apr. 15, 1925, Circular No. 28 was issued by the Director of Posts of the Canal Zone, C. H. Calhoun, forbidding the sale of these stamps in cancelled or uncancelled condition.

Circular No. 28.

To all Postmasters:

Sale of Postage Due Stamps not permitted.

The attention of all postal employees is called to the fact that the law does not permit the sale of postage due stamps in any manner whatsoever. In view of the numerous requests to this office and to the Philatelic Agency for the purchase of such stamps, it is believed that the regulations have not been complied with strictly by all postal employees. Therefore, effective at once, postage due stamps shall be used for the purpose for which designed; i.e. to be affixed to mail articles insufficiently prepaid or on which there is a handling charge, as in the case of certain foreign parcels.

The sale of postage due stamps to stamp collectors is expressly forbidden and employees found guilty of violating these instructions will be subject to suspension or discharge, as circumstances may warrant. It is realized that collectors will be able to obtain cancelled postage due stamps by having insufficiently prepaid parcels addressed to them, but in such cases the proper amount of stamps shall be affixed in the largest denominations available as in the case of other parcels. Such sales shall be considered as unusual and shall be reported to this office, as provided by Section 183 of the Canal Zone Official Postal Guide.

The affixing of postage due stamps in whole sheets to packages or to fly sheets attached to packages is forbidden.

Director of Posts."

THE FORUM—UNITED STATES ISSUES 1847-70

By H. P. ATHERTON, 1562 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

A United States cancellation applied to foreign and United States stamps. Since starting this cancellation study in the Forum, my ideas have been carried beyond the obliterators used on United States postage stamps, and I find that many foreign countries have their interesting, odd, and rare cancellations, presumably sought after by the collectors of those countries much as we seek our own unusual cancellations.

They, of course, weed out their used counterfeits at a glance, if the cancellation is not correct. We fortunately are not so much troubled in this respect as regards our stamps. There is no indecision on their part, it is not at all like trying to puzzle out whether a stamp of New Europe was postally used, or "cancelled to order."

Above is an obliteration which at a first look you will say "I've seen that thing hundreds of times." And you will probably be missing it by about 100%, for it is positively not the cancellation that occurs ad infinitem on our 3c greens and 2c red-browns, etc., etc.

Unless you study cancels somewhat, you are maybe unable to tell which of our own stamps bears it most frequently.

There are the out-bound foreign cancellations from New York City which are now being considered by many; two nicely arranged groupings of these have appeared in the Collectors Club Philatelist arranged by J. M. Bartels.

This one is the reverse, or in-bound, cancellation applied to mail received in the New York P. O. in uncancelled condition, and the depicted type of cancel is there applied. While most of the outbound cancels are circular in outline, and used principally on mail to Europe, the in-bound mail seems to start in and around the vast sea area which we vaguely term the West Indies. The rate is our 5c rate, or corresponding to this very closely, if in foreign coin.

There are possibly thirty stamp issuing countries or colonies which will show this cancellation. Some of these will be doubtless next to impossible to secure, and it is truly remarkable that almost none are ever found on the original cover.

Our own chief producer of this cancellation is the 5c Taylor of the 1879 issue, the soft paper stamp. I have been saving these numeral cancels for about three years, and the most frequently found from a foreign shore in my lot are from Hayti, these falling on their first three issues, from 1881 to 1891 as issued, the 1891 issue showing but few copies.

This would indicate that our 5c yellow-brown, and 5c indigo Garfields would be found wearing this cancel, but to date I have never found a copy so cancelled. Perhaps some reader has a little nest of these tucked away which came from some one who was touring the West Indies, or who had an office in some of their ports, and sent mail to the United States.

Cuba is my next best group, and is nearly as large as the Haytians I have saved. The other countries are scattering. I have an idea that the most of this mail was actually written on shipboard, and brought into N. Y. City aboard their vessel, uncancelled.

The numerals are not complete in my small savings. Those which I have so far found are 3, 4, 5, 6 (or 9) and 12. The 12 is by far the easiest one to be found, hence shown in this cut. Here are the countries I have gotten together to date:—Brazil, Chile, Colombian Republic, Cuba, France, Gibraltar, Hayti, Nicaragua, Salvador, Trinidad, U. S. and Venezuela.

Of the above lot, the copy from France seems to be an interloper, and as it shows no other marking, am of the belief that this stamp was not used from France direct, but from some Colony nearer than France itself.

R. JACQUES 31 No. Market St.
EAST PALESTINE, O.

If you have already started saving this type of cancel, you are possibly far ahead of me and my own puny layout. Perhaps you have "all the dope" on this cancellation. I have not studied this yet, except to save the stamps as they arrived, and my idea in presenting this article is merely to "start something." It may be that 30 countries cannot be found. It may be that New Orleans, San Francisco and other P. O. towns on the sea coast used these same numbers. Perhaps all the numbers from 1 to 12 occur, maybe higher numbers also.

Well, there is the layout. You can have a lot of fun going thru your old foreign duplicates for these, and you will be surprised to see that few of them show in a big collection. I have but two on "entire," one being the top half of a Venezuelan postcard, it having "12" over the stamp, and a typical purple pmk. of Venezuela which did not touch the stamp. My other cover is an envelope with no marks except a "12" across one of those Baby Heads from Cuba, a 5c centimos green, no marks on reverse of this cover either.

I feel like celebrating when one of these cancels from a country not in my list comes in; but of late I have had little chance to do any celebrating. Colombian Republic was my last country to arrive, and that of course spurs me on to find a Dominican Republic, etc., etc.

These little side lines are a lot of fun, don't you think so, honestly, what? Here is where I'm going to break a rule, and talk of prices. The most expensive stamp in this collection is a 5c Taylor which cost me 12c. See what you can get for almost nothing! And it is truly fun to annex a new one now and then.

THE INSCRIPTIONS ON THE NEW TURKISH STAMPS

By COL. O. K. TANCOCK, C.M.G.

In the past, the stamps of Turkey have often borne witness to the stormy history and politics of that troubled and troublesome country. The new series, issued in May of this year, conforms to this tradition and, also, illustrates a tendency, by no means confined to the Turkish Government, to use postage stamps for purposes of propaganda. The designs, which are essentially "National" in character and which include a portrait of the President of the new Republic, with uncovered head, in flagrant defiance of long-established Moslem custom, have already been described. But the inscriptions, introducing as they do certain novel features, seem to be of sufficient interest to merit a closer examination.

In the Crescent and Star issue of 1923, now superseded, the designation "TURKISH" replaced the words "OSMANIYA" and "OSMANLI," which, curiously enough, had survived in some of the 1922 pictorials issued by the Nationalist Government at Angora. The new stamps bear the legend, in Arabic characters, "Turkish Republican Posts," thus emphasising the fall of the House of Osman and, with it, the abolition of Sultanate and Caliphate and the establishment of a new régime in Turkey. Other novelties in the lettering on these latest stamps seem to denote a desire, on the part of the Republic, to achieve a significant contrast to the styles of all the old Ottoman Empire stamps.

The various inscriptions are as follows:

At top of all values, in Arabic characters, "TURKIYA JUMHURETI POSTALARI" (="Turkish Republican Posts").

All values to 15 piastres inclusive, at foot, in Roman characters, "TURK POSTALARI"—a curious combination, with an appearance of greater independence, if less elegance, than the old "Postes Ottomanes."

Para values (10 and 20) have this word in the singular, à la Turque, instead of the plural "paras" of former issues. So the word in Roman characters, in the left bottom corner, exactly corresponds to the Turkish word, in Arabic characters, in the right.

All piastre values have the word "GROUCH," in Roman characters, in the left bottom corner. This supersedes the "PIASTRE" and "PIASTRES" of earlier issues. That the Nationalists should condemn the offending foreign word "piastre" to expulsion is quite in keeping with their determination to purge their country of all non-Turkish elements. But it seems a pity that they should have adopted this French form of transliteration. It looks somewhat grotesque to English eyes and gives the false impression that "GHURUSH" (the plural form used by the Turks with all numbers) is a one-syllable word. One can only hope that British collectors will resist the temptation to pronounce it "GROWTCH." The pessimist, mindful of the so-called "ONE PIASTRES" error of 1876 (S.G. 120), corrected to "ONE PIASTRE" by erasing "S" from the plate in subsequent printings (S.G. 123 et seq.), may predict that, in the near future, some meticulous grammarian will convert "GROUCH" into "GROUCHES" for values over one. The more attractive "GUERCHE" and "GUERCHES" of Abyssinian stamps might well serve as an inspiration.

All piastre values have the Turkish equivalent for "GROUCH" in the right bottom corner. All values are expressed in Arabic and English numerals in the right and left bottom corners respectively.

At the foot of the picture, in the 2, 2½ and 3 piastres, is the word "SAQARIA," the name of the gorge here represented. And in the left top corner of the picture, in the 5, 6, 10 and 15 piastres, is the legend "ANQRA QA'ALASI"=("Angora Citadel").

All these Turkish inscriptions are in the Nesikh style of Arabic writing, with various ornamental flourishes and letters duplicated in miniature above or below the line, in addition to the c vowel signs and other orth marks. In the case of dotted let dots are sometimes placed vertic stead of horizontally, and three sometimes in a slanting or ho line, instead of the more usual formation.

The Crescent and Star devic tained, but a good deal of licens to have been allowed in the treat this National emblem; for the h stead of always pointing upwa they did on Imperial stamps, n point to left or right according fancy of the artist, and the star force followed suit.

The Tughra has been discarded present. But it never contained perial title "Sultan," and surely signation "KHAN," equivalent to or "Head," would be no less sui the President of a Republic thar Sovereign Lord of an Empire, an hardly offend the most sensitive crat. So whether the Turks preserve the Republic for all t like the Persians, prefer to make start with a new Imperial dyna may yet, perchance, see the re ance of the familiar device as sig ual or monogram of Sultan or dent.

The present holder of the latt has already assumed the title " which adorned the Tughras of Abd'ul Hamid II and his success hamed V. And Ghazi Mustafa Pasha is hardly less deserving other honorific title "El muzaffar (="the Ever-victorious").—Stanl bons Monthly Journal.

DEATH OF DAVID FIELD

By HERMAN TOASPERN.

I have just received a cable from Charles Greenwood, the manager of D. Field of London, informing me of the death of Mr. D. Field in his fifty-fifth year.

Mr. Field had been in ill health for many years, suffering from heart trouble. He spent most of his time at his magnificent home in Torquay besides making pleasure trips to all parts of the world in search of something to help him. Mr. Field was a Member of the jury in 1913. at the New York Exhibition. Even as early as 1913 he was in poor health and had to be most careful of himself.

His firm, D. Field, is noted primarily as being the leading house of London for war stamps and the particular business of his firm was rare 20th century, though a great many big collections of classic stamps passed through his hands. He had won many medals for his fine collections, notably his collection of Great Britain. His wife, Mrs. Edith W. Field, is an ardent collector, possessing, besides a very lovely general collection, a highly specialised collection of Cape of Good Hope.

The loss is a distinct one to British Philately and to the stamp dealing profession, of which he was always an honorable member. The sympathy of his many friends in America goes to his widow at this time.

NATIONAL AIR RACES, 1926

A special event of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition has been the air races sanctioned by the National Aeronautic Association. The dates were Sept. 4-11. We are indebted to Jos. A. Steinmetz, who is secretary of the Sesqui-Centennial Committee, also Albert E. Gorham of Washington, D. C., for specimens of first flight covers dated Sept. 4. The markings on these covers are of interest. The New York-Philadelphia flight has a large circular marking in black and gives the date of New York departure as 5.00 A.M., while on the reverse side is the regulation Philadelphia date of receiving, 8.00 A.M. At the Philadelphia end the large markings are in purple with 9.15 as the hour of departure, while upon the reverse side the New York hour of receipt is given as 2.00 P.M. An interesting marking on the Steinmetz envelope is found upon the reverse side, as follows:—"Air Mail Field, New York, N. Y., Sept. 4 10.00 A. M. 1926."

Mr. Steinmetz advised us as follows:—"There will be two flights each day from Philadelphia to New York, connecting with the transcontinental route, using the regular zone rates. If any of these letters are designated for feeder flights on contract air-mail routes off the transcontinental, then the 5c or 10c extra zone rate will apply. Mail from New York despatched to Philadelphia will be sent from Hadley Field, New Brunswick, N. J., by flight. The mail leaving Philadelphia will be landed at the field at New Brunswick, and then by subway train to New York for distribution."

EDITORIAL

The day of philately's triumph is dawning and that it will break propitiously is an assured conclusion. The finishing touches are being applied to the International Philatelic Exhibition, October 16 to October 23, 1926, and the grand display will prove that philately dominates the leisure hours of many thousands of representative folks. The work that has been done so manfully by the projectors must be accorded the general appreciation that is its due and we devoutly hope that the attendance of philatelists from a distance will be a large one. Here we have a band of workers of many types progressing to a common goal for the glory of our pursuit. They deserve the recognition of their efforts that the presence of many collectors living outside the metropolitan district will entail.

The convention of the American Philatelic Society beginning Monday morning, October 18, 1926, will last three days and is an accompanying attraction that will have its value in bringing out the crowd. The twin features will be feeders, one for the other. The double appeal should ensure results in decided measure and if the signs are read aright, there will be a philatelic union that will transcend in size and interest anything of the kind known heretofore. The wish that there will be a large attendance is based on a realization that the outside world is impressed by numerical strength. In the estimation of outsiders, philately will be given that recognition that is in line with the interest shown by collectors by their attendance. In effect, the work of years will come to fruition and the blossom should be the cynosure of all eyes.

The American Philatelic Society for what it is and because of its possibilities for the future, should be regarded as a leading factor in the concern of the philatelic world. There are members who are present each year at the convention who are attracted by the fellowship at such gatherings perhaps, but nevertheless, the transactions of the annual meetings are not without substance, in some of their phases. The convention is a sort of forum for the interchange of ideas and views on subjects of pertinent interest and it affords an avenue for expression for the individual. This year, the A. P. S. convention will be an occasion that should be worth participating in as there will be no dearth of opinion on the part of the attendants, who will establish a record for numbers.

Writing about the coming convention of the American Philatelic Society in New York, Mr. H. M. Konwiser says that President Wilhelm will call the meeting to order at the Waldorf-Astoria on the morning of October 18th, Doctor H. A. Davis attending to the duties of secretary. In addition to these two officers, there will be present at least two of the members of the board of vice-presidents and perhaps, three; the treasurer, the directors at large, the sales superintendent, the examiner of sales books, the librarian, the attorney, the official editor and the official expert. On this score alone, the convention will be noteworthy and through the presence of these officers, business will be facilitated. The general idea for the convention badges was suggested by Mr. R. L. Hustis, Milwaukee, Chairman of the recruiting committee. The badge will consist of two parts, the first being a neat gold plated button containing the letters, "A. P. S." and "N. Y." against a background of blue enamel, and the second, a diamond-shaped card with space for the name and address of each delegate, together with other essential information. There will be buttons for men and pins for the ladies. The official program will be a souvenir of merit and will be issued under the supervision of Mr. H. L. Lindquist, and the advertising pages will be well patronized, inasmuch as the book will be a guide to points of interest in New York City.

Already there have been indications of the effect that the Exhibition and convention will have on the public in the shape of news notices in the papers that the government will avail itself of the opportunity to make a display at the Exhibition, and provide stamp specialties to commemorate it. As the days slip by, publicity in augmented volume will be seen, no doubt, and by the time that the climax is reached, few people in this country will not be aware of the existence of stamp collectors as an organized body. The Exhibition will be an object lesson that admits of no argument to the disparagement of philately and its moral effect will be incalculable.

Mr. S. Newbury, Chicago, has arrived home from his extended trip to the South Sea Islands and is lavish in his praise of Australia in a philatelic sense and otherwise. He received much attention from collectors there and had the pleasure of being in the company of Mr. Fred Hagen, the distinguished philatelist, who sailed from Sydney to Honolulu on Mr. Newbury's boat. Mr. Newbury expects to show his early Brazil and Colombian Republic at the New York Exhibition.

* * *

Mr. E. M. White, Davenport, Iowa, writes: "One of the finest articles on postage stamps that I have seen in forty years as a collector in a non-philatelic journal is in the International Studio for September, entitled 'Design in the Postage Stamp' by Gardner Teall. It covers three pages and the illustrations are really excellent. I keep a file but if you do not succeed in getting a copy, I'll loan you mine." Mr. White is generous and we have no doubt but that Mr. Teall's article is a de luxe production, as he has established a name for himself as a contributor on philatelic subjects to publications of the highest class. In the past, we have had occasion to felicitate Mr. Teall for having carried the philatelic pennant to journalistic heights.

That busy philatelic missionary worker, Mr. L. R. Saunders, Mason City, Iowa, in telling of the postponement of the issue of the historical set by Canada, quotes from a letter dated August 23rd, sent by the Honorable W. J. Glover of the Canadian postal division to the effect that all remittances for the stamps are being refunded. The course taken by the Canadian authorities is one well-advised, even though some collectors will be disappointed that the issue has been "further deferred."

A clipping from the Philadelphia Inquirer, coming from Mr. E. J. Mathias, has the following heads: "Williamsport Man Forswore Tobacco for Rare Stamps. Saved Ten Cents Daily for Fifty Years to Get Collection." In the column and more of text that follows, is a description of Mr. Gensemer's collection which is an embracive one that does not adhere to conventional lines. We quote: "In the extensive collection of the Williamsport man who displayed it last week while attending the convention of Patriotic Sons of America here, is to be found every historical species of stamps, from the famous one that caused the Revolution to the latest product of the Treasury Department." I remember having met Mr. D. J. Gensemer in 1894 at the little community, Spring Pennsylvania, and are pleased to learn that he has been collecting for many years to good advantage. We think he has invested his money wisely in that of seeing it go up in smoke and his example could be imitated by some of our profit.

A Few More Subscriptions Can Still Be Accepted

The enthusiastic reception accorded by collectors everywhere to the first quarterly edition of the

has left us with but few of the 2000 published copies still available, and we will shortly be obliged to announce that no more subscriptions will be accepted for the first year's issues.

The NEW ISSUE PROVISIONAL ALBUM is a temporary home for the large numbers of stamps issued between the publication of the various editions of our albums. It is issued every three months, and provides spaces for stamps of the three months previous as chronicled in Scott's Monthly Journal. Pages are regular album size, specially bound with a linen hinged back, and each edition will be large enough to include all new issues.*

FULLY ILLUSTRATED

This album is sold by subscription only. The price $2.50 entitles the subscriber to 4 issues, published quarterly, post free.

We advise collectors interested to write at once. [tf

MR. VALLANCEY HONORED

(F. H. Vallancey, editor of "Stamp Collecting", and Mrs. Vallancey are having a triumphal tour through the West. They are meeting with cordial greetings, and great enthusiasm pervades every public occasion. Cecil F. Blogg, Tacoma, sends us the following clipping from a local daily.—W. O. W.)

Honoring Hugh Vallancey of London one of the most noted authorities on stamp collecting in Europe, and Mrs. Vallancey, members of the Tacoma Philatelic Society entertained at a dinner in the stone room of the Tacoma hotel last evening. Thirty-five members of the Tacoma organization, with a number of stamp collectors from Seattle and Olympia, were in attendance.

Clyde Brill, president of the local society, presided as toastmaster. Mayor J. G. Tennent extended a welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Vallancey in behalf of the city; J. M. Hitt of Olympia, state librarian, spoke for the state, and R. R. Thiele, Secretary of the Tacoma society, welcomed the visitors for the organization. A group of piano numbers were given by Miss Olive Roache of Seattle, a cousin of the honor guest.

Following the dinner Mr. Vallancey gave an illustrated lecture, showing many colored slides of famous stamps.

Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Vallancey were honored at an informal tea given by Mrs. R. R. Thiele at their home on South Wilkeson street. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hitt of Olympia, Henry Hitt of Bremerton, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil F. Blogg of Renton. Mrs. Thiele was assisted by her daughter, Esther, and by her sister, Mrs. Hannah Keller, visiting here from Red Wing, Minn.

Sunday the visitors will be entertained with a cruise about Sound waters, and Monday Mr. Vallancey will meet many of the local stamp collectors.

THE CONVENTION

The Publicity promoter for the 40th annual convention of the American Philatelic Society, scheduled for October 18-20, at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, asks us to say a few words regarding the coming convention.

What is to be said that has not already been said? Stamp collectors, members of the A. P. S., need no particular word that there is great pleasure in meeting other stamp collectors at convention time. Everybody accepts that fact. By the same token the greater attendance at conventions comes from the places nearby to the convention city, and as New York is happily situated close to the busy Middle States, there is bound to be a great gathering.

This year's convention-goers will have as a special feature the International Stamp Exposition, and so in addition to meeting a lot of the best-known folks in stamps, the A. P. S. membership will be enabled to see a great display.

Stamp conventions cement friendships, we know, and stamp conventions mean a great deal to stamp dealers. Every stamp convention is a trade mart, often causing folks to say that the pleasure of collecting may be a boyhood trait, latent in the upgrown, but is the desire to swap, to trade.

Every reader who has not already arranged to attend the convention should make proper arrangements at once. Notify the chairman of the convention committee, Dr. J. Brace Chittenden, 51 West 48 Street, New York. When you buy your ticket notify the ticket agent you are attending the convention, and upon arrival notify the registration clerk at the convention. If 250 rail users do this everyone will receive a short-rate rate when homeward bound.

The committee of arrangements lays stress upon the fact that there will be no official convention stamp auction. There will be a Stamp Bourse at which members may sell or exchange stamps. The omission of an auction was made in deference to the many stamp dealers in New York.

The WEEKLY would like to welcome every member at its booth, and President Wilhelm asserts he could shake every member's hand without fatigue.

NEWS ITEMS:—

A. BAUER, Palmyra, N. J., would like the present address of Hugh C. Argenbright, formerly of Staunton, Va. Letters are returned marked "Moved, left no address."

WE have received from Sales Manager W. O. Staeb a copy of a Bulletin published by the Stamp Lovers League. It gives full particulars of the organization as well as the location and official boards of the eleven affiliated clubs. Collectors residing in New York and vicinity who desire to know more about the League may write Mr. Staeb at 89 Feronia Way, Rutherford, N. J.

FRED KLINGENSTEIN, now located at 104 Walnut St., Bloomfield, N. J., would like to hear from local collectors who would like to organize a stamp club in that city. Mr. Klingenstein has already organized two stamp clubs which are in good running order.

WE find in the International Studio an illustrated article by Gardner Teall on "Design in the Postage Stamp." Like all of Mr. Teall's articles, this is well written and a distinct contribution to philatelic literature. There are many illustrations. Thanks to Beverly S. King for the clipping.

WE are informed that Baron Carl von Scharfenberg has arrived in New York, bringing with him his stamp collection, which will be shown at the New York Exhibition. This collection specializes in Russian stamps and contains all ever issued. One of the most prominent experts on Russian stamps has written a book upon this exhibit, which is really unique. No fewer than 30 volumes are contained in the collection.

ON Saturday, June 19, at the L. L. Robinson home in La Crosse, Kansas, the Rush County Stamp Collectors Club held its organization meeting. At this meeting 14 members were enrolled as active members. Officers elected were: Pres., R. M. Colvin, McCracken; Vice Pres., C. O. Weltmer, Rush Center; Sec'y-Treas., Ralph Robertson, La Crosse. This will put Rush County, Kansas, on the map in a philatelic manner.

PAUL P. WENTZ sends us a clipping from the Wall Street Journal, in which it is stated that the National City Bank of N. Y. City has established a department through which employees interested may improve their stamp collections. The editorial does not state how this is to be acomplished. We are also indebted to Robert C. Beal for one of these clippings.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL
A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

FIRST DAY COVERS

One of the most popular present day methods of collecting is to have a page here and there devoted to a first day cover. Some of the earlier ones are quite scarce and as this branch of the hobby is becoming more popular, there is no doubt but what the covers will advance in price as the dealers' stocks which are not large become exhausted.

I offer the following first day covers, each stamp used from the town in which it was officially placed on sale, showing the dated postmark clearly.

White Plains Stamp

The Department has completed three sketches for the proposed White Plains stamps. Two of the sketches, one large and one small, show the same design, a gun crew of four men marching up hill. The larger is similar in size to the Sesqui-centennial variety while the other is similar to the Norse-American series. The third sketch is of the larger size, but shows a battery in action at the battle of White Plains. This sketch, from the painting, which was described in detail in this column several weeks back, shows too much detail to be attractive.

The three sketches were submitted by Mr. M. L. Eidsness, Jr., Chief of the Division of Stamps, to the Committee from White Plains, at a meeting in New York City on September 3rd. The Committee wisely selected the smaller stamp, and judging from the sketch, it is certainly going to be one of the most attractive, as well as unusual postal emissions that this country has ever turned out. Entire attention has been concentrated on the picture and the borders are of such minor importance that they are only noticed after the scene comes to your attention. Across the top we find "United States Postage" with the figures "1776" and "1926" in the two upper corners. Below we find crossed flags, the one to the right being the famous flag of White Plains and the one on the left, "Old Glory" with her thirteen stars. Underneath the two flags are the words, "Cents" with a large figure "2" in the center. Immediately above the figure within a small semi-circle is, "Battle of White Plains." There are no horizontal or vertical straight lines or border designs to square up the stamp and detract from its appearance.

The Committee was anxious that the stamp be printed in two colors but unfortunately because of the cost, the Department was unable to grant this request. Two colored stamps cost eighty-three cents a thousand, whereas the normal flat plate stamps cost eight and one-half cents per thousand. Had it been the size of the Sesqui-Centennial stamp, the cost would have been seventeen and one-half cents per thousand. The variety will be printed in red by the flat plate process and will be perforated 11 on unwatermarked paper. They will be printed in sheets of four hundred, which in turn will be cut into post office panes of one hundred.

International Philatelic Exhibition

Another piece of news that will come as a surprise is the fact that the White Plains stamp, just described, will be placed on sale on the first day of issue at the branch of the Philatelic Agency at the International Philatelic Exhibition in New York, on its opening day, Saturday, October 16th. At the same time the stamps in a sheet of one hundred will be available at White Plains, N. Y. It will not, however, be sold at the Philatelic Agency in Washington until October 28th, the anniversary date of the battle, at which time it will be regularly issued.

In addition, the Department is preparing a special plate of twenty-five of these stamps for distribution at the exhibition. These will be printed, gummed and perforated at Washington and will be placed on sale during the time of the exhibition and later at the Philatelic Agency at Washington. They will be printed in quantities, so that the supply of small sheets will not be limited and everyone desiring copies can obtain them either through the Agency at New York or later through the Agency at Washington. In the former case, communications should be addressed to the Branch Philatelic Agency, care of the International Philatelic Exhibition, Grand Central Palace, New York City. Letters addressed to this point should not reach New York before the 16th nor after the 22nd, as there will not be facilities ready to take care of the handling of this mail.

While Mr. Eidsness was recently in New York, he consulted with the Acting Local Postmaster, the inspector and members of the Exhibition Committee, consisting of Messrs. H. M. Clark, J. J. Klemann, Jr., A. R. Rogers and Philip H. Ward, Jr., in regard to the Department's participation, and final arrangements were made.

The Department is opening a branch agency for the sale of current stamps as well as other items available. The Bureau through the post office will furnish a hand press upon which the White Plains stamps will be engraved from the small plate of twenty-five, at the exhibition. These stamps will then be sent back to Washington for gumming and perforations. Die proofs of our recent issues showing the approval of the Postmaster General will be on exhibit as will special frames gotten up for later distribution among the larger post offices of the country.

ALBANIA.—According to L'Echo de la Timbrologie, the airmail adhesives of this country are about to appear with overprint "REPUBLIKA SHQIPTARE." No doubt the first word was omitted from the stamp itself expressly to give the excuse.—Stamp Collecting.

AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.—Canberra series. Collectors should not be misled by the details of a complete set of designs which have been circulated in other quarters. These are quite unofficial, being merely suggestions put forward by the Melbourne Stamp Club. They have been purposely omitted from the Philatelic Magazine to avoid confusion. Such suggestions by unofficial bodies have of course frequently been made in other countries, including Great Britain and France, but they are out of place in a New Issue Chronicle.

The only official stamp contemplated at present in connection with the opening of the Federal Capital is the 1½d, already mentioned in detail in these columns.—Philatelic Magazine.
